In producing "Pack's Bad Boy" Mr. Lesser took every step possible to enhance the quality of the film. The supporting cast given Jackie Coogan is exceptionally strong, and the direction and settings have been highly commended. After the actual filming was completed Mr. Lesser procured the services of Irvin S. Cobb, the well known humorist, to write the subtitles, and the complete result has been accepted by the New York newspaper critics as one of the best comedies that has reached the screen in years.

Among those who will be seen in the cast with Jackie are Doris May, Wheeler Oakman, James Corrigan, Lillian Leighton, Raymond Hatton, Charles Hafton and Baby Gloria Wood.

AT THE GRAND.

"Blind Youth," picturized from the famous stage success written by Lou Tellegen and Willard Mack, comes to the Grand theatre for three days, beginning to-day.

"Blind Youth" is a picture which must impress all who see it, not only by the dramatic quality of the plot development, but by the careful attention that is given to every detail which tends to make the portrayal more realistic.

For instance, Maurie Monnier, hero, is a sculptor. He was given special training by a famous Western sculptor in just how to go through the motions of modelling in clay. Also French officers who were touring the country when the picture was being filmed in California were induced to lend their services to give "atmosphere" to masquerade scenes of the Latin Quarter of Paris.

Careful attention to detail in "Blind Youth" has resulted in the elimination of those little inconsistencies which can do so much to mar an audience's appreciation of a picture.

"Blind Youth" has a highly capable cast, headed by Walter McGrail and Leatrice Joy.

ZANA VAUGHN, with "Rex Stock Company" at the Grand three days, commencing next Monday.

The Man Who Owned Broadway, the opening production of the Rex Stock Company at the Grand Opera House next Monday night, has been rightly called "One Play in a Thousand." It is one of those Happy comedies—not farce—but with the wholesome vein running throughout, that makes one glad to be alive, and the general sentiment, after leaving the theatre is, "Well the little 'ole world is all right after all." The polite comedian "Rex" Snelgrove, appears at his best as the ne'er-do-well happy go lucky fellow, while Miss Vaughn, though she doesn't have a real chance to show her ability, has her usual opportunity to look very pretty. The Park Kiddies, "America's Youngest," are having a great time looking Peterborough over.

"MOTHER GOOSE."

To-night there will be presented for the first time a sparkling set of verses by a well known local man. The title of this clever satire is "Mother Goose to Date." It deals with to-day's styles in dress, the effects of prohibition, and "one mistake made by a leading society belle," and other interesting matters. This fling at some of Society's hobbies is right to the point without a suggestion of malice and is most humorous without an objectionable feature. To say the most in the fewest words is, to quote a local critic, who remarked yesterday, "there's a smile to a line and a laugh with each verse."

"3 LIVE GHOSTS."

The theatrical season of 1921-1922 got off to a good start Tuesday night with a most enjoyable presentation of Frederick Isham's play, "Three Live Ghosts," at the Grand. Mr. Philip Klein has sent an excellent company to Canada, headed by Miss Ruby Hallier, a character actress of the highest order, supported by Vincent, who layed a difficult Cockney role, while the genteel "Spoofy" and the young American who had been in hot water at home and redeemed himself in the trenches, proved themselves good actors, who will attain by degrees, the rounding out in their parts, which familiarity brings. The Scotland yard man gave a most convincing portrayal of the blustering, brute-force methods of the police, determined to bring a confession from the culprit and prove his theory correct. Third degree methods evidently flourish in England as welll as in New York. Two very pretty young girls have good parts, and filled them satisfactorily—there is one role which only calls for a few moments on the stage and the audience must have been pleased by the pretty, aristocratic looking young woman who brings about the solution of the play, when as Lady Leicester, she appears and recognizes in the shell-shocked crook, her husband—one of the trio of "Three Live Ghosts."

Space does not permit of a detailed synopsis of the plot. It is sufficient to say that Tuesday night's performance was an adequate and highly amusing comedy, bordering on genuine farce. The fun is real, at times it borders on the boisterous, but it is never vulgar or coarse. The remarks and general conversation of "Old Sweetheart," Mrs. Gubbins, her stepson and "his gal" constitute the vernacular of the London Cockney, Mrs. Gubbins' extremely funny comments are not vulgar, because there is no intention behind them. She is just herself and the product of her environment. The audience paid full and generous tribute to all of Mrs. Gubbins' shrewd, crafty witticisms and the response in every case was most spontaneous. In a personal interview, Miss Hallier expressed herself pleased with her tour, with the theatre-going public and the splendid reception which has been given "Tree Live Ghosts."

LOVE AND THRILLS BLENDED IN LATEST TOURNEUR PICTURE

Hope Hampton Featured in New Romantic Melodrama, "The Bait."

Maurice Tourneur's latest Paramount production, "The Bait," will be the feature picture tonight. Hope Hampton, the well-known Texas screen beauty, plays the leading role. "The Bait" is described as a pleasing combination of romance, thrills, and mystery, with the usual colorful Tourneur production methods in evidence. The story centres around a pretty shop girl, who, singled out by a master-crook as his pawn in a game to capture and later blackmail a young millionaire, is "framed" by the crook and then rescued by him while on her way to jail. Out of gratitude, she becomes an innocent prey to his schemes and learns the truth only when it seems to be too late. But, after a thrilling experience, matters turn out happily.

Besides Miss Hampton, the cast of "The Bait" includes Harry Woodward, Jack McDonald, Joe Singleton and James Gordon. John Gilbert wrote the scenario.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING

A party of local men were out flaging above No. 3 locks when Mr. E. Mr. Stepheson, being a very nervous man, was in a critical condition until Mr. Harry Taylor and Mr. William Downer made a brave rescue.

WORK ON MOUNTAIN ROAD TO CONTINUE.

Engineer of Difficult Undertaking Known in Peterborough.

Rapid progress has been made in building the Banff-Windermere highway, Alberta, and 13 miles were graded in eight weeks—a record for mountain road building of this nature.

Mr. C. M. Robinson, Castle Mountain, Alta., a subscriber to The Examiner, and who has many friends in Peterborough, is resident engineer of this 13 miles of road referred to. He says the undertaking is a most difficult one.

That work on the Banff-Windermere road will be continued, was the message that was received from Ottawa recently, a wire having been sent by the Government to Engineer Wardle, in charge of construction, to the effect that $60,000 was being advanced to cover the cost.

This means that work will be rushed so long as weather permits, and that by the end of the year 23 miles will have been completed leaving 15 to be finished in 1922.

Had the work been stopped, traffic over this link in the mountain motor route to the Windermere would not have been possible until 1923, whereas now it should be operative by next fall.

Twenty-five miles have yet to be graded. This year's activities will account for 23 miles altogether.

Boards of Trade in Alberta and British Columbia and motoring and other organisations have been petitioning Ottawa to continue the work.

SPORT COMMENT

A Toronto sporting weekly does not mince matters any in discussing the recent efforts by certain Toronto clubs to corral the leading rugby stars. Pointed references to fat jobs offered some of the players is made, but the writer of the articles is in error when he treats the event as something new. Athletic prowess has been used for many years as the opening to a good position. Sometimes the governing moguls take a hand in the game and inflict a few punishments for offences against athletic laws, but seldom, if ever, does the heavy fist fall on a Toronto club or a Toronto player.

The trouble with the athletic game to-day is that the big clubs, like Argos, Tigers, and others, are interested only in sport from the angle of profitable gates. There is little effort to foster general athletics. Winning teams mean large profits, and the sporting game is so costly that few enthusiasts care to take a chance with any but the pastimes which entice the people through the turnstiles. It has been a common practice for years to coax stars from one team to another by offers of jobs with attractive pay. It is done every year in hockey, rugby, lacrosse, and baseball, in fact, in practically all games. The bid for Connacher's services is one of the glaring instances.

Right now there is need of a thorough housecleaning in the Queen City, says the Hamilton Spectator. In the effort to keep Toronto supreme some funny moves are made. Here's an example: Some months ago Hamilton and Toronto people, interested in the movement to foster athletics in the schools, advocated the appointment of Walter Knox as athletic coach to all the Ontario public schools. The appointment was to be made by the Ontario Department of Education, and Knox was to spend his time visiting the various schools, instructing the youngsters in track athletics. As soon as this proposal was made stiff opposition was presented by certain representatives of the Toronto Board of Education. These people were not in favour of Knox's appointment, and said so in very emphatic manner. A few days later these same people invited Knox to take over the job of coach to the Toronto public school and the only thing that prevented the deal going through was the fact that the Olympic coach was just a bit too high-priced for the officials who had participated in the above play. The people who didn't want Knox teaching the schoolboys of Ontario were unusually eager to have him in charge of the Toronto school children. That attitude is characteristic of the great majority of the Queen City people.

PETES COME FROM BEHIND TO BEAT COBOURG CREW 9 TO 3

A WILD STREAK BY COBOURG PLAYERS PUT HOMESTERS IN THE LEAD AFTER THEY WERE BEATEN 3 TO 0 HALF WAY HOME.

If Peterorough only had to play Cobourg in the Central League race, the Solomon gang would be always at the top of the ladder, with a percentage of 1000, for since the organization of the Central circuit, the Lakeshore team has never succeeded in taking a game from the local athletes. It looked for a while in last night's fixture at Riverside Park as if the long record of Cobourg defeats was going to be broken, for at the end of their half of the fifth, Manager Tyson's crew were leading 3 to 0, but an unexpected outburst of wild pitching in the sixth let the Petes take the lead, and they finally won out by 9 runs to 3.

Percy Ecobichon, former Peterborough boy, and twirler for the Bohunks last season, was delegated by the Cobourg squad to tie a knot in the Petes, and for five innings Ecobichon, who heaves from the port side, made a mighty good job of it. One run on an error, a sacrifice and a single was all the home crew were able to collect, and "Cobey's" team mates had piled up three in the same period. But with two out in the sixth, Holyman singled and Ecobichon promptly proceeded to lose all track of the plate. Four shies to McElroy missed the disc altogether. Kirn was next up and the left-hander put him on first and filled the bases with four more wild ones in succession. Three more balls in a row to Murray followed, making eleven without a strike, and Manager Tyson applied the hook, sending Mr. Schafer, late of Rochester, to the rubber, neglecting, however, to give the relief heaver a map showing the location of the plate. His first ball sent Murray to first and a run in and then he passed Lornie Rose, forcing in the tieing run. Ray Rose busted a single through the infield, two runs came in and the Petes were off in front. They got to Schafer for four more runs in the eighth, just to fatten some batting averages that have shrunk almost to the point of emaciation.

Kirn did the flinging for the home talent, and although he was hit harder than in any game this season, he kept the safeties well scattered, except in the fifth, and was given sparkling support by his team mates, Lornie Rose, Holyman and Murray being especially in the limelight. Rose cut off a run by a perfect throw to the plate from deep left, and made a beautiful catch of Tyson's drive. Holyman handled eight chances without a skip, started a fast double play and made a sensational one-handed catch of a line drive, while Murray had several beautiful stops and long, accurate throws.

Cobourg also did some nice fielding. Baker and Skitch pulling off some classy plays, while Manager Tyson contributed a spectacular diving catch of Ross's foul which he chased to the other side of the visitors' bench. In fact there was more spectacular fielding than has been seen in any other fixture here this season.

In the first innings for Cobourg, Skitch flied to Lornie Rose, Markey singled through short but was picked off first by Swanston. Murray threw out Tyson.

The Petes went out in order, Lornie Rose sandwiching a roller to Gerald Turpin between flies by Murray and Ray Rose to Higginbottom.

Higginbottom led off the second with a single to centre but Dick Turpin hit into a fast double play; Holyman to Ray Rose to Ross. Kirn threw out Baker.

In the Petes' half Swanston singled to left but was forced at second on Ross's bunt to Ecobichon; Lowe beat out a tap to short. Holyman bunted for a sacrifice and Ross was safe at third when Baker dropped Ecobichon's throw. McElroy rolled to Dick Turpin and Ross was out at the plate. Skitch went over behind second and gathered in Kirn's fly.

Cobourg broke the ice in the third. Butler drew a walk and stole second, advancing to third on a wild pitch. Gerald Turpin flied to Lorne Rose and Butler scored on the left fielder's high throw to third in an attempt to double Butler. Ecobichon singled to right but was forced at second on Skitch's roller to Holyman, Markey tapped to Kirn and was out at first.

For the Petes Murray popped to Ecobichon; Lornie Rose struck out. Ray Rose doubled to deep left but Swanston fouled to Tyson.

In the fourth, Tyson was robbed of a hit by Holyman's jumping one-handed catch. Higginbottum was safe when Ross lost Holyman's throw. Dick Turpin singled to left, and Baker followed with another clean single to the sand field. Higginbottom tried to score from second on the play but was nipped on Lorney Rose's perfect throw. Holyman threw out Butler.

In the Petes' half, Ross singled to left; Lowe bunted a fly to Ecobichon and Holyman and McElroy struck out.

The lake shore crew increased their lead in the fifth. Gerald Turpin started by beating out a slow one. Ecobichon fanned but Skitch singled to left. Butler rolled to Kirn, the base runners advancing, and Tyson scored the pair with a clean single between short and third. Higginbottom forced Tyson at second. Holyman to Ray Rose.

The Petes got one break in their half. Kirn was safe on C. Turpin's bad throw to first, and Murray sacrificed the pitcher to second. Lorne Rose scored him with a timely single to right. Ray Rose forced his brother, Baker to Skitch, and Swanston was out on a roller to Skitch.

Dick Turpin opened Cobourg's sixth with a double down the left field foul line but Baker struck out. Butler was thown out by Kirn and G. Turpin died on a nice play by Murray.

In their half the Petes took the lead. Ross, first up, was out on a great catch by Tyson. Lowe singled to the box, but Tyson threw him out by a perfect peg to Skitch when he tried to steal. Holyman singled to right. Then Ecobichon developed a wild streak. McElroy walked, getting four balls in a row, and Kirn also sauntered on four bad ones, filling the bases. After Ecobichon had thrown three balls to Murray, making 11 in a row, he was derricked, and Schafer went in. His first was a ball, completing Murray's free passages and forcing in Holyman, Schafer threw two more balls to Lorne Rose, making 14 bad ones in a row before he finally got one over. However, the next pair were off the target and Lorne Rose walked, McElroy walking in with the tieing run. Ray Rose varied the proceedings by singling through short, scoring Murray and Lorne Rose. Swanston was thrown out by Baker to end the innings.

In the seventh for Cobourg Schafer fanned, Skitch popped to Ross and Ray Rose disposed of Markey.

Ross led off for the Petes with a fly to Baker. Lowe beat out a tap to third and went to second on Baker's low throw. Holyman missed three and McElroy rolled one to Skitch.

In Cobourg's eighth Tyson drove one to left, Lorne Rose making a great catch. Higginbottom singled past Kirn and Dick Turpin bounced a hit off Murray's glove. Baker forced Turpin. Holyman to Ray Rose. Holyman made a nice catch of Butler's fly to short left.

The Petes cinched the game in their section of the chapter. Kirn died Baker to Turpin to start with, but Murray was safe on G. Turpin's fumble and Lorne Rose walked. Ray Rose's screaming single to right scored Murray, the batter going to second on the throw in, and Swanston's double to left sent the Rose brothers home. Bob Ross doubled to deep right, scoring Swanston but the batter was out at third on a fast relay in trying to stretch his hit into a triple; Lowe was thrown out by Skitch.

In the ninth Murray tossed out G. Turpin, Campbell batting for Schafer, rolled to Ray Rose, and Murray made a great play on Skitch's grass cutter back of third to wind up the game.

LACROSSE BACKS BASEBALL OFF THE MAP IN HAMILTON.

Fans Building Up Hopes of Beating Oshawa on Saturday.

Few of the natives ever imagined that they would live to see the time when lacrosse would crowd baseball in this city; in fact, few ever expected a Hamilton lacrosse team to win one game, let alone a group, says The Hamilton Spectator. "This city has never figured as a lacrosse centre uutil this year, but it is going strong right now, and the one desire of about one thousand enthuiastic lacrosse fans is that the team goes through to a championship.

President Mainnes, of the M.-O. League, with an eye to business, announced yesterday that he would endeavor to have the Hamilton game in Kitchener transferred to this city on Saturday next. The Hams and Kitchener are scheduled to play here on Thursday and Friday then jump to Kitchener. It was evident that a Saturday game here, with the race as it is would be more profitable.

About the same time that the baseball moguls were making their plans the officials of the Hamilton lacrosse club received notice that they would have to entertain Oshawa in the first of the home-and-home games in the second round of the intermediate O. A. L. A. play. Little time was lost securing the cricket field, with the result that lacrosse will reign here on Saturday next and baseball will make the noise in Kitchener.

REAL PLEASURE TO WALLOP PETERBOROUGH

As the toast master would say, "We have with us next Saturday Mr. 'Jake" Solomon, of Peterborough, says The Port Hope Guide. And when Mr. Solomon and his stalwarts come to town there is always excitement. Nothing gives Port Hope fans more pleasure than to wallop Peterborough and the locals have promised to administer the trouncing next Saturday afternoon at three o'clock.

ENTRIES FOR ATHLETIC MEET MUST BE IN SEPTEMBER 3

CANADIAN WOOLENS ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION COMPLETE ARRANGEMENTS FOR THEIR FIELD DAY OF SPORTS ON SEPT. 10.

Recommendations by the committees in charge of various details of the field day of sports which will be held at the Exhibition Park on Saturday, 10th September, under the auspices of the Canadian Woollens Athletic Association were submitted to the general executive last night, and were amended in some particulars. Entries must be forwarded to Mr. A. Brooks, 833 Water Street, not later than Saturday, 3rd September. Admission to the grounds will be 25 cents for adults, 10 cents for minors between the ages of 7 and 14 years, and free for children under 7. Programmes giving a list of all the events, and the names of the competitors will be sold on the grounds at 5 cents a copy. A charge of 10 cents will be made for admission to the grand stand.

The committee decided upon an entry fee of 25 cents for all the open events and 10 cents for those events reserved to employees of the Canadian Woollens Limited. Any person entering three or more events will be supplied with a special ticket allowing free admittance to the grounds. By requiring prospective entrants to register a week in advance of the athletic meet, the committee will have ample time to prepare a complete programme giving full information to the spectators, and as a further detail it is intended that each contestant shall be numbered.

It was reported that the prizes will represent an aggregate value of $400.00, and their individual merit worth should attract a big field of competitors.

In the events for employees, there will be special championship trophies to be awarded to the winner of the most points, and also to the factory whose representatives run up the larger score. This trophy is, of course, to be won by either the Bonner-Worth or Auburn Mills.

The association will endeavour to make the tug-of-war a feature, and to that end are inviting other factories in the city, and the City Council and Exhibition Board to enter teams of nine men each. There is no entry fee for this event.

It was also decided to engage the Salvation Army Band to supply music for the occasion.

"Y" CORN ROAST.

Dear Girls: You should have been with us on our corn roast last night, for we surely had a jolly time. We started out at about 6 o'clock in two big motor cars, a merry crowd of 36, and we went right straight out past Fowler's Corners, to a lovely place that looked as if it had been made especially for us.

We won't say how long it took for the corn to boil or how ravenous we were when everything was ready, but perhaps you can imagine it.

After we had had enough to eat we all sat around the fire singing funny songs, led by Ruth McLeish and Margaret Eastwood.

"Alouette, Gentille Alouette," was perhaps the most popular, but "Sweetly, Sang the Donkey," and "A Friend of Mine, a Man named Wurts," were often called for. Then as the fire got low, came a shivery ghost story, and before we knew it, it was time to go home.

Coming back, one bus got stalled on a hill, due to lack of gasoline. Much pushing and pulling soon brought it to the top of the hill, where those of us in the other car thought of course it would stop, but to our amazement "the little old Ford rambled right along," and amid much laughter, we followed on behind. However, there are limits to the patience of cars, even of a Ford, and it finally "stopped short, never to go again"—until gasoline was brought out from the city.

Would you like to know all who were there? Well, there were the Misses Wilson and Miss Park, Miss M. Cooper and Miss Bryan, the Misses G. Wilson, G. Shearer, E. Herron, H. Ingraham, D. and H. Brown, M. Rutherford, J. McGill, C. Sollitt, V. Fell, Miss Coon, Miss Rowe and Miss Vanderwater, the Misses R. McLeish, M. Morton, L. Wilson, R. Williams, G. Tucker, A. Morrison, D. Goodwin, D. Yardley, N. Thomas, A. Burns, F. Chiles, I. Payton, J. Eagleson, D. Sturgeon, M. Young, M. Eastwood and Miss Layton.

Mrs. J. F. Chapman made an ideal chaperone, and we all hope that she will come with us again. And we hope too that at our next picnic or party you will come and join us. They say the Camp Girls are having a corn roast on Saturday night. Let's go. Yours, A Corn Roaster.

DO YOU TURN AWAY

in disgust and distress at the dinner table? That is because your stomach is not functioning properly.

CHIROPRACTIC FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

If your Stomach is out of order, consult a Chiropractor; he will tell WHY your Stomach is not as it should be. He will locate the point where the pinched Nerve is and ADJUST the Vertebra that produced the pressure on the Nerve. As soon as this is adjusted the Nerve will build up and be able to carry life to the Stomach. As soon as the Nerve begins to perform its normal function, the Stomach becomes stronger, and will, in a short time, become normal.

HEALTH IS WITHIN REACH

if you earnestly and sincerely desire it. Merely wishing for Health will not bring it. But to wish for it, to determine to find the CAUSE of your trouble, and then to go directly to your Chiropractor for a Spinal Analysis and Adjustments will bring you Good Health.

then see your Chiropractor. Chiropractic plus Nature will restore your Health and keep you Healthy.

LAST THURSDAY HALF HOLIDAY

This afternoon, George street offices and stores, excepting butchers and grocers, who close the year around, were closed for the last Thursday half-holiday and George street was a silent avenue this afternoon. The peaceful quietude that hung over the business section was more noticeable in comparison with the noise and rush of Wednesday. For the last time this year store clerks went a-picnicing Thursday afternoon and none desired the continuance of the holiday throughout September more than they this languid August afternoon. The staff of Cressman's were all happy, for out of consideration for their valiant efforts yesterday they were given a full day's holiday.

Excepting for the presence of the tax collector, who must needs be on hand to take in the city's revenue, City Hall was locked up and the staff enjoying in varied ways the very last Thursday holiday.

While all business workers regarded the calendar rueful, the grocers and butchers smiled considerately — they take every Thursday half-day twelve months of the year.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Mr. Thomas Ballard's letter, which appeared in Thursday's Examiner of last week, criticising Mr. R. Hicks, Chairman of the Utilities Commission for failing in his explanation to give exact figures in the purchasing of the pumps for the filtration plant, is to my mind incorrect and misleading. And to give Mr. Ballard my reasons for thinking so I will require to take him back to the meeting held in the Vet's Hall at which Mr. Hicks and the other two members of the commission were invited to attend and answer questions which were prepared by those who summoned the meeting.

Mr. Hicks at the commencement of the meeting explained that while he had received a copy of the questions that were to be put to him he had not had time to prepare answers, but he would do the best he could from memory. Any unbiased mind that was present at that meeting will agree with me that he complied with every request put forward at that meeting. He even answered a question which was a personal matter.

What seems to puzzle Mr. Ballard and a few others is the fact that a firm in Switzerland has been able to supply the pumps for the filtration plant at $2,000 less than one of our local firms. And, as Mr. Ballard puts it, what the public wants to know is, does the $3,000 which is the price of the pumps include duty, freight and other expenses? If that question had been put to the meeting that night the public would have had the satisfaction of knowing that by the commission accepting the Escher, Wyss & Company's tender was a saving of $2,000. The Escher, Wyss & Company and the local firm both specified the Canadian General Electric motors in their tenders. Mr. Ballard takes exception to having dealings with a German firm as municipalities in Britain refuse to purchase from firms of doubtful origin. Municipalities and other public bodies in Britain act just as they do elsewhere. They are guided by their consulting or contracting engineers, who, as a rule, put in the best regardless of price or where it is manufactured.

The Messrs. Pauling & Company, London, England, has just lately completed a $4,700,000 contract for the Tata Hydro-electric Power Supply Works, Bombay. This power plant has a gross head of 1,725 feet, total length of pipe line 12,255 feet, capacity 100,000 horse-power. The pipe line gates and turbines were supplied by the Escher, Wyss & Company, Zurich, Switzerland.

Mr. Ballard also draws Mr. Hicks' attention to Senator G. Robertson's, Minister of Labor, Ottawa, solution to save the country from economic disaster to buy in Canada.

I read in The Examiner of July 10 a report of the London representative of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, who, after returning from a tour of observation in Germany, said that all the way from the Dutch border to the German capital was an unending panorama of waving grain. Wherever there was a chimney stack it was belching smoke. At the German shipbuilding plant, owned by the Krupps, in Keil-Gaarden, they are employing more men than before the war about 100,000, compared with 86,000 in July, 1914. Everywhere factories were going full swing.

If Mr. Ballard would write Senator G. Robertson asking for a solution which would enable the manufacturers of this country to compete in the world's market instead of depending entirely on home trade the public then would have information worth knowing and Canada's factories and chimneys would be put to a useful purpose instead of as at present used as ornaments.

LINDSAY EASY FOR BELLEVILLE

GOYER HAD THEM AT HIS MERCY —OULETTE BATTED OUT OF BOX.

Belleville increased their pennant chances and practically killed Lindsay's aspirations by invading Lindsay and beating the Scugog team 9 to 0. They hammered Oulette all over the lot, getting a run in the second, three in the third and four in the fourth, and finally Chambers had to be sent to the rescue. Fred Goyer fanned 14 of the Lindsay team and allowed but five hits. In their last three games against Goyer, Lindsay have scored but two runs in 31 innings, one on errors and the other on a circuit drive.

LACROSSE NOTES

Jimmy Lawson of this season's juniors is being moved to the New Toronto branch of the Merchants Bank and leaves to-morrow to take up his duties there. This is first break in the team which it was hoped might be held together for next year. Saul Rosenfeld is also likely to remove from Peterboro in the near future.

According to the Havelock Standard the Havelock Club have entered a protest against Campbellford alleging that two of their players were not residents since May 1st.

YANKS BEAT INDIANS NOW LEAD LEAGUE.

Hoyt Outpitched Coveleskie, Whose Passes Proved Costly.

CLEVELAND, August 24.—New York made it two straight from Cleveland to-day, winning 3 to 2, and going into first place. It was a pitcher's battle between Hoyt and Coveleskie. Two of the latter's passes proved costly, and errors behind him let the New Yorkers win. Hoyt was very effective in the pinches.

The winning run was scored in the ninth inning. Miller reached second on Sewell's high throw. Peckinpaugh bunted in front of the plate and collided with O'Neill when the latter tried to field the ball.

By the time O'Neill grabbed the ball and threw to third to stop Miller, the latter was safe. Gardner then threw to Wambsganss, covering first in an attempt to get Peckinpaugh, but Wambsganss muffed the throw.

The game was held up ten minutes while Speaker argued that Miller be called out because of Peckinpaugh's interference, but to no avail.

Ruth was passed purposely, filling the bases. Meusel fanned, but Pipp's sacrifice fly to left scored Hiller.

PREMIER DRURY SEES REVIVAL OF BUSINESS; MANUFACTURERS, MERCHANTS, BANKS AND LABOR AGREE TO CO-OPERATE TO BRING THIS ABOUT

REPRESENTATIVES OF MANUFACTURERS AND MERCHANTS AGREE AT CONFERENCE IN TORONTO TO PROPOSE TO PLACE STOCKS ON MARKET AT REPLACEMENT PRICE—FINANCIERS TO BACK THEM—REPRESENTATIVES OF LABOR WILLING TO ACCEPT WAGE CUTS.

(By a Staff Correspondent with Premier Drury.)

WOODSTOCK, Ont., August 26. — An early improvement in industrial and business conditions in Ontario was forecast by Premier Drury in a statement made to your representative while driving from Norwich to Embro on Thursday evening.

In his opinion, Mr. Drury said, the first essential to a return to normal conditions was a reduction in the cost of living and towards this end he expects favorable results from a conference which was held last week between representatives of the manufaturers, retailers, wholesalers, financiers, labor men and the farmers of the country, with the Premier himself representing the government.

At this conference a set of resolutions were passed unanimously and these will be taken by the representatives to their various organizations for approval.

The manufacturers, retailers and wholesalers agreed to place their present stocks for sale at to-day's replacement prices while the financiers agreed to finance this movement of goods on this basis and to assist it in every way possible.

The Labor men, Mr. Drury said, had agreed to accept wage reductions on a basis of comparison with the resultant drop in prices, while the farmers agreed to do their share by stimulating increased production.

In discussing Ontario's chances of competing with other industrial nations in the race for trade, the premier said that the country which had the lowest cost of living in comparison with the maintenance of an efficient standard of living and production would win out in the race, and it is towards this end that he is directing his efforts.

PREMIER FORCED TO GO WITHOUT SUPPER

(By Staff Correspondent With Premier Drury.)

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Aug. 26.—Premier Drury went supperless on Thursday evening and went to Embro to make a speech on an empty stomach, as the result of a misunderstanding which took place in Woodstock. The Premier was invited to be present at a banquet to be given at six-thirty in honor of the visiting British bowlers, and was to speak at the banquet. It was nearly seven p.m. when he reached the Armouries, where he found that bowling was still in progress. He sat down and waited for narly an hour and finally decided that he would have to leave at once in order to keep his engagement at Embro at 8 o'clock. He had time to say just a few words of welcome to the British bowlers.

WHILE CABINET CONSIDERS REJECTION OF ITS OFFERS SINN FEIN DRILLS TROOPS

DE VALERA UNANIMOUSLY RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT OF "IRISH REPUBLIC"—SINN FEIN PLANS TO NEGOTIATE "WAR" LOAN IN CASE FURTHER NEGOTIATIONS FAIL AND RUPTURE OF TRUCE OCCURS—"DOOR IS STILL WIDE OPEN," DECLARES DE VALERA.

United Press.

LONDON, August 26. — While the British Cabinet met to-day to consider the Sinn Fein's rejection of its peace offer, Eamonn De Valera was re-elected President of the Irish Republic, and were mobilizing, drilling and making ready for possible war.

The Irish negotiations were advanced a step further by the publication of the text of the Dail's reply to Lloyd George, in which it flatly refuses to accept the terms proposed. Whether that step was towards peace or war, was the question that to-day caused anxiety in both England and Ireland.

(BY CLYDE C. BEALS)
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

DUBLIN, Aug. 26.—Eamonn de Valera was to-day formally and unanimously re-elected President of the "Irish Republic."

The Dail Eireann enthusiastically acclaimed its chief at a public session at the Mansion House.

Sinn Fein's reply to the British Governments proposals for a form of Dominion Home Rule has not closed the negotiations of the last announced.

Still, Ireland was making ready for a possible rupture of the armistice, for it was admitted that there was a possibility of hostilities being resumed.

Negotiations up on the stipulations presented by Lloyd George would compromise Ireland's National claims, members of the Dail Eireann, which sent the reply to the British offer, said to-day, explaining their action. They have counted all the alternatives, they said, and are convinced that whatever happens the British Premier cannot offer less than he has at present.

Sinn Fein is out for much more than has been offered, and consider that now is the time to get it.

Irish Republicans have never receded from their contention that the truce proposed by Great Britain implied recognition of Ireland as a separate nation. Lloyd George's initiative in making the proposals for peace was considered a moral undertaking here. Britain's Premier had two motives, Dail members said, first, the desire to round out his career by settling the Irish problem, second, to get his hands free, so that he could go to Washington.

The alternative to acceptance in some form of the British proposals is war, it was admitted. Sinn Fein is making ready. The army is drilling. It will take a force of 600,000 British soldiers to subdue Ireland, one member of the Sinn Fein "Parliament" said.

Ireland feels that world opinion would be antagonistic to an attempt by Britain to stamp out Sinn Fein.

Addressing the Cabinet of the Dail Eireann after his re-election. "President" De Valera made a brief speech in which he declared dramatically: "There will be no split of this nation."

"If Great Britain insists upon forcing her will upon Ireland, the responsibility for the war that will follow will rest with the British Government," De Valera declared.

Promptly at noon the Irish Chieftain commenced reading the Dail reply to Lloyd George's offer, saying that the British proposals had been rejected unanimously. "The door is still wide open", De Valera declared after he had finished.

Mickey Collins, Minister of Finance, told the Dail that it was planned to negotiate loans of 100,000 pounds Sterling in Ireland and $20,000,000 in America.

Text of Reply of Sinn Fein

LONDON, Aug. 26. — (Canadan Press.)—The British Government's peace proposals were laid before the Dail Eireann, which rejected them unanimously, but is willing to negotiate on the principle of government by consent of the governed, Eamonn De Valera says in his reply to Mr. Lloyd George, Prime Minister. The letter proposes that Great Britain and Ireland appoint representatives with plenary powers to negotiate the details of this principle.

"We have not sought war, nor do we seek war, but if war be made on us we must defend ourselves and we shall do so," says Mr. De Valera's letter. "We long to end the conflict between Great Britain and Ireland," he adds.

The text of the letter, which bears the date of August 24, reads: "The anticipatory judgment I gave in my reply of August 10 has been confirmed. I laid the proopsals of your government before the Daily Eireann and by unanimous vote it was rejected by them. From your letter of August 13 it was clear that the principle we were asked to accept was that the geographical propinquity of Ireland to Great Britain imposed a condition of ,subordination of Ireland's right to Great Britain's strategic interests as she conceived that, and that the very length and persistence of the efforts made in the past to compel Ireland's acquisence in a foreign Dominion imposed a condition of acceptance of that domination now."

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

MONTREAL, Aug. 26.—With the object of safeguarding the interests of the wholesale shoe dealers of the Dominion, a step considered necessary by the development of the shoe industry in Canada, representatives of many of the leading jobbers in the trade met at the Chambre de Commerce yesterday and formed the National Wholesale Shoe Association.

The meeting was presided over by Alfred Lambert, president of the Chambre, with Henry Viau as secretary, and after the decision to form an association was taken, a committee of five was appointed with power to add two to their number to organize the association in this province and to establish relations with jobbers in the other provinces with the object of extending the organization throughout the Dominion. The committee was composed of Albert Lambert, president; George Robinson, vice-president; Nathan Cummings, J. T. Chouinard and J. B. Quesnel.

LABOR-U.F.O. COALITION IN NORTH OXFORD?

DRURY CONFERS WITH LABOR LEADER AND UNION OF TWO PARTIES IS SAID TO HAVE BEEN MOOTED.

ELECTION PUT OFF UNTIL NOVEMBER

(By Staff Correspondent With Premier Drury).

WOODSTOCK, Aug. 26.—The Provincial by-election in the riding of North Oxford will not be held on October 20, according to information given your correspondent by Premier Drury at the U.F.O. picnic at Norwich yesterday. At the very earliest, the Premier said, the election would not take place until some time in November. The reason given is that the voters' list for the city of Woodstock will not be ready until the end of October, and this is responsible for the delay.

While in Woodstock on Thursday evening, Premier Drury visited John Scott, leader of the local Labor Party and defeated Labor candidate at the last Provincial election, at his house and conversed with him for fifteen minutes. After the conversation, the Premier declined to make any statement for publication.

"Our meeting," he said, "did not reach the dignity of a conference. I just called to see Mr. Scott and to have an informal talk with him on the local situation."

It is significant, however, that at a meeting with the executive of the North Oxford U.F.O., held at Embro later in the evening, Premier Drury recommended that an invitation be extended to the Labor Party in Woodstock to send delegates to the U.F.O. convention which will be held at an early date. This would seem to indicate that an agreement of some kind has been reached between the two parties.

"ALL THE OLD BOYS WILL NOT TURN UP," WROTE SIR SAM AT FIRST PREMONITION OF DEATH

LAST MESSAGE TO HIS PARTY REVEALED AT HIS IMPRESSIVE MILITARY FUNERAL IN LINDSAY THIS MORNING.

GREATEST FUNERAL EXCEPT LAURIER'S

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

LINDSAY, Aug. 26.— "All the old boys will not turn up. Some of us will disappear," was part of the touching farewell message of Sir Sam Hughes to the caucus of the Conservative party, written with the first premonition of death on May 26 and last made public by Rev. Kennedy Palmer, D.D., of Ottawa, today.

He has disappeared as he foresaw, to live in memories now. After the final fight, for he was ever a fighter, he rests at last in the southern end of the beautiful Riverside cemetery here under spreading maples and arched elms, the River Scugog flowing past quietly a few steps away.

Late this morning, with all the pomp of soldiery, through streets crowded beyond all comparison by his home citizens, the people of the whole north countryside and from officialdom and hosts of friends from over all Canada, the cortege moved slowly amid the booming of fifteen minute guns, the last salute for a Lieut-General, and the sounding of the last post, they lowered him into the grave. With the exception of the burial of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, no funeral in Canada, perhaps, has been attended by such a concourse of people, testifying by its numbers and bared heads in what reverence "Canada's War Minister" was held.

Literally through a living mass of men, women and children, who lined the mile and three-quarters of the road to the cemetery, at first through the business section of spacious Kent street, and later along the willow-lined roadway on Lindsay street, close to the river, the slow moving procession kept step to the stately strains of Handel's immortal arc. The cortege was just as long as the route itself. In Lindsay, and for a radius of miles, a half holiday had been proclaimed so that all business places should be closed in respect for the foremost citizen who had represented them at Ottawa for thirty unbroken years.

80,000 BAGS OF CEMENT IN HUNTER ST. BRIDGE

EMPTY BAGS RETURNED TO MANUFACTURER YIELDED CITY $16,000 CREDIT.

Twenty thousand barrels or eighty thousand bags of cement were poured into the Hunter street bridge, Mr. Fred Christie told the Committee of the Whole Council last night in going into some details of the salvage. For the return of the bags twenty cents was allowed by the cement company. In other words the city received $16,000 credit for the empty cement bags returned to the manufacturer. The actual loss was some fifty bags out of the vast number handled, Mr. Christie said.

CIVIL WAR IN WEST VIRGINIA NOW IMMINENT

VANGUARD OF UNION COAL MINERS, 5,000 STRONG, NEARS DEFENCES OF LOGAN COUNTY CITIZENS.

WASHINGTOT GOV'T CONSIDERING ACTION

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 26. —(By United Press). — Civil war hourly expected to break out in the West Virginia hills to-day.

The Vanguard of a thousand, crusading, coal miners, marching from this vicinity toward "bloody Mingo" county with the averred intention of forcing complete unionization of the coal fields, was reported to be approaching the frontier of Logan County, the "No Man's Land," lying betwen their starting point and their objective.

Guarding the narrow mountain passes along the county line were little groups of citizens, the outposts of Sheriff Dan Chaffin's Volunteer Army of 1,000, hasily mobilized to preserve Logan County's sovereignty. The instant the union miners set foot on Logan soil they were to be ordered back and if they continued to advance their march was to be met with bullets.

(United Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.— The menace of civil war in West Virginia will be taken up by President Harding and the Cabinet to-day, it was indicated before the session started.

Harding was prepared to lay before his advisors reports from investigators of the advance of an army of 5,000 miners against the non-union Mingo and Logan fields.

At this session the attitude of the administration, in event that open fighting breaks out between the miners and citizens as threatened probably will be determined.

PAUL POIRET INSISTS PARIS IS FASHION CENTER
When asked whether he was coming to America to see fashion, Poiret, famous French dress designer, threw up his hands in horror and said "nevaire." Why, Paris is the center of everything from feminism to clothes, he is quoted as saying, and New York will never lead the world. Photo shows Poiret and two of his models.

PICNIC HELD AT DOWNEYVILLE

LARGE CROWD TOOK IN THE EVENT—THE SPEAKERS.

Downeyville, August 26. — Several hundred people taxed the capacity of the parish hall on Wednesday night when the U.O. Club, Downeyville, gave a programme of speaking and music that was much enjoyed.

D. O'Leary, president of the Downeyville U.F.O. Club was the chairman and gave an interesting address.

Mr. Forman, acting president of Victoria and Haliburton U.F.O. clubs, spoke of the aims and principles of the U.F.O. H. B. Cowan of Peterboro delivered an address on cooperative dairying, giving his experiences in a six weeks trip through Western Canada and the United States. He explained the cooperative dairy movement in the west and said that it had proved successful.

Mr. Bissette of Lindsay sang during the evening. Miss E. Cody played the accompaniments. Recitations were given by Violet Duffy and selections by the Downeyville orchestra were greatly enjoyed.

The well balanced nature of the programme of speeches, music and recitations made the evening noteworthy.

STICKS TO HUSBAND; ADMIRER SHOOTS HER

Woman Chooses Between Marriage Vows and Other Man.

PORTERVILLE, Calif., Aug. 26. —Mrs. J. B. Bachman, forced to choose between her husband and another man in the presence of both, elected to remain true to her marriage, and thus sealed her death, which came an instant later when the other man, Walter H. Alexander, it is charged, shot and killed her yesterday.

Alexander was found dying on a ranch 10 miles from here by a posse today. He died before any aid could be administered. Sheriff Curt Smith, leader of the posse, believes Alexander poisoned himself.

"Well, what are you to do?" Alexander was quoted as demanding of Mrs. Bachman.

"I guess I'll stay here," Bachman said his wife replied from her seat beside him in an automobile.

Thereupon, Bachman says, Alexander fired a shotgun pointblank at her. The shooting occurred at the ranch home of H. B. Collings, stepfather of Alexander, in the Poplar district, near here. Alexander's mother and stepfather also witnessed the shooting. After the shooting Alexander left, carrying the shotgun, it was said.

According to the story Bachman told officers, he had gone to Lindsay, 20 miles from the Collings' ranch, to bring Mrs. Bachman home. He found Alexander also at Lindsay, he said, and was forced by him to drive Mrs. Bachman and Alexander to the ranch. He told officers Alexander held a knife at his back all the way.

At the ranch Alexander disabled the automobile, obtained a shotgun and approached Mrs. Bachman, the husband said. Alexander then, demanded what the woman was going to do, and, receiving her answer, shot her, Bachman said.

After holding Bachman at bay with the shotgun half an hour while Collings procured liquor from a neighbor's house, Alexander fled across the fields, the two men told officers.

PLANE WRECKED, NONE INJURED

MONOPLANE LANDING AT PEACE RIVER STRUCK SUBMERGED ROCK WHEN TRAVELLING AT 90 MILES AN HOUR.

PEACE RIVER, Alta., Aug. 26.—(Canadian Press.)—A serious mishap in landing at Peace River occurred Wednesday, when a monoplane of the Imperial Oil Company, attempted to alight on the stream after completing a 1,100 miles flight from Fort Simpson. No injuries were suffered by the crew or passengers, but the machine was badly wrecked and is almost completely submerged.

Captain George W. Gorman, with his mechanic, W. J. Hill, sitting with him, and two passengers, Chester A. Bloom and Walter Johnston, were in the machine when the surface was struck.

A rock on a hidden sandbar wrenched the right pontoon clear of the machine and the impetus of the 90 miles an hour landing speed twirled the machine around and crumpled the left wing.

SINN FEIN REJECTS THE BRITISH PROPOSALS BUT IS WILLING, DE VALERA SAYS, TO CONTINUE NEGOTIATIONS ON CERTAIN BROAD PRINCIPLES

"THE DAIL IS READY TO APPOINT REPRESENTATIVES TO NEGOTIATE ON THE PRINCIPLE OF GOVERNMENT BY CONSENT OF THE GOVERNED."

BRITISH CABINET IS FRAMING ITS REPLY

BY ED. L. KEEN,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, Aug. 26.— Sinn Fein has rejected the British peace proposals, it was officially announced from Downing Street to-day.

The British Cabinet met at noon to-day to consider the reply of the Dail Eireann. A time limit, within which Sinn Fein must accept the Government's proposals as a peace basis, was to be set, it was believed.

The British press to-day agreed that the Dail's reply "worried the government, but it left a loophole."

"I laid the proposals of the British Government before the Dail Eireann," said "President" De Valera in his reply to Lloyd George, "and the Parliament unanimously rejected them."

"The Dail is ready to appoint representatives to negotiate in behalf of the broad, guiding principle of Government by the consent of the governed."

LONDON, Aug. 26. —(Canadian Press.)—The British Cabinet sat two hours last night discussing the reply of the Irish Republican "Cabinet" to Prime Minister Lloyd George's letter of August 13. After the sitting it was officially announced that no information as to the nature of Mr. Lloyd George's response to it would be made public.

It is understood that both will be read to the session of the Irish Republican "Parliament" in Dublin today and in the meantime both sides have agreed to observe strict secrecy. The British Cabinet approved Mr. Lloyd George's response, it is learned, and it is understood negotiations will continue. It is understood that the "Republican" letter makes no mention of a Republic, but enunciates the principle of independence and expresses aversion to a resumption of warware. Thus, it is considered there still is a wide opening for a continuance of peace negotiations, a fact which has caused widespread satisfaction and a general feeling of optimism.

At the public meeting of the Dail Eireann to-day Mr. De Valera will explain the motives which led the deputies to take the decision they have. Publication of a joint communique, both at London and Dublin, is also looked for to-day. It is probable that the "Parliament" will not be prorogued until the peace negotiations are concluded.

Viscount Fitzalan, Lord-Lieutenant and Governor-General of Ireland, was summoned to London last night to confer with the Cabinet.

U.S. GRAIN FILLS ELEVATORS HERE AND CREATES SERIOUS SITUATION

WINNIPEG, August 26 (Canadian Press). — Grain shippers are growing uneasy over the enormous movement of American grain through Eastern Canadian elevvators at Atlantic ports, the Manitoba Free Press says this morning in a news page article.

The newspaper claims to be privy to the information that at present what are known as the Bay Port elevators, namely McNicoll, Tiffin, Midland, and Depot Harbour, with a total capacity of a little over seven million bushels, have, roughly, only one and a half million bushels of space unfilled, and there are American cargoes waiting to unload, totalling five million bushels, and Chicago is pressing for further bookings. five million bushels, and Chicago is pressing for furtner bookings.

BATTLE NEAR BETWEEN CITIZENS AND MINERS IN VIRGINIA HILLS; TROOPS BEING RUSHED TO SCENE

HEAVILY ARMED POSSES LIE IN WAIT IN MOUNTAIN PASS FOR ADVANCE OF "INVADING ARMY."

MACHINE GUNS IN COMMAND OF ROADS

LEGAN, W. Va., Aug. 26. — (United Press).—Civilians lay in wait in the mountain pass near here to-day for the "invading" army of miners marching toward Mingo County in protest against martial law.

Posses were heavily armed. Machine guns were reported commanding the roads and other barriers ready to stop the progress of the armed miners.

Advices here were that the marchers had made their way to Blair, near the Boon-Logan County line during the night and intended to push across to-day.

Don Chifin, Sheriff in charge of the "defenders", declared "there will be a battle the minute we are attacked by forces entering the county."

TROOPS RUSHED IN

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 26.—(United Press).—Federal Troops stationed at the barracks here entrained early to-day for Camp Sherman, enroute to the West Virginia Coal District, where armed miners are marching.

The detachments mentioned included 300 officers and men of the regular training companies and the Tenth Infantry. They marched through the streets of Columbus to the Depot.

The regulars will be joined at Camp Sherman by the Nineteenth Infantry of 565 officers and men, it was understood here.

Orders for the movement were received last night by Major Olney Place, commandant.

MANILLA WINS THE CHAMPIONSHIP.

Manilla pocketed the championship of the Mariposa League when they defeated the crack Valentia team by the score of 11 to 8. The game was played at Little Britain on neutral ground and was a humdinger according to those who witnessed it. The teams were evenly matched, according to those who saw it and a regular bottle was necessary to decide a winner.

FOREPART OF ZR-2 FOUND BY DIVERS

BY CHAS. M. McCANN.
United Press Staff Correspondent.

HULL, England, August 26. — The entirely submerged fore part of the ZR-2, which fell flaming into the River Humber and sank when the great dirigible broke in two, was found by the diving parties to-day one-half mile up stream from where the rear part lies. A giant crane will be sent to raise the mass of wrecked girders and framework.

BETHANY HAD A FIELD DAY

CRESSMAN'S WON AND THE BANKERS LOST.

BETHANY, Aug. 26.—In exhibition games played in Bethany yesterday afternoon, Cressman's of Peterborough defeated Bethany 7 to 3, and the Bankers of Peterborough were completely submerged, the game being called in the fifth innings when the score was 19 to 1.

Hundreds of people watched the biggest exhibition of baseball provided in Bethany in many moons. From two o'clock till nearly seven they saw nothing but baseball.

The first game was between Bethany and Cressman's and then Orono played the Peterborough Bankers, Cressman's rested and came on again and sent the Bankers' hopes aflying. The box score tells the story.

Scates pitched the first innings for Cressman's but was relieved by ... in the second. The score by innings with Bethany was as follows:

	R.	H.	E.
Cressman's	1300030	7	11 1
Bethany....	0110010	3	4 3

The line-ups:

Cressman's—Hunter, s.s.; Murray, 3b.; Bergoine, c.; Head, c.f.; Rutherford, 2b.; Cobb, 1b.; Scates, p.; Sage, l.f.; Graham, r.f.

Behtany—Sisson, s.s.; T. Staples, c.; Price, 2f.; Walker, l.f.; Panton, 1b.; C. Staples, 3b.; B. Reilly, p.; McCartney, c.f.; R. Staples, 2b.

After the Bankers had knocked out Orono 5 to 3 they tried to do the same thing to Cressman's, but were doomed to disappointment. Cressman's were batting strong. In three times to bat, Hunter got a homer, a three and a two-bagger and Bergoine got a homer, too, giving Cressman's the honour of getting the only home runs on the field this year. The Bankers used three pitchers. Turner went one innings, Ecobichon pitched three, and Stan. Lowe finished. The line-ups were:

Cressman's—Hunter, p.; Murray, 3b.; Cobb, 1b.; Head, s.s.; Rutherford, 2b.; Bergoine, c.; ..., c.f.; Sage, l.f.; Graham, r.f.

Bankers—Rogers, c.; Hensley, s.s.; Hopkins, 2b.; Lowe, r.f. and p.; Hardill, c.f.; J. Hardill, 3b.; McLean, 3b.; Ecobichon, l.f.; P. Ecobichon, p. and r.f.

The score by innings: R.H.E.
Cressman's .. .. .. 45334—19 22 0
Bankers .. .. 00010—1 3 3

The visiting ball teams were hospitably entertained by the people of Bethany, and the teams acknowledge with thanks the courtesy shown them.

LONDON.—All doubts as to the exact date of the next world war have been set at rest by Mr. J. Ramsey Macdonald, prominent Socialist and pronounced Pacifist, who declared in an interview that "the world in 1950 and 2,000 will have to go through the same horrors as in 1914."

WELL AND HAPPY AFTER TEN YEARS

NEVER DREAMED ANYTHING COULD HELP HER LIKE TANLAC DID, SAYS MRS. AHERN.

"Tanlac has put me in good health when nothing else would even so much as help me, and the way it has worked in my case just seems miraculous to me," said Mrs. John Ahern of 1 Boultbee avenue, Toronto.

"Words just can't tell how much I suffered for the past ten years from a terrible case of rheumatism, and the pains in my hands and knees were just almost unbearable. Many nights the pain was so bad that I couldn't even lie in bed, much less sleep, and would just have to get up and sit by the fire. The fingers of both my hands were so sore and swollen that at times they were altogether useless as far as work was concerned, and the suffering and misery I had to endure was simply indescribable.

"I got just wonderful results from my very first bottle of Tanlac, for it ended the aches and pains, and four bottles have relieved me entirely of all symptoms. I feel just fine in every way now, can do all my housework with perfect ease and am as healthy and happy as can be. I never even dreamed it possible for anything to help me like Tanlac has, and I simply praise the medicine from the bottom of my heart for the wonderful blessing it has been to me."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by the Warne Drug Co., Ltd., and by leading druggists everywhere.

EVERBODY'S DUTY.

The reports of duck shooting out of season along the Otonabee river and at Rice Lake may appear a trifling matter except to the comparatively few citizens who enjoy a couple of days' shooting during the open season. Similarly with illegal fishing, the majority of people are wont to regard the practice as something that does not concern them in the least. They are wrong. The fishing and shooting opportunities that this district presents are an asset to the whole community. They bring thousands of visitors each year, people of the class with money to spending and willingness to spend it. A quarter of a million dollars is left by these tourists every year, according to a conservative estimate. That means that there is a general sharing of the extra business created by the coming of so many visitors. Directly or indirectly, nearly everyone benefits and it should be regarded as a community duty to bring the law breakers to a realization of the foolishness of their conduct. Eventually, if fish pirates and out-of-season hunters are not stopped in their operations, they will succeed in utterly ruining the natural resources of the district.

THE GROUPS ARE INCREASING.

The political situation continues to grow more and more involved and the advent of the Canada Labour Party, now in process of formation at Winnipeg, makes the fourth political group that will be represented in the next Federal election. What the new Labour organization hopes to achieve by its entrance into politics does not appear on the surface. It is announced that its policy will be to work in harmony with the Agrarian group, but at the same time to preserve a separate identity. If that programme is carried out it may mean that the Labour party will contest the urban constituencies, leave the rural ridings to Farmer candidates and form a working alliance with the Agrarians, if the latter have strength enough to form a government after a general election has been held. With Government, Liberal, Farmer and Labour groups in the field, and a multiplicity of independent candidates of all types also likely to offer themselves, there will be no occasion to complain of lack of variety when Premier Meighen finally decides to take the plunge.

ON DANGEROUS GROUND.

The Farmers' Sun seems to have been guilty of a serious tactical error in drawing attention to the farmers' share of the revenue obtained from the income tax. It was a topic that the official organ of the United Farmers might have been well advised to let alone seeing that it has afforded Sir Henry Drayton a splendid opportunity to retaliate. The Sun complained that "Prussian like methods" were being followed by the Government in the collection of income tax from the farmers, while big business interests were allowed to escape. Unfortunately for that contention, the Finance Minister is able to show that the farmers of Canada have contributed only $1,488,332 in taxes out of a total of $227,723,892 paid in the Dominion in income and profits tax to the end of the fiscal year. The figures for Ontario are not of a nature that should make the Farmers' Sun seem anxious to have the limelight focused upon them. 40 per cent. of the population of the province are rural residents, yet the last returns show that the farmers of Ontario only paid $40,973 in income tax as compared with the total for the province of $20,013,796. Only 187 out of every 100,000 of the rural poplation had to pay income tax, while 4,150 out of every 100,000 urban residents were taxed. The farmers, in fact, did not contribute one five hundredth part of the income taxes collected in Ontario last year. The Farmers' Sun should turn its guns somewhere else—the income tax topic is a poor target for that particular battery.

Fabric and color combinations are highly approved by blouse designers, and many new and interesting sleeve styles are displayed.

CANADIAN MOTION PICTURES.

The movie public in Canada may eventually benefit by the United States proposal to impose a customs tax of 30 per cent. on the value of imported films. It may tend to discourage the production of motion pictures in Canada for sale in the United States. But it should stimulate Canadian enterprise to produce more pictures for the Canadian public.

At the present time, Canadian public opinion is inclined to demand more good Canadian and British pictures, to relieve the monotony of so many from the United States. A beginning has, indeed, been made to meet this demand. A number of successful Canadian pictures produced within the last two years, including "Back to God's Country," "The Sky Pilot," "Cameron of the Mounted," and others based on popular Canadian novels, seem to have satisfied patrons on both sides of the border line.

While the pictures have been produced in Canada, they have been released for general circulation from United States headquarters. But when the Canadian pictures are taxed $30,000 or more—it is estimated that Ralph Connor's "The Man from Glengarry," to be produced in the logging camps of the Ottawa Valley this winter, would be subject to a $30,000 tax—the supply of Canadian pictures by United States producers is likely to decline. The demand for Canadian pictures by Canadian enterprise is, at th same time, bound to increase.

Coupled with the natural desire for pictures of Canadian origin—and there is unlimited scope for development in this direction—Canadian picture shows could be improved by more British films. The British producers are handicapped somewhat by climatic conditions, but some very fine pictures have been made since the war, and capital is being directed with more confidence into the film business in Great Britain.

American producers seem to be quite well aware of the loss they may experience if the proposed protectionist tariff is imposed. Canada might justifiably respond by imposing a 30 per cent. tax on films from th United States. There is a strong sentiment in Canada in favour of admitting British films in duty free. Reciprocity in motion pictures among the British overseas nations and the Mother Country might very well be established, without reference to the United States tariff politics. The motion picture might be made a good medium for members of the British League of Nations to get to know each other better. — Belleville Ontario.

A Missouri editor, who was brimful of hard cider, got a wedding account and a sale ad. mixed, and then served to his readers this dope:

William Smith, the only son of Mr and Mrs. Josiah Smith, was disposed of at auction to Lucy Anderson, on my farm one mile east of here in the presence of some seventy guests, including the following, to wit: Two mules, two head of cattle. The Rev. Jackson tied the nuptial, the least averaging1250 pounds on the hoof. The beautiful home of the bride was tastefully decorated with a seewash calf, a spade, a sulky rake, one feed grinder, one set of double harness, nearly new, and just before the ceremony was pronounced Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by one milch cow five years old, one Jersey cow to be fresh next April, carrying a bunch of flowers in her hand and looked charming in a gown made of light spring waggon, two boxes of apples, two racks of hay, one grindstone, mouseline, trimmed with about 100 bushels of spuds. The groom is well known and pouular among society circles of twelve Berkshire hogs, while the bride is an accomplished and talented school teacher of a splendid drove of Poland China, pedigreed if desired. Among the beautiful presents were two sets of knives and forks, one spring hatrow, one wheel barrow, one gocart, other articles too numerous to mention. The bridal couple left yesterday an an extended trip of 12 months' time, extended to responsible parties, otherwise spot cash; luncheon will be served at the table. After this Mr. and Mrs. Smith will go housekeeping in a cosy room at the corner of Main and Doctor R. L. Granby, Auctioneer.

LITERARY GEMS

TAKE OUR OWN STOCK

Every merchant who makes what we call a success has some rules that he has to keep using, for if not his affairs will soon be in a mess and all of his coin he'd be losing. He must watch his accounts, he must look to his bills, he must know he's likely to get undesirable thrills as soon as the year's work is ended. We are all of us merchants with various wares, though this fact some insist an ignoring; we must see to such details as upkeep, repairs before we know how we are scoring. We must take our own stock like the stock in a store, stocks of patience, of courage, of loving, for we have to have hope and we need cheer galore if we want to help keep the world moving. And this is the merchandise every man owns; people trade in these stocks the world over, though sojourning in frigid or tropical zones their value we're bound to discover. There are some people burdened with envy and hate, with jealousy, fear and bewailing these are barbarous stocks that were never in date and for every good cause unavailing. The wise fellow sorts all the gold from the dross; taking stock of the goods he is holding, and keeping his ledgers of profit and loss in accord with the life he is moulding.

LONDON.—One reason why the British Government doesn't like prohibition lies in the fact that, according to figures just published, excise duty on beer for the year ending March 31, brought $616,970,000 rolling into its coffers. The number of dutyable barrels was 26,731,096.

KENT PACKS SOME CHINA.

Chapter 47.

Moving is one of the few things where the anticipation is not greater than the realisation. If I had known what a terrible job awaited me, I think I might have decided definitely not to move. Only the wonderful mental picture of our new apartment on Riverside Drive and Kent's untiring help and devotion spurred me on and kept up my spirits.

Something about the idea of living on Riverside Drive appealed to my feminine pride and vanity. The soft, yellow, Italian brick structure with its spacious, cool, marble entrance appealed to my sense of appreciation of the finer, correct things of life. Greenwich Village was a fascinating Bohemia that invited a care-free life and existence, but when one was going to have a child, one's views of life became more particular and discriminating.

So I dreamed, and packed, and packed diligently.

One night Kent demanded that I sit down and rest, and let him do the work. We had decided it was about time to pack the china.

"There, Babs, you have just got to sit there and rest. You can boss the job and I'll do the work — why, you look so tired now it worries me," he said, placing a chair for me by the diningroom table and taking me forcibly and sitting me down. He leaned over and kissed me sweetly on the forehead.

I did not offer much opposition, but dropped down exhausted in the chair.

"Now I'm going to wheel in those two barrels from the kitchen—then I can bring all the china and place it here on the table, so you can boss the job," Kent said. He slipped off his coat and started rolling up his sleeves.

"I've saved a lot of newspapers, dear—you'll find them in the kitchen closet," I directed.

Kent was soon at work in earnest. I loved to sit and watch him. He was so good and thoughtful, and his shoulders and back seemed so strong and broad as he leaned over again and again and half disappeared into one of the barrels. A lock of black hair kept falling unruly over his broad forehead.

He stopped a minute to rest, and stood straight expanding his powerful chest, and pushing the lock of black hair back into place.

"This is some job, Babs. You never could have done it," he declared with masculine pride in the superior strength of his sex.

"No, Kent, moving is a terrible job, and I'm sure I couldn't manage if you didn't help me so wonderfully, and do the hard parts," I answered truthfully.

Kent smiled happily at my words of approbation, and started working again with renewed vigour. He picked up a vegetable dish, and began stuffing wads of newspaper inside of it.

"You might take that smaller bowl and sort of nest it inside of that," I suggested. "No, put some paper in first so they won't rub against each other. That's it," I directed.

Kent fixed it very carefully.

"How are we going to pack the lamp, Babs—the one the Lachmans gave us?" he asked me suddenly as his head came up out of one of the barrels. "How about putting it in the top of this barrel?—there is just about space enough left and then there won't be any weight on top of it."

"We ought to put it at the bottom of the next barrel, dear," I suggested. "Big things should always go at the bottom."

"Do you think it will be safe? Somehow, Babs, I'm almost superstitious about anything happening to that lamp," he declared. "It's sort of strange, dear, but somehow it's more than just a lamp—it's sort of a lighthouse to me," he said slowly.

PUBLICITY FOR ARMS CONFERENCE.

Leading English Journalist Endorses Open Meetings at Washington.

BY CLYDE C. BEALS,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, Aug. 25.— The most liberal publicity, but not full of verbatim reports, is the recommendation made for the forthcoming Washington conference by Lord Riddell, vice-president of the Newspaper Proprietors' Association of Great Britain and one of the best known English journalists, in an interview with the United Press.

Lord Riddell was the British official press agent at the Paris Peace Conference and since then he has given out to both British and American correspondents, whose confidence he enjoys, the news of virtually every international conference in which England has been engaged.

The most beneficial way in which the news of the disarmament conference could be made public, Lord Riddell believes, is through three channels:

First, there should be an official communique covering the bare details of each sitting:

Second, the delegates of each nation at the conference should communicate a verbal summary of the proceedings to an accredited representative of the press of that country, who, in his turn, would communicate such information to the correspondents;

Thirdly, when circumstances permit, there should be either a verbatim report of the proceedings or a full official resume.

"I am strongly in favor of publicity," Lord Riddell told the United Press. "But I have been a business man, and know how business agreements are arrived at. I know that they are not arrived at by long speeches, but by brief questions and answers made in a free and friendly atmosphere.

"The negotiations may find they do not agree, and perhaps one will say, 'My people are anxious to get this thing settled.' And the other will say, 'So are mine. I wonder if we can't find a way out.' 'Wel,' the first will say, 'suppose we try this way.' The other may suggest something else. That is the method of finding a common ground.

"If each one knows, on the other hand, that every move and every chance word is being reported, he will be shackled and prevented from doing his best. It is by informal talks that you arrive at agreement.

"One must guard against these meetings developing into debating societies. It must be remembered that after all the delegates are human and that international questions are settled very much like business questions. They will go out for historical spell-binders. You don't settle difficult questions by spell-binding speeches.

"Full reports are a further hindrance in that they make each delegate stand on his dignity and not appear to be yielding. A verbatim report does not always represent the atmosphere of the discussions.

"I think it will be found that owing to the many ramifications of news gathering, if each delegation gives a report to its press representatives, the news will circultae till each correspondent will get a comprehensive report that will reallly give the atmosphere of the meetings.

LIPTON MUST WAIT AWHILE FOR ANOTHER CHANCE.

BY HENRY L. FARRELL,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.— It will be several years before Sir Thomas Lipton gets another chance for America's Cup—if he wants one.

Recent activities of the titled tea king in England indicate that he has not given up the ambition of his life to own the fastest yacht in the world, and that he may challenge the New York Yacht Club for another race next summer.

In a period when money is not just the loosest thing on the market, a million-dollar yacht race is not the best thing to get back to normalcy, and for that reason the New York Yacht Club probably will discourage any attempt for another race next year, according to opinion prevalent here.

The yacht club speaks officially and it cannot discuss a challenge until it has been received, but, nevertheless, prominent members of the club have expressed the individual opinion that the cup will be kept on the shelf for at least two more years.

Lipton is said to be considering plans now for another addition to the Shamrock family of challengers. When he failed in his million-dollar venture to beat Resolute last summer and win the cup, it was thought that he would be through. But he is persistent.

Two of his Shamrocks are now high and dry at Jacob's shipyard, City Island. They will remain there, however, it is believed, and a new Shamrock will be built, and sailed over to compete in the next race.

For the same reason that an America Cup race is not probable in 1922, it is logical to believe that King Albert's Cup race across the Atlantic will not be on the 1922 programme.

Attempts to stage a race this summer from Sandy Hook to Ostend, received a polite and courteous frown from American yachtsmen, who took the stand that the race would cost too much money and the investment of such big sums in a pure sporting event would not tend to bring the country back to its feet.

KILLED BABY TO AVERT STARVATION.

CLEVELAND, O., August 25. — Rather than see her boy, one week old, die by starvation, Mrs. Mary Soltis, 26 years old, told the police this morning that she smothered him to death.

She is held on a charge of murder.

A search revealed the baby's body hidden in a lunch box in the basement of the home. With Mrs. Soltis when she was arrested, were two other children, John, 7 years of age, and Mary, 4 years old. Both were crying with hunger.

WORDS SAVE BANK.

Father of Berlin Betting Institution Staves Off Failure.

BERLIN, Aug. 26.—Max Klante, father of the betting bank which has taken Germany by storm, has adopted an ingenious method of saving his institution from the ruin that has overtaken a number of similar concerns in the last few days.

Klante hired the largest hall in Berlin, called several thousand of his depositors together and talked them out of forcing him to the wall. The meeting ended with the crowd cheering him as "the most popular man in Germany," and throwing wreaths of flowers upon the platform from which he spoke. The lesson of this silver-tongued ex-photographer ran like this:

"Sure, I am a former photographer, but what of that, all bankers did not lie in golden cradles. The trouble with these other fellows who tried to copy my system so that they did not know how it was done.

Capitalists Jealous.

"Don't you believe the newspapers, for their editors do not have any sporting sense and they must follow the dictates of the capitalistic owners who are jealous of my spectacular success. They resent the fact I am making vast sums of money for you people and try to prejudice you against me to cause my downfall. I am going to buy a large brewery and establish a chain of saloons to make quantities of money and am even formulating plans for the socialization of the tire business for the benefit of depositors who have stood by me and won't let the Government interfere."

Klante could not have made a bigger hit with the thousands of workmen if he had promised free beer. They swore they would not believe any stories circulated about his insolvency and would not tolerate the Governments taking steps against him.

In the meantime the failure of other betting banks is reported daily in Berlin. A professor who has conducted a careful investigation discovered that it was a mathematical impossibility for the scheme to work.

CLASS MADE A SURPRISE VISIT TEACHER'S HOME

On Wednesday evening the members of the Whatsoever Class of Trinity Sunday School paid a surprise visit to the home of their teacher, Mrs. P. B. Wright, 466 Weller street. During the evening their president, Miss Elva Jackson, gave a short address and presented Mrs. Wright with a gold wrist watch on behalf of the class as a slight token of their appreciation of her untiring efforts in organizing and carrying on the class work and her removal to St. Petersburg, Florida, will be deeply felt by all with whom she was associated.

Mrs. Wright gave a suitable response to this and assured the girls she had always enjoyed her work in the class and who always have their best interests at heart wherever she might be.

The balance of the evening was spent in games and music and light refreshments were served. The singing of 'For she's a jolly good fellow' brought a very pleasant evening to a close.

THE HIGH COST OF COFFINS IS TO BE PROBED IN STATES

Alleged "Coffin Rings" to Be Prosecuted Under Sherman Anti-Trust Law.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Attorney-General Daugherty will confer here with William Hayward of New York and Charles Clyne of Chicago, Federal District Attorneys, before determining the extent of prosecutions against profiteering manufacturers of coffins.

The frauds of the coffin makers now to be stopped by prosecutions under the Sherman anti-trust law, are so widespread that the investigation may reach into all parts of the country.

Agents of the Department of Justice have been approached by representatives of the coffin makers with overtures of a nature akin to bribery to stop Federal action. These moves have met with rebuff and have left the proponents open to prosecution for bribery.

There has been the most thorough inquiry into the activity of coffin makers, particularly in the middle West. A large number of the manufacturers are in that territory.

Disclosures Startle Hoover.

Secretary Hoover was rather startled by the recent disclosures and thought something ought to be done to stop the mercenary tactics of the coffin makers. He has not seen fit to begin any inquiry into the production costs of the manufactures because of the work of the Department of Justice.

Commissioner Murdock of the Federal Trade Commission said the revelations were startling, as they now have been developed, and he thought the inquiry and action by the Federal authorities should be searching, to rid the country of this particular type of extortion.

Mr. Murdock is not at liberty to disclose the commission's findings about the "coffin trust" until he has conferred with his associates, but he is impressed with the necessity of "putting a check on this brand of profiteer" immediately to shield those who are least able to consider questions of price.

District Attorney Clyne while in Washington will confer on the Government's action against undertakers who have been in league with coffin makers. The extortions are so palpable that little room is left for defence, in the view of attorneys who have studied the cases.

Full Support by Daugherty.

The department withheld any official statement until the Attorney-General has had further opportunity for conference with district attorneys in whose districts the chief prosecutions will be started. The Attorney-General, it is said, will back up every move by Federal prosecutors.

The present investigation and the prosecutions affect vitally every community, small and large, in the country, it was said. The worst cases of "gouging" have come from larger cities, where undertakers have resorted to foreclosure to compel payment of their bills for funeral costs.

Thousands of cases not reported to district attorneys have been put before members of Congress. The Department of Justice will consider these also in applying legal remedies to the coffin extortions.

LOVE SCORN BLAMED FOR PASTOR'S ARREST

Her Fury, He Asserts, Brings Wife Killing Charge.

SAN JOSE, Calif., Aug. 26.—A "spurned woman" is blamed by the Rev. John A. Spencer, former Santa Rosa preacher, for causing his arrest on a warrant charging the killing of his wife. Mr. Spencer, in advancing this theory, again asserted he was innocent of any attempt to do away with his wife.

Mrs. Spencer was reported to have been drowned in the Clear Lake, Lake County, July 27, last, and 36 hours later her body was buried. Then, after rumors reached Lake County authorities, the body was exhumed and following an autopsy a warrant charging the former minister with murder was issued.

Mr. Spencer yesterday named, the "spurned" woman," as he termed her. He said he and his wife had lived for a time in the home of this woman at Santa Rosa and quarreled with her concerning an account Later the woman made affectionate overtures, which he spurned, he said He insists Mrs. Spencer was drowned accidentally when she fell from their boat at night in Clear Lake He declares that in answer to her screams he plunged into the water and dived for her until exhausted.

LOCKS BRIDGE REPAIRS FINISHED SATURDAY NIGHT.

Repairs to the Locks Bridge are expected to be completed by Saturday night. The work has been carried out as rapidly as possible, and by Saturday night it should be finished, and the bridge opened to traffic again.

Hendricks To Sell Gray-Dorts Here

Hendricks Motor Sales, Trenton, distributors in Eastern Ontario for Gray-Dort Cars, have already announced the opening of a retail branch in Peterborough. G. N. C. Patterson, widely known through his connection with General Motors, is in charge of the new sales organization.

Hendricks Motor Sales are carrying on in the Gray-Dort Showrooms at 195 Simcoe Street.

Gray-Dort owners will particularly appreciate the energy and efficiency of the Hendricks organization. Mr. Hendricks, since the very inception of his business, has made "Service to the Customer" the basis of all dealings. This same spirit of service and fairness will characterize the Hendricks business in Peterborough.

Mr. Patterson, in speaking of the Gray-Dort, said:

"In taking over the retail sales of the Gray-Dort, we believe we are handling a car whose performance is well-known to every motor-owner in this district. I have only to point—and I do so with no small feeling of pride—to the enviable record the Gray-Dort has justly won throughout the Dominion in the past few years.

"This year, the new family of Gray-Dort cars has won my admiration as thoroughly as it has that of motorists everywhere; for the design, the finish, the performance of the new Gray-Dort leaves nothing to be desired in light car appearance and economy.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—'Twould be well to consider the young ladies of Tahiti.

On that sunny south sea isle they speak French and play pianos.

The Princess doesn't care for the latest American feminine fads and says the Tahiti girls agree with her.

But she wears beautiful big rings in her ears.

VALUE OF CANADA'S MILK PRODUCTS IN 1920 REACHED TOTAL OF $258,501,330

PETERBORO CITY AND COUNTY CONTRIBUTE THEIR SHARE TO YEARLY PRODUCTION INCREASE —MILK OF GROWING IMPORTANCE.

(By PATERFAMILIAS.)

Last week I referred to the gentle rove-eyed cow as a modern Aladdin in that her daily stream of milk enters into so many lines of foods, not to say manufactured products little dreamt of by the average consumer of milk, butter and cheese. And one cannot drive home too emphatically the importance of dairying to city, town, village, agrarian communities and the nation at large. Milk spells health and wealth for peoples and individuals; it is in increasing demand for domestic and manufacturing purposes at home and abroad.

And that the dairying industry in Canada is making progress—although a quickening in this regard should materialize from now onward—statistics clearly show. From 1915 to 1920 the production of creamery butter advanced from 83,991,453 lbs. in the former year to 110,030,399 lbs. in 1920; condensed and evaporated milk from 78,006,237 lbs. in 1919 to 84,450,635 lbs. in 1920; milk powder from 6,591,099 lbs. in 1919 to 7,574,688 lbs. last year. Cheese, however, decreased from 183,887,837 lbs. in 1915 to 167,107,233 lbs. in 1919 and again to 149,521,008 lbs. in 1920.

But reduced to terms of milk, the increase in creamery butter during the five years between 1915 and 1920 is nearly double the decrease in the production of cheese. If the net increase in cheese and creamery butter is added to the large increase in condensed and evaporated milk, milk powder, ice cream, etc., it will be clear that dairy production in Canada has made substantial gains during the past five or six years. As a matter of fact, in spite of what the pessimists say, production has increased steadily year by year during the last 40 years, and there is every reason to believe that it will continue to do so.

More Figures.

In the last six years the production of creamery butter in Canada was as follows: In 1915, 83,991,453 lbs.; in 1916, 82,564,130 lbs.; in 1917, 87,526,939 lbs.; in 1918, 93,266,876 lbs.; in 1919, 98,903,686 lbs., and in 1920, 110,030,399 lbs.—a total increase in 1920 over the year 1915 of 26,039,946 lbs.

In the whole of Canada the Provinces of Quebec and Ontario led in butter manufacture, Quebec producing 40,037,692 lbs. in 1920 and Ontario coming second with 37,148,808 lbs. the same year. The increase for Canada in 5 years is 31 per cent.

In Peterborough.

To the increased production of milk Peterborough has contributed in no small measure, in its growth, naturally, and then, again, through the establishment here of Peterborough Milk Products, Limited, an institution drawing milk from a maximum distance of eighteen miles in increasing quantities for domestic use and for the manufacture of "Meadowvale" condensed milk. In addition to big business in Canada this "quality" condensed milk made in Peterborough finds it way into Great Britain and France, and to a less extent into South America, Italy, China and elsewhere.

Mr. Geo. A. Gillespie is the energetic head of Peterborough Milk Products, Limited, the business of which he personally supervises. He started business here eleven years ago on a scale quite unpretentious, in a building 25 x 40 feet, and here the Peterborough Creamery was operat- with a pay roll of $45 a week. Recog nizing the posibilities of milk and its and the possibilities of milk and its products in this city, Mr. Gillespie was quick to respond by adding the following winter an ice storage, a modern brine cooling system and an ice cream department in a brick annex, 25 x 50 feet. In 1913 he installed a milk clarifying and pasteurizing plant, and his daily delivery of milk freed of all contaminating elements soon reached huge proportions, necessitating further additions to the premises. So in 1914 adjoining land was purchased and the buildings enlarged into a modern structure 110 by 70 feet.

In 1917 Mr. Gillespie once more reached out, and the present company—Peterborough Milk Products, Limited—was organized and incorporated with a capitalization of $250,000, the President and Managing Director being Mr. G. A. Gillespie. A condensory was then established and the manufacture of "Meadowvale" condensed milk started and continued with gratifyingly increasing demand. Incidentally it might be mentioned that Mr. Gillespie believes in buying in Peterborough when possible, and in consistence with that policy, worthy of emulation, his machinery and appliances, in the main if not wholly are the products of the De Laval Co., of Peterborough.

Just Think of It!

Eleven years ago the business from which the Peterborough Milk Products, Limited, developped, had a yearly outnut amounting to $30,000. In 1919, its business transactions totalled $440,000 and in 1920 the value of the output was considerably over the half million mark.

In 1910, two men and a girl were employed. Nowadays, the premises present the appearance of a busy hive of industry, where the hum of intricate machinery attests to the wonderful mechanical development of the manufacturing end of the dairy business.

Golden Opportunities.

In spite of the growth of the dairy industry in Canada the potentialities of milk have not been flatteringly exploited in this country of ours by any means. There is yet opportunity aplenty around Peterborough for dairy and milk production expansion; there is need in Peterborough City for a greater consumption of milk, especially by children. Milk, not to mention butter, cheese, etc., is the greatest food fluid known for building up a nation of strong, sturdy, intellectual man and womanhood capable of grappling with the many problems which enter into race prosperity and domination. This has been and is being irrefutably attested in the United States, where milk campaigns in schools have taught parents by practice the health-giving value of milk to their children. Create the demand and the supply will follow; and more intensified milk production in Canada will foster the growth of more milk products concerns such as that of Mr. Gillespie's, with resultant increased prosperity in both urban and rural districts.

Then there is the export trade. In densely populated Europe the market for milk products is ever growing. In Canada we have the acreage, the nucleus of large dairy herds, the transportation—let present and prospective dairymen and business men rise to the occasion and produce the goods.

"TODDLE" IS DEAD

"Toddle," that offshoot of Terpsichorean inventions, is pronounced dead. No longer must persons execute the symmetrical contortions of that dance, if they desire to remain 'neath the approving glances of Dame Modesty or Convention. "Toddling," like "Shimmying" is now taboo, and forbidden in dance halls. To "Toddle" is to commit one of the most daring breaches of dancing etiquette, but fortunately its banishment is compensated by the interoduction of several new dances, which, however, are most proper.

These new regulations were promulgated at the annual convention of the International Association of Masters of Dancing, held in New York, from which Prof. F. H. Sinclair, of Ottawa, has returned.

At its inception the "Toddle" was considered "quite the thing," but excessive abuse of that particular dance finally had it condemned as vulgar. In keeping with the true art of dancing, the "Toddle," therefore, has been banished.

Among the latest importation of dances into Ottawa is the "Culture Walk," "Society Walk" and "Tango Trot," all of which are to Fox Trot and Tango music. The dances are amply modest and becoming.

The "Fox Trot" is the most popular dance of today, said members of the Dancing Masters' Association, after visiting the leading dancing institutions of New York. Then there is the "Byng" trot, which also ranks among the latest out. It should prove a winner in Ottawa. Professor and Mrs. Sinclair demonstrated the "Byng" trot at the convention, and it is similar to the "Society Walk" as demonstrated by New York's greatest ballroom dancer, Arthur Kretlow.

"Dancing masters from all over urged the abolition of vulgar dances," said Prof. Sinclair. "Persons who could not dance, used to attend dance halls and there perform vulgar dances in a pretense at dancing. This is now forbidden, and only the most proper and approved dances will be allowed," he said.

The new dances are graceful and stately. Most of them are founded upon the principles of the minuet, and are not difficult.

SOUSA, SUDDENLY DEAF, DECLARED RECOVERING

Bandmaster Hears Own Music, He Says, After Receiving Treatment in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—John Philip Sousa, the famous bandmaster, has not been able to hear his own music, it was learned today.

While most of his auditors could hear and enjoy every note or combination of notes he gracefully drew from his brass-throated choir, the conductor himself heard most of the notes indistinctly, and the higher and finer notes of the wood wind instruments and the cornet practically not at all.

The bandmaster, however, has become a patient of an osteopathic physician of this city, and, although he has received only two treatments, declares he can now hear much that he formerly missed. In fact, he expects in a short time to be restored to full acuteness of hearing.

The doctor, describing the case, says that his patient is but one of thousands so afflicted.

"As a person grows older," said the physician, "he contracts a so-called condition of catarrhal deafness, a sort of overgrowth of adipose tissue lining the air passages in the naso-pharynx. With an ordinary person, this might not be such a serious matter but with a musician it is vital."

So the physician has been subjecting the bandmaster to "finger surgery," which he explains as breaking up this tissue and causing the blood to circulate, thus restoring a normal condition in parts that affect the hearing.

It is believed in a short time Mr. Sousa will not have to depend on instinct largely in conducting his concerts, and that he will be able again to add a flavor of the old-time "zip" that once did so much to make him famous.

The new lines of fall and winter undergarments show many night-gowns equipped with little short sleeves.

MR. MAYOR, FIND ME, PLEASE, A GOOD MA.

But Couzens Turns Down Man Who Wished Adoption.

DETROIT, August 25. — Mayor James Couzens knows no wealthy woman who is willing to adopt an attractive young bachelor. The Mayor dictated this curt information in an epistle to Charles Bower, Jr., 3123 Jefferson Avenue, Cincinnati. The letter was in answer to the following:

To Mayor Couzens,
Detroit, Michigan.

I am a bachelor, have good health and habits, and come from a fine old family. I can furnish the best of references. I have business ability, and have had dealings with many prominent people.

I am looking for a wealthy woman who would be willing to adopt me. I am not a cripple. I can work. Could take charge of an estate, in fact, I love children and am fairly good looking.

Weight, 145 pounds; height, 5 feet 7 inches. I am fond of sports and like to travel. Also I am a lover of a nice home. I am very affectionate and kind.

I trust that you are a kind Mayor, and will see that this appeal reaches to your large and wealthy circle of friends.

Yours truly,
Charles Bower, Jr.,
3123 Jefferson Avenue,
Cincinnati, O.

P.S.—Have a heart, and do it now. Kindly keep this out of the Cincinnati newspapers, as I do not want any notoriety.

RICHARD HALL & SON

NO FURTHER COMPROMISE

RUSSELL-TOWNSEND COMPANY SAY OFFER OF $6,500 FOR EXTRA WORK ON BRIDGE IS LOWEST POSSIBLE.

Frank Barber's report on the Russell-Townsend Company's compromise claim of $6,500, for the extra work entailed in the construction of the Hunter street bridge, was received by the Committee of the Whole Council last night, and on a resolution by Ald. Gordon, seconded by Ald. Crowe, it was forwarded to City Solicitor Widdifield for his opinion as to the city's liability.

Incidentally, Mr. C. J. Townsend, who was present with Mr. Fred Christie, declined an offer made without prejudice by Ald. Gordon, that the contractors accept $5,000 as a final settlement of all claims with the exception of the company's guarantee of the arch.

"I won't accept anything less than $6,500," replied Mr. Townsend.

It was aparently a carefully considered statement made in a friendly discussion of the gathering up of the loose ends of business in connection with this contract.

Proposed to Arbitrate.

"I don't see any good reason why we should be held up so long in this matter," said Mr. Townsend. "We made the compromise as low as we possibly could. I am willing to now withdraw our offer and let the question go to arbitration. I am willing to gamble on that if you are."

The contractors' original claim for extra work was $13,600, made some time ago, and when Ald. Jones suggested that the company accept $6,500, Mr. Townsend agreed.

No Immediate Termination.

Ald. Gordon pointed out that the committee could consent to paying $5,000, if the company would accept it, but this motion would have to be ratified by the council at the September meeting. In any event nothing oculd be done until then, he continued, and since Mr. Townsend refused the smaller sum, the council should obtain the advice of City Solicitor Widdifield on Mr. Barber's report. The resolution was accordingly adopted.

In his remarks, Mr. Townsend said that from the contractors' standpoint the "job was no good," meaning that it had not been profitable.

Ald. Gordon—But it brought you some extra business here.

Mr. Townsend—It brought us a lot of bad advertising from time to time.

Ald. Gordon added that the Russell-Townsend Company had gained the distinction of building the largest concrete arch in Canada.

No Loss of Life.

"It's one of the biggest structures built in Canada without the loss of a life. That is some consolation," Mr. Townsend observed.

He requested that the company be released from any liability in the action of Mr. J. H. Bettes for trespass on his property in the erection of the bridge. If the contract were terminated without an agreement in this regard Mr. Bettes could take action against the contractors' individually.

"When Mr. Bettes brought his claim for damages, we replied that we were simply the agents of the city and that he would have to deal directly with the city regarding the question of the trespass of the bridge on his property," Mr. Townsend explained.

The committee consented to his request.

WRITTEN TEXTS VS. ORAL METHODS.

This is Question at Issue in Paris Schools

PARIS, Aug. 26.—(Associated Press).—Whether children learn better from written texts or oral lectures, is a question under investigation in the schools of Paris.

A technical committee of the League of Mental Hygiene has set to work in a boys' school to study the processes of teaching and learning.

Pedagogical experts assert that some persons' brains receive deeper impressions by the sense of hearing and others by the sense of sight. The committee purposes to seek some method of education that will take advantage of these faculties and possibly, also, try to find some way to develop the pupil's receptiveness.

Another question is the desirability of developing either the hearing or sight sense, when found particularly keen in a pupil or whether it would be better to develop the dormant faculty, in an effort to attain a certain standard of keeness in both sight and hearing in all pupils so they might all be taught by the same method.

STATE TROOPERS HUNT FOR STRANGE WILD MAN.

Search Swamps for Nude Creature Believed Demented and Lost.

MALONE, N.Y., August 25. — Sheriff Frank S. Stenberg, of Franklin County, and several State troopers at the head of a posse of 100 men, started to-day searching the swamps in the vicinity of Skerry, twelve miles south-west of here, in an effort to locate an apparently wild man who had been reported seen, devoid of clothing, in that section by several persons within the last few days.

The strange man first was reported seen about ten days ago by the wife of a farmer as she went to a well. He disappeared quickly into the woods.

Neighbours recalled hearing weird screams in the woods at night. A few days later the man was seen by a lumberman near the camp of the Brooklyn Cooperage Company near St. Regis Falls.

Nearly every day since then the man has been reported observed from a distance.

The man has been described as being middle-aged. Officers believe that he became lost while trying to find a lumber camp, and after wandering through the woods for several days became terror-stricken and eventually insane as the result of hardships.

COUNCIL IN ROLE OF SAMARITAN TO PLAYGROUNDS ASSOCIATION

HELPED THEM IN FINANCIAL EMERGENCY BY GRANTING $300 TO PAY SUPERVISORS WHO ARE LEAVING TO-DAY.

With their supervisors leaving to-day and no funds available to pay them their salaries for the last two weeks, the Playgrounds Association last night found themselves in a predicament which might be described by that popular phrase "when a feller needs a friend," and appealed to the Committee of the Whole Council for a grant of $300 to release them from their difficulty.

"I think we are justified in paying this," said Ald. Gordon, whose motion was adopted. "I don't know any way in which money is better spent than in keeping the children off the streets."

Mrs. Arthur Stevenson and Mrs. W. R. Morris explained that they had expected to get the money they needed from the Association's credit balance with the Board of Education. The Board, however, acting on legal advice, informed the Association that while they could provide money for equipment for the playgrounds they could not give any for the salaries of the supervisors. Four playgrounds had been opened this summer, Mrs. Stevenson said, and supervision had ost $1090 in salaries. The council had contributed $500, and the Association had received $230 in subscriptions, and also a $50 Victory bond. Of the Board of Education's grant of $1500 there had been paid $750 for equipment, and the remaining $750 was to be used for the same purpose.

Mrs. Morris added that the Association had asked the Board, in view of their solicitor's advice, to authorize the council to pay the desired sum to the Association. The Board of Education, however, had decided not to allow any reduction of their appropriation from the Council. Hence they had to turn directly to the council for relief.

Both Props Failed.

"Your Committee of the Whole recommended a grant of $1000 to the Playgrounds Association," Mrs. Morris recalled, "but when you found that the Board of Education was giving us $1500 you cut your grant to $500. Between the two stools we fell to the ground."

Ald. Gordon suggested that the Association consider establishing a playground in Ashburnham on the lower flat ground of the Armour estate.

Playground for Ashburnham.

Mrs. Morris replied that the Association intended to provide a playground in Ashburnham during September ,and had already five good iron swings ready to be set up. Besides this, there would be the rest of the equipment promised by the Board of Education.

In conclusion, Ald. Gordon explained that the City Treasurer could not issue a cheque until the committee's report had passed the council at the September session. In the meantime the Association could probably find a friend who would assist them until the supplementary grant from the city was obtainable.

"Some of the members of the council are not present to-night, but the council won't change its mind, not on a question like this," Ald. Gordon emarked.

Mrs. Morris—You did once to your sorrow.

Ald. Gordon—That was when we were trying to keep the rate down to 36 mills.

HIS ARMS CUT OFF, MAN BURIED ALIVE

Died Rather Than Divulge Secret to "Good Killers."

DETROIT, Aug. 26. — (United Press.)—Buried alive, after his arms had been cut off a former member and victim of the "Good Killers" carried his secret, which the gang sought to force from him by torture, to his living grave, it was learned here to-day.

Andrew Lacotta, who, acting under orders of the "Good Killers," murdered Police Sergeant Emanuel Rogers here, in 1917, later fell from the good graces of the gang and was cut to pieces. While still alive he was thrown into a freshly dug grave in the murder ring's own burial ground, while members of the band cursed their failure to extract secrets which he held.

Lieutenant McPherson, chief of Detroit's Black Hand squad, brought the story here from New York to-day. He has been questioning Batolo Fontano, whose confession started a world-wide investigation of Italian murders.

Mimi Ciuciate, who aided Lacotta in the murder of Rogers and in disposing of Tony Giannola, Italian leader, was murdered by the gang shortly afterwards, McPherson learned from Fontano.

COMPLETE DESOLATION HOVERS OVER GERMANY'S GREAT NAVAL BASES

VISIT TO KIEL WOULD SOON CORRECT MISTAKEN IMPRESSION OF SOME THAT GERMANY WON THE WAR.

KIEL, Aug. 26. — (Associated Press).—German-Americans who frequent the lobbies of hotels in Berlin can often be heard remarking that Germany has won the war.

If they were to visit Kiel and other German naval bases they would probably get a decidedly different impression. Nothing could be more complete than the desolation which hovers over Kiel harbor, formerly the pet war harbor of the German navy and probably the best haven in all Europe.

The great shipyards, which created most of the craft for the German navy, are silent. Rusty sheds mark the scene of former activity. Idle, deserted docks stand as sad reminders of days when Kiel was the point to which all Germany eyes, and, in fact, all the eyes of Europe, were directed.

All machinery which the allied commissions regarded as use ful for war purposes has been dismantled. Floating docks, cranes and other expens ve equipment have been moved away to recompense Germany's enemies for the damage done by Admiral von Tirpitz's submarines.

In normal times Kiell had 50,000 naval officers, sailors and employes in the harbor all the time. Now the naval personnel is less than 1,000. The city, which formerly had a population of 250,000, has lost all of its great Government payroll and one-fifth of it- population.

Fort Falkenstein and the other batteries which covered the Baltic entrance to the Kaiser William Canal, have been reduced to piles of crumbled concrete and twisted steel. Their great guns have been sawed into bits and pitched into scrap heaps.

The Naval Academy is closed. An Empire without a navy has no use for more naval officers. The attendance at the university has dwindled. The castle of Prince Henry, overlooking the naval harbor, has been taken over by the workingmen for a club, and there are no warships in the magnificent waterway where the former Emperor William used to review his navy with pomp.

It was here that the flower of the German navy lay, safe behind torpedo nets, during most of the war. At present there are only two antique cruisers lying at the imperial naval docks. These are so far out of date that the English and French didn't think it was necessary to scrap them, and hesitated to offer such craft to any of the nations which had helped win the war.

Small commercial shipyards are operating and the commercial harbor still has a little business.

The Kiel Canal is still quite active. But Kiel derives little benefit from the business passing through the canal and cannot revive materially until exchange conditions become such that it can again buy timber from the Scandinavian countries and resume its importance as a lumber depot for Central Europe.

ASSERTS MEN LOVE MANY, MANY TIMES

But Women, Says Ditrichstein, Actor, Only Once.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Laurels for faithful, lasting love were handed to the woman to-day by Leo Ditrichstein, the "great lover" of the American stage. The only limit to the love affairs of a man is the number of women in the world, but a woman tastes love only once in her life, according to the specialist in feminine affections.

"Man is a polygamous animal by nature," Ditrichstein said. "He will love one woman and go away and love others.

"Women are different. I have known many women to live unmarried all their lives simply because they could not marry the man they loved. But I have never known a man to do that.

"Real love is all the dictionary says it is — plus complete mental comradeship."

Mrs. Ditrichstein is the actor's hobby. He always tours with her.

MOVIE PRODUCERS AND EXHIBITOR END WAR

Owners Are Jubilant as Competitors Have Agreed to Abandon Theatre Field.

ATLANTIC CIY N.J., Aug. 26.—Delegates attending the convention of the Eastern Branch of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners' Association, in session here, are jubilant over what they declared is the settlement in their favor of the movie war which has raged for two years between the producers of films and movie house owners.

The Theatre Owners have fought with every force at their command against the producers buying up moving picture houses, but it is claimed that in spite of this opposition the Famous Players— Lasky Corporation—has gained control of upward of 1,000 houses throughout the country. The matter has been the subject of many conferences between representatives of the two branches of the business and to-day President Adolph Zukor of the Famous Players met with a Committe representing the Moving Picture Theatre Owners' Association of America, together with Senator James J. Walker of New York, counsel for the national organization.

While it was said to-night that formal announcement would not be made until to-morrow, when President Zukor will address the convention, it was stated by exhibitors that the war is ended; that the producers have agreed to abandon the theatre field and have even agreed to make it possible for theatre owners to regain possession of their houses.

Leaders here charge that the producers entering the exhibiting field used the severest possible competition to get possession of theatres, and while refusing to say that the exhibitors were planning a widespread boycott of producing exhibitors, they admitted that all assistance possible was being given independents.

The screens of 10,000 moving picture theatres throughout the United States will be used next Winter and Spring to conduct an active campaign against the daylight saving plan. Representatives of 1,200 picture houses in Eastern Pennsylvania Southern New Jersey and Delaware assert that the movie business has been severely injured by daylight plan.

In the first six months of this year strikes cost Pennsylvania workers more than $25,413,305 in wages alone.

Triplets were born to a Hazelton, Pa., couple who already have had 13 children in their fifteen years of married life.

WHAT MADE THE CHANGE?

This Woman says Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her a New Woman

Pittsburgh, Pa.—"Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I had bearing-down pains so badly I could hardly stand up. I was white and very thin and nervous, had a poor appetite and only weighed 112 pounds. I took ten bottles without missing one dose and gave it a fair trial. When I finished the last bottle everyone asked me what made the wonderful change in me. I told them about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I recommend it wherever I can. I give you permission to publish this letter to help suffering women as your remedies are a godsend and made a new woman of me."—Mrs. F. A. Baker, 479 Butler St., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Why will women drag around day after day, suffering from backache, bearing-down pains, nervousness and "the blues," enduring a miserable existence when they have such evidence as the above that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a dependable remedy for such troubles. For nearly forty years this grand old root and herb medicine has been restoring the women of America to health.

Have You Seen The New Fall Coats and Suits

The New Coats

Here are the coats which carry the keynote of the fall fashion feature, a silhouette that suggests the graceful carriage of the Orient, and in fabrics such as Bolivia, Normandy, Velour, English Woollen, Ripplette, Viola and Romona cloth, reflect their richness, becomingness and beautifulness in every line and touch of design. Some of the colors most prominent include tan, brown, turquoise, ensign, black and Oxford. The styles show a vast difference, a higher type of gracefulness, such as the most popular ones with the full circular skirt, flaring lines, from shoulder to hem, richly trimmed in plenteous furs with novel touch in drape of sleeves. And priced at equally pleasing figures. An early inspection is always found to be a greater satisfaction.

Here is a Specially Priced Line of Coats with Fur Collars for Saturday $35.00

They are this season's merchandise, displaying new features in style of collar and cuffs. The collars of this line are of fur and are convertible, full straight line back with fancy stitching and button trimming, lined throughout. Saturday's price $35.00

The New Suit

IT IS TIME TO BE INVESTIGATING AS THE FIRST TO PURCHASE ALWAYS HAS THE BETTER CHOICE

The suits of this fall season are just enough different from last year's to create a nice impression. They are loose but exceedingly smart, especially featuring the straight line front. The finger tip jackets are very sensible for fall wear. Fur is being used extensively on collars, cuffs, skirt of coats, and in fact everywhere that permits a touch of it, creating a more warm looking appearance. Another feature of special interest is the neat fit at the hips. All and more are at their best in this newest of the new fall suits.

BELL 'PHONE STAFF PICNIC AT HIAWATHA

PROMINENT OUT-OF-TOWN OFFICIALS TOOK IN THE EVENT YESTERDAY.

The Peterborough staff of the Bell Telephone Co. held a very enjoyable picnic yesterday afternoon at Hiawatha, Rice Lake. All who could be spared from duty took in this happy occasion, and the wives and families of the men were also present.

Ball games and various sports were indulged in at Hiawatha, and lunch, supplied mainly by the operators, was served on board the "Rainbow." The ice cream and candy booth proved very popular with the children, while a large number of the staff, on the return trip, tripped the light fantastic to the tuneful strains of a gramophone kindly loaned by the J. M. Greene Music Co.

Several out-of-town Bell officials were present, including Messrs. R. Burrows, commercial superintendent; H. G. Watson, division traffic superintendent; W. J. Feigehen, traffic superintendent; F. Bloxham, traffic chief, Toronto; also F. W. Doan, special agent, Montreal, formerly of Peterborough.

It is proposed to make this staff picnic an annual event hereafter.

ALLEGED $12,000 HIDDEN IN CAVE IN NEW JERSEY

CALDWELL, N. J., August 26. — A small artificial cave in which a German reservist is believed to have hidden $12,000 in gold during the war was uncovered on the estate of E. W. Robischon but the cave is alleged to be as yet unexplored.

It has been common report here for three years or more that Wm. Bosthorn, a reserve officer in the Imperial German Navy, who was murdered in 1918, had buried in 1916 or 1917 $12,000 on the estate, while he was employed by Mme. Schumann-Heink, who then lived there.

Joseph Carpenter and his son Geo. found the cave yesterday afternoon while cutting a road on a hillside overlooking the Passaic River on the estate which is about 4 miles from North Caldwell. They cleared the entrance to the cave, but according to Mr. Carpenter did not enter or investigate.

They hurried off at once to inform Mr. Robischon, and he returned with them to the cave. Here the narrative stops abruptly. Mr. Robischon and his employes both assert that they scanned the interior only of the hole scooped into the hillside. They insisted to-day that they had not looked inside to see whether the tiny chamber was stuffed with gold eagles and double eagles or not.

Mr. Robischon, who is the head of E. W. Robischon, Inc., hosiery and underwear, at 1135 Broadway, New York, was reluctant to discuss the treasure trove, which according to all the information which could be obtained for publication to-night, is still in the cave waiting for Mr. Robischon and his hired man and the hired man's son to decide what to do with it. The hired man was still more reticent and permitted himself to give the impression that he was under directions not to talk too much.

Fear a Treasure Hunt.

It became obvious that much of the mystery which was maintained about the exciting discovery was due to the fear that too much publicity would cause a swarm of treasure hunters to invade the estate with spade and pick axe.

The discoverers did notice some broken delft ware after they had lifted the cave door or lid, according to the hired man. This was visible from the outside. Nobody would admit however that he had crawled into the cave or had made any move to find out its contents.

Mr. Robischon was asked whether he or the hired man would own the money, according to the New Jersey law, if someone should at some subsequent time happen to take a look into the neglected cavern, and find $12,000.

"It would be mine, of course," he replied. "If you lose a golf ball and your caddy finds it for you, whose ball is it, yours or his?"

Mr. Robischon bought the place, which is known as the "Clouds," from Mme. Schumann-Heink, some five years ago. After William Besthorn, the gardener employed by Mme. Schumann-Heink, had been murdered mysteriously at San Diego, Cal., in July, 1918, Mr. Robischon first heard the local report that Besthorn had run a tunnel into a hillside on "The Clouds," and concealed all his money in it.

Federal investigation had actually showed that Besthorn did cause his bank account to be converted into gold and had hidden it, probably in fear that he would be arested as a spy and his money confiscated. It was stated yesterday that a Japanese servant of Mme. Schumann-Heink had denounced him to the Federal authorities and caused him to be kept under watch.

A smart young man just starting on a business career invited a pretty young woman to dine with him at a restaurant near Old College.

"I used to go there when I was at this college," he explained, "and I'll show you something of the atmosphere we used to have."

The young woman consented eagerly.

"Ah," remarked the man as they sat down, "there's the fellow who used to wait on me. Hallo, Tony!"

Tony greeted his customer effusively.

"See?" said the man, "Tony remembers me from the old days."

"Sure, I remember him, miss," agreed Tony. "He used to come in here every noon with a different girl."

HEROISM OF 15-YEAR-OLD GIRL

PLAYS RESCUE PART IN THREE CASES OF NEAR-DROWNING.

Miss Jean Ainsley, of Coboconk, who has figured as rescuer in several cases of near-drowning, is certainly worthy of a medal for heroism. Last year she brought in two girls who had been overcome in the water, and this year Miss Ainsley, who is in her fifteenth year, saved two more lives. At the Gull River Narrows recently, three young ladies who were in swimming decided to cross the river. When a few feet from the other shore, Miss J. Burchall, aged 15, got into difficulties and cried for help. Miss Ainsley swam to her assistance and held her up until assistance came. Meanwhile Miss M. Burchall, 18, had also lost her nerve and was going down. Realizing this fact, Miss Ainsley swam to her assistance and slipping one hand under her back held her up until the boat came.

AFRICAN POWER FOR EUROPE IS AIM OF BELGIUM.

Plans to Transmit 200,000,000 H.P. From the Congo.

BRUSSELS.—(By Mail to United Press).—Transmission of sufficient motive power from Africa to drive all the trains, light all the towns, and run all the factories of Europe is the aim of a scheme described here by the Belgian engineer, F. Anderhaggen, in the "National Belge."

The Congo River, in Africa, said the originator of the plan, discharges at least 80,000 cubic meters of water per second, from its reservoir at Stanley Pool, over the Livingstone Falls to the sea outlet at Boma and Matadi.

Two hundred million horsepower is thus wasted, and Mr. Anderhaggen, who suggested that this vas mass of water-force should be carried through pipes under high pressure into electric generators in the Lower Congo.

Thence in the form of high tension electric current, this vast power would be sent to Europe, along the Atlantic Coast, through Senegal and Morocco, and beneath the Straits of Gibraltar.

Carried over a distance of some six thousand kilometers, the power originally available at the source would suffer a loss of fifty per cent.; but enough would still remain for the haulage, lighting and factory power requirements of Europe, he asserted.

This scheme, says its daring originator, is no more utopian than the Panama Canal scheme. First, there is plenty of native labor available in the Congo. Second, the cement, iron, copper and other requirements are no more difficult to obtain for this purpose than for that of railway building.

Proportionately, the job would cost no more than the railway that is going to link up Leopoldville and Katanga. Less time would be required for this job than was needed for cutting the Panama Canal.

GIVE THEIR BLOOD FOR A STRANGER.

Thirty Cleveland Firemen Offered Themselves For Transfusion.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 26.—More than thirty city firemen offered their blood yesterday to save the life of a stranger. They knew nothing about the person they wanted to save, but volunteered just the same.

The patient is L. J. Hayes, who, according to St. Luke's Hospital authorities, is a retired oil man of Caslton, O. Nobody knew him in Cleveland. The need for transfusion of blood was said to be immediate and could not await a volunteer from out of the city.

The operation was performed yesterday afternoon about 2, and Mr. Hayes was reported recovering last night.

From the more than thirty volunteers, Harold DeLargy, a member of Hook and Ladder Company 4, of Engine House 3, Central avenue S.E. and 1. 14th street, was chosen.

The firemen all reported at St. Luke's about noon. It was a case calling for speed. The first one qualifying was chosen. This happened to be DeLargy. He had no time to communicate with his wife at their home, 7719 Franklin avenue NW., who did not know her husband was surrendering a half pint of his blood to save a life.

Refuses To Go To Bed.

"Better take a bed and rest up," the operating doctor told DeLargy after the operation.

"Nothing doing," hospital authorities report DeLargy as saying. "I'm feeling fine. I want to go back to work."

He was permitted to leave, but shortly afterward was discopered sitting on the front steps of the hospital. The fire department received a call saying one of its men was in need of help. The department sent an automobile to the hospital, got DeLargy and returned him to his station. He was resting well last night.

DeLargy is athletic and a swimmer of note. Fellow firemen tell of his record as a sandlot third baseman. He is a handball player and was engaged in such a game at the fire station when the call for volunteers for the transfusion came.

"How many want to offer their blood for a patient at St. Luke's?" was the way the station chief put the question.

Many Stations Offer Men.

The question brought a response from ten, among them DeLargy. Station No. 1 reported three; No. 2, ten; No. 5, six; No. 6, two; No. 16, one, and No. 9, two. Other stations volunteered men, but numbers could not be learned.

The fire department reports that it has received two other calls for volunteers for blood transfusion within the past seven days. Each call met with a generous response.

The case of transfusion a week ago Monday at Mount Sinai Hospital, in which Wilson M. Grayell, 21, a wounded veteran of the World War, gave a quart of blood to save the life of his father, William G. Grayell, following an operation, the veteran refusing to take an anaesthetic, became known yesterday through an award of the Cleveland office of the Federal Vocational Education Board.

Grayell, the son, was allowed full pay with a month's leave from his studies at Case School of Applied Science by the board as a result of the transfusion. The boy's father is manager of the Clam Shell Department of the Lakewood Engineering Co. The son had been wounded in the knee in the Argonne offensive, serving with the Medical Department of the Thirty-seventh (Ohio) Division. The father is recovering.

MOTOR OPERATING COST REDUCED BY ONE-HALF, CLAIMS.

Italian Chemist Has Invention Designed to Effect This.

ROME, Aug. 26.—(Associated Press).—Through the invention of a gas generating mixture composed of alcohol and a sulphur-carbon combination, the cost of operating automobiles and all internal combustion motors can be reduced one-half, according to the claims of Engineer Sesti, who after exhaustive experiments under the auspices of the Italian Government has just completed a report on the possibilities of the new combustion.

The use of the new gas generating mixture pre-supposes the employment of a special kind of carburetor, which Signor Sesti has evolved.

The experiments have been in progress over a period of almost three years, and were begun with a special view of lessening the cost of automobile fuel.

The new fuel has a density greater than that of gasoline in the ratio of 925 to 730. It is urged that the adoption of the fuel will considerably lessen the importations of foreign gasoline. Practically all the raw materials necessary for the new fuel can be found in Italy.

The inventor claims that the exhaust gas is less obnoxious to the lungs than the fumes of gasoline.

The use of crude alcohol to the proportion of 70 per cent. is employed in the fuel, while the remaining 30 per cent. is taken up by the sulphur-carbon combination.

GREAT MOUNTAIN DISINTEGRATING.

VIENNA, Aug. 26.—(Associated Press).—The geological freak of a great mountain disintegrating so fast that it is descernible day by day—a thing that ordinarily takes thousands of years—is occurring in the Aussee region.

The Aussee Sandling, rising over 5,000 feet, is simply collapsing. Its great cones and pinnacles of rock are crashing and tumbling as if undermined by gnomes, the forests that clothed the slopes lie flat or move slowly and steadily downwards piling into the vallevs and the turf carpet moves with them.

Over three and three quarter miles of territory are involved in the movement and hundreds of sightseers view the convulsions from opposite slopes.

The phenomenon has been in progress for nearly a year with gradually increasing acceleration.

One scientific explanation is the presence of an abnormal quantity of water in the chalky limestone core of the mountain causing the collapse of great caverns and the slipping of strata.

SULLIVAN ABANDONS ATTEMPT TO CONQUER CHANNEL CURRENTS

LONDON, Aug. 26. — (United Press.)—Henry Sullivan, American distance swimmer, abandoned his attempt to swim the English Channel to-day, after ten hours in the water. He was in mid-channel when forced to give up.

It was Sullivan's fifth attempt to conquer the shifting currents of the Channel, the goal of all distance swimmers for many years.

He started from Grisnez, France.

WOMAN CROSSES ATLANTIC IN A 21-TON YACHT.

Shares Perils of Her Husband in Tiny Craft.

BY ALFRED J. WEST.
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

COWES, Isle of Wight, — (By Mail).—It was love of adventure on the high seas and the determination to share the discomforts and perils of her husband that prompted Mrs. Kelley, wife of John B. Kelley, of New York, to accompany him on a voyage from New London, Conn., to Cowes in the 21-ton auxiliary motor-schooner Diablesse, which made the trip in thirty-three days.

It is doubtful whether any woman has ventured to cross the Atlantic in such a tiny craft as Diablesse, which, lying, at moorings near the Fountain Pier proudly flying the Stars and Stripes at the stern, has been the cynosure of all the eyes of yachting people and the mariners who have a great admiration for the sea.

Mrs. Kelley, a frail, handsome, little woman of girlish appearance, and exeremely retiring disposition, said in an interview that she not only enjoyed the trip, but was absolutely comfortable all the time.

"I did all the cooking and things of that sort,' she said. "That was, at times, a bit difficult, because after a storm—and we had ten days of gale to start with—the crew would come down below drenched, very cold and hungry, and I had to provide them with food and dry their clothes.

"I used coal for the stove, and frequently the seas would break over us and put out the fire and sweep everything away.

"It was quite exciting at times, but how I enjoyed it; and when we sighted land, for which I was sorry, I wanted to turn back and have it all over again.

"I simply love the sea. I took my turn at the wheel while the men attended to the sails in the stormy weather. I have never been seasick and the voyage has done me a world of good.

"I made my first trip across the Atlantic when a girl of nine, and have been across in steamers several times since, staying in London and Scotland.

"It is a lovely life cruising at sea You feel as if you are in a kingdom of your own, and nothing to worry about as long as the boat keeps afloat."

Mr. and Mrs. Kelley made the trip across specially to see the yacht races for the British-America cup, and to attend the famous Cowes regatta.

NO BRITISH OFFER FOR KAISER'S BOAT

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 26. — For nearly a year the Cap Polonio, a German liner of 21,000 tons, has been lying in dock at Liverpool waiting for a buyer.

It was one of the German ships surrendered at the end of the war, and was leased by two British lines, but only for one voyage each.

The Union Castle Line had it, and then the P. and O., and after one voyage both companies had had enough of the vessel.

British shipowners did not like it because it had so little cargo space.

She was built as a cruising boat for the ex-Kaiser, and he was to have had a world tour in her. Her dining saloon is the height of two decks.

Now the vessel has been sold to her original German owners, and will sail for Hamburg.

Some men grieve $2 worth over every dollar they lose.

DISCRIMINATORY DUTIES TO GOODS ON U. S. VESSELS.

Will Be Big Issue in Fight Over Tariff in U. S. Senate.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(Canadian Press).—Proposed legislation for the granting of discriminatory duties to imports on United States vessels will be one of the big issues in connection with the consideration of the tariff bill in the Senate, according to present indications. Senator Jones of Washington, who has introduced an amendment to the tariff bill, which would impose a 5 per cent. higher rate of duty on goods imported on vessels other than the vessels of the United States, is preparing not only to press the amendment before the Finance Committee, but also on the floor of the Senate. He hopes to get a favorable report from the committees, and in that event he believes the outlook will be good for the action which he proposes.

While there is a provision for discriminating duties in the existing tariff law, it has never been enforced for the reason the Executive Department never took any steps toward abrogation of treaties which stand in the way of the plan. But it is noteworthy that the Jones amendment is not dependent on the Executive Department. It declares that all treaties standing in the way of discriminating duties are to be regarded as abrogated in one year, unless sooner abrogated through notice given by the President.

Undoubtedly, opposition exists to the idea of discriminating duties, but on the other hand there is powerful support for it. Good reason exists for the belief the Republican National Committee organization backs the plan for discriminating duties. The Republican Publicity Association, which is headed by former Senator Jonathan Bourne of Oregon, is out strongly in favor of the Jones principle.

If the idea of discriminating duties is carried out, as it now seems very likely to be, it is certain to have far-reaching effects on U. S. commerce. In the first place, it would give U. S. shipping a great advantage over its competitors. The purpose of it, in fact, is to build up U. S. shipping and it is really based on the fact that in the early days of the republic U. S. shipping prospered under the discriminating duty policy.

The Jones amendment would operate to give U. S. vessels handling Canadian goods for importation into the United States an advantage over Canadian vessels. It would affect, obviously, a considerable proportion of the trade between the two countries, though, of course, the great bulk of the commerce between the United States and Canada is done by rail. Its effects unquestionably would be adverse to Canadian shipping as compared with the shipping of the United States.

The object of Senator Jones in urging the discriminatory duty is not one of unfriendliness to the shipping of other countries. But it is in realization of the fact that the United States never can maintain a merchant marine in the face of foreign competition unless some form of advantage, such as subsidy, is given the U. S. vessels. Now a direct subsidy is out of the question. The public won't stand for it. It has been sought many times and refused by Congress. That being the case, the discriminating duty seems about the only practicable way, in the view of Senator Jones, to build up U. S. shipping. This is his real purpose, and if it were not for the fact that nothing but rigorous remedies will prevent the U. S. merchant marine from going down, he declares, he would prefer to have commerce conducted on an even basis

PLACING JEWISH WAR ORPHANS IN CANADIAN HOMES.

OTTAWA, Aug. 25.—Mrs. A. J. Freiman, national chairman of the Jewish War Orphans' Committee, of Canada, has returned to Ottawa, bringing with her the local contingent of the 109 Polish orphans whom she rescued from their war-stricken country. Five only came to Ottawa, and two others were escorted in the party for the Canadian Government. The remainder had already gone to their foster homes —55 to Toronto, 16 to the Maritime Provinces, and 12 to Winnipeg. Their arrival in Ottawa was the first stage in the relief work commenced about a year ago by Mrs. Freiman. They are now adopted as members of good Jewish homes in Canada.

HAIR AND HOSIERY DO NOT MATTER.

Peterborough Stores Care Little Whether Girls Powder or Not.

The question whether girl employes of department stores shall wear their hair bobbed or not, shall indulge in riots of face powder, or cut it out, favor the rolled down stocking, or the more modest full length hose, or have recourse to rouge to bring the color of life into their cheeks, is not one that, as far as can be seen, is likely to shake the department store world of Peterborough to its foundations. Neither employment managers or employees themselves show much interest in the matter, and the latter are inclined to dismiss the action of a Chicago store in banning low hose, bobbed hair and rouge as an attempt "to start somehting while usiness is dull."

No Stiff Rules.

No employment manager of three interrogated would acknowledge that he had any definite rules which a girl must follow with regard to dress to be worn in the store. Moreover none would confess that he was influenced in any respect by the fact that a girl applicant's hair was bobbed, or that her nose had a little more powder than was necessary on it. As to the rolled down stockings, all of them raised (metaphorically) pious hands of horror at the suggestion that they should mention such a thing to any applicant. That portion of a woman's dress, they considered was no more to be commented on than a garments seen through a sheer georgette blouse. One manager admitted that he did not like to see a young girl apply to him for a position, when she had her cheeks rouged, even a trifle. "To me such a practice is a deception, and carries a suggestion of deception in the mental constitution of the girl!" he declared.

Another employer declared that the girl employes were not troubled about their mode of coiffure or about their stockings. "We ask a white blouse and a black skirt" he said, "and as long as the girl is decently clad otherwise, we don't worry whether she has her hair bobbed, curled or a la Nazimova.

The Girls' View.

The feeling among the girl's themselves is most decided. One girl who was shown the account of the Chicago firm and its rules for dress expresed himself emphatically. "Darn fools, I call them," she said, to think that they can enforce those rules. "How do they expect with such foolish limitations to have a happy contented staff of workers?"

She treated the matter of bobbed hair from several viewpoints. For one, this girl declared, bobbed hair was easier to brush and wash and was not always in the way. Girls with bobbed hair did not have to worry whether it was coming down at the back, and according to her, girls so coiffured had entirely forgotten the eternal plaint, "I'm sure my hair's all coming down at the back."

Moreover, she claimed, a girl who was ordinarily plan could acquire a modicum of attractiveness by bobbing her hair, "and who would not prefer to be waited upon by an attractive girl?" she asked.

Rolled Stockings.

Rolled stockings, next in the list of banned feminine fancies, this employe thoroughly approved. "We girls wear the rolled stockings for comfort and coolness, and if some member of that Chicago firm was not nosey-parkering, nobody would ever have noticed the fashion.

Rouge she did not think was universally enough patronized by Canadian store employes to be noticed. Dealing with the much powder edict she declared that it was 'tommy rot.' Not more than one girl in a hundred would knowingly put more powder on her face than was necessary, she said.

"That Chicago firm should get about and find more business and then they would not have time to be worrying the girls about things which cannot affect the store in the least" she emphatically ended.

MOTOR INDUSTRY ON THE UP-GRADE.

Official of Big U.S. Association Makes Encouraging Report.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(United Press).—The automobile industry, following a brief period of depression, is booming again.

Continued increase in the demand for motor transportation is accepted as an "index to return of industry generally to sound conditions," John C. Long, Secretary of the Educational Department of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, told the United Press, today.

Mr. Long said in the second quarter of this year more than double the number of passenger cars and a third more trucks were manufactured than in the first quarter.

"The continued increase in the demand for motor transportation, along with the increase in the business of rail lines, is an index of the return of industry generally to sound conditions, in the opinion of automobile manufacturers," he said.

Encouraging Outlook.

"Reports from automobile companies to the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce show that in the second quarter of 1921 the volume of business equalled 87 per cent. of the same period in 1920. One of the makers is operating at 136 per cent. of the 1920 basis, while the average of the other companies is 57 per cent.

"Business in the second quarter showed a distinct gain over the first quarter, as the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce members made more than double the number of passenger cars in that period and a third more trucks."

Long emphasized that "this return of activity in the third largest industry in the United States," is expected to stimulate other lines. This, he said, is expected to be felt strongly in the third quarter.

"The automobile industry employes more than 300,000 men in its factories with as many more in accessory plants," he pointed out. "The 35,000 dealers in the country employ 100,000 salesmen.

"There are 9,200,000 cars in use. Replacement business alone amounts to hundreds of thousands a year."

Drinking a Glass of Hot Water is a Splendid Habit

Cleanse and sweeten the system each morning and wash away poisonous, stagnant matter.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise —splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, lame back, can instead both look and feel as fresh as a daisy always by washing the poisons and toxins from the body with phosphated hot water each morning.

We should drink before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to flush from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract before eating more food.

The action of limestone phosphate and hot water on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity, and gives one a fine appetite for breakfast. A quarter of a pound of limestone phosphate costs very little at the drug store, but is enough to make anyone who is bothered with biliousness, constipation, stomach trouble or rheumatism an enthusiast on internal sanitation.

DEPENDS TEACHERS.

The Bracebridge Gazette remarks that for most men and women teaching is hard work, work that prematurally ages them. It is worth half the salary they get, he declares, to have to live as everlasting examples. Sure, it pinches us a little to support four high school teachers at "Federation" prices, but a community that supports twelve preachers because of our peculiar little denominational differences and jealousies should not greatly object to supporting a staff of four high school teachers even at the union scale.

A type of street frock being featured is the tunic slip-over, made of serge, tricotine or other wool fabric and worn over a straight slip of satin.

TWO PRIESTS STOP BATTLE.

Wave Flag and Save 400 Besieged Republicans.

OSSINING, Aug. 26.— The Rev. Father James A. Walsh, head of the Catholic Foreign Mission Society of America, at the Marykoll Seminary in Ossining received word to-day that Fathers Bernard Meyer and William F. O'Shea of Ossining, recently stopped a battle in China and saved 400 Federal troops from slaughter. The battle took place a few days ago in Kochow, province of Kwang Tung, which is the domain of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, President of the Chinese Republic.

President Sun had 400 soldiers in Kochow. About 4,000 revolutionary troops from Kwang Sai, a northern province, invaded Kochow. They were raining bombs in the yard of the Republican general in command when the defendants asked Father Meyer to arrange a truce.

Father Meyer and Father O'Shea mounted the ancient city wall and waved an American flag. It was ignored. Then Father Meyer descended from the wall and approached the attacking troops. This time they saw the American flag and stopped firing to parley. Father Meyer arranged a truce and returned to Kochow. The next day reinforcements reached the city and the beseigers withdrew.

Before joining the seminary in Ossining, and being sent from there to China, Father O'Shea lived in Hoboken, N.J., and Father Meyer lived in Iowa.

Straight lines, flowing sleeves, coats almost to the knees will be worn this winter, they say. As to color, practically everything shown by the models is black, with profuse trimmings of monkey fur.

PERSONAL LIBERTY DESERTS EXPONENTS

Police Arrest 2 When Collected for "League."

DETROIT, Aug. 26. —Personal liberty jolted into town yesterday in a small touring car in charge of Mr. and Mrs. V. P. Chambers. Today personal liberty is rudderless, because its two guardians are in jail.

V. P. Chambers rather dropped out of the picture after parking his small touring car and registering with his wife at a hotel. But Mrs. V. P. became very active.

According to the police, she began a canvass of the East Side rspresenting herself as a personal representative of the Personal Liberty League of America with offices in Chicago. Her method, it is charged, was to accost pedestrians and ask them whether they were opposed to wines, liquors, ales and cigars.

When they said "no" she would collect a small donation to help carry on the work of the Personal Liberty League, the police say. They claim she picked up about $35 before she was arrested.

Investigation to-day by the prosecuton disclosed, he says, that the Personal Liberty League consists of two persons, Mr. and Mrs. V. P. Chambers. The police say they admitted driving through Michigan garnering between $30 and $50 a day. Mrs. Chambers is in the women's detention home and her husband is at police headquarters.

MEMORIAL TO INVENTOR OF PATE DE FOIES GRAS

PARIS, Aug. 26.—(Associated Press).—A committee has been formed at Strasbourg for the erection of a monument to the memory of the inventor of pate de foies gras (fatted goose livers) with Perigord truffles. His name was Close, and he was cook to the Marshal de Contades.

That some gratitude is due from the ancient city is shown by the fact that the liver and truffle delicacy brought 20,000,000 francs a year to it, before the war.

Comb Sage Tea in Hair to Darken It

IT'S GRANDMOTHER'S RECIPE TO KEEP HER LOCKS DARK, GLOSSY, BEAUTIFUL.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

For twenty hours this food is baked—one reason you like it—another reason why it digests so easily.

One of the important things in connection with any cereal food is to have it thoroughly baked or cooked. For baking or cooking changes the starch of the grains.

Grape-Nuts is the longest baked of all cereal foods. It is scientifically baked at carefully regulated temperatures for 20 hours. This is one of the reasons why Grape-Nuts digests so easily; why it agrees with many people who cannot take any other form of cereal without producing fermentation.

A goodly part of Grape-Nuts is converted into dextrose, ready to be immediately assimilated by the system, and yield strength and energy. A further portion has partially undergone this change, while there remains sufficient unchanged cereal to strengthen the digestive organs. It is then in a condition to meet the various requirements of the digestive system.

If you want to eat a most strengthening and nourishing food, and one that will digest more readily, go to your grocer today and get a package of Grape-Nuts. Eat it with stewed fruit or as a cereal with milk or cream; or make it into an appetizing pudding.

Every member of the family will enjoy its delicious flavor and wholesomeness.

FARMERS' PICNIC AT LAKEFIELD DRAWS A LARGE CROWD

BATTERY OF DRURY'S GOVERNMENT PRESENT—SPORTS, SPEECHES, AND DANCE IN THE TOWN HALL.

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 26. — Ideal weather ensured large crowds at the Farmers' picnic at Lakefield yesterday, and the occasion was an unqualified success.

Addresses by members of the Drury Government and leaders in the Farmers' movement, sports, music and dancing provided a varied programme that drew about 1,500 people from all the surrounding townships and from Peterborough city and distant points.

Commencing about 12.30, at the Exhibition Grounds, the programme ran continuously till 6 p.m., and was followed by a largely attended dance in the Town Hall at night.

Speeches, Music, Sport.

R. H. Halbert, M.P., South Ontario, and Miss A. C. McFhail, member of the Executive of the United Farm Women of Ontario, were the principal speakers. T. Tooms, M.P.P., West Peterborough, and E. N. McDonald, M.P.P., East Peterborough, and Reeve J. C. Strickland, of Lakefield, also gave addresses. Pipe music by the Caledonian Pipe Band filled in the interlude between addresses, and the Cassidy sisters made a decided impression with their Scotch, Irish and Dutch dances.

While the speech-making was in progress, sports were being run off. There were several ball games, a football match, a tug-of-war and foot races.

THE B.A.C. CLUB HELD A RE-UNION

MR. GEO. ROBERTSON'S CAMP AT CRAWFOBD'S GROVE SCENE OF HAPPY OCCASION.

George Robertson's Summer Camp at Crawford's Grove, was the scene last night of a reunion of the B.A.C. Club. This organization was formed nearly 20 years ago as a social club by a few young men of the city, and was active for ten years.

Since 1910 it has been dormant, until last night when those members still resident in Peterboro gathered to meet Professor E. M. Best, of McGill University, Montreal, one of its most prominent members in the old days.

Those present were George Robertson, P. Hetherington, L. A. Turner, W. B. Warne, B. Boomer, Ford Turner, J. E. Middleton, R. L. Dobbin, W. A. Richardson, Ray Best, W. D. Campbell, C. E. Sisson, R. Merrell, E. M. Best.

Mr. Best, Senior, of Winnipeg, who has been visiting at Chemong, and Rev. Harold Young, were also present.

After a baseball game and a quoit contest a bountiful supper was partaken of, which was served by Mesdames Robertson, Hetherington and Sissons, and the members developed hidden capacity almost up to the standards of earlier days.

After supper speeches and recollections of old times were indulged in around a huge campfire.

Dr. Best in a short talk, recalled the earlier days of the Club and its many activities.

The members took advantage of the opportunity to say goodbye to C. E. Sisson and family who will be leaving the city shortly.

It was suggested that next year during the "old home week" a special effort be made to have a reunion of all the members of the club, many of whom are far away.

The gathering adjourned after heartily honoring a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. George Robertson, and the ladies for their hospitality.

U. S. TROOPS WILL REMAIN ON RHINE

STATUS OF RELATIONS BETWEEN TWO COUNTRIES UNCHANGED.

(United Press).

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—American troops will stay on the Rhine until the new treaty with Germany is ratified by the parties, according to authoritative information here today.

Ratification will be considered in the American Senate and the German Reichstag, beginning late in September, and should require a comparatively short time, it was said here. Pending this ratification, however, the status of the relations between Germany and the United States remains exactly where it has been, it was said.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

(To the Editor of The Examiner)

Sir. — Sir Joseph Flavelle must think that the people of this country are the simplest yet. He says that if Parliament and th press, and, of course, the politicians, will just let him, who is so far above the press and Parliament, etc., manage the gigantic national railway system without any interference, it may in time come out somewhere.

What a God-send that we have these holy and capable men! Of course, he says that poor, miserable Parliaments must guarantee a preferred stock which no doubt some of his friends might condescend to take up, but as for the rest it will be nothing but deficits which an unworthy people must make good. Canada is to buy or take as an equivalent for all she has given deficit-bearing common stock, but the financiers will assume the burden of the guaranteed preferred stock! What next? If the new National Liberal and Conservative Government accept the Flavelle report, it will go a long way to show who the mysterious National Liberal and Conservative party is which put them there, and why the new Government had to kick the dog so hard to get it to run under the new waggon in the country.—Yours, Reader.

DOMESTICATED PRISONERS.

The County authorities are fortunate indeed in the high moral standard of the prisoners whom they have to hold in custody in the County Gaol. The man, charged with bigamy who left the jail, having completed his business with his lawyer (for which purpose he had departed the shelter of the jail) returned to the institution last evening and was received with open arms. It is understood that the man proposes remaining in the jail now until the trial is over.

GOSPEL HALL NOTICE

The subject last night was: "Of what value are signs in connection with the coming of the Lord?" Two points must ever be kept in mind if we are going to have a clear conception of the subject. First, there are no signs given in connection with the coming of the Lord for His own. A careful reading of 1 Thess., 4, proves that His coming for His own is unheralded by signs; second, there are many signs given in connection with the coming of the Lord as Son of Man when He shall come with His own to take up the line of dealing with Israel. Our Lord is now rejected. The sign of His rejection is "the sign of Jonas the prophet" spoken by our Lord in Luke 11, 29. Jonah as a sign signifies (a) Christ going down under the billows of God's wrath, and (b) Christ procuring salvation for every repentant sinner. Besides "Jonas the prophet" Luke 11 gives us in addition Soloman as a sign. Soloman signifies Christ risen, now at God's right hand, the living One who can meet all the needs of the puzzled and perplexed who, like the queen of the south, tell out all their heart to him. So far then as signs are concerned, the double sign of Jonah and Soloman are all we have. When in Acts 1 the disciples spoke to the Lord about "the kingdom." He replied that they had nothing to do with signs. Their business was not sign-hunting, but that of being witnesses for Him. (See Acts 1, 6-8.) Let us seek to be witness-bearers, not sign-seekers. Signs are, however, given in abundance in connection with the coming of the Son of Man to take up His line of dealing with Israel. This we see clearly in 24th Matthew. In his address, Brother Miller pointed out the main signs given in Matthew 24. (1) False Christs (Matt. 24, 5); (2) Wars and rumours of wars (verse 6); (3) Famine, pestilence, and earthquake (verse 7). These are spoken of as "the beginning of sorrows," i.e., they are preliminary, leading up to something more terrible; (4) Persecution and death for the faithful Jews (v. 9); (5) The betraval of one another (verse 10); (6) The setting up in Jerusalem of the abomination of desolations (verses 15-18); and (7) the great tribulation (verses 19-26). Then when these have all taken place the Son of Man shall come and deliver Israel from anti-Christ (verses 27-31). Keep in mind, however, that we who believe in Jesus Christ are waiting for His coming, and no signs precede His coming for us. After we are taken up the Lord will come as Son of Man. To-night Bro. A. B. Miller will continue the subject. Attendance has been very good: Christians have been helped: there has been blessing also in the Gospel.

REV. FR. MEAGHER'S SOCIAL A SUCCESS

DAY'S MERRY-MAKING, FOLLOWED BY SUPPER AND DANCE.

LAKEFIELD, August 26. — Starting at 5 p.m. Rev. Father Meagher's social in Lakefield yesterday continued till ten o'clock at night —and it was as successful as affairs of this kind invariably are in Lakefield.

Held in Riverside Park, supper was served in the new Pavilion.

Again and again the tables were filled, and the ladies of the church displayed great fortitude in ensuring that the large crowds were acceptably catered to.

The chief attractions at the social were a bazaar, wheel of fortune, refreshment booth, and fish pond. All of these features were well patronised, and the successful dance held by Mr. Lawless was attended by many of the picnickers.

Altogether this was one of the best attended socials ever held in Lakefield.

MEMORIAL TO BE ERECTED

This memorial will mark the site of the grave of the American naturalist and explorer, James Orton, who died in 1877, and was buried in South America on an Island in Lake Titicaca, over twelve thousand feet above the level of the sea, the highest steam navigated lake in the world. The funds for the erection of the monument were provided by the Alumnae of Vassar College, with which Orton was connected at the time of his death.

CORN ROAST.

A corn roast was given by Mr. and Mrs. W. Arnott, of Otonabee, on Thursday. Their many friends from Otonabee and the city spent a very pleasant evening, singing and talking of old times. When the corn was passed around, Mrs. Arnott was complimented on the tenderness and sweetness of it, and everyone enjoyed it very much. The singing of "Auld Lang Syne" ended a most enjoyable time.

Lindsay Warder.—Mr. Will Stacey, of Peterboro, spent a few hours in town Saturday, and has been spending a vacation at Bethany and Yelverton. He returned to town Wednesday of this week to see the Belleville-Lindsay game. In the old days, Mr. Stacey and his brother Ben were among the best baseball players in this section, and loved the game for the sport they got out of it. Ben was the champion clean-up hitter in Ontario at that time, and had the record of making the longest hit on the Lindsay field, the ball going clean over the west track No player has ever equalled the hit e. On another occasion Ben and brother were playing ball at kstock, the Blackstock Club hav imported a battery from Toron This battery was good and ra scoffed at the idea of Ben ey driving out long hits, but n there were three on bases n cracked out a three-base hit and n the game. At a tournament held Beaveron more recently Ben made himself a hero when he hit a home run and scored four runs. Those were the good old days.

SPORT COMMENT

New York Herald: From present indications there will be an excellent muster of American players in the Canadian women's golf championship, which is to be held on the course of the Rivermead Golf Club, at Ottawa, 19th to 24th September. Until last year not much attention was paid by the American women to the title tourney of the Dominion, but all that was changed when the United States titleholder, Miss Alexia Stirling, went over the border and brought back the honours. Now Miss Cecil Leitch, the British champion, is getting ready to open her campaign on the American continent, and as the chances are that Miss Stirling will defend her title, the Canadian women's golf championship again ranks second to none.

Miss Edith Leitch, sister of the champion, and Miss Doris Chambers are others who will hold the Union Jack aloft at Ottawa. Then Canada herself has developed several capable women golfers. Just who will leave this country to support Miss Stirling is not known as yet, but since the title now is in the keeping of the United States, it behoves the fair players to give their champion all possible support should she decide to defend. Unfirtunately the date of this tournament conflicts with that of the men's national amateur championship at St. Louis; but, after all, this is a detail that cannot adversely affect either.

There are a lot of things that can happen in a month. Unless some of them happen right away, the National league race is about run. If somebody could kidnap Adams, Cooper, and Glazner, and Maranville came down with a severe case of the pip, or busted a leg or something, there would be a chance. Otherwise it looks as if one end of the world's series would be planted in Pittsburg. The Giants have a fine outfield, a good infield, and power enough behind the bat. In and out pitching and a faculty for losing games to the weaker clubs and to Brooklyn have kept them from the top. The fact of the matter is that they haven't won when they had to win, which is the true test of a champion.

Where was McGraw to get any better pitchers than he had? He certainly couldn't get any twirlers from the Pirates. Neither could he talk Brooklyn out of Grimes nor Chicago out of Alexander. And both Nehf and Toney have won more games than Alexander, anyhow. Of course, some of the pitchers of weaker clubs might have gone better with the New York team behind them. But that's a gamble, and clubs are not parting with pitching strength this year. It is probable, for this reason, that such deals as the Giants have made apparently have been aimed to increase their hitting strength. All the same, we think that it's a safe bet that their training camp next spring will be overrun with young and budding twirlers. There will be more pitchers than ever went to the well.

Often the difference between good nerve and poor judgment is just the difference between getting away with it and being called.

When persons are never tempted to leave the straight road to pick flowers in a distant field they may have been born with steadfastness of purpose or they may have been born blind.

CITY BASEBALL LEAGUE DID MUCH TO DEVELOP PLAYERS

SUGGESTED THAT CITY HOCKEY LEAGUE ORGAINZE JUNIOR SERIES.

At a well-attended meeting of the City Baseball League in the Chamber of Commerce last evening, the business of the season was wound up, and considerable satisfaction was felt by the officers and clubs over the progress made in the interest of amateur baseball.

Secretary Don Loucks presented the financial statement.

Congratulations were extended to the C. G. E. Club, winners of the City League, and to the Bankers, who won the juvenile series.

The League supplied baseballs and officials for the juvenile games. It was due to the efforts put forth by the senior organisation that the series gained much of its success. As everybody knows, President Frank Convery and Vice-President L. LeBarr were on the job all the time.

Many young players were brought out and given an opportunity of playing the game under healthy conditions.

It was suggested that the City Hockey League might consider giving similar assistance in hockey next winter by organising a series for junior players.

The Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association was highly commended for the interest taken by its officers in baseball during the season, and the clubs extended to the Association their thanks for the assistance given.

The meeting also expressed appreciation of the work by the umpires, Messrs. Alex. Kay, Ed. LeBarr, Dave Prosser, Vern. Morphet, and Kevin Murray, and special mention was made of the assistance given by Mr. Kay, who gave particular attention to the juvenile series.

The cup presented by Mr. W. B. Warne for the juvenile champions will be ready for presentation to the winners in the near future.

It was agreed by all present that Mr. L. H. Ingram, in representing the owners of Riverside Park, had co-operated with the various baseball leagues in a splendid manner, and that the relations between the two interests ha always been cordial and helpful.

PETES IN PORT HOPE TO-MORROW

The Peterborough ball team will play a Central Ontario League fixture in Port Hope to-morrow afternoon, and if it is anything like the other two games between the two clubs it will be a scrappy affair. The Petes will leave the Water street bowling alleys at 1 o'clock sharp.

The postponed Peterborough at Lindsay game has been ordered by President Kimmel to be played at Lindsay next Wednesday afternoon. Lindsay will play here a week from to-morrow, the last League game of the season for the Petes.

At the meeting of the Central Ontario League executive at Cobourg yesterday, the protest of Belleville in regard to the game in Port Hope, in which the Ontarios beat the Belleville team, was thrown out, and the game stands on the League records as a victory for Port Hope.

WON WHATTAM CUP FROM OSHAWA RINK

J. MAYNEORD BROUGHT IT TO PETERBORO FOR NEXT GAME.

A Peterborough rink of bowlers skipped by Jack Mayneord brought home the J. L. Whattam Cup last night from Oshawa, where they defeated G. Detenbeck's rink by the score of 25 to 22 in a 21-end game.

This cup was donated for competition between the lake town clubs, including Peterborough, and has already changed hands frequently this season.

The winner must accept a challenge within forty-eight hours, and of the fourteen rinks who are down on the list Port Hope is on top, and gets first chance at the Peterborough holders.

The personnel of the competing rinks yesterday was:

STRONG TEAM FOR GAME WITH C.G.E.

MERCANTILE LEAGUE TALENT WILL MEET O.B.A.A. NINE AT RIVERSIDE.

The ball game at Riverside Park to-morrow afternoon between a team picked from the Mercantile League talent and the C.G.E. O.B.A.A. team will start at 2.30 o'clock.

An effort is being made to get Herm. Hunter out for the afternoon to play with the Mercantilers. Hunter has been doing some fast work this summer at short field, and has been hitting well. Yesterday at a tournament played in Bethany, he pitched and won the final game, giving Cressman's the day's laurels. At the bat, he clouted out a home run, a triple and a double.

Nicholls, first baseman for Barrie's, will hold down the first stop; and second base will find Al. Doughty on guard. Thirnbeck and Powell will play third and short, respectively, and C. Wolff, Walker and Lundy are down for garden work. H. Wolff and Prosser are down to start the battery performance.

SPORT COMMENT

Wrestling is supplanting bull fighting in merry old Spain, according to news despatches from Madrid.

This is probably a temporary lapse for, after the Spaniards see a couple of fat and greasy Turks stall about for two hours, they will decide that bull fighting, after all, is quite a sport.

Substituting wrestling for bull fighting is much like preferring croquet to football.

Germany is taking up boxing. Rarely a day passes but that information comes to our notice.

France, following the defeat of Georges Carpentier, has lost nearly all interest in boxing and England wants to forget it, following the knockout of little Jimmy White by Pete Herman and the sorry showing of Joe Beckett. Wilde still carries the respect and admiration of all boxing followers because of the handicap he was under when he fought Herman and asking Jimmy to beat Herman was stretching a point too far. But Beckett was an "awful bloomer" and Beckett was the hope of England.

The Germans will not make a success of boxing. Mentally the German is not suited to the ring game and although possessing the physical requirements the German can not, due to rare customs, environment and training, adapt himself to the demands of the sport.

Connie Mack, leading a tail-end team for a few years, unable, through lack of funds, to do much with the talent at hand, still leads the world in winning top honors in baseball. Mack, according to the record books, has landed three times as many championships as John J. McGraw, and has him tied in the number of pennants won. Both have landed five league championships, but McGraw won but one world's series while Mack won three.

After that McGraw has the edge, for his teams are always up there, while Mack has either a great team or a poor one.

SALVAGING OF ZR-2 STARTED

SWIFT CURRENT AND WEIGHT OF WRECKAGE MAKES IT HERCULEAN TASK.

HULL, Eng., Aug. 26.—(Canadian Press.)—Workmen engaged in salvaging the wreckage of the ill-fated ZR-2 from the turbid waters of the Humber, where it fell with its human freight on Wednesday evening, employed powerful cranes to-day to lift the skeleton of the airship.

It was believed that as soon as the twisted and tangled framework of the dirigible was raised, it would be possible to recover the bodies of many of the men who died when the dreadnought of the air collapsed and caught fire. The work of lifting the wreckage was a hurculean task, for, in addition to the great weight of the aluminum framework and pendant gondolas carrying the driving machinery, the swift current of the river had already begun to cover the immersed ruins with deposits of sand.

Divers who went down into the labyrinth ruins yesterday, found the current so strong that their work was attended by great danger, and they finally declined to take further chances in the river. An official inquiry into the cause of the disaster will begin Saturday morning at Howden.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(Canadian Press.)— The market leaders rose one to almost five points in early dealings on the stock exchange today, causing the hasty retreat of shorts. Crucible Steel was the most conspicuous feature, jumping three points on a single sale and soon extending its rise to 4 3-4 points. Oils also were strong. Mexican Petroleum, General Asphalt, Houston and Pierce Arrow gaining 1 and 1-2 to 2 and 1-4 points. Atlantic Gulf, American, International, Studebaker, General Electric gained one to two points.

There were almost no exceptions to the further rise of the first hour. Shorts continued to cover in Oils, Motors, Equipments, Sugars, Tobaccos, Steels and Shippings, these issues gaining one to three points. Sears Roebuck, North American, National Enamelling and Famous players made corresponding gains.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange weak; demand 3.68 3-4; Canadian dollars, 9 7-8 per cent. discount.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—(Canadian Press).—Wheat fluctuated rapidly in the opening trades of the Board of Trade to-day. The start was unchanged to ¼ cent higher, with September 1.20¾, December 1.21 3-4 to 1.22, and May 1.25¼.

Opening corn prices were 54½ for September, 54½ to 54 5-8 for December, and 58¾ for May.

Oats reflected corn conditions, starting relatively unchanged to 1-8 cent higher, with September 34½, December 38, and May 41 7-8.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, Aug. 26.—(Canadian Press).—Business on the local Stock Exchange this morning was dull, total sales of listed stocks falling below the 500 mark. Spanish River led in activity, 85 shares coming out, with the closing price at 49 7-8, or a gain of 7-8 from yesterday's close. Atlantic Sugar sold from 24½ to 24, a drop of nearly two points over recent quotations. Toronto Railway was inactive at 72 3-8 to 72¼. Bonds and Banks were very quiet.

MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, Aug. 26.—(Canadian Press).—The local market continued fairly active to mid-day, and the stronger tone continued. A number of transactions in Breweries brought that issue up to 49, an advance of 2¼ points. Other stocks to show gains were Laurentide, with 1½ advance to 63½; Wayagamack at 31 3-8, up 1 1-8 from its opening figure, and Spanish River Preferred with an advance of ½ points to 57¼.

SUKHAREVSKI MARKET—MOSCOW ON SUNDAY

Sunday is the Russian shopping day, and since the Bolsheviki Government has lifted the barriers on free trading the markets of its cities and towns are taking on again their old picturesque appearance. Unfortunately for the proletariat, the supply of food is painfully inadequate and they have found to their sorrow that the pitifully small rations formerly doled out by card were veritable feasts compared to what they can buy in the markets with their meagre purses.

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE ALLEN.

POPULAR THAN EVER JACKIE COOGAN MORE

All doubt as to the popularity of six-year-old Jackie Coogan, at least as far as this community is concerned, is removed thoroughly and completely by the extraordinary reception which the lovable little chap is receiving this week in his latest starring vehicle, "Peck's Bad Boy," at the Allen Theatre. With all past attendance figures exceeded thus far, Manager Furlong anticipates that the film will set a new record for a 3-day run. It will conclude its engagement on Saturday. "Peck's Bad Boy" is an Associated First National release, and among those to be seen in the cast with Jackie are Wheeler Oakman, Doris May, James Corrigan, Lillian Leighton, Raymond Hatton, Charles Hatton and Baby Gloria Wood.

COOGAN AND COBB GIVE HEARTY LAUGHS

Between the boyish antics of little Jackie Coogan and the sparkling sub-titles of Irwin S. Cobb, motion picture fans are this week enjoying the heartiest laugh and the most amusing comedy they have had for a long time at the Allen Theatre, where "Peck's Bad Boy" continues to draw record-breaking throngs. Though the First National attraction starring the six-year-old screen idol has been running since Sunday, there has been no apparent let-up in the interest or attendance. The production will close on Saturday.

AT THE CAPITOL.

"The Bait" drew a large number of people to the Capitol last night but not so many as such an attraction deserved. Those who did not see it missed a treat as a glance at the posters, the cast and the plot will prove. It is hard to beat a combination such as a thrilling story, a name of Maurice Tourneur. The standard set by this producer in "the first play he brought out in America has been carefully maintained—his settings and detail are nearly perfect. Who could stage better than a native born Frenchman, the brilliant scenes from the Parisian Follies Bergeres reproduced in "The Bait?" The idea of using a beautiful woman to lure man and assist crooks is not a new one in the under world but in this play, the crook frames up a lovely young shop girl who seemingly falls into all the snares and traps laid for her by the master criminal. How she escapes and wins through to love and final happiness, provides an interest which never lags. The spectacular is not overlooked as the great director caused a sensation among the many "supers" engaged for the big scene in the theatre, when he announced that a lion was about to escape and jump into a box near the stage filled with people. In spite of repeated familiarity with "movie" fires a burning tenement never loses its thrills but sometimes we cannot help but wish the flames were not quite so destructive when some beautiful mansion is blazing merrily away.

The fact that Hope Hampton won a $10,000 prize in a beauty contest a short time ago proved that she is good to look upon—She can also act. Jack MacDonald is an actor of twenty-five years experience—no wonder he plays well the role of master criminal and crook.

"Dull Care!" What an attractive name for a comedy when coupled with that of Larry Semon. Anyone who has ever seen the alert eyes, their sly twinkle and the funny droop of his mouth should know that there are laughs and fun galore in sight.

Joe Ryan and his "Purple Riders" are dashing their way madly through the serial the "Paramount Magazine and "Pathe Review" round out this big programme; while the "Maid of the Mountains" by the Capitol Orchestra is worth hearing in itself.

AT THE GRAND.

ZANA VAUGHN, with "Rex Company," at the Grand Monday, Aug.

On Monday evening next will see the premier engagement in Peterborough of the famous REX STOCK CO., which has been secured by the Trans-Canada Theatres, Ltd., as a permanent attraction for the theatrical season, to produce the very best plays at pre-war prices. This Company has just completed a 7 months' run at the WILSON AVENUE THEATRE, CHICAGO, and comes here direct with the entire company and all Scenic Equipment and every play presented will be mounted with every detail. All we ask of the skeptical is to witness the opening performances. Not one piece of HOUSE scenery will be used during any of the plays to be presented here each week. A special scenic artist will be at work on the stage night and day painting new settings for each production.

The members of the Company are all well known STOCK people with years of experience in the very best organizations of the country. Two members having been with the ROBINS Stock Co. in Toronto. One was 3 years with the BONSTELL Stock in Detroit.

Miss ZANA VAUGHN is one of the best known Stock STARS of the Pacific Coast, having been engaged in most of the larger stock organizations in California, which is her native State.

Two feature Vaudeville Acts are presented each night between acts, and are of the highest order, and in keeping with the high standard set by the rest of the Acting Company.

GOOD SHOW AT THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE

"BLIND YOUTH" AN ENGROSSING FEATURE—"DOG" COMEDY.

"Blind Youth", by Lou Tellegen and Williard Mack, adapted for the screen by Katherine Reed, began a three-days' engagement at the Grand theatre yesterday.

Adapted from the famous stage success of the same name, "Blind Youth" is an international story, with a setting in the fashionable circles of New York and the studios of the Latin Quarter of Paris it portrays many picturesque scenes in the latter place.

The struggles that beset the path of a young artist form the theme for the story. His marriage to a model in his wild student days, the subsequent straying of blind youth and ultimate reduction to a park bench in New York, then true love and the awakening —so the photoplay goes.

Romance, comedy and drama have ben mingled in the characteristic Williard Mack manner to make a play that is engrossing and picturesque.

The musical programme was especially good and the orchestra had to respond to an encore in a whistling number.

The balance of the program is of the highest order throughout. "Brownie" the wonder dog is seen in a very funny comedy. Prizma the natural coloured photography of life in Japan. "Topics of the Day" and a Government Scenic complete a splendid evenings entertainment, and at the low prices now charged at the GRAND, this popular house deserves the patronage of all amusement going patrons.

COAL TRADE BETTER.

By HAROLD D. JACOBS.
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Production of coal is definitely increasing for the first time in two months.

The National Coal Association today reported the output for the last week was 551,000 tons more than the week preceding and the largest since June 11.

This was accepted by the association as indicative of a general betterment in industrial conditions as practically all industries are dependent upon fuel.

The daily average output for the last week was 1,288,000 tons compared with the daily average of 1,271,000 for the year to date.

At the same time, production of anthracite has greatly increased. 1,772,000 tons being loaded last week, compared with 1,564,000 the week before.

However school attendance officers have received instructions from the Minister of Education to make the Act effective to the extent that adolescents of these ages not working must either attend school or go to work. Those in regular employment will have to obtain certificates. Already Mr. Miller has been besieged by parents and guardians seeking home permits and certificates, and judging by the numbers of the first applicants a large number of these permits and certificates will be granted in Peterboro.

ZR-2 DISASTER BLAME LAID AT DOOR ZEPPELIN

FORMER COLLABORATING ENGINEER OF COUNT ZEPPELIN SAYS RIGID FRAME UTTER FAILURE.

"ZEPPELIN CREST IS HEADS OF DONKEYS"

MONTREAL, Aug. 27.—"The disaster of the ZR-2 can only be termed an act of God and the responsibility for the fate of the accident rests entirely with Count Zeppelin, who forced on the world the design of his pet idea and life work." In these words, Count Zeppelin's former consulting engineer, Alexandre Livventaal De Lipi, who is now in Montreal, summed up the conclusion which he had drawn from the tragic fate of the dirigible which collapsed in the Humber after the explosion, killing 44 of the occupants.

Mr. Lipi is a pioneer in aeronautics, his experience starting in 1884 when he experimented with the first power driven dirigible built in Paris by the Tissamier brothers and was contemporaneous with the late Sir Hiram Maxim's flying machine experiments and with Count Zeppelin's endeavors.

The former collaborator with Zeppelin expressed deep regret at the accident, which he maintains showed the utter failure of the rigid frame in airship construction, and which he declared was dictated by "faith and not reason." He ironically reminded The Examiner that the Zeppelin coat of arms was three donkey heads, which he remarked aptly represented "Zeppelin, Germany and the world," who followed one another and adopted the principle of dirigible construction, which in the speaker's opinion was a vicious circle.

To obtain cruising endurance, Mr. Lipi said, the ship must have petrol carrying capacity. Therefore a compromise has to be made between the total lifting capacity of the ship and its own weight, which in turn has to be cut down, with the result that everything is working dangerously near the breaking point.

NORTHCLIFFE ADDS TO PULP LAND HOLDINGS

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

GLACE BAY, N. S., Aug. 27. — Viscount Northcliffe has added 300 acres of pulp land to his already vast holdings in Newfoundland.

Northcliffe's latest investment is $50,000 for 500 acres of timber land in the Conception Bay district. The English newspaper owner has a big paper mill at Grand Falls.

Joseph Seward, of this city, who sold the land to Northcliffe, reserved title to valuable deposits of red ochre used in paint-making, and will dispose of the deposits on a percentage basis with an English concern.

GOVERNMENT REACHES LIMIT OF ITS ENDURANCE.

LONDON, Aug. 27.— (Canadian Press.)— The Daily Telegraph understands that owing to the serious character of the Moplah riots in the Malabar districts in India and the possibility of a general spread of these disorders, the government of India with the concurrence of Hon. Edward Spencer Montague, Secretary of State for India, has decided to take action against prominent personages held responsible for the greater part of the recent troubles in India. It is felt that the limit of patience has been reached by the Indian government.

PUBLIC MEETING WELL ATTENDED

BIRMINGHAM MOTORS PROPOSITION DEALT WITH BY SPEAKERS

Byron Lederer, representing the Birmingham Motors, of Jamestown, N.Y., addressed a largely attended public meeting on the Chamber of Commerce Rooms last night. Mayor McIntyre presided.

The meeting was attended by several aldermen and a few business men, but tradesmen and skilled mechanics were in the majority, and the location of the plant here was endorsed, in spite of an apparent "cold shoulder" given the company by local interests.

The financing of the company was explained by Mr. Lederer and George B. Beechem, the original owner of the patents on the car, who is under contract to finance the American company, and who came over to consider the local situation, went into the propositon and made clear several points on the sale of stock.

It was hoped to have another car here this week, but on Thursday night the Customs officials at Toronto refused to allow the car to enter Canada from the Niagara boat, on the grounds that it had a touring license, but was coming here on a business trip. Till definite advice on this technicality has been received from Ottawa the car will be held in Buffalo.

HUNS AROUSED OVER SLAYING OF ERZBERGER

CRIME HAS STARTED A WAVE OF WRATH AGAINST REACTIONISM AND MILITARY PARTIES.

MAY MEAN NEW ERA IN GERMAN HISTORY

BY CARL D. GROAT,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

BERLIN, Aug. 27.—A new era of German history may arise from the murder of Mathias Erzberger.

The crime has started a wave of wrath throughout Germany against reactionism and against the military parties.

President Loebee, of the German Reichstag, informed a meeting of party leaders that the shooting of Erzberger as he was walking in the Black Forest yesterday with a single companion, was undoubtedly a political crime. The deed may have serious consequences, he declared.

Officially it has been announced that the crime was not committed for the purpose of robbery. It occurred on the eve of Erzerger's contemplated return to political life. The reactionary elements in Germany were bitterly opposed to Erzberger's resuming active leadership of the Centrist party. He was believed to have had the most influence in persuading the Centrist party to agree to support the Wirth government if the latter signed the treaty with the United States.

BIG ATTENDANCE ON LOCAL MARKET

LATE FRUIT AND VEGETABLES MAKE APPEARANCE, POTATOES LOWER.

Summer's onward march was told to the hundreds of city buyers at the market to-day. Fruits and vegetables that flourish in this country were there in great profusion. In most cases the stuff has been hurried along by Nature so that the season is at least three weeks ahead of last year. No complaints were forthcoming about the weather and this must have had something to do with the large attendance. Last week there was a large market, but to-day's eclipsed it. Many regular marketeers were crowded out of their regular stands and there were one or two wagons around on Charlotte street, an unusual occurrence.

Potatoes Lower.

Potatoes were selling freely by the bag. Some asked $2.50 and some $3.00. In pecks Cobblers were going at 50 cents. There were beets and carrots in great quantities at five a bunch. Lettuce, radishes and onions were the same. Cucumbers sold at several prices. Large ones were two for five. Picklers brought 25c. a quart or 45 cents a small basket.

Many hundred bushels of tomatoes gleamed in their red coats under the August sun. Eleven quart baskets were 50 cents and by the bushel they sold at $1.50. Growers advised buying to-day as the tomatoes are at their best. Cabbage were plentiful at 10 and 15 cents. By the peck large onions were 80 cents and small ones for pickling were going at $1.00 or 15 cents a quart. Yellow bantam corn predominated and was cheaper than a week ago. Most of to-day's was 15 cents a dozen.

Plums were quite noticeable by many varieties. There were gages, Damsons, blues in abundance. Some get 20 cents for Damsons, others only 15 Large blues and glass plums went at 20, but ordinary sizes ones and gages were plentiful at 15. There were more varieties of apples to-day. St. Lawrence were scarce and sold at 60c. a peck. Duchess were 60c. and King's 40. Cooking apples, Alexanders were sold at $4.25 a barrel. Fine Bartlett pears were on to-day and went at 80 to $1 a peck.

The Basket Section.

The basket section was busy to-day. At 30 and 35 cents a pound spring chickens seemed more plentiful; Butter was up to 45 and eggs had advanced five cents from last Saturday, selling to-day at 40 cents.

Many householders who invaded the market carried home something besides bulging baskets filled with chickens, plums, apples or vegetables. There were half-a-dozen places flowers were being sold and all carried a good trade. Glowing bouquets of flaming gladioli, pink, purple and white asters for 25 cents could not be resisted by flower-lovers, and there was a great excitement around the tubs of flowers in the scramble for a lovely bunch.

MAURETANIA SAILS AGAIN IN JANUARY.

BANDITS SLAY TWO; PURSUED BY ARMED MEN

THIRD MAY DIE AFTER BORDER RAID BY MEXICANS, WHO MAY HAVE CROSSED BOUNDARY.

PRICE ON HEAD OF LARA, THE LEADER

TUSCON, Arizona, Aug. 27. — Armed posses are on the trail of seven Mexican bandits who yesterday murdered Frank J. Pearson, the postmaster at Ruby, Ariz., and his wife ,and seriously wounded Mrs. Purcell, Pearson's sister-in-law.

The bandits may have escaped across the border, some three miles away.

Mrs. Purcell was taken to Arivica for treatment but was not expected to live. Her five year old daughter, who was with her when the bandits arrived, was unhurt.

The Mexicans are believed to be the same who murdered Alexander Fraser, postmaster at Ruby, twenty months ago.

A reward of $500 for the capture of Lara, who is believed to be their leader, has never been claimed.

SEPARATE RAIL WORKERS' UNION

SEEN AS LIKELY IN RAILWAY CIRCLES.

OTTAWA, Aug. 27.— (Canadian Press.)—A great deal of significance is attached in railway circles here to the convention of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railroad Employees which opens at Winnipeg on Monday. Frequent assertions of A. B. Mosher, Grand President of the Brotherhood, that the time is opportune for railway workers to form themselves into a separate organization, independent of International control, is believed to forecast an attempt to bring about this object during the year.

FRENCH MAINTAIN ARMY ON RHINE.

Fearing Revival German Militarism, Her Troops May Remain There Indefinitely.

By EDWIN W. HULLINGER
(United Press Staff Correspondent).

PARIS. (By Mail).—France has become resigned to the probability that she will have to fight her next war alone, without the aid of her allies of the recent European war, a person close to the Foreign Office told the United Press.

The Government is shaping its future programme of defence from that promise. The principal feature of this programme is a negative one—i.e., trying to prevent Germany from regaining sufficient strength to be able to endanger France.

France realizes that Germany may reasonably be expected to strike back when the first favorable opportunity offers. She also has the sense of reality to see that next time circumstances are hardly likely to be such that the United States, England and Italy will step to her side. A benevolent neutrality is about as much as can be counted upon.

And in the intimacy of their own circles, French diplomats admit that normally Germany is a stronger nation. Against her population of 60,000,000, France has barely 40,000,000. The French birth-rate is dropping, while Germany's is rising. The Germans are better organizers and their industries give their country a practical foundation for war which France can probably never attain. The French temperament is inherently not adapted to gigantic industrial enterprise, as is the German. Their workmen will not put their noses to the grindstone like the Teutons, and the French know it.

Few really well-informed people in Europe expect France ever to oust the Rhine, at least until Germany throws her out. History shows that no nation, with the exception of the United States in her dealing with the smaller American countries, has ever relinquished an occupation voluntarily. And if ever a nation had an interest to hold on, France has in this instance.

Dan the First Airs Opinions On Fish, Game

REPLIES TO FISH AND GAME PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION ON CONDITIONS HERE.

I Dan Whetung, first sr. of Curve Lake (at present). I saw in the Examiner my name mentioned by Mr. R. J. Soden at the Fish and Game Protective Association at their last meeting. I do not deny of speaking to Mr. Soden about protecting the fish and game. I am a mink and muskrat traper, but no fisherman but all the same I should know more how to protect and keep their lives of the fish and muskrat (than those that meet at their meeting places to talk about how to protect poor fish and game). Every spring when I am traping I see lots of muskrats and thousands of young fish laying dead in a dry mud smothered for wanting of water.

Two or three years ago I wrote to the Superintendent of the Trent Valley Canal and the only answer I received was, he said your receipt in regard of keeping up the water and in reply would say that it might do good to some parties and some parties harm.

P.S.—As I read on I came to where a man told the members that he had seen a shipment of fish aggregating approximately three tons in transit from Gore's Landing to Buffalo. I have to contradict this, for I have a reason not to believe it, as we have had over one hundred American guests here this summer and I can say that they have not taken 100 lbs. of the whole bunch. They give their catch to their guides and to the hotel-keepers. They come here to have a little good times. As I read further down I come to where they said that it seem strange to the members that the Indians could export rice as much as five tons. I think this story is something like I read one time, that they was two kinds of fish—the ones you catch is a real fish and the ones you lose they are rubber fish; they stretch, and I think those two stories is like the fish and the rice—too much stretch. There is more strange about some men how they stretch they story than the Indians how they could have more right to gather rice than a white man. If any man wants to know more about the Indians, what privileges they have more than a white man, write to the Department of Indian Affairs at Ottawa. They are our guardians, and will guard us the best they know how.—D. W.

A WEINER ROAST AT AU-K-MON-INN CAMP

CONEY ISLAND "RED HOTS" AND CAMP STORIES AND SONG,

On Friday night, August 26th, a most enjoyable time was spent at Mr. F. Green's Camp, "Aw-k-Mon-Inn," where a weiner roast was held, and a good gathering of young folks regaled themselves right royally of the famous "Coney Island Red Hots," celebrating the event in grand style. The guests arrived at 7.30 p.m. in launches and canoes, and were not long in making themselves acquainted, and commenced to enjoy themselves right away.

The evening was happily spent in dancing, and much fun was indulged in, especially in roasting the "red-hots." A very enjoyable feature was the illuminations, Chinese lanterns being strung across the camp and among the willows, the scene being a very pretty one. The moon also loaned his charm for a short period of the evening, making the whole scene a veritable "Night of Gladness." A huge fire warmed up the proceedings somewhat, and diffused its pretty red gleams upon the river, and contributed greatly to the success of the roast. Jokes and stories were told around the campfire, and much fun enjoyed by everyone present. Those that did not want to join the circle around the fire, helped to contribute to the welfare of the guests in various ways.

Midge Dunford's Jazz Band was in attendance, and rendered some of the latest hits of the day. Midge is to be congratulated on being the leader of such a fine band. A large number along the river in canoes watched the proceedings, many remarking upon the very pretty effect of the illuminations, and credited the roast to be the success of the season.

For three hours ringing voices and loud laughter echoed along the river, adding enchantment and proving that all were enjoying themselves heartily. At 11 p.m. the party broke up, and departed for home, all feeling that the evening had been well spent, and resolved to come again.

LORD BYNG WARMLY WELCOMED BY OFFICIALS AND POPULACE ON FIRST VISIT TO TORONTO

REVEALS EVENTS PRECEDING RISE OF SINN FEINERS

VICTORIA, B.C., August 27 (Canadian Press). — Knowing that he could not long prevent Republican Sinn Fein influences from gaining control of Southern Ireland, the late John Redmond, Nationalist leader, sought in 1915 to meet with Sir Edward Carson, Ulster leader, to find an immediate solution to the Home Rule problem.

Sir Edward Carson declined to meet Mr. Redmond, and the Sinn Fein upheaval commenced.

This was the revelation which Peter Wright, British Labour leader, authorised the Victoria Times to publish in his name yesterday.

MYSTERY SHROUDS QUEBEC SHOOTING

CHINESE QUARTERMASTERS ON SHIP IN HARBOR SHOT DEAD THIS MORNING.

QUEBEC, Aug. 27 — (Canadian Press.)—Shots rang out in the forecastle of the S. S. Maskinonge, anchored in the stream, at dawn this morning and immediately afterwards the ship's whistle started blowing frantically. When Capt. B. R. Griffiths, with his officers, reached the quarters of the Chinese crew, they found the Chinese quartermasters dead with revolver bullets in their backs and three others badly wounded. One of the wounded died shortly after. None of the members of the Chinese crew would throw any light on the shooting.

PREMIER DRURY, DELIVERING ADDRESS OF WELCOME ON BEHALF OF PROVINCE, SAYS, "WE WELCOME YOU NOT AS A STRANGER."

Special Despatch to the Examiner.

TORONTO, August 27. — Amid tremendous enthusiasm, Governor-General Lord Byng and his party arrived at the Parliament Buildings this morning. Cheering greeted their excellencies as they approached Ontario's Legisaltive Buildings, which were ablaze in all the glory of their welcoming decorations.

The silence which reigned as Premier Drury delivered the Provincial address of welcome, contrasted very strangely with the noisy, excited and enthusiastic welcome of the citizens outside.

Speaking loudly and distinctly, Hon. Mr. Drury said: "In bidding Your Excellency an official welcome to the capital of Ontario, I speak not only for my colleagues in the Government but also for the people of Ontario generally. The name of General Byng is so familiar to us, and is held in such high esteem throughout Canada that your appointment as Governor General has been everywhere received with the utmost satisfaction.

"Your Excellency has been geeted on all sides as a Canadian in thought and feeling. Not, therefore, as a stranger do we welcome you, but as one personally known to many thousands of our fellow countrymen who fought in the war,and as one, moreover, in close sympathy with our aspirations and our point of view. It is our hope that you will come and go amongst us on terms of intimate friendliness, sure at all times of a sincere and cordial reception."

In conclusion the Premier asked His Excellency to convey to the King the warm admiration of the people of Ontario for his qualities as a constitutional monarch, for his humane and noble conduct throughout the war, and also for the high respect we have for British institutions, after which our own are modelled.

Brief though the reply of Lord Byng was, it fittingly expressed the sentiment of the great occasion.

"I feel it to be my first duty today," he said, "to express what I know has passed through all your minds—that is, a deep regret that His Honour the Lieutenant Governor cannot be here to-day. I felt the most disappointed when I heard the serious condition of his health, for although I have not had the good fortune to meet him personally I have heard much of the regard and affection which the people of Ontario have for him.

"You all know even better than I, his devotion to duty and the splendid work which he has done for the province and the City of Toronto. It is indeed a tragedy that ill health should incapicitate him in the midst of his career in the high office of Lieutenant-Governor.

"I feel sure that you will join with me in expressing the most sincere sympathy with Mrs. Lionel Clarke in her great anxiety."

MOVIES IN POLITICS INQUIRY DEMANDED.

Resolution in Senate Says Candidates Were Warned.

WASHINGTON, August 27.—Investigation of the "political activities" of the motion picture industry was proposed in a resolution introduced by Senator Myers (Democrat) of Montana.

The resolution charged that the industry, in an effort to repeal motion picture censorship and control laws, had promised the publicity of the screen to "elect all who agree to vote for its repeal and to defeat all candidates who refused."

The picture industry by its own anouncement the resolution said, had "entered politics to become a factor in the election of every candidate from alderman to president, from assemblyman to United States senator."

LITTLE WANT ADS.

At this time of the year, there are any number of things that are badly needed, either by the man or woman.

These things can be done without, but the Summer is going to be not quite so happy without them, and they need not cost you nearly as much as you think, if you only use the Want Ads. to get them.

So many people lose a vast amount of pleasure simply because they have never learned the value of a simple little appeal to the Examiner Want Ad. Column. Don't let this bright month of June go by without satisfying little extra Summer wants through the Want Ads.

OMEMEE WINS SCHOLARSHIP

T. H. CASSIDY BRINGS HONOR TO HIGH SCHOOL—OMEMEE NEWS.

OMEMEE, Aug. 27.—The following is a letter from Miss E. A. Murphy, the Principal of Omemee High School:

Kingston, Aug. 20, 1921.

The detailed statement of the standing of middle school candidates in Omemee reached me from the Department only this morning. The scholarship returns were not published when the daily papers printed the returns over a week ago, so though T. H. Cassidy was mentioned as having secured honors, nothing was said of the fact that he had won a $500 scholarship at Queen's University on his matriculation papers. Only candidates who wrote and passed their whole examination this year were listed, so John Carroll, who wrote four subjects to complete his matriculation and secured 70 or over on three of these, and over 60 on the fourth, and who now has complete matriculation, was not listed, though he passed everything he was trying. Ernest Anderson has been granted his normal entrance and matriculation except in one subject, geometry. The complete middle school returns then are:

Normal Entrance: Ernest Anderson (geometry), Thomas Cassidy (honors), Austin Grandy, Helen Mahood and Mabel Shea.

Very sincerely,
E. A. Murphy.

As far as recorded here, this is the first scholarship that has been won by the Omemee High School. With the exception of the Marion Stewart McDonald Scholarship, the award includes, besides the sum of $500, as a prisoner of war scholarship, exemption from class fees to the amount of $25 a year for four years.

BRITISH GOVERNMENT FIRM IN ITS DECISION TO MAKE NO FURTHER CONCESSIONS TO IRISH; OPTIMISM PREVAILS AS DAIL ENTERS MEETING

RURAL READERS LEARN EARLY OF SINN FEIN REPLY

Suburban and rural readers of The Examiner received a summary of the Sinn Fein's rejection of the British proposals for settlement of the Irish problem on Friday long before any other papers carrying the same news entered this district.

The Toronto morning papers, reaching rural portions of this district at the same time as The Examiner's noon edition, contained only the fact that the Sinn Fein reply had been made and unofficial reports as to its contents. The Toronto evening papers, containing the full story of the rejection, did not reach the district surrounding Peterborough until this morning.

This is merely another instance of the new service which The Examiner provides to its rural and suburban readers by means of its noon edition.

MOB ATTACKED THE MILITARY

SITUATION IN MALABAR DISTRICT OF INDIA OFFICIALLY DESCRIBED AS "QUIET WITH LOOTING AND MURDER OF HINDUS RIFE."

LONDON, August 27 (Canadian Press). — An official statement says the military operations in India in connection with the Malabar disturbances are progressing satisfactorily.

It transpires that a mob of two thousand attacked the police at Tirurangadi, and later attacked the Leinster platoon, but were dispersed with machine guns.

Lieuts. Rowley and Johnston got separated from their troops, and their bodies were subsequently recovered, terribly mutilated.

The situation now is as follows:

"Detachment of troops at Malapuran are isolated, but all are well. The line is cut to Kuttipulam, while the road is blocked and bridges are broken. A number of Government offices have been gutted, and two British soldiers, one European, and fifteen police and local officials or Tirurangadi have been taken prisoners.

"The warship Canopus arrived at Calicut yesterday. The situation is quiet, but looting and the murder of Hindus is rife."

SINN FEIN "PARLIAMENT" CONSIDERING BRITISH REPLY BEHIND CLOSED DOORS THIS MORNING—DUBLIN BELIEVES NEGOTIATIONS WILL NOT BE BROKEN OFF—BRITISH PRESS UPHOLDS LLOYD GEORGE IN HIS REPLY.

By Clyde C. Beals, United Press Staff Correspondent.

DUBLIN, August 27. — Behind closely guarded doors ,the Dail Eireann met in secret session to-day to consider the reply of the British Government to Premier De Valera's letter.

The decision that must now be taken will be the one between peace and war it was felt before the members entered the Mansion House. The issue is clean cut. Ireland has asked for a new basis for further discussion. Sinn Fein is willing to negotiate, but only on its own terms. Britain has replied, through her Premier, that the only basis for discussion is the offer contained in Lloyd George's original proposals, upon which the present truce was based. Insistence upon its point by Sinn Fein will now mean war, it was said. While there was no sign of any intention of backing down, before the members of the Dail entered the Mansion House, a feeling of optimism over the outcome continued to exist here to-day.

CRAIG IN LONDON?

DUBLIN, August 27 (Canadian Press). — Advices received here from Belfast assert that Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, was on his way to London last night, presumably to consult woth Premier Lloyd-George.

SEE FURTHER PARLEYS

DUBLIN, Aug. 27. — Canadian Press.—The whole tenor of DeValera's letter to Lloyd George calls for further parleys in London, according to the opinion here.

It is not unlikely that next week will again see the Republican chief at Downing street, though it may be months before the Sinn Fein and the British reach a settlement.

No one in Ireland believes that fighting will ever be resumed, declared some members of the Dail, who spoke to your correspondent.

Eamonn De Valera undoubtedly felt the responsibility of his position, when he arose to thank the Dail for his re-election as president of the "Irish Republic." He told the Dail that he realized that the fate of a nation depended largely on him and that a false step on his part now would probably set the world against Ireland.

His denial that there was any split in the Irish Cabinet was spoken with a certain amount of fierceness.

PRESS COMMENT

United Press Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, August 27. — "England has reached the limit of concessions, and almost the limit of endurance. The Irish truce is in danger." This was the tone of the British press today discussing the Irish situation in the light of Lloyd George's firm reply to De Valera's letter rejecting the British terms. The Sinn Fein President asked for a continuance of negotiations upon a basis of new terms, but the British Government has reiterated emphatically its adherene to its original terms. The dispute has reached a deadlock.

The government to-day had the unanimous support of the press for its attitude. The Irish truce is endangered by the uncompromising attitude of the Dail Eireann, it was generally felt here. Such discussions without a trade in concessions, cannot go on indefinitely, one paper said.

The Government's reply demanding that DeValera drop "academic generalities," and come down to "practical politics," has, it was felt, shifted the onus for the dangerous state of affairs temporarily upon the Dail's shoulders.

Political circles here expressed the belief that the Government was stiffening its back, hoping to force the Sinn Fein Parliament and their leaders eventually to discuss the British proposals in a practical manner and with the present terms as a basis.

"The man in the street" is growing impatient of the delay. This is reflected in the morning press comments.

The Times says: "England has reached her limit. We urge Irishmen to cease being misled in the vain belief that the government will make further concessions."

For dressy hats for the season immediately ahead black lace is to be very much used.

DOLLAR DAY PRIZEWINNERS

26,646 TICKETS IN THE BOX—GREATEST TOTAL YET—BUYERS HERE FROM ALL OVER THE COUNTRY.

The 1921 summer Dollar Day surpassed all records in every way. The merchants had the greatest values they had ever put on sale on previous Dollar Days, and the response of the public certainly showed that their offerings were appreciated to the full. Every hour of the day from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. was a busy one. Hurrying crowds, rushing from one store to another in an effort to secure their share of the bargains, filled the street like a Christmas Saturday, and everybody was happy, the merchants in giving and the people in sharing. The result was shown in a forcible way when the box of estimating blanks was opened at the Examiner Office, and the official count showed that the number of blanks deposited in the box had mounted up to the record number of 26,646. This large number required so much time to check over, locate the winners of the treasury box cash bonuses, that two days were occupied in the task.

As a proof that Peterborough's Dollar Day is known and waited for far and wide, there were great numbers of tickets from quite distant points. Such addresses as Cobourg, Downeyville, Millbrook, Campbellford, etc., were noticed, and in fact several of the prizes were won by people outside of the city.

The number being 26,646, the two closest were only four figures away, one being 26,650 and the other 26,642, and the first two prizes were divided equally between them, giving each the handsome sum of 337.50. Other ties occurred in other parts of the list, the most noticeable being where nine tickets tied for the last three prizes, necessitating the division of $15.00 into nine prizes of $1.55 each.

The money will be paid at the Examiner Office after Monday.

Following is the complete list:

THE PREMIER'S PREDICTION.

Premier Drury's prediction that a period of industrial prosperity and a return to normal conditions will soon be seen in Ontario is one that people of all shades of politics will hope is accurate. Such a development can only take place, however, through a common sharing of the burden. Business men, manufacturers, middlemen, and workers will all have to contribute toward the new conditions. Prices must be scaled down, even if temporary losses have to be accepted, and in return for lower prices labour must be willing to accede to wage reductions. It is idle to contend that war-swollen wages can survive under the conditions of to-day, and although leaders of organised labour boast that there will be no reduction, they are not on sound ground in making these flamboyant claims. Premier Drury, it is hoped, is correct in his prophecy, but all classes will have to make sacrifices to reach the goal.

LIFE INSURANCE.

The Life Insurance Service is using the newspapers to tell the people of Canada what life insurance is and what it is doing. There are many features of insurance that the average man does not stop to realize. He fails to appreciate the fact, sometimes, that life insurance establishes credit, and furnishes ready cash to pay off indebtedness. It serves to indemnify capital for the loss of practical men and it safeguards the deceased partners' share. A life insurance policy creates an asset of fixed value which cannot possibly shrink, and above all it insures the most valuable assets of any business—human life, brains, foresight, personality and the power to plan, build and execute. All these points are being brought out in the advertising campaign now under way. It is educational, propaganda of much interest and of great importance, and while the campaign is not primarily a selling one, a general interest in life insurance will be created.

THE PLAYGROUNDS.

The ratepayers of Peterborough will unquestionably endorse the action of the Council in coming to the rescue of the Playgrounds Association and making a grant of the $300 needed to complete paying the salaries of the supervisors. It was money well invested for it has helped to keep the children off the streets and providing them with a safe and congenial playing grounds, where their bodies and their characters have alike been developed. Care should be taken next year that the present situation is not repeated. If the Board of Education has power only to make a grant for equipment, the Council's grant to the Playgrounds Association should be large enough to take care of salaries for the supervisors. It is a splendid work that is being carried on by the Playgrounds Association, and it is pleasing to note that the movement is being extended to East City, where a playground is to be established. The public-spirited citizens who started the movement in Peterborough a few years ago, have every reason for gratification at the progress that is being made.

PLANNING FOR NEXT WINTER.

The Secretary of Labour estimates that the number of unemployed in the United States now reaches 5,735,000. While it is argued that this situation is rather unfairly measured against the peak of industrial activity during the closing years of the war period, and that in good and bad times the normal average is nearly 3,000,000 for one reason or another, it is nevertheless obvious that such a condition reflects the state of trade generally. Our neighbours are talking seriously about relief measures, and in that connection it is pointed out with satisfaction that less distress is observable than at other times when fewer people were idle. Just what to do is being earnestly debated, and, since we are likely to be confronted during the approaching winter by somewhat similar difficulties, it may be helpful to consider the judgment of those who have the problem in hand across the line.

There is almost a unanimous conviction, in the larger American cities at all events, that it would be far better to stimulate wage payments in productive industries than to appropriate tax money to pay wages. The failure of the post-war system in Great Britain is taken as conclusive proof that something radically different must be tried on this side of the Atlantic. It is conceived to be the truest form of charity to persuade able-bodied workers that it is better to work than to be idle on doles. A natural corollary to that dictum is that half a loaf is better than no bread; but at that point a difficulty is presented by the labour unions. They stand committed to full union pay or no pay at all. It is not reasonable in an emergency. It is pure folly, and there is no sense in mincing words about it.

There remain almost four months before mid-winter conditions will be upon us, and in that time there should be an earnest and concerted effort to work out a plan of employment which would take care of as many men as possible. The allusion is to Ottawa; for this matter must in large degree be dealt with locally. The easy and usual way has been to dole out provisions and to put similar forms of direct relief in operation. Experience should have taught us that to the full extent other ways of meeting the situation are possible they should be given effect. There are drawbacks to the old way which stand out boldly. The undeserving exploit the spirit of charity in play, while the meritorious often shrink from making their needs known. In other words, there is too much of haphazard and waste about the indiscriminate handing out of provisions and other necessaries. The generosity behind it is commendable; but better results would be won by more careful planning and more systematic distribution.

In this city there are several hundred organisations which could cooperate in worthy work of this nature if a centre of administration were established. Lacking such a central body, which should be representative in character, the best results could scarcely be achieved. It is essential. In it would be focused the fine spirit of liberality which has always been characteristic of Ottawa in a time of genuine need. There would then be the minimum of waste through overlapping and exploitation. Collateral to such an organisation would be, of course, adequate measures for an accurate survey of the need, as well as special features of that need, accompanied by a sound plan of dealing with all varieties of cases.

Such a situation of unemployment was inevitable from the day the Great War began. The whole world could not be thrown out of adjustment without producing a distressing aftermath. Happily, however, the need for special relief measures arises just as the nations are turning the corner toward better times. Happily, too, it comes when a sharing of the abundance of the well-to-do will save every man, woman, and child in the community from the pinch of acute want. There is the disposition to do this to the point of real sacrifice, as there has always been in responsive Ottawa. At this stage apprehension may be erring on the side of exaggeration; but the time to plan sagaciously for the meeting of such need as is sure to occur is before rather than after that need has become urgent.—Ottawa Journal.

ANOTHER DISASTER.

Lord Leconfield says that the cinema is the worst misfortune that has ever befallen England. A strong saying, but it will instintively be remembered that these islands have, from time to time, been exposed to terrific misfortunes which grave men have feared we should never survive. Caxton's first proof was one and the Lord Leconfield of the day undoubtedly uttered his grave warning. The introduction of gun-powder, coffee, hansom cabs, trousers, Education Acts, machinery and Wagner are a very few other instances of misfortune which have left the country staggering, but unbowed; and around the memory of each successive innovation hangs the echo of ancestral voices prophesying disaster. We are, however, strong in our faith that England will survive this last swinging blow of which the British people is made. Even with a cinema in every street we pin our hopes to the rugged fibre of which the British people is made After all, we even survived the motor-car.—London Daily Express.

The Only Asphalt Shingle That Is Tapered

Winthrop Tapered Shingles are the only tapered asphalt shingles manufactured. They have three outstanding features that make them a perfect roofing:

1—They are the big butt shingles—the only asphalt shingle that gives a shadow line, which so improves the appearance of a roof — something architects have long wanted in Asphalt Shingles.

2—They are scientifically constructed. They are tapered. Being thicker at one end than the other, the butt of the shingle overlapping lies flat on the upper part of the shingle in the row below. No rain or snow can accumulate underneath—wind cannot get under them and blow them off.

3—Being tapered extra thickness and weight are distributed where extra thickness and weight are needed—in the part exposed to the weather.

We have obtained a special license to manufacture these shingles under the brand

Brantford Winthrop Tapered Asphalt Slates

Quality of materials and production methods are of the usual high Brantford Roofing standard.

Brantford Winthrop Tapered Asphalt Slates are made from carefully selected Felt saturated and coated with a special blend of asphalts. Real quarried, crushed slate, in its natural colors (red or green or blue black) is embedded into and encrusted on them while the asphalt is hot. They are unaffected by climate. The colors are permanent, and never need staining. They are highly fire-resistant and they are tapered.

Distributed under Brantford Roofing trade marks, through Brantford Roofing Dealers. Stock carried, information furnished, service rendered by our dealer in your district.

WORK AT FILTRATION PLANT IS PROGRESSING AND SYSTEM WILL BE READY BY DEC. 1ST

VISITORS ARE WELCOME AT ALL TIMES, ESPECIALLY ON SATURDAY AFTERNOONS.

The construction of the new filtration plant is progressing satisfactorily and by the first of December, water users will be able to use the filtered product. About one hundred and twenty-five men are employed on the work, which extends over a large area and has to be seen to be appreciated. Visitors to the plant are numerous and the Utilities Commissioners are glad to welcome them. Saturday afternoon is a good day to look over the plant, and commencing to-day members of the Utilities Commission, together with Mr. R. L. Dobbin, Waterworks Superintendent and others will be on hand each Saturday to acquaint visitors with first hand knowledge of the inner workings of the plant. It is quite an experience for a layman to descend through a manhole into the cool and somewhat awe-inspiring depths of the settling tanks. One cannot refrain from wondering what would happen if the water started to come in and the visitor was forced to make a hasty flight up the iron ladder to daylight and dry land.

A technical description of the plant has appeared in these columns but those who would like to know more about the plant and its facilities could spend a very profitable Saturday afternoon at the plant.

The Commissioners have not promised to serve cake and ice cream, but they will show you a diver working twenty-five feet under water, take you many feet below the level of the earth where you will be temporarily entombed, and show you what you are going to get for your money. Before long large part of the concrete work will be covered by the back fill, so the sooner you get up there the more there will be for you to see.

IF YOU WOULD LIVE LONG, HEALTHY LIFE, TAKE UP YOUR ABODE IN CITY

THIS IS THE ADVICE OF DETROIT'S HEALTH COMMISSIONER, WHO BELIEVES THAT CITY PEOPLE RESIST DISEASE MORE SUCCESSFULLY AND ARE HEALTHIER THAN RURAL RESIDENTS.

DETROIT, Aug. 27.)— "If you would live a long and healthy life take up your abode in the city.

"If you would avoid disease, don't shun it, but go where it is prevalent. In other words don't be afraid of a little dirt," says Dr. Henry F. Vaughan, health commissioner. "A survey of health conditions in various Army camps during the war showed that those camps which had the lowest death and disease rate housed men from the cities. Men accustomed to constant exposure to disease stayed well.

"If you eat too much dirt you will die. If you eat a medium amount of dirt you will live a long and healthy life. If you don't eat enough dirt you will also die. The city man is exposed to infection, 'eats dirt' and germs constantly. As a result he establishes ferments in his body which dissolves germs.

Immune by Exposure.

"At the age of 25, city people are 100 per cent. tubercular. That is, they all have carried tuberculosis germs in thir bodies at some time. For this reason they are more immune to the diseases, whereas the country man is not. If both are equally exposed the man from the country succumbs, while his city brother goes on.

"An overdose of any disease, too much dirt, will kill anyone, but an average amount is a help rather than a hindrance. I know a doctor who won't let his children play on the floor until it is covered with a sterilized sheet. All their playthings are sterilized. I think he is wrong. He may keep them from disease now but when they get old enough to mingle with other children they will succumb to the first epidemic that comes along because they have had no opportunity to establish an immunity.

City Called Healthier.

"This is one reason why the city is a healthier place than the country. There are others. In the first place, children are looked after in the city schools from the first day they enter. Any defects or weaknesses they may have are treated immediately. This is not true in the country. A New York East Side slum child has a better chance to be healthy than has a child reared in the Adirondack Mountains. The city slum has the lower death rate.

"The city man, when he does get sick, has all the aids of a modern science to help him to recovery.

"Let the country people talk of their clear, cool streams and sylvan glades, let them compare their clear, pure air with our smoke-filled atmosphere. When it comes to the question of that greatest gift of the gods, good health, the much pitied city youth has it all over any sturdy farmer's boy."

Salvation ArmyBandsman's Testimonial in Favour of Dr. Henddrson's Herb Tablets

Mr. Russell Reeve, 23 Cornhill St., Chatham, Ont., says:

Gentlemen: Just a few lines to thank you for the wonderful benefit I have received from Dr. Henderson's Herb Treatment. For 25 years or more I have suffered from Catarrh of the head, brought on by going under the water too much. I had a very disagreeable discharge from my ear, which was very annoying as well as loathsome. I had tried several different treatments that were recommended to me, but they did not appear to help me. I purchased a box of your Herb Treatment and after using it for a time the discharge had ceased and it has never bothered me for over a year. I am certainly grateful to your agent for ever selling them to me. You can use this letter in any way that you choose for the benefit of others.

Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets are not a "Cure all.' It is simply a combination of herbs, roots, barks and juice of fruits that act directly upon the important internal organs, aiding them to perform their functions properly and thus to expel wastes and poisons from the system. In this natural way the body is given a thorough internal cleansing and then the forces of Nature can act vigorously and freely in rebuilding and restoring the affected parts. Try a box and watch the results. Price 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per box at WARNE'S DRUG STORE, Peterborough.

GOSPEL HALL NOTES

"The Divine Programme as seen in the Seventy Weeks of Daniel," was the subject of Brother A. B. Miller's address last night. In Daniel the prophet we see a man of purpose and prayer, and whilst engaged in prayer God revealed to him the prophetic programme found in Daniel 9:24-27. In the compass of three verses the Lord epitomised the main outlines of His dealings with Israel. Notice the following:

"The seventy weeks" (in Hebrew "shebayim shebayim") of verse 24, are weeks of years, and stand in contrast to the weeks of chapter 102, which are weeks of days. Or, to put the matter in a different form, the seventy weeks are weeks which stand for years, and seventy multiplied by seven is four hundred and ninety years. During this four hundreds and ninety years. Now, God proposed that in these four hundred and ninety years He would complete all His dealings with the people of Israel ,and the city of Jerusalem. Six specific details in God's dealing during the time above mentioned are then given. God would (1) finish the transgression, (2) Make an end of sins, () Make reconciliation for iniquity, (4) Bring in everlasting righteousness, (5) Seal up the vision of prophecy, and finally annoint the most holy. So much for the purposes of God to be fulfilled in the four hundred and ninety years.

The next thing is: When did this period begin, and when shall it end? Verses 25-27 answer these two questions. From the going forth of the command to restore, and to build Jerusalem until Messiah the Prince shall be seven weeks and three-score and two weeks"; that is 69 weeks of years, or 69 x 7—483 years. Thomas Mewberry, the great Biblical scholar ,and editor of the famous Mewberry Bible, figures the details out as follows: The decree went forth (Nehemiah 2) in 446 B.C.; add to this A.D. 4 (because since Anno Domini commences four years after the birth of Christ, 4 must be added to A.D. throughout); the crucifixion took place 33. Now add these together, 446x4x33—483 years. At the end of 483 years "Messiah shall be cut off"; and this was fulfilled to the letter. There remains a period of seven years. Where does this come in? This is "the missing week of Daniel. Many make the mitsake of thinking that the 490 years ran on continuously. But such could not be the case, as any one can see that more than 2,000 years have run their course B.C. 446. Remmber these 490 years are all to be reckoned as the time of God's dealing with Israel. Hence when Messiah was cut off at the cross God, so to speak, cut off His dealings with Israel. After the church is taken up to heaven this missing week or seven years will begin. Verse 27 of Daniel tells what shall happen during this week or seven years. "He (anti Christ) shall confirm the covenant with many for one week; and in the midst of the week he shall cause the oblation to cease," etc. Anti Christ will gain leadship over the world in a coming day. He shall enter into a treaty with Israel for a period of 7 years and at the end of three and a half years he shall break his treaty, and persecute the Jews. This period of persecution is callled "the great tribulation," (see Daniel 12 1-2; Matthews 24, 19-26; Rev. 127.)

When Israel shall be hard pressed, and the city of Jerusalem shall be besieged by Anti Christ, and his forces the "Lord thy God shall come." As this point read Zechariah, chapter 14, 1-5, and in fact the whole chapter. The feet of the Lord shall stand on Mount of Olives (verse 4). The Mount of Olives shall cleave in two. The Lord my God shall come and all the saints with Thee (verse 5.)

This coming is different from the coming of the Lord for His own as seen in 1 Thess. 4. In Thessalonians He comes for His own, but in Zechariah He comes with His own. In 1 Thess., Christ does not come to earth; but in Zechariah He comes to Mount Olives.

The subject to-night is "Elders; Their Work and Responsibility," etc. at 8 p.m.

An old remedy for a cold in the head: Take two teaspoonfuls of salvolatile to two of lemon juice; mix in half a tumbler of hot water and sweeten to taste. This dose to be taken three nights in succession just before going to bed.

A substitute for an ice bag for a fever patient may be constructed as follows: In an ordinary biscuit tin place a layer of saltpetre, one of rough ice and another of saltpetre. Place cover on tin. Fold a handkerchief required size and squeeze it out in cold water, then lay it under the tin and roll both in a blanket. In a short while the bandage will be frozen stiff, and can be bent to the shape

WHEN WILL YOU DIE?

A POISONED SYSTEM SOON DECAYS.

Ninety per cent. of us die 20 years before we should; we neglect ourselves by forgetting we have a Liver. When the Liver is not working our system becomes glogged with all sorts of poisons, causing Headaches, Indigestion, Constipation, Rheumatism, etc. There is only one drug known that acts directly upon the Liver and that is Tanated Calomel. Doctors say you should take one before meals and at bedtime, and in one to five days you will feel 100 per cent. better. You cannot expect to live long or feel well if you do not take care of your Liver. When your Liver does not exeret bile into the intestines, the waste collects in the bowels and is carried away by the blood causing all sorts of aches and pains.

Hatpins with pendant tops in jewelled effects, are smart accessories to the hat.

CHOLERA INFANTUM

THE FATAL DISEASE OF CHILDREN

Mothers should look well after their young ones during the hot summer months as this is the time of year when this summer complaint is most prevalent. It begins with a profuse diarrhoea, the stomach becomes irritated, vomiting and purging set in, and the matter ejected from the stomach has a bilious appearance; the child rapidly loses flesh and is soon reduced to great languor and prostration, which in a great many cases, terminates fatally.

To quickly offset the vomiting, purging and diarrhoea

DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY

should be administered.

Mrs. Charles Kretlow, Wideview, Sask., writes: "I have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for summer complaint. I think it saved my little girl's life one time as she was so bad that I thought she was going to die. A friend advised me about "Dr. Fowler's," so I got a bottle and it helped her right away."

Don't endanger your child's health by accepting a substitute, but get the genuine "Dr. Fowler's," price 50c a bottle; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Give us a Hand!

CITIZENS of Ontario—The only salvation for Ontario's revenue-producing forests is the prevention of forest fires. Your support and co-operation is absolutely essential.

Forest fires are rapidly diminishing our resources of timber and pulpwood. Over 90 per cent. of Ontario's forest fires are caused by human carelessness.

If everybody was careful to prevent the start of fire, Ontario's Forest would be safe.

Save Ontario's Forests
They're Yours

BUSINESS MEN of Ontario — Lend us a hand. The various business associations — of bankers, boards of trade, manufacturers, merchants, lumbermen, engineers, educationalists, tourists, and sportsmen, and all other bodies of weight and influence, can do a great work for this province and for their own interests as well by actively promoting educational propaganda to reduce forest fires.

RAILWAY OFFICIALS can help. Railways cause 40% of Ontario's Forest fires. The Forestry Branch is being well supported by improved co-operation on the part of railway officials and by the Dominion Railway Board. Let us reduce the number of railway fires one-half this summer. (The train passenger in Northern Ontario who nonchalantly throws his cigarette or cigar out of the window during the forest fire season is deserving of a jail sentence!)

CAMPERS, tourists, fishermen, picknickers, berry pickers, prospectors and hunters should feel their responsibility even though out of sight of the policeman.

SETTLERS can co-operate by exercising more care in setting out fire on their own property.

LUMBER FIRMS can help by impressing on all foremen the need for carefulness. Riverdrivers in dry seasons should be specially warned. Gangs of men going in and out to the camps need special attention, because of the danger along the slash-lined trails from the inevitable cigarette.

THE PRESS could do more public-spirited constructive work to reduce forest fires than any other single agency. This is a non-political campaign in which the whole press could join.

LEADERS OF PUBLIC OPINION in every community should be the first to extend a helping hand. Tell the Chief Ranger or write the Head Office any time you have information or suggestions to impart, or questions to ask.

GIVE US A HAND!

If This is Magic There is a Wizard at Your Own Elbow

There is this magic about daily newspaper advertising. It is a straight method of making the facts known about the things you have to sell, to the greatest number of people in the shortest possible time, for the lowest unit of cost.

Successful daily newspaper advertisers rarely adopt spectacular tactics. They use slogans and catch phrases with discretion. They use plain, every-day horse-sense, and talk in their advertising copy the way they would do to a customer who came in to buy.

Their experts unite advertising and distribution into sales: selecting markets, routing advertising, writing copy under one clear plan to reach the ultimate customer. There is service at your elbow now to aid you to lasting success at less than the price of one misguided experiment.

OVER ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS SPENT IN NEW HOMES SINCE THE FIRST OF THE YEAR

SEVENTY-FIVE NEW HOMES SCATTERED AROUND PETERBORO CITY AND SUBURBS—NEW PERMITS ISSUED THIS WEEK.

A perusal of the building permits issued at City Hall this year will remind anyone who is not a close observer of building that there are many houses under construction in Peterborough this year. All the houses that were built here last year could be counted on two hands, but already this year 45 permits have been issued, and in the opinion of contractors there will be about 75 houses erected or under erection in this city, and its suburbs before the snow flies. With so many new houses an opinion from one competent to speak is that rents will be lower in the spring.

Modest Beginners.

This year the building started humbly with a laborer's cottage. The permit was issued early in January. It was for $850. No more permits were issued till March. During March five dwellings were started with a total value of $8,500. Two of these were brick, one was a plaster cottage and the other a frame double house.

In April two brick and two frame houses, valued at $8,200, were begun, May was a big building month, but August bids fair to beat it if one or two more houses are started. The list of houses started in May are five frame, four brick and one stucco. The total value of the permits issued in May was $17,400. Although there were not as many houses begun in June they were more valuable, nine dwellings totalling $27,850. Only two frame houses were in the list. Last month six houses were started with only one frame again. During this month the ten house permits that have been taken out for are all brick or stucco and total $22,100.

The total value of the houses, which will be finished this year, was from the figures of the permits $99,350. It is reassuring to many to see so many brick houses in the list. The 45 listed so far are made up of 28 brick, 12 frame, three stucco and one plaster cottage.

New Permits.

The following building permits have been issued this week:

J. W. Boorman—Clap-board dwelling, Downie street, 26 feet by 20 feet, estimated cost $1,200.

A. F. Hagerman—Benson avenue, brick dwelling, seven rooms, estimated cost $2,600.

Ernest Tucker—Brick bungalow, 520 Romaine street, six rooms, estimated cost $1,600; T. Tooms, contractor.

J. H. Callander—Brick dwelling, 573 Wellar street, seven rooms, estimated cost $4,000; W. Koster, contractor.

A. O. Kidd—Brick dwelling, seven rooms, estimated cost $2,000.

H. A. Limmings—Kitchen and bricking house, 64 Auburn street, $300.00.

H. B. Ball, garage, 533 Elm Street, $1,500.

P. Black—Alterations to store, 281 George street, $150.00.

J. H. Callander—Garage, 573 Wellar street, $75.00.

Russell Edwards—Verandah, 33 Stewart street, $15.

H. P. Lindsay—Shed, 659 George street, $75.

GUARD BABY'S HEALTH IN THE SUMMER

The summer months are the most dangerous to children. The complaints of that season, which are cholera infantum, colic diarrhoea and dysentry, come on so quickly that often a little one is beyond aid before the mother realizes he is ill. The mother must be on her guard to prevent these troubles, or if they do come on suddenly to banish them. No other medicine is of such aid to mothers during hot weather as is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the stomach and bowels and are absolutely safe. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MINES UNDER TRACKS.

BUCHAREST, Aug. 25.— Mines have been found laid in the right of way of King Ferdinand's projected railroad line to Paria, ready to blow up the tracks. The authorities, continuing their campaign against terrorism, have arrested a number of persons in connection with the plot.

FIRST WELL DAY FOR FIVE YEARS

MORFORD DECLARES TANLAC ENDED HIS TROUBLES AND BUILT HIM UP TWELVE POUNDS.

"It only took two bottles of Tanlac to bring my appetite back in full force, and now my troubles are all in the past," said F. W. Morford, a well known machinist with the Westinghouse Electric Company, residing at 91 Jackson street, west, Hamilton, Ont.

"For five years I had an awful time with stomach trouble and indigestion. I had no appetite whatever and everything I ate soured on my stomach and caused terrible gnawing pains and bloating. At times the gas on my stomach was so bad it pressed up into my chest until it almost cut off my breath. I lay awake rolling and tossing many a night, hardly sleeping any, and one time I got so bad that I had to give up my work and stay at home for two whole months. Mornings I felt so dull and tired than on going to bed and I frequently had headaches so bad I thought my head would split open. I got so dizzy I could not stand up and I went down in weight from a hundred and fifty-five to only a hundred and twenty-eight pounds. I also had rheumatism in my right arm which was so bad I couldn't lie on that side at night.

"But my stomach commenced to improve almost from the time I began on Tanlac, and I gained steadily and rapidly. I have picked up 12 pounds in weight now, sleep like a log every night and am eating like a horse. In fact I am a well man, and I am only too glad to recommend Tanlac to anyone suffering like I was."

Tanlac is sold in Peterboro by the Warne Drug Co., Ltd., and by leading druggists everywhere.

BOOKSELLERS WHIPSAWED BY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

COMPLAIN THAT OFFICIAL INSTRUCTIONS WERE ALTERED AFTER PURCHASES HAD BEEN MADE FOR NEW SCHOOL YEAR.

Certain changes in the Collegiate Institute curriculum have taken a lot of the joy out of life for the local booksellers. They received late in the spring, and after several inquiries, the usual annual regulations listing the text books to be used in the school year of 1921-22. On the strength of this official notice they placed their orders with the publishers for delivery before September, and in due time the goods arrived. Subsequently to the first official instructions the Department issued a pamphlet setting out the changes for High schools and Collegiate Institutes which have created the troubles that have been vexing the booksellers. According to the information the Examiner received, the Department's later regulations empowered the principals of Collegiate Institutes to arrange their own courses within certain limits. Apparently it was a case of decentralizing the administration of the secondary schools, and principals were to be permitted a degree of discretion that was never contemplated under the courses of study, which some educationalists have called arbitrary, as formerly fixed by the Department for every High school and Collegiate Institute in Ontario.

Had the booksellers received any intimation of the Department's intention of supplementing their usual instructions and regulations they would have been forewarned and as a result would have avoided the purchase of certain text books which they have since found will be in negligible demand here this year.

First Year Changes.

Mr. R. J. Soden said that French and Arithmetic had been eliminated ligible demand here this year. Institute, and arithmetic will be optional in the second year, with art as the substitute. Thus, the French text books will be used only by those in the upper grades, and by students who doubtless retain the books they bought last year.

A somewhat similar situation has affected the chemistry text books, and Mr. Paul Trebilcock simply shipped his new supply back to the publishers. Both he and Mr. Soden blamed the Department of Education for their indifference toward the interests of the booksellers. School books, they say, are handled largely as a service to the school children and their parents. There is little or no profit in them, and on top of that disadvantage the Department in a sense revokes its original regulations after the booksellers have made their purchases from the prescribed list.

Mr. Soden returned the arithmetics he bought and likewise the French text books and will keep in stock for the new term's demand only the remnants from last year. The revision of the Canadian history has been deferred on account of the printers' strike in Toronto, and orders that were given for the new edition have been cancelled.

The dance held in Riverside Park Pavilion, Lakefield, last night, was one of the most largely attended yet. One hundred and fifty couples were noticed dancing to the music of Paul Gliddon's four-piece orchestra. Father Meagher's picnic swelled the crowd of dancers.

PAINFUL NEURALGIA TORTURING SCIATICA

BOTH COME FROM THE SAME CAUSE—THIN, WATERY BLOOD.

Most people think of neuralgia as a pain in the head or face, but neuralgia may affect any nerve in the body. Different names are given to it when it affects certain nerves. Thus neuralgia of the sciatic nerve is called sciatica, but the character of the pain and the nature of the disease are the same. The pain in neuralgia is caused by starved nerves. The blood which carries nourishment to the nerves has become thin and impure and no longer does so, and the pain you feel is the cry of the nerves for their natural food. You may ease the pain of neuralgia with hot applications, but real relief from the trouble comes by enriching and purifying the blood. For this purpose Dr. Williams Pink Pills are strongly recommended. These pills make new rich blood and thus act as a most effective nerve tonic. If you are suffering from this most dreaded of troubles or any form of nerve trouble, give these pills a fair trial, and note the ease and comfort that follows their use.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MUTUAL LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY ENLARGES OFFICE

NINE YEARS SINCE GROWING BUSINESS OF COMPANY COMPELLED THEM TO ERECT A NEW BUILDING.

The Mutual Life Assurance Co., of Canada, has just completed an important enlargement of their magnificent head office at Waterloo, Ontario. The completed building will be re-opened with suitable ceremonies on August 31st ,and the two following days. In connection with these re-opening ceremonies a gathering of the company's officers and agents is to be held at Waterloo, when important matters of interest to the company will be discussed.

It is only nine years since the growing business of the company compelled them to erect a new building, and it was then supposed that their needs would be met for many years. The extraordinary demand for life insurance created by the war is one of the reasons why the business of this company has trebled since the present building was erected. An extension of 70 feet has been built at the rear of the office which now measures about 100 x 200 feet. The addition which is in the same style as the original has a basement and three stories. The basement is used as a supply room, the first floor as the premium department and the second for the policy department. The third story is a beautiful assembly room capable of seating about 400, in which meetings of the members of the staff and of the agency force will be held as occasion requires.

One of the principal features of the new addition is a splendid series of new vaults. Among them is a securities vault of the most modern construction, with floors and roof of fire resisting concrete lined with Bessemer and Chroma steel plates, the doors also providing against every possible danger from fire or burglary..

The original building has been renovated also, with the result that the whole interior has a uniformly new appearance. The architecture of the building is noted for its beauty so that for attractiveness as well as for efficiency the plant is probably without a rival. The building is not only beautiful in itself—it is also "beautiful for situation," standing in the midst of spacious and well-carred for grounds. The growth of the company has certainly been astonishing both in size and financial strength. The business in force amounts to about $230,000,000, and the assets are more than sufficient to guarnatee the payments of all claims by more than five millions, a sufficient evidence of the position of the company.

TEXTILE FACTORIES ACTIVE METAL INDUSTRIES DORMANT

UNEMPLOYMENT SITUATION IN PETERBORO SHOWS ENCOURAGING IMPROVEMENT IN SEVERAL QUARTERS—BUILDING TRADES FAIRLY BUSY AND FARMERS STILL IN NEED OF HELP—OUTLOOK IS HOPEFUL.

Textile mills—Brisk.
Flour mills—Active.
Building trades—Busy.
Metal trades—Dull.
General labour—Fair.

The above is a condensed summary of the industrial situation in Peterborough as observed by Hugh Robertson, superintendent of the Ontario Government Employment Bureau, Charlotte street.

"If the metal trades could get back to normal just now this city would be in a comfortable position," said Mr. Robertson. "Some of the shops have only a few men at work, others are running four days a week, and one or two of them are in a fairly good position. But generally speaking the metal trades are dull. Some moulders have been idle for months, and several of these shops are doing practically nothing. On the other hand the textile mills are decidedly busy. This is the brightest spot in local industry. The Canadian Woollens Limited have been increasing the number of their employees and I understand they are operating almost at full strength. The Albion Knitting Company are also busy and reported to be working overtime, and the Colonial Weaving Company have had to put on a night shift recently to handle rush orders. The textile industry is getting busier all over the country, and the Peterborough mills are apparently sharing in the boom.

As for the building trades all the bricklayers are employed and I understand the other lines are keeping busy. The flour and cereal mills have been advertising for and taking on more hands, and things are looking encouraging in that quarter. There is no great demand for unskilled labour, but there is a certain amount of work going on that is helping the situation. In this class just at present are skilled mechanics who have nothing in their own lines, but rather than be idle they are working at whatever they can get."

Mr. Robertson stated that there was an active demand for women, especially for household work. He had also received more enquiries for farm labourers since the harvest. The wages offered were around $30 and $35 a month.

On the whole Mr. Robertson hesitated to apply any general term to describe the present industrial conditions in the city. There was a discouraging aspect as viewed from unemployment among the metal workers, but there was also a bright side, with probably a promise of better things in the speeding up of the textile mills and the steadiness of the flour and cereal plants.

FARMER SAYS HE DRANK 17,232 GALLONS COFFEE

DURHAM, N. C. Aug. 27.—Lem Bennett, of Stokes County, 78 years old, claims to be the world's greatest coffee drinker.

He says he drinks the beverage three times a day, six cup to the meal on the average, frequently getting up at night and indulging in one or two cups.

"I have consumed coffee on this scale practically all my life," declared Bennett, "with the exception of a few years when I drank whiskey, averaging a quart a day of this beverage."

The Stokes farmer figures he has drank no less than 17,232 gallons off coffee.

It's the Little Things That Count in Motoring.

In case of a broken spring, it is sometimes possible to make a temporary repair by means of a heavy block of wood. Lash it securely and drive carefully.

Although the magneto needs very little care, it must have some attention in order to carry on its work. Place one or two drops of oil in each oil hole every 1,000 miles, clean and test interrupter points every month, wipe off all dust from the distributor both inside and outside, and you are practically immune from trouble. Use none but the finest sandpaper in cleaning the interrupter points.

Never put lubricant of any kind on the Bendix drive pinion of your self-starter. If oil is put on it the dust will collect and gum it up so that it will not work. In case it does stick because of dirt, squirt kerosene inside the pinion and work it back and forth on the thread, wiping off the dirt as you do so.

Hold the hand over the breather tube occasionally with the engine running. If gas is escaping from the crank case it means that the engine is losing power. The force of the explosion, instead of pushing down the piston, is leaking into the crank case. This may be due to scored cylinders, defective piston rings, or, in rare cases, a hole in the head of the piston. The pistons or cylinders must be removed to correct this.

In removing a detachable rim it is a good idea to loosen the bolts before jacking up the wheel. The weight of the car will break any rust that would tend to hold the rim and make it hard to remove by hand. If the rims are new and have had no chance to rust, this advice does not apply.

Hendricks To Sell Gray-Dorts Here

Hendricks Motor Sales, Trenton, distributors in Eastern Ontario for Gray-Dort Cars, have already announced the opening of a retail branch in Peterborough. G. N. C. Patterson, widely known through his connection with General Motors, is in charge of the new sales organization.

Hendricks Motor Sales are carrying on in the Gray-Dort Showrooms at 195 Simcoe Street.

Gray-Dort owners will particularly appreciate the energy and efficiency of the Hendricks organization. Mr. Hendricks, since the very inception of his business, has made "Service to the Customer" the basis of all dealings. This same spirit of service and fairness will characterize the Hendricks business in Peterborough.

Mr. Patterson, in speaking of the Gray-Dort, said:

"In taking over the retail sales of the Gray-Dort, we believe we are handling a car whose performance is well-known to every motor-owner in this district. I have only to point—and I do so with no small feeling of pride—to the enviable record the Gray-Dort has justly won throughout the Dominion in the past few years.

"This year, the new family of Gray-Dort cars has won my admiration as thoroughly as it has that of motorists everywhere; for the design, the finish, the performance of the new Gray-Dort leaves nothing to be desired in light car appearance and economy.

SEEK NEWARK CLUE TO BAND OF KILLERS

Italian Slain There Measured and Finger-Printed for Possible Connection.

NEW YORK, Augusct 26.— New York detectives investigating the "good killers" death syndicate described by Bartolo Fontano, self-confessed murderer of Carmelo Caizzo, visited Newark yesterday to take finger-prints and Bertillon measurements of Vincenzo Morabito killed by John Tricolo, who charged that the man had attempted to blackmail his mother.

It was said that this step had not been prompted by the discovery of any evidence connecting Morabito with the band of assassins mentioned in Fontano's confession, but was one phase of the inquiry to ascertain whether a highly organized plan was responsible for more than 125 Italian killings in New York, Detroit, Buffalo, Pittsburg, Chicago and Bridgeport during the last four years.

John Tricolo, 19, of 120 Summit street, Newark, who confessed to the police that he had killed Moribito and carried his body to an outlying section of the city, will be arraigned to-day in the Second Criminal Court of Newark on a charge of murder. John Moribito, a brother of the dead man, arrived from Trenton yesterday and claimed the body. He said that he did not believe Tricolo's story that his brother had demanded money of the young Italian's mother. Moribito said that his brother, formerly a lodger in the Tricolo household, was in love with the prisoner's mother and that the killing was due to Tricolo's dislike of him.

Insists He Defended Mother.

Tricolo insisted that he killed the man to protect his mother's life. He said that he entered the house as Moribito was about to attack Mrs. Tricolo with a knife.

The blackhand letter which Tricolo accused the murdered man of having sent his mother was made pubic yesterday. A translation follows:

"If you want to live you'd better bring $500 to Seventh Street, Silver Lake. Here you will find your man leaning against a gate with a black handkerchief in his hand. Bring it at 10 o'clock on the night of August 30, not on September 1. You and your family will be destroyed if the money is not brought. Don't let any one know of this. Keep it to yourself. We are not afraid of the police."

A change of jails has not served to increase the peace of mind of Bartolo Fontano. Thursday he was moved from the Toombs to the Raymond street jail in Brooklyn, lest his neighbors, men who were arrested after Fontano implicated them in his confession of Caisso's murder, should intimidate him. Yesterday when he was taken to police headquarters to be questioned by Lieutenant D. A. McPherson of the Detroit blackhand squad, Fontano complained that someone in the Raymond Street jail had extracted $40 from his trousers pocket while he was asleep. Three well-dressed Italian woman called at Police Headquaters and saw Fontano, and one of them handed him a twenty dollar bill when she heard that he had been robbed.

Admits Knowing of Murders.

Lieutenant McPherson questioned Fontano to learn whether the prisoner could throw any light on seventy unsolved murders which have taken place in Detroit within four years. The Detroit detective said that Fontano told him he knew that the murder syndicate had perpetrated some of the murders, but denied that he had any part in them.

"Fontano told me," said McPherson, "that he had set a couple of fires within the last two years while he was there. I think that we have his picture at our Police Headquarters, but I cannot say so positively just now. Fontano told me he knew how the Detroit jobs were of the automobile variety, committed by gangsters in high-powered cars. We arrested one man, but he was acquitted." The detective will remain here until Monday to continue questioning Fontano.

The Detroit police have been informed by a Sicilian, whose name they withheld, that farm land on the northern outskirts of Detroit had been used as a burial ground in Sicilian feuds for several years. They quoted the informer as saying: "Land in the neighborhood of the Seven Mile Road and Gratiot Avenue is known to us as the Black Hand's burying ground." More than one man is buried there who disappeared and about whom the police know nothing."

According to Detroit police records, a number of Sicilians have disappeared after Italian shooting affrays, but it was generally thought that they had left town, fearing arrest. It was understood that if Lieutenant McPherson's questioning of Fontano yields any clues substantiating the statements of the Detroit Sicilian, a search would be made for the bodies.

AT THE THEATRES

INTERESTING INTERVIEW WITH MISS HALLIER, WHO APPEARED HERE IN "THREE LIVE GHOSTS"—THE OFFERINGS FOR THE FIRST THREE DAYS OF NEXT WEEK.

A kackward glance at the theatrical offerings of the week just drawing to a close should be interesting, not only to patrons of the drama, but to the general public as well. No longer can it be said that the smaller towns do not get the best and latest pictures or plays. With two moving picture houses devoted almost exclusively to the films and the Grand Opera House showing first?class road shows and a permanent stock company the first half of each week, Peterborough is indeed fortunate. Competition is keen, but the theatre-going public is keen also; therefore, provided the present policy keeps up, a good season should be just ahead for everybody. These are the days of price-slashing in every line of business. The increasing cost of living just prior to and during the great war gave rise to a wild orgy of spending, and like all other commodities or luxuries, the price of theatre tickets soared sky high. So, while dozens of houses on Broadway are closed, actors and actresses are looking for engagements who never before had to seek them, our local managers took the initiative and wholesale reductions are the order of the day. The result is, plenty of first-class amusement at the right price—not even the musical end of the programme has suffered. Each one of the local theatres is equipped with a good orchestra. Just one word more on the subject of "filthy lucre." Money should not be a criterion of value, yet a general public lacking in discrimination has given the dollar an exaggerated and false value, so that today the highest priced article is the best because the public has been educated to believe that the only standers is, "How much did you pay for it?" Thank goodness, "Art," 'Letters" and the "Drama" are becoming emancipated from too much commercialism. So let no one think that the standard of the Rex Stock Company, which opens for the season on Monday night next at the Grand, is to be judged by the low prices offered for the attraction. Rather let us be grateful for the co-operation and generous effort to stand side by side with the merchant and all those who genuinely want to reduce the high cost of living.

At the Allen.

At the Allen hTeatre this week we saw Constance Talmadge at her best. Not a heartless flirt. She used every feminine wile at her command, however, to reduce the young man who, at long distance, spurned her hand, to utter confusion. Knowing Constance's charms, it is not difficult to imagine her lover's complete surrender.

"Peck's Bad Boy" has become almost aclessic of child literature and ranks in the public mind with Huckleberry Finn and Tom Sawyer. After seeing little Jackie Coogan in "The Kid," it is no wonder that his managers decided that he would be an ideal "bad boy." His performance seems so natural that one can scarcely realize it is only a picture after all. Apparently unaware of director or cameraman, Jackie remarks in such a genuine manner to his dog friend licking the ice cream cone in his pocket, "Here, take it all, ya pickpocket!"

At the Capitol.

The Capitol Theatre offered two splendid features this week. Pauline Frederick in "The Mistress of Shenstone" provided conversation for her many admirers and won more sympathy for Florence Barclay than do her novels. "Society twaddle" often characterizes the books by this successful writer, but the emotional Pauline made the "Mistress of Shenstone" a woman of wonderful character.

The intimate details concerning on's favorite actor's or actress' habits are interesting to movie fans; so those who were fortunate enough to see "The Bait" at the Capitol the last three days of the week should in future remember that the beautiful Hope Hampton created a precedent in filmdom when she refused to use grease paint in her make-up, and now relies solely on talcum powder to enhance her charms. This may prove an unconscious beauty hint to lovely woman in general. Who knows?

About Miss Hallier.

So much has been written about "Three Live Ghosts," the opening attraction at the Grand on Tuesday night, that I am just going to tell you about Miss Hallier. She is a charming woman—middle aged, with youthful mind and heart. Her theatrical experience covers a wide field and her knowledge of plays and players is very extensive.

Coming from England six years ago with Cyril Maude, she had played almost every variety of role from ingenne to old women. Now, alas! she says she is definitely labelled "character woman," but the public is glad and rejoices, because good character people are difficult to obtain in these days of overnight stars. Miss Hallier is still very sad over the sudden death a year or so ago of her husband, who was leading man for Olga Nethersole in "Sappho," and to whom she was very devoted. While I sat in her dressing-room watching the marvellous transformation resulting in old Mrs. Gubbins, we discussed the present tour, the patronage and business in general. Miss Hallier is optimistic for the theatrical future, is pleased with her arrangements, and, listening to the affectionate greetings of all the other members of the cast, I judge that she is a real "mother" to the show. She has played the Keith vaudeville circuit and has been in some of Vitagraph's best pictures.

At the Grand.

"Blind Youth" is the name of the photoplay at the Grand this week. Lou Tellegen, the handsome husband of the famous Geraldine Farrar, wrote the stage play of the same name and starred in. Successful as the play was, I think the screen version—the co-work of Tellegen and Willard Mack—is even better. There is a good caste of actors, headed by Walter McGrail and Leatrice Joy. The theme is well worked out, contrasting as it does the building up of character, and the winning of final success and happiness brought about by the love and sympathy of a good woman—as opposed to the destructive influence on men of the worldly and avaricious woman as well as the heartless one. The scenery and costuming are worthy of mention, while the picture is not one of the so-called "sex features," though I heard it mention as such by some.

NEXT WEEK'S SHOWS

Rex Stock Company.

It has been mentioned before that a season of stock will open on Monday night, the 29th, at the Grand. The play, "The Man Who Owned Broadway," is adapted from the Cohan play, "Broadway Jones." Mr. ex Snelgrove gives promise of delighting the hearts of local play-goers and will likely prove the matinee idol of the winter. Discussing the coming season yesterday, he pronounced himself delighted with Peterborough, with the Grand, and says he looks forward with great pleasure to playing here. Although the Rex Stock Company has its headquarters in Chicago and the middle West, Mr. Snelgrove is an Englishman and naturally likes Canada, having played last year a successful season in Sault Ste. Marie. He is tall, slight and very athletic looking; so I can assure you there is a treat in store for you. Not in a long time have we been favored by such a good-looking couple in our midst as are Mr. and Mrs. Snelgrove. Miss Laura Vaughn, as she is known on the stage, is young, blonde, clever and beautiful. Will there be any difficulty in filling the front rows? I think not. It is difficult to believe that Miss Vaughn has had so much experience. She has played often before in Canada, in stock at Regina, Saskatoon and on the Coast. She is very unwilling to talk about herself, but most anxious (like all wives) to praise her nice, agreeable husband. She is very charming, however, and so good to look upon that one hasn't the heart to ask her to reveal her most sacred thoughts and pet theories.

Between the acts of the play there will be two vaudeville acts, both very clever—Seymour & Williams, a good comedy team, and two kiddies, who will be a great attraction.

"The Yellow Arm."

At the Capitol for the first three days of next week will be shown the second episode of the thrilling new serial, "The Yellow Arm," and a wonderful feature, called "A Wise Fool." It's a screen version of Sir Gilbert Parker's novel, "The Money Master," produced by George Melford for Paramount. James Kirkwood, Alice Hollister and Ann Forest have the principal roles. The story deals with a romantic, passionate love affair between Carmen, the still young and beautiful wife of the cruel masterful egotist, Jean Jacques Barbille, and the unscrupulous villain, Sebastian Dolores. The atmosphere of old Quebec and its traditions is well preserved, the photography, done among the snow-clad California mountains, very nearly perfect and the cast excellent. Stories of the West, of cowboys, regulars and Indians always find a sympathetic audience.

"Bob Hampton of Placer."

The Allen Theatre has chosen a really big picture for next week in "Bob Hampton of Placer," written by Randall Parrish and produced by Marshal Neilan. The terrible days of 1876 on the frontier when every man slept with gun cocked, his wife prayerfully watching their sleeping child, culminated in the never-to-be-forgotten raid in which General Custer and his gallant band went down to death and ulter rout. A plot filled with romantic details is woven about the lives of Bob Hampton (in reality Capt. Robert Hampton Nolan), once court martialed and disgraced, and "The Kid," who is brought up in ignorance of her identity. In the course of a perilous life among the plainsmen and Indians, young Lieutenant Brant, one of Custer's men, falls in love with "The Kid," neither knowing that their fathers had been deadly enemies. A common cause against the Indians brings the young people very close together, and in the final stages of an intrigning story, Brant is the means of having Bob Hampton's name replaced on the roll of honor.

James Kirkwood is Bob Hampton, Pat O'Malley is Lt. Brant and sweet Marjorie Daw the youthful heroine. It would never do to forget Wesley Barry of "Dinty" fame, who takes the part of a little waif befriended by Bob.

LAURA.

Sleeve lengths in fall blouses are as varied as in frocks, long, tight-fitting sleeves being frequently favored, while elbow and three-quarter lengths are just as popular. Some flare at the lower part and fit the arm rather smoothly above, while the sleeve that is loose along its entire length is also often seen.

A NEW HOME AND LIGHT AHEAD.

Chapter 48.

At last the day came for moving. It was all like a confused nightmare with endless things to finish, and things getting lost. I stayed at the old apartment until the first van was nearly loaded and then Kent called a taxi for me and I departed uptown to our new home, and our strange, wonderful new life. I did not feel the least bit sad about leaving the old place.

"I'll bring the lamp up in the taxi with me, dear. I think it will be safer that way," he told me as he helped me into the taxi at the front door. "I'll be with you soon—," he called after me, and then waved good-bye as the taxi whisked me around the corner and out of sight.

Two long, lonely hours passed while the moving men struggled under heavy furniture and tramped back and forth bringing in the things. I felt sure the ice box was in the parlour and the beds in the kitchen. I longed for Kent to come. "It must be nearly time for him," I thought to myself. I ran to one of the big front windows, and looked down on the Drive.

A taxi was just stopping in front of the door. Kent got out very slowly and carefully, with the Lachman lamp held firmly against his chest. Tears rushed to my eyes and a lump in my throat, and yet I almost wanted to laugh.

He had not even taken the lamp apart or packed it in a basket, but held it tenderly in his strong arms.

I rushed to the door to greet him. He came very carefully into the living-room, and together we placed it down cautiously in a corner of the room. I felt the wet tears on my cheeks.

As we straightened up again our eyes met in deepest understanding. The same thoughts were in our hearts, but we did not need words to express them or know what the other was thinking.

Kent caught me in his arms and pressed me firmly to his breast. For a minute our lips lingered in a warm loving kiss, but heavy shuffling steps coming down the hall warned us of the coming of more furniture.

At last everything had been carried in and we had closed the door on the last man and their ugly strips of burlap. It was good—so good to be alone.

Things were piled around in great confusion and not exactly conducive to cheer and hopefulness, but to Kent and me it meant the beginning of a new start, and a beautiful, new existence.

Kent dropped down into one of the big library chairs and pulled me down gently on his lap. The wrappings of old newspapers and burlap rustled beneath our two-fold weight.

"Are you happy, dearest?" he asked.

"Yes, Kent, so very happy," I answered, snuggling into his arms.

"Do you like it here, Babs? I'm so glad we have moved, everything is so clean and splendid about it — and it seems easier to leave the past behind us. I think I can work harder and be happier now that the past is really behind us—everything different and new, sort of a fresh start. I have not always told you, but I dream terribly sometimes about that hideous diamond and all it stood for —now I'm going to try to live it down if I can. That is, I'm going to try hard to rise above it.

"And the lamp, Babs, I don't seem to mind that as I did. I feel differently about it. It is the one thing that I want to keep out of that terrible experience," he said passionately.

"Yes, dearest, it's the light — the light that we will always carry with us out of the experiences of the past," I said softly.

"And maybe it will be the light that will show me the way, Babs," he added, a firm little pull of determination squaring the corners of his mouth.

"Thou pursuest after wisdom, O Melampus! which is the science of the will of the gods, and thou roamest from people to people like a mortal driven by the destinies. In the times when I kept my night-watches before the caverns, I have sometimes believed that I was about to surprise the thoughts of the sleeping Cybele, and that the mother of the gods betrayed by her dreams, would let fall some of her secrets. But I have never yet made out more than sounds which faded away in the murmur of night, or words inarticulate as the bubbling of rivers."—De Guerin's "Centaur."

Peterboro' Playgrounds Association Conclude a Very Successful Season

Plans Under Way for Making the Playgrounds Bigger and Better Than Ever Next Year--Prizes Presented to Successful Contestants in the Sports.

The four playgrounds of the Peterborough Playgrounds Association have finished another summer of service to the city's juvenile population, and plans are now under way for making them better than ever next year. Wednesday afternoon marked the grand finale of the playgrounds season. On the bright green lawn of Queen Mary School the closing field day was held with many parents and big brothers and sisters in attendance at the affair—in fact, altogether there were 325 young and old, and although most of the kiddies sadly bade farewell to the playgrounds, they smiled and romped around determined to make the best of it.

The Opening.

Early in July the playgrounds were first opened. F. McMacken of Toronto has been in charge and he told The Examiner that measured by the healthful enjoyment of the children the playgrounds had been a success, and he was also pleased, he said, that the kiddies had entered into every sport so heartily. Every Wednesday a field day was held at one of the grounds, all the children participating, and on these days ball games were a big feature that brought the boys out. Other sports were held and the youngsters all looked forward to these field days.

Swimming Classes.

The director spoke with satisfaction of the swimming classes, and he declared that many children had learned to swim through the schedule. Swimming instruction was given regularly at Inverlea Park and Lake street bathing beach. From all the schools except Queen Mary many children were taught to swim. Because of its distance from the river most mothers hesitated to send their children, and the consequence was that most of the swimmers came from the Central, King Edward and Queen Alexander schools. Last Thursday a grand swimming meet was held at Lake street and this was a red letter day for the kiddies, he said.

Good Weather.

Nothing finer in the way of weather could have been desired for the closing event. Mr. McMackon, assisted by A. Davis, H. Inham, Miss Nelson, Miss Stenton, Miss Staunton and Miss Welsh, had charge of the afternoon's sports. Mrs. W. R. Morris and Mrs. A. Stevenson, who have shown a great interest in the playgrounds movement, took a foremost part in the closing program, and considerable commendation is due these ladies for their untiring efforts.

An important feature of the afternoon were the ball games. Central and Queen Mary, a homogeneous aggregation, won the senior championship by defeating King Edward 14 to 3. At the same time the junior game was being played. United Queen Mary and Queen Alexandra trimmed Central and King Edward. Not to be outdone by the boys, the girls of Queen Mary played against the elite of all the other playgrounds and won.

The Exhibits.

Nicely displayed on tables was the exhibits of the several schools in needle and basket work. An artist's hand was seen in much of this work, and the visitors upheld the ladies of the Playgrounds Association in their exhibiting the best of the display at the fair.

About 4.15 Mr. G. N. Gordon, M. P., made the presentation of the playgrounds crests given for general proficiency in sports and based also upon character and work at home. Three boys and three girls from each school received these medals and every heart beat proudly when one by one they were called to receive this mark of superiority. The pupils who received these crests in the order of their merit, that is, first, second or third, are:

Central—Percy Flindale, Joseph Rogow, Henry Zacks; Marcelline Houdrey, Marie Gardner, Lottie Zacks.

Queen Alexandra—Lloyd Parnell, John Johnston, Carl Smith; Gladys Ecobichon, Eva Davis.

King Edward—Oran Seabrook, Leo Blodgett, Milden Hall; Ethel White, May O'Neill, Marjory Mackness.

Queen Mary—Joseph Halliday, James Holland, Ernest R. Archambault; May Staples, Blanche Abbott, Marian McKennon.

Following the presentation of the crests was a lucky number contest, arranged by Mrs. Morris and Mrs. Stevenson, for special prizes donated. Queen Mary School was awarded the pennant for being the leading playground, and the pennant was run up on the flag-pole to the cheers of the Queen Mary kiddies. This is two years in succession Queen Mary has won the pennant. The afternoon's program was concluded with a multitude of sports of all kinds, in which all and sundry found much enjoyment.

Social Welfare Work Progressing

In Government statistics just issued the startling information is given that boy criminals have increased by three hundred per cent. in Canada within the past twenty years. From 1917 to 1919 twenty per cent. of the crime committed in this country has been charged against offenders upnder sixteen years of age. These increasing figures, however, are modified by two facts. One is, that since the coming of the Juvenile Courts, a great many more offenders are dealt with than formerly, and the second fact is, that all cases coming before the Juvenile Court are class as criminal, that is to say, the charge is the same whether the case is one of the violent criminal nature or merely an act of delinquency.

One of the important feature of any Juvenile Court, according to "Social Welfare," is its probation system. In 1913 in the city of Montreal only 126 boys and girls were sent to the reformatories, out of a total of 1,041 appearing before the judge, and in 1920 only 131 were sent, while 1,008 were put on probation. As a rule, not more than 30 per cent. of these cases appear before the judge again, so that it is very evident that a large amount of wreckage is saved by the probation system. Hence, it is fairly well established that the Juvenile Court, although it naturally increases the number of those brought within the jurisdiction of the law, yet at the same time prevents the great number of them from developing into actual criminals. Accordingly it is a wonderful barrier against crime.

From observation made by officers and judges of these Juvenile Courts, the following causes have been blamed for much of the child delinquency of the community: Unfavorable home conditions; mental deficiency in the youthful cases, which be helped in some instances by better environment, but in many instances were in herited weaknesses which would require careful supervision; illiteracy and idleness. Out of the number appearing before the judge of this court in Montreal during the year 1920, no less than 396 were unable to read or write. This number shows an increase, for the percentage has risen of late years in this city from 15 to 30 per cent. About 45 per cent. of those appearing in court were reported as unemployed, and 80 per cent. were addicted to the use of cigarettes. Another contributing cause, according to the social workers, in many a young boy's undoing is the "Wild West" type of mvie which appeals to his immature imagination as the real thing, to be followed out, if possible, in real life.

Anniversaries

In Germany the wedding day is called the green wedding and the chief bridesmaid—or, as she is called, the wreath-maid—presents the green Myrtle wreath to the bride. The copper wedding is twelve and one-half years after. The silver wedding, when a silver wreath is presented, is the twenty-fifth anniversary. The golden wedding, when a golden wreath is given, is the fiftieth anniversary. The diamond wedding is the sixtieth anniversary. This last is so seldom reached that the Emperor was wont to mark the event with a gift. These days are celebrated with great rejoicings and presents made in the metal appropriate to the day are received by the married persons.

In some parts of Germany the "wreath-maid" sews a small bag of bread and salt, for good luck, into the wedding dress; but this must be done without the bride's knowledge, or the spell is broken. When the wedding is to be a quiet one, with only a few friends present, a large gathering takes place two evenings before at the bride's house. The wedding gifts are then presented and a great noise is made outside the house, for good luck. Tin kettles are rattled and pots are dashed upo nthe stones. "Polter Abend" is the title by which this festive gathering is known.

The words forming the above couplet represent the twelve months, and their initial letters stand for the first day of each month. Find the Sunday letter of the year in the prayer book. That for 1887 is B. The fifth word before us, it will be seen, begins with B. It, therefore, is clear that the fifth month, or May, begins on a Sunday. The first of October falls on a Saturday, as the tenth word begins with A. The same couplet holds good for any year excepting Leap Year.

LARAMIE HOLDS THE RANGE

By Frank H. SPEARMAN.

Laramie Fights For His Life.

Speeding in a panic from what she feared might happen behind her at any moment; soon out of sight of the scene, but with ears pitched for the sound of a shot, and a volley of shots; her head swimming with excitement and her heart beating a roll in her breast, Kate urged her horse down the road.

And Belle's silence, her enigmatic face as she listened later to the story, only convinced Kate that her own apprehensions of trouble were well founded. "It's coming," was all she could get Belle to mutter, as Belle hobbled on a lame foot at meal time between the table and the stove, "but nobody can say when or where." Both the women could tell even earlier than this, from McAlpin's intimations, from watching groups of men in the street, and from the way in which those who could have no direct interest in the affairs of the Falling Wall country were hurrying to and fro, that Laramie had reached town with his prisoners and was busy getting them jailed.

Kate, stunned by her father's utter coldness in casting her out, did not want to talk about it. She had left home resolved to tell Belle everything, despite the humiliating shame of the recital. But the excitement of the ride and the stir in the town were excuses enough to put off explaining. It was possible that her father might become as ashamed of himself as she was of him—in which event, nothing said would be best.

But when Bradley stopped the ranch wagon before Belle's cottage door with Kate's suitcase and trunk, something was needed to satisfy Belle. Kate's intimation that she should spend a few days in town and might be called east was somewhat disjointed, but at the moment enough.

Concerning what was setting the town ablaze that day, only confused echoes reached the secluded women, and chiefly through the butcher, between whom and Belle a tacit armistice was soon in effect. Chops were slashed ruthlessly as he revealed the details of what was going on, and the patent block shook under the savage blows of the cleaver while the butcher hinted at things more momentous to come. From him Belle learned that Van Horn and Stone had been held somewhere up at Tenison's incommunicado by Lefever and Sawdy, while Laramie, opposed by the cattlemen's lawyer, was demanding from Justice Druel warrants for his prisoners; and that after they had reluctantly been issued Sheriff Druel had pigeonholed them until Tenison, backing Laramie, had told Druel, after a big row, he would run him out of town if he didn't take his prisoners to jail.

It was five o'clock when the butcher instead of sending over the boy, brought the meat for supper himself: "They're locked up," he said in a terse undertone as he handed his package to Belle. "There was a big bunch up there when they was put in. Some of 'em talked pretty loud about a jail delivery. Laramie stood right there to see they went into their cells, and they went."

"Were you there?" demanded Belle.

"I was."

"What did Laramie say?"

"All he said to Druel was: 'If you don't keep 'em locked up, Druel, I take no responsibility for what happens.' I come all the way from the jail with Laramie myself," recited the butcher; "walked right alongside him and Harry Tenison down t' the hotel."

Well if you walked so far with him, is he coming here for supper.

The butcher was taken aback. "How in thunder should I know?" he blurted out.

"There you go, slamming away with your blasphemy again. Couldn't you ask him?"

"Why, yes, Belle, I reckon I could. Maybe I can. Say!" he returned, after starting down the steps, to point to the package in her hand, "there's a mess o' sweetbreads in there for you."

"Shucks! I can't use sweetbreads tonight, Heinie."

"Throw 'em away then. A present, ain't they? Nobody in town eats 'em but you."

Kate unfortunately suggested braizing the sweetbreads for Sawdy and Lefever.

"What?" exclaimed Belle. "Men don't eat sweetbreads, don't you know that? You've got to give 'em steak—round steak, and the tougher the better—tough as cowhide and fried to tears. They'd be insulted. Lefever and Sawdy won't be here tonight, anyway. They're in Medicine Bend on an Indian case. All I'm wondering is whether Jim's coming."

But Laramie did not come. He spent the night at the hotel, and left town early. Next morning, when Belle heard the news of the street, she was thankful he had gone, for it was said that Van Horn and Stone were out of jail. Barb had been summoned in the night by the lawyers, and next day the prisoners were out on bail.

Laramie had made no secret of his riding north, except that, in the circumstances, he preferred to ride the night trail rather than the day trail. He wanted to look up his cattle and see Simeral, and he thought he knew Barb well enough to be sure the stock would be sent back very promptly in as bad condition as possible.

He got to his ranch in good time. There were no signs of life anywhere. Riding over to Simeral's about noon, he found his shack empty. But he found food, and cooked himself a breakfast.

While Laramie was eating peacefully at Simeral's Van Horn was with Stone and Doubleday, the three breakfasting in the back room of a main street saloon. Just what took place at that breakfast was not figured out for a long time afterward, if it really ever was. But the street heard that Van Horn and Doubleday had had a quarrel at breakfast, and that Doubleday in a rage had turned the prisoners over to the sheriff and asked to be released from his bail bond.

No news more exciting could have reached Belle Shockley. She heard the story up-street and ran half the way home to tell Kate, who remained in seclusion. Kate herself was not less excited; the news meant so much if it were true, and the butcher confirmed it beyond a doubt. By nightfall everybody knew that Van Horn and Stone were locked up again.

One man in town was not altogether at ease over the day's developments. Tenison spent much time that afternoon in the hotel billiard room, it being the best clearing house for the street gossip.

He tried more than once during the afternoon to get hold of Kitchen or Carpy—neither was in town—and with the day drawing to a close, Tenison's restlessness increased. He was standing late in the evening near a favorite corner at the upper end of the bar, and above the billiard tables, when among the crowd drifting in and out of the room he caught sight of Ben Simeral. Tenison lost no time. Without moving, he asked the nearest bartender to take a message to the old rancher. And when Simeral passed through the door leading into the hotel Tenison was behind him. He followed Simeral into the officeand back past the wash room, through the hallway leading to the sample rooms. Opening the door of the first of these, Tenison pressed a light button, and, motioning Simeral to enter, followed him into the room, closed the door, locked it, and sat down facing the rancher.

"I want to get a message to Jim Laramie. Ben," he began at once. "You know what's been going on here today?"

The old rancher nodded silently.

"Can you ride to the Falling Wall for me right away with a word for Laramie?"

Simeral said nothing, but his heavy eyes closed as he nodded again.

"Laramie's gone home. He thinks Van Horn is in jail. The story is," continued Tenison, "that Van Horn and old Barb quarreled, that they came to blows, and that Barb turned Stone and him over to Druel again to lock up." Tenison spoke, slowly and impressively. "Tell Laramie," he said, "I copper all that stuff—every bit of it. Tell him to look out. I don't know what them fellows have got in their heads; but it's something. Van Horn won't be in jail long."

"He's out again now."

Tenison eyed his meisenger steadily. "What do you mean?"

"I just come from Hinchcliffe's saloon. They've been out an hour."

Hard as the blow struck home, Tenison did not bat a lash. "We may be too late," he said. "It's worth irytng Warn Jim if you can."

"I can."

"There'll be a good horse for you at Kitchen's. Ask McAlpin for it. Tell him I couldn't get hold of a man any quicker. Will Jim sleep at your place tonight?"

Simeral shook his head. "No tellin'."

Tenison rose. Drawing from a trousers pocket a roll of bills, he slipped off several and passed them to Simeral.

"What's this f'r?" asked Simeral, looking at the money as it lay across his hand and then at Tenison.

The gambler regarded him evenly. "You're getting old, Ben."

"Not when it comes to doin' a turn f'r Jim."

Tenison literally swore the money on him. "Ride hard," he said. "An hour may make the difference."

Simeral listened to the injunction, but he was putting the money away as slowly and carefully as if the never expected to see money again. This done, he hitched his trousers, shifted his quid, pushed back his hat, and followed Tenison across the room. He was so deliberate that Tenison was forced inwardly to smile at his own exasperation. "Never get nervous, do you, Ben?" he asked imperturbably.

"Nervous?"

Tenison, unlocking the street door of the long room, only stood by with his hand outstretched to speed his laggard messenger. The old man stepped out into the night. Tenison, looking after him, shook his head doubtfully. But he was doing what he could, and he knew that though the old fellow walked slowly, once in a saddle, he could ride fast, and that for Laramie he would do it.

Laramie, after disposing of his prisoners, had ridden north with less of the hunted feeling experienced every time he mentally inventoried the rocks commanding the trail, the bowlders looming ahead of him, and the cottonwoods through which he wound his way along the creek bottoms. And when at length he looked across Turkey creek he was not surprised to see his cows straying down the hills toward their own range.

Even the bitter sight of the ruins of his cabin bore upon him less now that he had put Van Horn actually in jail for the trick. "You can't keep him here long," Tenison had cynically warned him.

"I've put the mark on him, if he's only there overnight," had been Laramie's reply. "He'll be a long time explaining! And I want you to notice, Harry, with all the fighting they've put me to they've never got me locked up yet—not for a second. I guess for that," he added, reflecting, "I ought to thank my friends."

Never so much as that day had he realized how every aspect of his situation, as he viewed it, was colored by the thought of Kate Doubleday. If he were determined that despite any intrigue worked against him he would never be locked up alive on a trumped-up charge, it was chiefly because of the disgrace of such thing in her eyes. If he avoided opportunities now of finishing with Van Horn, he knew it was chiefly because of her. She would probably never see that finish, but she would hear the story of it from his enemies. Laramie was not at any time thinking merely of being justified in the last resort, nor of the justification of his friends which would in any case be his. But what would Kate think?

Yet he knew what was ahead of him; he knew what lay at the end of the trail he and Van Horn were traveling. Lawing, as Sleepy Cat contemptuously termed it, was the least of it all, and the most futile—yet in thinking of the other, her judgment was what he dreaded. This bore on him and perplexed him. It had, more than all else, put two little vertical furrows between his eyebrows; they were there often of late. Suppression of the feeling that had always and irresistably drawn him toward her had only intensified this worry. His pride had suffered at her hands; yet he made excuses for her—he had no high opinion of himself, of his general reputation—and had built dreams on the fanciful imagining that she should, despite everything, some day like him. He wearied his brain in recalling a chance expression of her eyes that could not have been unfriendly; an inflection of her voice that might have carried a hope, if only their paths had been less crossed; and his pride, despite rebuffs, sought her as a moth seeks a flame. It drew him to her and kept him from her, for he lacked for the first time in his life the boldness to stake everything on the turn of a card and ask Kate to marry him.

Simeral had told him that John Frying Pan saw the cabin burning, and Laramie rode up to his place on the Reservation to talk with him. Failing to find him at home, Laramie left word with his wife and turned south. It was then late. The trail had taken him high up in the mountains, and he made up his mind to ride over to the old bridge, stay for the night, pick up the few things he had left there, and take them over to Simeral in the morning.

Night had fallen when, riding in an easy fashion, he reached the rim of the canyon and made his way from foothold to foothold until he came to an open ledge with grass and water for his horse, near the abutment. Leaving him in this spot, Laramie, carrying his rifle, climbed by a zigzag footpath up a hundred feet to the shelter and rolled himself in a blanket for the night.

He woke at what he believed to be near midnight. The night was cold, and he began to think about something to eat. With the aid of a candle he found bacon cached under a crevice in a baking powder can near his bunk, and found some splinters of wood. These he laid for an early breakfast fire and wrapped himself again in his blanket. He had closed his eyes for another nap when a sound arrested his attention; it was the rumbling of a small piece of rock tumbling into the canyon.

Nothing was more common than for fragments, great and small, of the splintered canyon walls to loosen and start in the silence of the night. As mountain trees withstand the winter winds only to fall in a summer calm, so it seemed as if the masses of rock that hung poised on the canyon rim through countless storms chose the stillest hour of the stillest night to ride like avalanches the headlong slopes, plunge over dizzy cliffs, and crash and sprawl in dying thunders from ledge to ledge into the river below. All these noises, big and little, were familiar to Laramie's ears. He could hear them in his sleep without losing the thread of a dream; but the echo of a single footstep would bring him up sitting.

The sound that now caught his attention had a still different effect. Listening, he lay motionless in his blanket with every faculty keyed; had a man at that moment stood before him reading his death warrant he could not have been more awake. The noise was slight; only a small fragment of rock and fallen and the echoes of its journey were lost almost at once; it was the beginning of the sound that he was thinking of—the noise had not started right. He thought of the four-footed prowlers of the night and as a cause eliminated them one after another. He thought of his horse below—it was not where such a sound could start. But always slow to imagine a mystery when a reason could be assigned, Laramie was brought back every time to his first instinctive inference. Numberless times when tramping the canyon walls his foot slipping, before he recovered his balance, had dislodged a bit of loose rock. He knew that sound too well and it was such a sound he had just heard. Beyond the sound he suspected there was a man.

He tried long to reason himself out of the conviction. For an hour he lay perfectly still, waiting for some further alarm. There was none and the night was never stiller. Nor was there any haste, even if it should prove the worst, about meeting the situation. He was not caught like a rat in a trap but like a man in blind canyon, with ample means of defense and none of escape except through a gantlet. No enemy could molest him where he lay, but he could not lie there indefinitely. And with little ammunition and scarcely any food or water, he had no mind to stand a siege.

If his enemies had actually discovered his retreat and put a watch on him, he must in any event wait for the first peep of daylight. The one chance of escape lay down and not up, and the descent of the canyon was not to be made in complete darkness. A moon would have been a godsend. It would have made things easy, if such a word could be used of the situation; but there was no moon. Acting on his premonition as if it had been an assurance, Laramie, at the end of a long and silent vigil, rolled out of his blanket to save his life if he could. He lighted his breakfast fire and fried his bacon unconcernedly. He could neither be rushed nor potted and if there was a touch of insolent bravado in his seeming carelessness he was well aware that while the appetizing odors of a good breakfast would not tantalize an enemy believing himself master of the situation, it would make him believe he had taken the quarry unawares.

Below, he felt that all was safe—no one without passing him could possibly reach his horse.

By the time the eastern sky warned him of the coming dawn he had crawled to the edge of the abutment to look down and estimate his chances for dropping to the narrow ledge on which it stood footed. Then he crawled noiselessly toward the overhead break through which Kate had plunged. The sky was alive with stars. Worming himself patiently scrutinizing the rocks commanding the abutment from above. One of these long vigils disclosed, he fancied, against the sky the outline of a man's hat.

To satisfy himself if it were one, Laramie picked up a chip of rock and flung it down the canyon wall. The suspicious object moved. Laramie slowly took up his rifle and leaning forward raised it to his shoulder. Against the eastern sky the man's head made a perfect target. It was close range. Laramie covered the hat low. The bullet should penetrate the brim just where it covered the forehead. His finger moved to press the trigger before he thought further. Then he hesitated.

It seemed on reflection like murder, nothing less. He did not know the man, though he was no doubt an enemy who had come either to kill him or to help kill him. And to his natural repugnance to blowing off the top of an unknown man's head even in constructive self-defense, there was the thought of another's view of it. This might, after all, be merely a Texan acting as a lookout. It was even possible, though improbable, that it might be Barb himself. And if the man were not alone less would be gained by killing him.

The rifle came down from Laramie's shoulder as slowly as it had gone up. He made immediate disposition for his escape. Retreating noiselessly from the opening, he found his blanket, cut from it four strips, knotted these into a rope, and, creeping to the face of the abutment, he lowered his rifle, ammunition belt, and revolver down to the footing some twenty feet below, where they hung in darkness. For himself there was nothing but to drop after his accoutrements. At one point the horizontal footing ledge below jutted out in a blunt tongue something like six feet; this tongue was where he must land; else where the ledge narrowed to only a foothold for a sober man already on it.

Laramie found an old mackinaw of Hawk's, put it on over his coat, and padding his back under it with the pieces into which he tore a quilt, strapped the mackinaw tight and returned to look over the ledge. He thought he knew precisely where the tongue lay, but wanted a little daylight to dispel any misgiving about letting go at a point where he might drop two hundred feet instead of twenty.

From the abutment the depths of the canyon looked in the half light pretty black, but its recesses hid no terrors of sentiment for Laramie. Fairly serene and stuffed in his baggy mackinaw, he lay for a few minutes flat on his stomach peering over the edge. Far below he could hear the rush of the river. Day was racing toward the mountain tops and diffusing its reflected light into their recesses. The rock tongue below outlined itself faintly in an almost impenetrable gloom. Waiting no longer, Laramie, with a careful hand-hold, let himself down over the face of the abutment and hung for an instant suspended. Loosing one hand he swung sidewise and threw back his head. The fingers of the other hand, straightened by his weight, let go.

Falling like a plummet, one of his heels smashed into the rocky gravel and he struck the ledge on his back. With such instinct as the swift drop left him he threw himself toward the canyon wall as he landed and, shocked though he was, tried to rise.

He could not get a breath, much less move. His mind remained perfectly clear, but the fall left him momentarily paralyzed. His efforts to regain his breath, to make himself breathe, were astonishingly futile, and he lay annoyed at his helplessness. It seemed as if minute after minute passed. Listening, he heard sounds above. Daylight war coming fast and every ray of it meant a slenderer chance of escape.

IMPORTANT FACTS PUBLIC SHOULD KNOW

The rapid advance of chiropractic and the increasing number of remarkable results obtained through chiropractic adjustments is responsible for the increasing number of people who are inquiring as to the origin and philosophy of it and the fitness of the chiropractor to minister to the sick and ailing. Chiropractic is based on the fundamental fact that proper enervation is necessary for the normal functioning of the human body; in other words health; also that through mechanical defects of the spinal column pressure may be brought to bear on the nerve trunks which have their exit through the foramen in the column causing a diminished nerve supply and resulting in disease, and lastly that by proper adjustment of these defects or subluxations, with restoration of proper nerve energy, diseases from this cause are cured. Spinal manipulations of various kinds have been used for the treatment of disease for many years, among the first to use it being the Bohemians and our own North American Indians.

It remained for D. D. Palmer of Davenport, Iowa, in the early nineties to place it on a scientific basis as a distinct system of healing, since which time it has advanced so rapidly that to-day it stands pre-eminently the foremost and most successful drugless method of combating disease. This success has naturally led to other drugless cults laying claim to its discovery, notably among these being osteopathy. However, nowhere in original osteopathic literature is there any reference to a method of adjustment resembling that of chiropractic. In fact, in answer to a letter regarding chiropractic, the mother school, the American School of Ostepathy, Kirkville, replied: "We do not teach the so-called system of chiropractic, nor can we tell you anything about it." From this repudiation it will be seen that chiropractic was not filched from osteopathy as they would lead the public to believe. If osteopathy is all-sufficient, embracing all there is to chiropractic and more, why do we find increasing numbers of osteopaths taking a course in chiropractic and adding the degrees to those they already have? The reason is very obvious.

As to the qualifications of the chiropractor, a glance at the requirements and studies of one of the leading chiropractic colleges will show he is given a very thorough and comprehensive training. It requires a preliminary high school education, a three-year resident course, made up of 3,068 class hours of 45 minutes each, instruction in the following subjects by specialists: Anatomy, physiology, histology, bacteriology, embroyology, chemistry and toxocology, pathology, symptomatology and diagnosis, X-ray and spereography, first-aid, orthopedy, dissection of human body, laboratory work, both chemical and microscopic. This, coupled with hospital privileges and practical clinical work on bona-fide patients places the graduate on a high plane. With this training the modern chiropractor does not believe that all diseases are caused by subluxated vertebrae, nor does he believe you can violate all nature's laws and by having your spine adjusted escape the consequences of your acts. What he does believe is that a great majority of diseases are due to improper nerve supply caused by vertebral pressure, and that by proper adjustement and restoration of nerve energy with the elimination of contributing causes the condition can be cleared up. In short, chiropractic plus common sense gets results.

The modern chiropractor, because he has been taught the value of blood tests, urinalysis, stomach analysis, etc., makes these tests when indicated, also knowing the value of diet, proper habits of living and exercise, advocates them when necessary. He makes his diagnosis from the symptoms present, verifying the same by spinal findings, thus proving the correctness of his theory, and adjusts accordingly, the beneficial results being the only recommendation he needs. From the foregoing it will be seen that chiropractic is on a plane equal to the other branches of the healing art, and chiropractors have the qualifications necessary for the intelligent treatment of diseases which come within the scope of their specialty, and as such have come to stay.

"Better Go Down and Have the Old Buss Fixed Up"

Do you ever stop to think how you are feeling to-day? Did you ever stop to think that no one in this old world can tell you how you are feeling better than yourself. Put on the breaks and slow down a minute and "get this."

Are you 100 per cent. today or are you "about all in?"

Is everything "slippin' easy" today or are you all "out of luck with "no pep," "all knocked out," absolutely rotten? Did you sleep well last night? Did your breakfast taste good even on war rations?

How did that morning smoke "set," did it taste like "clear Havana" or a poor brand of "early Dutch?"

Have you been shifting your gears easily today? Have you been able to run 'on high" and drop back into "low" without a "grind or grab?" Have you felt like a "yearling" today or like an old "stiff plug?"

"Stop and think these things over." How much shy of the 100 per cent. are you today?

Don't say, "O, well we will 'junk' this old 'boat' some of these days, then its me for the 'Golden Chariots.'"

Better shift and see if you can't have the "old buss" "fixed up" and live a lifetime here among friends.

Better suffer from "coal famine" here than to take an opposite chance elsewhere.

Don't spring that old "antiquity." "I have tried everything."

Let me ask you, did you every try "Chiropractic Adjustments?" Why don't you? Now, suppose you try it?

Don't forget that all those "little tough feelings" are the starters of something that will "get you" later on.

Anyway go down and talk to your Chiropractor, he will be glad to see you, and will explain Chiropractic to you so plain that you can understand it.

There is nothing mysterious about it. No doubt you have heard of some of the great work he is doing. Go see him and get his line. Don't say that Chiropractic is "no good." Better investigate it before you do.

Just because some one has said it was no good and has knocked it don't let that make any difference to you. Every knocker is a booster. It doesn't cost anything to see your Chiropractor and have your condition analyzed.

If Chiropractic adjustments will help you he will tell you so, if he cannot benefit you he will tell you so. He will not take a case if he knows he will not get results. Did you say why? Just because it is a poor advertisement. "Better go down and have the 'old buss' 'fixed up.'"

RIOTING MOPLAH TRIBESMEN IN INDIA PROCLAIM "HOME RULE"; SITUATION BECOMING CRITICAL

NEARLY A MILLION MOPLAHS SAID TO BE BACKING THE MOVEMENT. WHICH MAY NECESSITATE STRONG REPRESSIVE MEASURES.

700 REBELS FALLEN

LONDON, Aug. 29.—(By United Press.)—"Home Rule" has been proclaimed by the rioting Moplah tribesmen in the Malabar district of India, where the situation was to-day reported to be critical. A green emblem has been hoisted at Pallipu.

Repressive measures of a most severe character may be necessary, it was stated here to-day, owing to the fanatical character of the rioters who are of Mohammedan descent. Already nearly a score of Europeans have been massacred and about forty casualties are reported in the native regiments, and Leinster troops, who are striving to quell the uprising. Seven hundred rebels have fallen. Nearly a million Moplahs are said to be back of the "Home Rule" movement. Dissatisfaction with the Sevres Treaty is another cause of the outbreak of arson and murder which followed the agitation of mob leaders.

Ghandi, the great leader of the "No Co-operation" group, which is essentially pacific and committed to a policy of passive resistance is believed to have sufficient influence with the bulk of the natives to prevent the uprising from spreading. Already it has assume such serious proportions, however, that strong military action against the Moplahs is contemplated.

Martial law has been declared throughout the affected area.

CHARGES AGAINST WINDSOR JOCKEY CLUB DISMISSED

ACQUITTED OF KEEPING DISORDERLY HOUSE.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

WINDSOR, Aug. 29.— Charges laid against the Windsor Jockey Club, Limited, of keeping a disorderly house, "that they did use part of their premises for the purpose of recording or registering bets or wagers, and that they did keep on part of their premises a device or apparatus for the purpose of recording bets or wagers," were dismissed by Magistrate Gundy in police court this morning. Similar charges against the Western Racing Association commonly known as "Devonshire Park," were also dismissed.

In giving his decision, the Magistrate states that the only question upon these informants is whether the Windsor Jockey Club is entitled to the protection afforded by subsection 2 of section 23, that commonly referred to as the Miller Bill.

LABOR TO MEET WITH U.F.O. IN NORTH OXFORD

TWO PARTIES TO CONSIDER JOINT ACTION IN THE COMING PROVINCIAL ELECTION.

MORRISON ATTACKS DRURY GOVERNMENT

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

WOODSTOCK, Aug. 29. — At a meeting of the U. F. O. of North Oxford, held on Saturday, for the purpose of ratifying the political charter of the organization, John Lillies, of Bright, U.F.O. candidate for the Federal House in North Oxford, and member of the Executive, announced that an agreement had been reached with the Independent Labor Party and that the two would hold a joint convention in Woodstock on September 17 to decide what course of action would be adopted in the coming Provincial by-election in the riding.

J. J. Morrison, secretary of the U.F.O., was present, and in a lengthy address, he criticized some of the policies of the Drury Government, particularly the good roads policy, which, he said, was not in accordance with the policy of the U.F.O. He also criticized the sales tax, as being detrimental to the farmers.

BULLETIN!

LIEUT.-GOVERNOR CLARKE IS DEAD.

TORONTO, Aug. 29.—(Flash).—Hon. Lionel Clarke is dead.

He died shortly after 3 p.m. today, following a long illness.

Mrs. Clarke survives, also one daughter, Miss Diana. An only son was killed in the war.

The appointment of Lionel Herbert Clarke to the Lieutenant-Governorship of Ontario, was a departure from at least one precedent. The post had traditionally been regarded as a place of honorable retirement for veterans of the political arena. It had crowned the political careers of such men as Sir Oliver Mowat, Sir John Gibson, and most of the 11 men who had served in that position. Mr. Clarke was neither a decling statesman nor a politician. As a young man in 1891 he stood as a Conservative candidate in North Wellington for the House of Commons against the late Senator James McMullen, and again in 1896, but he suffered defeat on both occasions. These were his only ventures in politics, and a quarter of a century must have all but wiped out the memory of them. He was a business man who had amassed a considerable fortune while still quite young and at the time of his ap-

"Nan" is Coming Here Next Month

MASCOT OF THE 21ST WILL JOIN IN THE RE-UNION HERE SEPTEMBER 16.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

KINGSTON, Aug. 27.—It is expected that quite a number of local boys will go to Peterborough on September 16 to attend the annual re-union of the 21st Battalion Club. Arrangements are now being made by the local club to attend the re-union of the unit of the Second Canadian Division.

This is the second annual meeting of the 21st Association, which was organized at a meeting of over one hundred ex-members in the Russell House, Ottawa, on the anniversary of Armistice night, 1919. The re-union last year was held at Kingston, when Peterborough was selected for the coming event. The Kingston delegation will likely make the trip in autos.

"Nan," the goat that served as mascot for the boys of the 21st Battalion overseas, has been invited to the event. "Nan" is being kept by one of the local members of the battalion, and is a familiar figure on Stuart Street, in the west-end, where she is domiciled. She is the pet of all the children in the neighborhood.

TRAIL OF MEN WHO MURDERED OFFICER LOST

BULLET, EMPTY SHELL, KIT BAGS AND FINGER PRINTS ON DOOR ONLY CLUES, TO NAPANEE BURGLARS.

PROVINCIAL POLICE WORKING ON CASE

KINGSTON, Aug. 29. — Canadian Press.—Over the long distance telephone this morning it was learned from Chief of Police Barrett of Napanee that there were no new developments in connection with the shooting of Night Patrolman Beard, early on Sunday morning by one of three bandits in a laneway behind the jewelry store of F. W. Smith and brother.

The police of the entire district are in touch with the Napanee police and the strictest possible watch is being kept on all suspects.

Several arests have been made on suspicion, but all those who have been taken into custody have been able to give a good account of themselves and have been released.

The only clue seems to have been the bullet, an empty shell, two kit bags of military type and a number of finger prints near a door.

The car which was stolen on Saturday night and in which the bandits are thought to have escaped, has not as yet been located.

Chief Inspector Boyd, of Toronto, and Provincial Inspector A. Ward, of Belleville, are working on the case.

The funeral of the late Mr. Beard will take place at Trinity Methodist Chuch, Napanee, this afternoon, at 4 o'clock. The remains will then be sent to Thorold, Ont., for burial, where the Thorold Masons will conduct the last sad rites.

Local Police Notified.

The local police have been advised by Chief Constable Barrett, of Napanee to watch for the automobile in which the murderers of P. C. Beard made their escape from Napanee, early Sunday morning. The car is a Willys-Knight, license number 145-096.

THINKS FOUR IMPLICATED

(Special Despatch to the Examiner)

KINGSTON, Ont. Aug. 29.—The day following the tragedy of Sunday morning when night constable Richard A. Beard was shot and killed by a bandit found the people of this town stirred to the highest point. Early this morning the police admitted that they had no clue on the case and that the man who did the shooting is still at large with his pas. It is now believed by the police that four men were involved in the case and that the man armed with the gun was guarding the oher three men who were about to break into Smith's jewellry store. Chief of Police Barrett was on the job from a few minutes after the tradgedy occured until 7 o'clock this morning when he went to his home for breakfast and to take an hour's rest. Provincial detective A. B. Boyd arrived here at midnight Sunday and will work on the case. An expert on finger prints has also arrived and today is taking a copy of the finger prints found on the storm window in the rear of Smith's jewelry store.

FUTURE OF THE LEAGUE IN THE BALANCE TO-DAY

SETTLEMENT OF SILESIAN PROBLEM WILL MAKE IT GREATEST INTERNATIONAL BODY IN WORLD.

FAILURE WILL END IN GREAT DISRUPTION

BY HENRY WOOD,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

GENEVA, Aug. 29.—The future existence of the League of Nations hung in the balance to-day when the League Council met in Reformation Hall at 10 o'clock, to consider the Silesian dispute.

Should an acceptable solution to the problem which has baffled the Supreme Council be found, it was considered certain that the prestige of the League of Nations would be permanently established, while failure would almost inevitably result in the withdrawal of one or more of the big powers, causing disruption of the Assembly. The success of the present session, members said, will cause the League to become the world's greatest international body.

GENEVA, Aug. 29.— (Canadian Press.) — Solution of the Silesian question, which has puzzled the ablest diplomats of the Allied nations for many months, was taken up here to-day by the Council of the League of Nations.

Viscount Ishii, of Japan, A. J. Balfour of Great Britain; Leon Bourgeoise, of France, Paul Hymans of Belgium, Marquis Imoeriali, of Italy, K. Wellington Koo, of China, Count Quinones Le Leon, of Spain, and Gastoa Da Cunha, of Brazil, were present.

The fact that they were ready for to-day's session and were not represented by substitutes in any case, was taken as an indication of the importance attached to the Silesian question.

O. S. Matchett, Secretary.
Wm. Chas. Forde, Mus. Dir.

At the proper moment Mr. W. Forde presented Miss Campbell with a beautiful club bag. Miss Campbell, who was very much surprised replied feelingly.

The whole school then joined hands and all sang, "Blest be the tie that binds," after which the pastor, Rev. W. E. Morrow, pronounced the beendiction.

Miss Campbell leaves on Wednesday for Smith's Falls, where she enters as a nurse-in-training at the Smith's Falls General Hospital.

Handkerchief Shower.

A surprise party paid a visit Friday evening to Miss Lila Campbell, who leaves in a few days to enter as a nurse-in-training at the Smith's Fall's General Hospital and presented her with a handkerchief shower. During the evening she was also presented with an umbrella by the Cavell S. S. class of the Park street Baptist church.

The evening was spent pleasantly in music and games, after which refreshments and ice cream were served. A vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Campbell for opening their home for the occasion, after which all dispersed after singing "For she's a jolly good fellow."

No Plebiscite in Ireland to Overcome Deadlock in the Parleys for Peace

MICHAEL COLLINS, CHIEF OF THE I.R.A. AND REGARDED AS IRELAND'S MOST POWERFUL MAN, STATES SINN FEIN'S POSITION IN FIRST INTERVIEW HE EVER ACCORDED.

Editor's Note.—Michael Collins, the inscrutable chieftain of Sinn Fein's fighting force, has given an interview to the United Press stac correspondent in Dublin. Collins, who is Minister of Finance in the Republican Cabinet, as well as head of the Army, has been a mysterious figure from the time of his release from prison after the 1916 rebellion until the present truce. He is considered by many the most powerful man in Ireland to-day, exercising more influence in holding together the loosely-knit rank and file even than President DeValera.

BY CLYDE C. BEALS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

DUBLIN, August 29. — "There will be no Irish plebiscite. There is no need for one. There could be no fair one, with English troops here."

Thus spoke Michael Collins, the man of mystery in the councils of the Sinn Fein, in an exclusive interview with the United Press to-day.

Those insatiable propagandists, the Jarveys of Dublin, tell you all about Micky Collins, the almost fabulous commanding general of the "Irish Republican Army."

"Ah, there's a fine man for you now, is Micky Collins. Many's the time the military found his half-smoked cigarette, but devil a hair of the hide of Mickey," they tell you.

Your Irish jaunting car requires careful guidance, and you are nearly thrown from your seat as the iron-shod wheels rattle and bounce over the huge cobble stones, while the driver, neglectful of his steed, leans dow nto tell you of Collins' exploits.

Hairbreadth escapes by this much-sought Irish chieftain were almost nightly occurrences during the intensified warfare in Ireland which followed the declaration of martial law, and culminated in the present truce. A price was on Mickey's head. Correspondents sought him for interviews, but whereas other Irish leaders were accessible, Collins was kept carefully out of sight.

A huge figure of a man, towering above the heads of his fellow members of the Dail, his great bushy black hair waving unhampered by hat or comb, Collins came down the steps of the Mansion House pushing and jostling with other deputies, and strode away towards the Liffy, walking with seven-league strides.

I ranged alongside, and as he talked he stooped over, peering close into my face.

I asked him first to tell me some of his war exploits. He has been offered ten thousand pounds for his memoirs.

He smiled broadly beneath a tiny black chaplinesque moustache, which detracts from the dignity of his appearance.

"I can't talk about this," he said. "I must not give away some secrets."

"What about Ulster's refusal to join an all-Ireland nation, then?"

"You mustn't speak of Ulster in that regard. It's not the correct term. There are really only four counties, less than half of historical Ulster, that are opposed to Irish freedom.

"Our position with regard to these counties is perfectly reasonable. We don't wish to—we shall not—deprive them of any of their just liberties or rights. Let them accept the principle of Irish unity, and an arrangement can easily be effected.

"So long, however, as they ask the impossible, so long as they prevent Irish unity, so long as they apply religious and political tests, so long as they seek to impose the will of a minority upon a majority, just so long can they expect nothing but the reward of these malpractices.

"Let the north-east corner of our country take its stand only upon its just claims, and it will soon find out that there is no essential difference between its people and the rest of Ireland.

"It is not we, but they, who are the stumbling-blocks to peace and concord."

I asked Collins if a plebiscite will be taken now that a deadlock in the negotiations had apparently been reached.

"I think the Irish people have fully registered their opinion already in an unmistakable manner," he replied.

"There is complete unanimity from rejecting the present proposals. They constitute no basis that any self-respecting Irishman could consider. Another thing that you must remember, my lad, there can be no free plebiscite as long as these English forces are in occupation of our country." And he indicated with a sweep of his hand a little group of khaki-clad soldiers that stood curious regarding us.

"Will there be war, then?" I asked, as we reached the house on St. Stephen's Green where Collins was to take part in another of the endless conferences of the Sinn Fein's inner circle. He turned for an instant on the threshold.

"If they ask for it," he said grimly. And with a handclasp that hurt, he disappeared inside.

CONDITIONS IN GERMANY CAUSE CABINET WORRY

ULTIMATUM ISSUED TO EFFECT THAT ANTI-REPUBLICAN AGITATIONS WILL NOT BE TOLERATED.

CABINET MEETS TO CONSIDER SITUATION

BY CARL DE GROAT,
(United Press Stffa Correspondent.)

BERLIN, Aug. 29.—The German Government to-day issued an ultimatum to the effect that anti-Republican agitations will no longer be tolerated. "Assemblies of such nature will be suppressed, and those taking part punished," the ultimatum says.

CABINET CONCERNED.

BERLIN, Aug. 29. — (Canadian Press.)—Political conditions in Germany, which during the past few days have assumed a grave aspect, were considered by the Cabinet to-day. President Ebert presided over the session, which was called on Saturday, in such a way as to show that the Ministry was concerned over the situation. The assassination of Mathias Erzberger, last Friday, has appeared to have set the match to the piled-up combustibles which have been smoldering for some time and the Cabinet is believed to find itself in a serious predicament.

TORONTO BANK IS VICTIMIZED

BANK OF COMMERCE IN TORONTO ROBBED OF $35,000 BY A CHECK-SWITCHING SCHEME.

TORONTO, Aug. 29.—(Canadian Press.)— The Bank of Commerce was on Saturday morning robbed of a sum said to reach $35,000 as a result of a check switching scheme, it was learned late this afternoon.

An unknown man presented two checks for payment, one at the foreign exchange department, and in each case was told to have them marked before presenting them for payment. Later he returned with the "marked" checks and payment was given. It was later learned that the individual had no account at the bank and that none of the bank clerks had certified the checks. It is thought that he possessed a facsimile stamp and thus was able to victimize the bank.

MORE PARLEYS OVER IRELAND ARE EXPECTED

INVESTMENT OF DAIL CABINET WITH PLENARY POWERS MAKES FAVORABLE IMPRESSION.

DE VALERA AGAIN TO GO TO LONDON

BY CLYDE C. BEALS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

DUBLIN, Aug. 29.—The Dail Eriann to-day sought the semblance of a common ground upon which the discussions with Lloyd George and the British Cabinet can be resumed this week. It was a question of that—or war.

After the Sinn Fein "Parliament" discovers the British Government's nearest points of approximation to its own position, Eamonn De Valera and his colleagues will go to London, it was confidently believed.

The investment of the Dail Cabinet with plenary powers has created the most favorable impression here, as well as in London, according to reports.

DUBLIN, Aug. 29, — (Canadian Press.)—The Sinn Fein Cabinet has decided upon a reply to Lloyd George's latest note, in which it agrees to further conversations between the Irish leaders and the British Cabinet in London, it was learned to-day.

A NEW YORK VIEW.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.— (Canadian Press.)—The Wall Street Journal to-day published its first comment in regard to the Irish negotiations. The financial paper's editorial is brief and pointed. Here it is: "The Irish door is still open because the Sinn Fein dare not shut it."

Daily's Reply Soon.

LONDON, Aug. 29. — A reply from Eamonn De Valera to Lloyd George's latest note was expected to-day. The investment of the Sinn Fein Cabinet with plenary powers is regarded here as a step favorable to a peaceful settlement. A visit from De Valera and his colleagues to Downing Street, was believed likely early this week.

Lloyd George, weary with a constant succession of problems, has started on his holiday in Scotland, but before he left he advised his fellow members of the Cabinet of his intention of returning instantly if the Dail or the Sinn Fein Cabinet wanted to talk terms.

YAMAGATA CONFERS WITH PREMIER HARA

SPECULATION RIFE OVER SIGNIFICANCE OF MEETING.

TOKIO, Aug. 29. — (Canadian Press). — Premier Hara and Field-Marshal Prince Yamagata, one of the elder statesmen, had a lengthy conversation yesterday, which newspapers here understood to have been devoted to the conference on disarmament and Far Eastern questions to be held in Washington this autumn. It was looked upon as indicating that Field-Marshal Yamagata is still influential in the Empire, and aroused considereable speculation.

POWER LOSSES DUE TO LEAKS.

Good Gasketting May Prevent Many Car Troubles

Leaks mean power wasted, lost. The leak may be of water, fuel or oil, but no matter what it is it wastes power. Slight leaks here and there may cause a total loss of power that will be serious There are dozens of joints in the genine, and each one may spring a leak under certain conditions. Good gasketing is the best insurance against leaks, but it is not all the battle. The joints must be inspected frequently. If you are not sure of the existence of a leak, squirt a little oil over the suspected spot; bubbles will tell the tale of a leak. Cylinder head holding down nuts should be tightened occasionally. The inlet manifold, if it is outside the casting, should be tightened to the carburetor and cylinder block. Remove the pan under the engine and see if there is any dripping. Go over the three major systems, water, gas and oil, and stop any leak found, for oil paper gasketing is best. Use wrapping paper and be sure there is no break in the gasket at any point around the stud holes. Asbestos coated with graphite makes the best gasket for inlet manifolds, carburetor flanges and similar locations. Joints that carry hot gases should be fitted with gaskets of copper covered asbestos. In certain cars, special types of gaskets are recommended for various locations. These types should be purchased from the service stations and used as directed. The important thing is to insure against leaks, for every leak means a power loss.

BLOCKED FEED LINE PUZZLES MANY DRIVERS.

One of Most Common and Most Baffling Problems.

One of the most baffling troubles for the novice to locate is an obstruction in the gasoline line from tank to carburetor. Some carburetors have a strainer where the gasoline enters the float chamber, and others have a strainer on some part of the gasoline line. There is one on the vacuum tank where the supply from the main tank enters at the top.

These are all easily removed for cleaning but sometimes clogging occurs at the bend in the pipe, and then it is not so easily reached. In some cases the pipe line is removed from the carburetor and the operator blows back against the stoppage. This frequently loosens it and the gasoline is allowed to flow, carrying the dirt with it.

This trouble usually comes on gradually, a few pieces of lint, chaff, dust, etc., accumulating on the strainer, and not doing any harm, and there is plenty of room around them for the passage of the gasoline. But soon the accumulation allows only enough gasoline to pass through to run the engine at normal speed. The drive does not know this and when he tries to speed up the engine it does not respond.

The gasoline cannot flow through fast enough to satisfy the increased demand, making the engine sluggish. Then more dirt arrives, and the engine weakens, may backfire at the carburetor, and soon stops. Gasoline can get through, but not fast enough to supply the engine.

While the motorist is searching for the trouble, the float chamber fills and the engine may be started. This is the characteristic symptom of a clogged gasoline line. The engine stops, but may be started after a time, only to stop again. Where a strainer is easily accessible it is well to clean it occasionally, but the average operator waits until the above symptoms develop. When they occur as described above there can be no doubt about the trouble, so the only thing to do is to remove the strainer and clean it.

RUSSIAN FLEET TO BLAZE TRADE ROUTE IN ARCTIC.

Sails From Britain, Germany and Sweden For Siberia.

By LLOYD ALLEN,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Under command of the veteran Polar navigator, Captain Otto Sverdrup, a $5,000,000 flotilla of specially equipped ships is ready to start from England, Germany and Sweden into the dangerous, all-but-uncharted water of the Arctic Ocean, carrying cargoes of essential commodities for the people of far away Siberia.

This expedition is being engineered by the All-Russian Co-operative Society of London, better known as Arcos, the purchasing organization of the Russian Soviet government.

George Solomon, a director of Arcos, in an exclusive interview with the United Press, frankly explained that the hazardous undertaking is an experiment—it may not succeed.

Though every known precaution is being taken in order that the mysterious Northern route into Greater Russia may be opened to commerce of the West.

The ships are carrying a thousand and one different articles of everyday trade in America and Europe. But when the stuff is unloaded in the ice-clogged deltas of the Obi and Yenesei Rivers—far above the Arctic Circle—every article will virtually be worth its weight in gold, because the people of Siberia have been cut off from the Western world for a long time and are in urgent need of supplies of tools, household implements, agricultural machines and so forth.

Returning, the ships will bring out valuable Siberian furs, that are now being shipped to the Obi and Yenesei deltas by agents of the Soviet government at Moscow.

"From the time the boats start, we shall be in daily touch with every one of them by wireless," said Solomon.

"Three boats will leave Liverpool in August. Simultaneously, another ship departs from Gothenburg, and two more from Hamburg.

They will rendevous at Murmansk, where we intend to obtain an ice-breaker ship, which would be invaluable should the flotilla encounter frozen seas.

"Approximately 1,000 workers are now on their way to unload the boats. As a special inducement to these men we are sending on the ships some American preserves, also numerous household articles, such as needles, thread, also sugar and tea.

"The boats should get back to Western Europe in two and a half months' time. But they are prepared to remain six months if necessary."

Outward bound, the flotilla will carry 13,000 tons of railroad material, enameled kitchenware, agricultural machinery, axes, padlocks; in fact, a rather general lines of hardware.

Included in the list are 3,000 sporting rifles and accompanying ammunition for the fur hunters of Siberia.

BUD FISHER PAYS CLOSE TO $60,000 FOR SPORTING BLOOD

Mutt and Jeff Earning a Stable For Comedy Artist.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 27.—Bud Fisher has made another addition to his rapidly growing stable. He has bought Sporting Blood, the three-year-old colt which took the measure of Prudery in the Travers Stake last Saturday, from the Redstone Stable. The price was not made public, but it is understood to have been in the neighborhood of $60,000. Sporting Blood, which is by Fair Play out of Felicity, by Rock Sand, is essentially a stayer, and one of the chief reasons for his purchase was his eligibility for the rich Latonia Championship in the Fall. It is understood that all of the Redstone horses are for sale, with the exception of that fine sprinter Gladiator.

TRAIL OF MEN, ETC.

This piece of evidence was closely guarded all night so that any attempt at destroying he finger prints could be prevented. The young man taken in charge by the police on Sunday as a material witness in the case is still being held. Yesterday's report had it that he had handed the police a rifle bullet, but today it was ascertained that he had picked up a shell.

The theory of the police is that the three men who were about to break into the jewelry store made their escape through the lane way leading to Dundas Street and that the fourth man who was armed with the rifle over a barbed wire fence into a yard and then continued his way out another lane way, onto John Street. It is believed that this is he man who was seen running along Bridge Sreet shortly after the shooting early Sunday morning.

STOVE IN YOUR POCKET THE SIZE OF A WATCH

An alcohol stove that you can keep in your vest pocket! It is not a mere freak, but a practical little device that will produce considerable heat for the warming of beverages or the heating of curling-irons.

The alcohol burns through a small piece of fine copper gauze—no wick is used. A small cover fits over the top and prevents the fuel from running out into the pocket.

The device is no larger than a watch, and it may be carried about in a man's pocket or a woman's hand-bag with the same convenience.

A small charge of alcohol will bring a fair-sized pot of water to the boiling-point in a short time. Several charges of fuel will cook a meal.

Recipes

Popovers—Beat three eggs, add a cup and a quarter of flour, the same of milk and a little salt. Turn into well greased popover irons and bake in a quick oven 25 minutes. Let stand in the oven or with the door open five minutes after baking.

Nut Loaf—Mix a cup of boiled and mashed carrots, a teaspoon of minced onion, half a cup or a cup if you wish of chopped peanuts, a beaten egg, a tablespoon of shortening, a cup of bread crumbs, salt and pepper. Bake in a well greased pan in an oven half an hour. Serve either hot or cold.

Mock Lobster Salad—Boil a three pound haddock in water to cover and add a tablespoon of salt and a teaspoon of lemon juice. Flake the fish free from skin and bones and add two sweet pimento peppers cut in small pieces. Season with salt, pepper and a dash of paprika. Mix with a French or a mayonnaise dressing and serve on crisp lettuce leaves.

Popover Cream Puffs—Use the popovers that were left from breakfast and there should be six as the recipe made more than usual. Take half a cup of cream, two tablespoons of powdered sugar, half a teaspoon of vanilla extract, one teaspoon of gelatine softened in a fourth of a cup of milk 10 minutes and then dissolve in a tablespoon or more if necessary of hot water. Beat until cool, split the popovers, and fill.

BIG SCHOOL AHEAD FOR PETERBOROUGH BUSINESS COLLEGE

STUDENTS ARE ENROLLING DAILY FOR FALL TERM IN ONE OF BEST SCHOOLS IN CANADA.

Adverse trade and commercial conditions apparently have no deleterious effect on the coming year's prospects of the Peterborough Business College, Limited, which opens on August 30th with every indication for full classes this fall and winter.

Established in 1885, Peterborough has every reason to be proud of this educational institution, where, under the capable presidency and principalship of Mr. J. A. McKone, and a staff of highly skilled assistants, young men and women are trained in practical business methods fitting them for remunerative positions in offices which call for skilled help of both sexes. This college, without question, one of the best in Canada for both equipment and teaching, has earned an enviable reputation for success—success in its remarkable percentage of students who graduate, and the number of graduates placed in desirable posts. This is exemplified by some fifty-five letters on file from satisfied students of the 1920-21 classes for whom Principal McKone found openings in modern establishments throughout the country, including Montreal and Toronto, at initial salaries of from $800 to $1,560 a year, and with bright prospects ahead. Such acknowledgments—a few of hundreds—attest that Mr. McKone's interest in his students does not end with the payment of fees or graduation, but extends to their future career; and many have been placed by him two or three times.

The Peterborough Business College has successfully aimed at keeping its courses up to the requirements of modern business concrens, where its trained students have been and are in demand. Ten were placed in positions this August, and at the present rate of demand, all of the latest graduates will be engaged in a month or so; thus it will be at least four months before any other graduates are available for placing. Parents should make a note of this, and recognize the advisability of sending their young people to a modern business school with an established reputation for the highest efficiency in staff, training methods and equipment. Also that many graduates have received enough initial salary to more than pay their course before a year elapses from the date of entering school.

The school's mechanical equipment is up-to-the-hour, and consists of adding machines, typewriters, bookkeeping posting machines, calculators, dictaphone, mimeographs—in fact, with modern text books, nothing is lacking for fitting young men and young women for positions of responsibility in the business world. And as new methods and practices are introduced in business the courses here are altered to meet the changing demands.

The school has recently been renovated throughout, and in its bright and cheerful class rooms, well lighted and admirably ventilated, students are instructed under surroundings which stimulate.

Mr. McKone invites correspondence or a personal investigation, when he will be pleased to explain the courses of instruction and methods to prospective students or their parents, Peterborough Business College, Peterborough, will catch him by letter.

CROP REPORT

Below will be found a brief synopsis of telegraphic reports received at the Head Office of the Bank of Montreal from its branches. The branch managers have complete and intimate knowledge of each local situation, and are in close touch with crop conditions in all sections of the districts shown.

Prairie Provinces.

Edmonton District.—For a large percentage of the wheat crop there are no reports of damage. Oat crop promises good yield.

Calgary District.—Conditions still favourable for cutting, which is about half done. Fair to average yield.

Lethbridge District. — Fifty per cent. wheat cut. Threshing under way in some districts; in the northeast and west the returns are disappointing. The south reports good yield. Late grains have profited by the recent showers. Plenty of feed in southern districts, others short.

Saskatoon District.—With continuation of present good harvesting weather, 60 per cent. wheat will be cut by the 27th. Seventy central points report all conditions favourable, with high-grade wheat expected and yield ranging from 20 to 30 bushels.

Regina District.—Weather conditions ideal. Wheat-cutting partly completed and threshing started. Returns satisfactory. Other grain good crop.

Winnipeg District.—Grains practically all cut and threshing well advanced. Average wheat yield 15 bushels. Early marketing expected.

Province of Quebec.

Harvesting is practically completed in many districts, and reports indicate that the cereal crop generally is light. Probably 60 per cent. to 70 per cent. of average. Root crops and grass pasture have improved by recent rains. The yield of potatoes will be light.

Province of Ontario.

Harvesting is about completed. Reports are conflicting as to yield of grains. While some districts report good returns, in most cases grain is reported to be threshing out much lighter than had been expected, and the quality also is below anticipations. Corn is doing well, and promises to be the most satisfactory crop of the season. Root crops and pastures have improved where rain has fallen. Potatoes generally are disappointing. Peaches are light, pears good. Apples a poor crop on the whole. Second growth of hay is showing to advantage.

Maritime Provinces.

Harvesting operations are well under way, but prospects point to a light crop of all cereals. While the crops have been benefited by recent rain, they are not expected to produce average yield. Grass pasture shows an improvement owing to the recent rainfall. Apples are expected to be a fair crop. In Prince Edward Island recent rains have proved very beneficial to all crops, especially potatoes, and a fair yield may be expected. Grass pasture shows a decided improvement.

Province of British Columbia.

More or less heavy and beneficial rains have fallen throughout the Province, with exception of Ashcroft and Nicola districts, where rain is badly needed. Reports indicate that grains will be a good average crop. So far not adversely affected by rain. Roots are only fair, and potatoes will not exceed the 80 per cent. crop.

In Okanagan District, apples may now exceed the 1919 output. Early varieties are overrunning estimates. Pears are 15 per cent. over 1919. Stone fruits are average.

DISCOVERED IN ALLEY, BANDITS SHOOT OFFICER

NAPANEE CONSTABLE WAS SEARCHING FOR MEN ALLEGED TO HAVE ATTEMPTED TO ENTER JEWELRY STORE

STEAL AUTOMOBILE AND MAKE ESCAPE

NAPANEE, August 29 (Canadian Press). — Four burglars, thrown into a panic when they caught the first flashes from Night Police Constable R. A. Beard's electric torch in a pitch dark alleyway at one o'clock yesterday morning, cruelly murdered the officer.

Constable Beard was shot through the head, and died immediately.

His murderers escaped in a stolen automobile, and are still at large, although the whole countryside has been scoured.

Police Constable Beard went alone into the alleyway, following information that four men had been seen trying to enter the jewellery store of F. W. Smith & Son, on Dundas Street.

He tip-toed along the wall, and just as the first light from his flashlight flooded the alleyway, a gun exploded, and Constable Beard fell dead.

So quickly did it all happen that the robbers jumped, fell over the body, and sprawled upon the ground in their mad rush to reach the automobile in which they made their escape.

STRIKE URGED AGAINST TAXES

GREAT DEMONSTRATION IN FAVOR OF POPULAR COUNCILLORS---NOT RENT, NO RATES NOT TAXES STRIKE ASKED.

LONDON, Aug. 29. Canadian Press. — Labor members, comprising a majority of the muniipal council of Poplar, one of the boroughs of Metropolitan London, recently refused to levy certain rates, and in a High Court judgment delivered against them it was indicated that unless they reconsidered their decision, they would be imprisoned.

Yesterday there was a great demonstration near the Tower of London in which all the East End Boroughs participated in support of the Poplar Members' decision not to levy rates.

A huge procession was headed with a banner inscribed: "Poplar Councillors are determined to go to prison to secure equalization of the rates for poorer boroughs."

The speakers urged the East End people to begin a huge no rent, no rates, no taxes strike. They said that the movement would give labor the biggest victory ever won by the cause.

The Councillors re-emphasized the fact that they would not levy rates, and would cheerfully go to prison. It is expected that they will be re-addressed this week.

CRERAR TO GET SUPPORT FROM THE LIBERALS?

WINNIPEG LIBERAL ORGAN SAYS NORRIS GOVERNMENT IN MANITOBA WILL SUPPORT THE FARMERS.

NO DENIAL ISSUED

WINNIPEG, August 29. Canadian Press. — Political developments, looking toward the coming Federal election, moved swiftly in Manitoba Saturday. From two quarters apparent strength for the National Progressive Party emanated, giving a new orientation to the political outlook in this province.

On Saturday afternoon the Winnipeg Free Press (Liberal) announced that a decision had been reached by the members of the Norris government Cabinet to support Crerar's National Progressives when Premier Meighen goes to the country.

The story, although unofficial, and although Premier Norris and the members of his Cabinet are not talking about it for publication, has drawn no denial.

CONSPIRACIES.

Certain people have conspiracies as their obsession. Some hint vaguely that undermining all society are organized conspirators who hold dreadful secret meetings by night and circulate cunning and diabolical propaganda by day. Some profess to know of dire plots of the poor against the rich, while others rave about heartless connivance of the rich against the poor. Some give credence to wild rumors of cargoes of food burned or sunk or permitted to rot for the purpose of keeping up prices and fattening unjust gains. It must be a most unpleasant world for some people.

Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, is quoted as voicing his belief in a great conspiracy of "big business" to call off capital and shut down the industries until the hardships of unemployment force the workers to accept reduced wages. Such fearful attitudes of mind overlook the fact that most men who are in business are fond of profits and have a certain dislike for losses. Co-relative with these facts is another no less indisputable that shutting down factories, running out of orders, discharging men, breaking up organizations which have been slowly perfected through years of effort and thought and study, suffering depreciation of property, meeting interest and current obligations, losing business connection, all without income, involve not only the foregoing of profits, but the incurring of considerable loss. That all this should voluntarily be entered upon as a programme for the very doubtful gain of hiring dissatisfied labor at reduced wages is ahrd to believe.—Detroit News.

EUCLID DETHRONED.

Because mathematics were driving pupils from the high schools of Ohio, these subjects have been made optional except for college entrance. Euclid is at long length dethroned, is pushed aside to the elective list, to provide a royal road to a diploma for those students who deliberately deprive themselves of the mental exercise in concentration and application that is gained in learning how to prove that the square on the hypoteneuse of a right angle triangle is equal to the sum of the squares on the two other sides, and similar propositions.

Educationists may be right in their practice of shaping a course to suit the student, instead of fitting the student to an inflexible course. It is generally recognized that some children have special talents for mathematics and the sciences, but react hopelessly to literary and language couhses. Some latitude should be given them in their choice of subjects, but if the optional list is to be extended, as it has been in the last few years, graduates of other days may well wonder where the movement will be stopped.

Of the three R's apparently only one, Reading, is left in the high schools. Writing is practically a lost art. Arithmetic and its companions in mathematics, algebra, geometry, trigonometry and physics must go, in the Ohio high schools, or there will be nothing left of the student bodies except those who are preparing for college. So in deference to the students, mathematics are at last put in a safe place.

Evidently the example of Abraham Lincoln's diligence in study under the most adverse conditions has been lost upon the present generation in Ohio. When he wasn't splitting rails he had the option of idling or studying, and he "elected" to study. But those were the days when the little red school house never dreamed of its evolution to the stage at which it would need a spacious ground for the parking of students' cars. Considering the innumerable distractions to-day it is probably more correct to say that conditions for studyq in Lincoln's day were highly favorable.

PARKS COMMISSION NEEDED.

Eventually, the City Council will appoint a Parks Commission. Why it has not already done so might be explained readily enough, but these explanations could scarcely justify the unsatisfactoriness of the existing policy. The Aldermen themselves must realize the defects of the present system by which the personnel of the Parks Committee is changed from year to year, usually with a new chairman and a new caretaker. As a result of the probable break in the administration this year there will be no general planning during the autumn months for next spring's work. This consequent lack of continuity means a loss of effort and money, it prevents the progress a permanent board could accomplish, and it is delaying the application of efficient methods to a department, which, properly organized, will render to the city a service of accumulating value.

It is not necessary to remind the Council of the accomplishments of other towns and cities, some of them smaller than Peterboro. There is ample precedent and example throughout Ontario alone. In fact there is no occasion for arguing the question with the Council, for recent administrations have discussed it more or less seriously; but it may be pointed out that since the supervision of the parks passed from the Horticultural Society directly to the Council their have been diminishing returns from the annual appropriations, and if there has not been a deterioration of the parks properties there has been a restriction of progress that cannot be avoided under the hit and miss method now employed.

Recent chairmen of the Parks Committee, ex-Ald. John Edgar and Ald. Gainey, have faithfully performed their duties, and the several caretakers, Joseph Grierson and Frank Wise, who is now in charge, have expended time and labour that were not compensated by the money that they received from the city. They must have drawn considerably upon their love of the work to make up the deficiency in remuneration.

Probably the Council hesitates to delegate the control of another municipal department to a Commission, and some experiences that could be be mentioned might warrant their reluctance but if they will reckon the certain benefits to the city from the appointment of a Parks Commission they will not defer action beyond this year.

There is a tradition at the City Hall that inhibits one Council from committing its successor to certain changes and obligations, but in this case the unwritten rule surely does not apply.

As remarked at the outset, the inauguration of a Parks Commission must come eventually. The present Council will have nothing to regret if they do it now.

ABOUT THE RAILWAYS.

The railway situation throughout the world is in a tangle, and while Canada is endeavoring to solve the problem by taking possession of a large mileage of railway, other countries that took over the lines of transportation during the war have handed them back to private management as the best way to clear up the situation. Some time ago the United States took this step, and now Britain has followed suit, and the goernmental direction which that country assumed on August 4, 1914, the day the country entered the war, ceased.

The United States has paid billions on account of Government management, and in order to rehabilitate the railway lines—and the end is not yet According to the official figures it will have cost Great Britain for the operation of her railways more than fifty million pounds, roughly speaking $750,000,000. This amount is computed as follows:

To March 1st, 1920, the Government had paid the railroads £151,000,000. From March, 1920, to 1921, £43,000,000 was provided. From March, 1921, to December, 31, 1921, Parliament is appropriating £75,000,000.

In the last named sum is included £31,500,000 which is the first payment—due December 31st—of the sum of £60,000,000 for the railways of Great Britain, and £3,000,000 for those of Ireland as provided in the railway settlement and the reconstruction bill which will become law in a few days, and which sum is designated to cover all the outstanding claims of the railways against the Government with two minor exceptions—slight additional claims which are not yet determined, of cases where the net revenues have fallen below operating costs, and certain as yet unsettled charges for repairs and renewals, most of which however have already been paid for. Thus with £269,000,000 aleady paid for, together with the £31,500,000 yet to come under the £63,000,000 settlement, the payment by the nation will be $300,000,000.

Against this must be discharged, according to the financial department, £150,000,000 for free service rendered by the railways to the Government, such as carrying troops and war material, demobilization movements, etc., leaving a deficit of £150,000,000.

James Robinson, financial secretary of the Minister of Transports in London, says that another hangover of the war is the fact Great Britain now has three hundred very heavy locomotives on her hands, which were constructed for the great 1919 push that never happened. They cannot be sold at the present time, and there is no business to warrant their use. He gives a little inside history concerning the "push," as he calls it, by saying that one hundred trains were kept constantly ready in London to rush troops to any part of the coast where the Germans might attempt to land, and the fear of the landing, he adds, was one reason why at that time Great Britain did not send a greater number of troops to France.

The stupendous figures presented in the cases of the United States and Great Britain in connection with their railways would indicate that there was no reason for the Canadian Government to get into a panic over the situation in Canada, the result of which was the illegal seizing of the Grand Trunk Pacific and the crowding to the wall of the Grand Trunk. Had Great Britain and the United States assumed the same attitude towards their railways as did Canada there is not a line in either country that would not have been bankrupt. Capitalists who had investments in British railways and Canadian lines as well, have every reason to complain of their treatment by the Government of this country in comparison to that accorded them by the Government of Great Britain.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

LITERARY GEMS

A TUNEFUL SOUL.

In early life the great violinist, Paganini, kept a little shop in one of the narrow streets of Milan. One day a gentleman called with a fiddle to be repaired, and accidentally left a book behind him on the transmigration of souls—a subject, of all others, that interested Paganini. In a small room at the back of his ship lay his aged mother on her deathbed. The grand maestro had just finished a fine violin, and in the full persuasion of the truth of the doctrine he had read, he placed a leathern tube over the mouth of his mother at the instant of her death, and received her last breath at the G notes of the violin. This was the magical instrument with which he set out on his travels, and charmed the musical public at all the towns he visited.

PROHIBITION NOT LIKED BY SALTS.

"Gettin' So You Can't Drop a Mudhook Without Some Lubber Whisperin' You're a Rum-Runner."

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Staid old salts aren't taking kindly to all the prohibition inspection, official and unofficial, that's going on inside and out the three-mile limit.

"Gettin' so you can't drop a mudhook without some lubber whispering you're a rum-runner," said one sun-tanned skipper who recently breezed into port with his schooner aglitter with fish scales.

According to this captain and others of his calling, numberless sleuths who played the "chase-the-spy" game during the war now are bent as zealously on tracking down liquor-laden craft in post-war days.

There were spies during the war and there probably are rum runners now operating off the coast, but skippers innocent of more than a strong tea breath are complaining that even their cod and haddock now are falling under suspicion and that a reflection is being cast on the ancient and honorable calling of fishermen.

Several months ago, strange fantastic tales began coming in from the Atlantic of vessels mysteriously missing and of other vessels as mysterious sighted—the phantom craft that bobed up out of fog, circled merchant craft and scooted away as silently as they come. Pirates was the first verdict.

Then, in July, off Hatteras, was found a stranded schooner, so battered by the waves that even her name had been ground off her stern. She never was identfield before she was destroyed by a coast guard cutter as a menace to navigation, there was found in her hold a cargo of rum.

This set folks thinking and when there came from Montauk Point, on the tip of Long Island, reports of an English schooner, that lay off the three-mile limit and dispensed forbidden drinks to all comers, there were persons afloat and ashore who gave credence to the story.

Atlantic City, too, contributed a tale of a liquor schooner that lay off shore, sold liquor and tauntingly signalled to prohibition enforcement officers to come and get it.

Other schooners were reported, from Tampa north to Cape Sable, and each was suspected of rum running. In many cases, it was reported that the two-stickers had ignored signals, refused all advances and kept snobbishly on their courses.

Now hardly a day passes that some vessel reaching port somewhere does not report encountering these baffling strangers, until it seems as if the entire merchant marine of all countries must suddenly have turned to rum running for a living.

Then seizures began and to date more than half a dozen schooners are being held on technical charges. At Philadelphia, Gloucester, New Haven, Atlantic City and New York there's lying a schooner under suspicion.

The case of the Henry L. Marshall, seized off Atlantic City and brought to New York by a coast guard cutter, has aroused perhaps the greatest flurry. For she was flying the British flag outside the three-mile limit when the cutter swooped down on her, and now official Washington has been called upon to decide what is to be done with her and the liquor found aboard her. Great Britain has indicated she will enter a formal protest, just by way of showing, without animosity, that she can't approve of other nations grabbing her vessels on the high seas. Her British registry, however, has been challenged.

Federal officials claim to have evidence of a conspiracy involving prominent men in ports along the Atlantic seaboard, who are believed to have put up hundreds of thousands of dollars to sell liquor to their thirsty fellow-countrymen. The Bahamas is alleged to be the home port of a rum-running fleet. Others are believed to sail from St. Pierre, Miquelon, the French island south of Newfoundland.

Federal agents hold that evidence of a conspiracy to smuggle liquor into the country entitles them to seize craft of other nations even in the "international safety zone."

On the other hand, contention is made that it is perfectly legal for alien skippers to drop anchor outside the theoretical line and sell liquor to their heart's content to dories putting off from shore. The illegality, it is claimed, comes when the owners of these small craft don't drink up their purchases but attempt to bring some ashore for a more avid moment.

THE EXCEL CLUB.

Mr. A. J. McClellan, Branch Manager, Eastern Ontario, of the Excelsior Life Insurance Company, has returned from Montreal, where he attended a meeting of the Excel Club, an organization comprising a large and active membership of insurance writers, who gathered from all over Canada for their annual convention.

Among the speakers was the Hon. J. L. Perron, M.L.C., who emphasized the importance of maintaining a high standard of integrity and straightforward dealing in the insurance business, which he declared to be of paramount value in preserving the sound economic life of the community. He expressed high hopes for future progress in the insurance business generally, despite difficult business conditions.

Another interesting speaker was Dr. John Ferguson, L.R.C.R., Chief Medical Referee of the Excelsior Life Insurance Company, who stated that of all lines of business, insurance was the noblest, and that its adherence need never assume an apologetic air. He described insurance as a business, a science and an art, developing this theme with fiting analogies and entertaining stories.

Sir Walter Scott did not write the famous lines, "One crowded hour of glorious life is worth an age without a name." They were written by a much less famous person. Every one knows that they introduce a chapter of Scott's great novel, Old Mortality, and almost everyone supposes that they are his. He did not, indeed, say that they were his, but so many of the verses that he prefixed to the chapters of his novels—often attributing them to Anon—were of his own composition that it was easy to suppose that those were also. Now, however, a fellow Scotsman, James Rankin, of Galashiels, has discovered the real author. According to a recent letter in a literary contemporary, he discovered the original poem in which the lines appear in an Edinburgh weekly paper published in 1791, and entitled, The Bee. The poem was written by a certain Major Mordaunt, and was printed twenty-four years before Scott helped himself to the one couplet in it that had any merit whatever. Scott's sure eye had lighted on the golden nugget in the trash.

A LITTLE SET OF PAINTED FURNITURE

Chapter 49

Kent and I found great joy and interest in getting to rights and arranging everything in our new home It was not many days before the apartment was quite liveable and attractive. We decided to get all our own things to rights first, and then some day Kent promised he would meet me down town, and we would go together and buy the furniture for that other room.

"I think I'm going to like white enamel furniture for it Kent," I told him, "There is nothing nicer for a child's room. I have been thinking of bird's-eye maple but even that doesn't seem light and pretty enough.

"We can tell better when we see what they have in the stores dear," he advised. "They get up some great furniture for that sort of thing now-a-days.

And he was right.

We finally decided on the most adorable little set of yellow-painted furniture. It was the shade of spring buttercups with a fascinating design of exquisite blue pansies blending from the deeper colors to paper shades. The set consisted of a fine big crib with adjustable sides a long low wardrobe with lots of drawers in it, a darling round table with two little chairs to go with it, and other minor things such as a clothes tree, and a cunning little stool just like a great big pansy.

"What do pansies stand for, Babs?" Kent asked me after he had paid for the furniture and we were coming out of the store together.

"Pansies, dear? Why, pansies mean heart's-ease?" I answered slipping my arm through his and giving it a loving squeeze.

That night after dinner Kent finished hanging the pictures .We were just about settled and the apartment looked unusually atractive.

"We ought to have a little party sometime soon, sort of a housewarming, don't you think?" Kent suggested, coming down from the step ladder with a piece of picture wire still in his hand.

"Why, of course, and I'm so proud of the place, I enthused. "Who shall we have?"

"Anyone you say, Babs."

"The Barney's—Tom and Lillian I suggested, a little doubtful of how Kent would feel.

"All right, dear. We'll show them what kind of a home love can build," he answered, his hand on my shoulder.

"I'd love it, Kent. It would do them a lot of good. I think just the fact that we wanted them—invited them together, would make them happy.They go around so seldom together and maybe it is'nt entirely their fault. I never could understand that idea of inviting a husband and not the wife, or the wife without the husband to dances and parties and things," I decared vehemently.

"Yes, it is sort of an insult to the one that's left out isn't it, Babs, Kent acquiseced thoughtfully.

"And I want them to come to dinner too, Kent. I'll get up a dandy, little meal and perhaps offer Lillian some recipes and things and get her interested," I said delighted at the prospect.

"Why Babs, your'e a down-right schemer," Kent teased, "And you certainly know how to get around me that's sure," he added, laughingly.

AND LO! THE GONDOLA.

An enterprising London firm of boat builders is building a fleet of gondolas, patterned after the picturesque Venitian craft for use on Old Father Thames. They will be the same length and style as the gondolas of the Adriatic, luxuriously furnished, and with over-ornate guilded figureheads. A contemporary visualizes Londoners spending summer evenings aboard these be-cabined, graceful rowing craft in the glorious shadows of St. Paul's and gazing on the Campanile of Westminster Cathedral. But surely this writer cannot know what the Thames is at this point. Being born in sight of Old St. Paul's myself, I always found his shadows anything but glorious, falling as they do on a particularly unsightly settlement of tiled, slate and other structured roofs of buildings, staged amidst a setting of miscellaneous vehicular and pedestrian traffic, on the one hand, while the river here does not lend itself kindly to shadow rhapsody or the muses. Further up stream—Kenginston way, perhaps—yes, but near St. Paul's, Mr. Gondolier will have his hands full keeping out of the shadows of dirty coal-ladened barges, equally dirty and irrepressible tugs to say nothing of the "penny steamboats" who imagine they own the river. For this is a particularly busy spot, teeming with a heterogeneous assortment of watercraft—but few on pleasure bent—and presenting a scene far removed from the days of good Queen Bess, when the shadows of St. Paul's may have been defined as glorious and inspiring.

However, our friend's mistake lies most probably in glorifying the "shadows" of St. Paul's instead of the building itself; and that is not so bad as the stupidity of the one-time pompous, bloated, city of London Alderman, who managed to emerge into the limelight as a stupid ass indeed, many years ago, when a proposition was before the metropolis' Aldermanic Board to secure a couple of dozen Venitian gondolas for the Thames and, perhaps, the Serpentine.

And here this worthy representative of England's chief borough rose in his majesty of over-fed avoirdupois and asked in all seriousness, "Why get two dozen? Suppose we buy a male and female gondola and let 'em breed." (Curtain).

This reminds me of another fine specimen of intellectual manhood, the caretaker of Hyde Park, London's fashionable resort, the scene of the famous "Rotten Row" drive—only his mistake was rather tragedical, as follows:

Through Hyde Park there runs a canal or sheet of water—in the shape of a miniature lake at one point—ornamentalized for pleasure. On it there swam—in my time at least—tame water fowl, including the stately swan, who, by the way, at a distance does not look unlike a dwarfed gondola. In London, when skating is available, and that is not very frequently, these frost-kissed waters are made the most of by skating enthusiasts—men, women and children. One winter, Jack Frost being unusually kind for a couple of weeks, the Serpentine was thronged daily and nightly by a happy galaxy of skaters, and refreshment vendors plied a profitable trade from stalls—on the ice, of course, for novelty. Well, to make a long story of tragedy short this imbecile of a caretaker and his help succeeded in cutting the ice from around the shore, for the most part anyway, opening a channel to accommodate the park's feathered pets. Then one day something happened, as something often will, to attract the crowd to one side of the ice, which, lacking firm shore anchorage, naturally toppled, precipitating its living weight of humanity into the freezingly cold water, en masse, so to speak, and cruelly crushing and grinding them beneath and between high masses of broken ice. And many were drowned and others severely injured, although the water was not of great depth then in spots. I am giving the story in a traditional way, not having the facts before me, but in substance it is correct. Since that regrettable occurrence the waters of this Serpentine have I understand, been shallowed to a 'safety-first" depth.

RELIGIOUS FANATICISM.

Again Britain seems threatened with another Indian mutiny or outbreak, and it is to be hoped the horrors of 1857 will not be in any way near repeated. As that appalling uprising in India 64 years ago originated from an unfounded rumor, circulated by religious fanatics, that the fat of pigs and cows was being used by the British to lubricate the cartridges used by native troops, so the trouble now is reported to be the work of religious or cast fanaticism. The fat of pigs is hateful to the Mohammedans, and the fat of cows is equally detestable to the Hindus—to touch this matter means to lose cast and to become defiled.

Cast is a serious thing with the Hindu, full of superstition and quite ludicrous to Christians. For instance, one cast of Hindus take every precaution that the moon shall not shine on their bodies, in fear of losing cast and all hope of a happy eternity. Let me cite an instance of this cast importance to these people by an incident I can vouch for. He, my boyhood chum, was with three other young imps of mischief, apprentice on the steamer "City of Calcutta," sailing from Glasgow to Calcutta, India. On his first voyage, when in Calcutta, he thought he would put the cast principle to the test. And so, seeing the coolies aboard unloading freight, and understanding their antipathy to pork for fear of losing cast, he, in imish curiosity, dared a fellow bright young budding sailor boy to let the ship's pigs loose to see what would happen. The latter took the dare, and in short order half a dozen fattening grunters were invading the naked legs of horror-stricken natives—and a good deal happened. Those startled coolies leapt and jumped and yelled, and tore around the decks like madmen. Overboard went some, regardless of sharks, up the ratlins scrambled others while not a few jumped into the hold, fortunately not cleared much of its freight. My chum was then quite satisfied that some coolies would go the limit to avoid coming in contact with the fat of pork, dead or alive, but his Captain had considerable trouble in persuading the authorities to let the matter blow over. The result was that those mischief-loving young apprentices were denied shore leave for fear that some avenging angel might make, as the saying goes, pork of them.

STEEL CORPORATION WAGE REDUCTION

STATEMENT ISSUED BY CHAIRMAN JUDGE GARY REGARDING REDUCTION EFFECTIVE TO-DAY.

Last Friday evening E. H. Gary, chairman of the U. S. Steel Corporation issued a statement announcing a reduction in day labor rates of wages from 37c to 30c an hour, effective from Monday, August 29th.

Judge Gary's statement follows:

"In view of the prevailing low selling prices of steel as compared to costs of production, it is necessary to make reductions in wage rates, and therefore we will recommend to subsidiary companies that the general rates of day labour be decreased to 30c per hour, to become effective on Monday, August 29, and that other wages and salaries be equitably adjusted."

This is equivalent to a reduction of about 20% from the time established on July 16 when "time and a half for over time" was abolished, and after the present cut goes into effect common labor will get $3 a day for a ten hour day.

The new rate of $3 for a ten-hour day compares with the high rate of $5.06, established February 1, 1920, when the hourly rate was 46c an hour with time and a half paid for the two hours extra work over the basic eight-hour day. This rate was reduced by 20% on May 16, 1921, bringing the hourly rate to about 37c an hour with time and one-half still paid. On July 16, 1921, the time and one-half was abolished, and this was followed by the present cut.

Thus the new rate will mean the day laborer is getting a little over 40% less than he drew during the peak wages following February 1st, 1920.

In 1915, however, the day laborer drew but $2 for a ten hour day. The new rate of $3 a day is 50% higher than the 1915 wages.

Following table shows the wages of common labor after each advance or decrease in wages by the United States Steel Corporation, the percentage of each advance or decrease, and the cumulative percentage of each advance, or decrease over the 1915 rate:

QUIT MEAT IF YOUR KIDNEYS ACT BADLY

Take tablespoonful of Salts if Back hurts or Bladder Bothers.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the badder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionlly to keep the kidneys clean and active.

THE ROSE.

While earth was sleeping in the opal dawn
She dreamed of beauty, for a presence bright
Laid on her breast a rose, but in the light
She wakened and her angel guest had gone.

Then softly o'er her senses, like a prayer,
A perfume drifted, known in paradise
As incense of love's holiest sacrifice—
An evanescent fragrance sweet and rare

O loveliness, too soon to disappear
The wildering grace that wraps the rose's heart
Is yet the ultimate despair of art—
A pearl sun-glistening in an angel's tear.

These petals shame mortality and blight;
But beauty lusters Love's most transient thought.
Although therein our senses have but caught
One flash of splendor on the wing of night.

He Will Think It Over

THE SUN LIFE OF CANADA rejected 1,506 applicants for Assurance last year, who thought it over a little too long. Every man thinks it over on his deathbed—some with satisfaction and some with sorrow. It will cost more next year than this year, and the probability of securing Assurance now is greater than it will be then. If he needs it tomorrow, he needs it today.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Peterborough, 28th August, 1921.
Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—Regarding the placing of contracts with foreign firms, I enclose the following case:

The London County Council (England) attempt to justify their placing of a contract of about £40,000 for a turbo-generator set for Greenwich Power Station with a Swiss firm, by the statement that they have saved the ratepayers £7,000 by refusing English tenders.

Actually, according to the chairman of General Electric Company —whose figures seem to be beyond dispute — the country is losing £25,000 by this work being sent abroad—£15,00 to £18,000 in direct wages to engineering trades, and another £10,000 in wages spent in raw materials.

No wonder we have labour troubles and work is hard to find. And what about the additional money lost in unemployment doles?

The above is taken from almost the foremost leading weekly paper in England, and having a circulation of over two million copies weekly.

Apparently the accusation against the L.C.C. foreign contract, made by such an experienced person as the chairman of the General Electric Co., seems only too true. Factories are depending on the patriotism of the people to support them, to enable them to keep their working men employed. The business men are relying on the factories and their working men to keep their concerns going. Still people will patronise foreign firms at the expense of home industries (when the articles can be produced) decreasing trade in their own country, bolstering up foreign firms and foreign working men at the expense of their own.

It is unjust to the firms who may be unable to compete with foreign labour and foreign wages—without degrading their working men to the scale of many foreigners.

It is both unjust and unpatriotic to the working men and their families, and should be studied by those in authority, before deciding to patronise foreign firms instead of their own.—Yours,

C. Duggan.
104 Stewart Street.

FASHIONS IN SKIRTS TO FOLLOW LAW OF GRAVITY

There is one clothes question that is at the moment uppermost in the minds of nine women out of ten: "Are skirts really going to be longer?—and if so, how much longer?"

Not in years has a fashion verdict been awaited with so much interest.

The short skirt has been so popular—so comfortable and, to most women, so becoming that quite naturally there is a reluctance to part with it and a horrible vision of trailing lengths that sweep the dust.

But it isn't so bad as all that—in fact, it isn't bad any way you look at it.

Longer, translated, means eight inches off the ground for street clothes—not much chance for dust sweeping there—and two to four inches for the evening.

This change may seem sudden to some women, but like all of fashion's moves today it really is quite gradual, and truth to tell quite logical.

Vogue announced definitely as long ago as September, 1920, that skirts were growing longer, and has reported steadily ever since just how the all-powerful French dressmakers were conspiring to accomplish this end with no abrupt shock to their customers.

Every one remembers quite plainly the floating wisps of crepe de Chine or chiffon which first became the fashion in the spring of 1920. Little did women know, when they accepted this vagary of fashion, just how much they were letting themselves in for. It is true that they noticed that these wisps hung below the skirt proper, but then it was still a short skirt. Then, somehow, there were more wisps—pretty things, and often they hung down farther than they had at first—but, of course, the skirt proper was short. Then, all at once, panels which hung at either side joined the brigade of wisps—but, of course, as the dressmakers explained quite convincingly, you couldn't expect to have wisps of cloth—and since you'd become accustomed to wisps, you just naturally had to have something—so why not panels? As the season advanced, these panels grew more definitely in character, and the eye saw them and lost sight of the once-important skirt underneath until, today, last year's straight-line short skirt looks decidedly out of style and the long skirt has very definitely arrived.

Next in importance to skirt lengths, comes the question of silhouettes. Time was when one said "the silhouette"—but those simple days when a single silhouette dominated the season's fashions have passed until today we have almost a half dozen from which to choose, each playing its very definite part in the scheme of things.

First comes the suit, which, due to Parisian enthusiasm, is perhaps more popular than in several seasons. This year, it is made, very likely, of kasha cloth or broadcloth, called back into favor. Its coat may either be straight and beltless or with a slightly curved waist-line and godets on the side, but flat back and front. Its color is black, black combined with grey, very dark red, or the new Madeleine blue. Its skirt is nine inches from the ground.

Vying with it in popularity is the coat-dress, a real feature of the coming season, with its high collar of fur, lowered waist-line, defined by a gleaming steel belt and sometimes embroidered in cut steel beads, its long sleeves, its fuller and longer skirt, its deep, rich color further enriched by peasant embroidery.

Next comes the afternoon dress, offered in several interesting silhouettes, but best liked, perhaps, in two. One is in the real peasant spirit, with its characteristically long, loose, bloused lines, straight wide sleeves, lowered waist-line, a sash loosely knotted about it, a full, but straight hanging skirt, uneven of hem, and with touches of embroideries reminiscent of southern Europe adding to its colorful effect. The other is the straight silhouette which retains many of the features of last season's chemise dress, falling straight from the shoulder and simply belted with one of the new metal girdles. This is the most conservative silhouette, but the least new in effect. Because of its generally wearable qualities, it is likely to be the most worn. Then, for evening comes the Greek silhouette, a lovely thing of grace and charm—ideal for the dinner-table or the theatre. In white or delicate colors and soft patternless fabrics, it is apt to be sleeveless and may be either straight and pleated or faultlessly draped. The Grande Semaine in Paris, that last week of the races which is so smart both as to events and as to the modes which it brings out, proved the power of this Greek gown as its white length trailed through the marvelous riot of color at the various evening affairs.

In that same week was introduced the silhouette of the Italian Renaissance, its decorative possibilities and unrelieved straight lines best exemplified in gleaming brocades of velvets, its style best suited to the evening.

Then, to top it all, as if this were not enough, we have the Spanish silhouette and the general Spanish influence on the mode. This has made necessary something to define the waist-line, something which may be called a corset, but is more correctly a girdle.

It, too, is seen at its best in evening things, for there it gains its proper background and has a setting which compliments its delicate bouffant silhouette, a lovely thing of tulle and lace of flowers.

Flowers are one of the high lights of the mode. They will be used not only as girdle and trimmings on our frocks, but they are to be very much featured in our coiffures, a charming custom that was often in fashion during the Civil War, and again, in a lesser degree, when the bustle ruled the mode.

The head-dress is one of the most interesting ideas of the moment. Paris has been wearing it for a couple of seasons, and New York first took it seriously last winter. Its name is legion—it varies from the simplest laurel wreath to a Bachanalian head-dress, a mass of jewels and color.

Naturally, earrings accompany it frequently, for even if we do not go so far as to show our ears, as Paris would have us do, at least we acknowledge them with earrings.

Fans, which have such possibilities of adding coquetry and charm, will be carried everywhere. Odd primitive designs in feathers, as well as those of the delicate Louis Sixteenth period, with its fragile charm, vie with the vivid qualities of the Spanish type.

Hats for the evening, absolutely distinctive from the others, were seen at every restaurant in the Bois in Paris late in the summer. Maria Guy was the originator of many of the becoming, large-brimmed, black hats, whose most lovely lines came from the drapery of the lace, heavy and Spanish in pattern, which fell from the brim to the waistline. For the daytime, small velvet toques, with high trimming in the direct centre, and very swathed turbans, in fuchsia tones of violet and red, are worn most effectively with the ever-present earrings.

Belts are more noticeable than they have been in some seasons. Gleaming metal or gay, colored belts in the daytime, soft sashes in the afternoon, and everything from flowers to jewels at night.

Sleeves, too, demand attention—always long for the street, sometimes narrow, sometimes wide, sometimes a slashed musketeer, thin for afternoon, and sure to be colorful. Sometimes half is of one fabric, half of another, again, part is embroidered in color.

Thus we have a season which offers a variety of silhouettes to suit every type and every occasion, and which introduces a longer skirt, but lengthened so subtly, so gracefully, and, withal, in so wide a variety of fashions, that one can but accept the verdict with thanks.

THE SILHOUETTE OF 1920 AND OF 1921.

Last year's very simple black frock, so popular as to become almost a uniform, was noticeable for its round, collarless neck, its very brief sleeves, its short round length skirt, and its general air of unpretentiousness.

Madeleine and Madeleine proves the length to which fashion has gone, in a season, in this coat dress of Polish inspiration. The color is a dull green, with self tone embroidery: the skirt is short in front and long on the sides. Fur is used at the throat and wrists. It is a far cry from the little-black rag of six months ago.

THE "DOUGH KNEADERS" PICNIC

PLEASANT TRIP ON SATURDAY TO WALLACE'S POINT—LARGE ATTENDANCE AND GOOD RACES.

Yielding to the invitation extended to me by Commodore Young of the Stoney Lake Fleet, as also by the gentlemen forming the committee of the Break and Cake Bakers' excursion, I found myself once more aboard the "Stoney Lake," on Saturday last, around the hour of half past one.

There was a goodly company on board. Last year the bread and cake makers and the bread drivers had a combined outing and very successful it was, too. Yet this year, for some reason best known to themselves, the drivers preferred to make Thursday the day of the outing. The bakers could not agree to this for a very sufficient reason. They have to work on Thursday nights but not on Saturday. Had they pleasured on Thursday, it would have been up to them to go right away from the boat to the bake house, else where would our Friday supply of fresh bread be? So the drivers went ther own way on a Thursday, and the bakers went their way on Saturday. I have said there was a goodly company; for the dough kneaders alone had within a score of the number on board last year, when the two branches of the bread trade were combined. And a jolly, happy party they appeared to be. The bakers evidently believe and obey the Divine command to "increase and multiply," for there was a considerable number of children aboard—well behaved children, too, who did not run about and make a noise to the detriment of their parents' and friends' pleasure. Yet the kiddies seemed to be thoroughly enjoying themselves—bless their dear little hearts.

At 1.45 p.m. the starting whistle blew; shortly after we called in at East City wharf for a further contingent; thence to Street Railway wharf, where a few more were taken on board. Directly the boat left the George street wharf, Mr. Chas. Tucker (violinist) and Mr. Thos. Taylor (piano) struck up, and at once several couples were enjoying dancing, and he it said that they danced all the way there and all the way back. They thoroughly enjoyed it and I'll dare bet the dancing ately, no "kill-joys" or dour-faced sically, to a single soul participating in it. Anyway there were, fortunately, no "kill-joys" or dour-forced psalm-smiters on board to hold up their hands in ultra-pious horror. We learn from Holy Writ that, on the deliverance of the Israelites from the bondage of Egypt, Miriam the prophetess ,the sister of Aaron (the high priest) took a timbrel in her hand ,and all the women went out after her with timbrels and dances. So afterall dancing is not a modern idea of so-called effete times, but a thing countenanced by Moses— the chosen agent of the Great Deliverer —and presumably by the will of the Great Deliverer. Simultaneously with dancing a bevy of fair girls perambulated the decks intent on selling cigars, cigarettes, ice cream, candies and such like commodities to willing purchasers.

The trade, calling, occupation or profession—call it what ye may—of the Baker is one of great antiquity. We read in the Book of Genesis of the chief baker of Pharoah. The ruler of the Egyptians became wroth against two of his officers, against the chief of the butlers, and against the chief of the bakers. The latter officer, unfortunately, was hanged. They had dreamed dreams; but as the interpretation of the baker's dream was not pleasing to Pharoah, the unfortunate baker was hanged on a tree.

Wallace's Point was reached at 3.15 p.m. after a pleasant trip, for the light, southerly wind had blown away the clouds and the sun shone out pleasantly. It was a perfect afternoon, neither too hot nor too cool. Everyone went on shore at the Point—which is just an ideal spot for a picnic. Here are swings and see-saws and various other amusements of that type. Mr. "Probs" had prognosticated rain towards evening, but he kindly withdrew his promise, to the great satisfaction of all concerned. A big programme of sports had been prepared, and really good prizes were liberally provided. These various events afforded a great deal of amusement. Not the least was the "tug of war," in which the bread makers were defeated by the apparently lighter cake and pastry cooks. A children's tug of war was also provocative of a deal of amusement, as were also the kiddies' races. Likewise the backward three-leged race, the boot race—where the competitors took off their foot gear. They had to run a certain distance, retrieve their boots from a spot where they had been made into what printers know as "pie," lace up their boots and race back to the original starting point. The needle and thread race also produced a lot of merriment. Of course, the pie-eating contests—one for males, the other for females—naturally afforded much fun.

The "events" being concluded, there was a general stampede for the steamer, where suppers were the order of the day. By the kind invitation of Commodore Young, the writer of this was invited as a guest to the Captain's table in the saloon, and right heartily he enjoyed the good provender placed before him.

At 6.45 the return journey was commenced, and George street wharf reached at 8.15.

It is almost needless to say that, as usual, the utmost care, courtesy and attention were experienced at the hands of Captain Scollard and his officers and crew, who add so much to the pleasure of the passengers carried by this able and experienced pleasure steamer officer.

The following is the programme of events—twenty-five in number:

Stock & Sons, and Mr. Hamilton, of the Quaker Oats Co., for the able and successful way in which they handled the races and kindred events.

One may well repeat the words of the hand bill, "Come with the Baker's. . . . They knead the dough," and judging from results they got in "the dough."

SHE WAS READY TO GIVE UP HOPE

TORONTO WOMAN SUFFERED TERRIBLY FOR SEVEN YEARS FROM RHEUMATISM—TANLAC RESTORES HER.

"When anybody has had rheumatism for seven years and finds something that brings entire relief it would be wrong not to tell about it, and that is why I am willing everybody should know about my wonderful experience with Tanlac," said Mrs. Ethel E. Wenlock, 52 Roxton Road, Toronto, Ont.

"My trouble started with my right shoulder and then spread to my left hand and side. On the back of my hand was a swelling as big as a hen egg,and my feet were swollen too, so bad I couldn't put on my shoes. I was better some days than others, but I was never entirely free from pain, and in damp, rainy weather my suffering was intense. Often I could not sleep at nights on account of the pain.

"The liniments and medicines I tried did me no good, and I was about ready to give up when I decided to try once more and got Tanlac. The first thing it did for me was to give me an appetite and improve my digestion. Then I began to feel new strength and energy, and the pains and swelling began to leave me. I haven't a trace of rheumatism now, and I feel so well and happy I can hardly find words to express my gratitude. Tanlac is certainly the best and grandest medicine ever made."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by the Warne Drug Co., Ltd., and by leading druggists everywhere.

UNDETERRED BY SUTHERLAND REPORT, TORONTO DIPS DEEPER INTO PUBLIC OWNERSHIP---$10,000,000 INVOLVED

ENTIRE STREET RAILWAY PASSES INTO CITY'S HANDS NEXT THURSDAY, INCREASING TORONTO'S INVESTMENT IN PUBLIC UTILITIES TO NEARLY $80,000,000.

TORONTO, August 27. — By Canadian Press.—Undeterred by the report of a special commission declaring the general Ontario Provincial hydro-radial programme economically unsound, the city of Toronto on September 1st, dips into public ownership to the extent of another ten millions or so. The entire street car system, now in the hands of the Toronto Railway Company, will on that date pass over to civic ownership.

When the city has taken possession of the local Mackenzie light and power plant, and the York radials, under the so-called clean-up deal, and purchased the street railway, which it expects to take over on September 1st, it will have well on to eighty millions of dollars invested in public utilities.

Here is how the impressive total is made up:

Local light and power plants	$19,000,000
City's share of generating and transmission plants, Niagara	29,000,000
Civic car lines	2,500,000
Toronto Railway System	10,000,000
Waterwarks system	17,000,000
Civic abattoir	400,000
	$77,900,000

This vast amount does not include Torontos share of the Hydro's Chippawa canal, which may run from fifteen to twenty-five millions, nor the millions of dollars invested in the Canadian National Exhibition, harbor works, fire protection, parks, and so on.

The abattoir and the civic car lines have shown deficits every year. A few citizens have complained. The majority appear to have been satisfied because the railways were stub lines built in the outer districts where the company refused to operate and the City Council did not expect them to pay more than operating expenses until the private franchise expired. As to the abattoir it was regarded as a partial protection against the profiteering in meat and against the selling of unwholesome meat. Last year the abattoir paid its way.

The city's experience with the publership of power and light accounts for much of the enthusiasm for public ownership. During the last ten years, on an investment of eleven million dollars in the local Hydro, Toronto has saved in rates to its own customers twenty-two millions of dollars, in addition to the millions saved by the customers of the private plant through the forced reduction of rates. Now the city is buying out the private plant, for about eight million dollars. This is expected to save in overhead, etc., about half a million dollars a year, which alone is the equivalent of more than $4.00 per horse power. Needless duplicate capital investment of the same amount yearly also will be avoided. A further advantage is that the city will be spared the necessity of linking up the street railway with the existing Hydro system at a cost of more than two million dollars.

The city's share of the Mackenzie generating and transmission plants works out to $16,000,000, in a total of twenty-two millions, the other Hydro municipalities in the Niagara system assuming the remainder. This big sum does not stagger the citizens because they not only have not felt the burden of the thirteen millions already invested in generating and transmission plants, but have experienced actual relief in the cheapening of light and power.

It is worth noting that the city already pays as its share of the proportion of water rentals to the province, as its share of the proportion of water rentals to the porvince, $71,000 per year, and in taxes to the municipalities on its Hydro plants $62,500. The street railway is now paying $25 per horse power for its current but when it is municipally owned and gets Hydro power after next September the cost may be reduced $4 or $5 per horse power.

A picturesque feature of the big deal is that Toronto thereby was made the more or less reluctant purchaser of nearly one hundred miles of radial railway. These lines run on the highway to the city limits on the east and west, and from Lake Simcoe to a point about four miles within the city boundaries on the north. The radial cars, however, are to stop hereafter at the northern limits, which means a long freight haul down town by truck. The municipalities through which the northern line or Metropolitan Railway runs are to have the opportunity of joining the city as part owners.

The Ontario Hydro Commission is to operate the three radials on behalf of the city. Sir Adam Beck is fearful that the city cannot make them pay unless they get to the waterfront at the foot of Yonge street and link up with one another. The provincial government, however, is refusing to guarantee the cost of construction with that end in view, urging that it should be a purely Toronto proposition.

Recently the adjoining County of York has shown some disposition to become a joint owner of the Metropolitan Railway. The line is of standard guage and the Toronto street railway is of different guage, and will remain so. If the city continues to be the owner of the standard guage railway it is likely to acquire lands for park purposes some miles out of the city and move one rail of the radial to fit the Toronto street cars, so that excursions can be run out into the country by arrangement with the civic transportation commission, which will operate the street railway. But freight and ordinary passenger traffic will have to transfer or go by a roundabout route on the east to the bay front.

Make the Crowd Follow Your Path

Emerson said that if a man made a better mousetrap than his neighbor the people would beat a path to his door to buy it. He was wrong.

Selling strategy must overcome competition in the open market.

A man today must first make a better mousetrap—then take it to the public—tell them why it is better—what it costs—and where to buy it.

Does your sales manager realize that a 10,000 line campaign in every daily newspaper in Canada costs less than the three-cent stamp on one letter to each family.

Make the crowd follow your path to the retail store.

GERMANS MUST PAY FOR AMERICAN LIVES LOST ON LUSITANIA

NO RETURN OF GERMAN PROPERTY UNTIL REPARATION MADE.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—(United Press.)—Germany must pay for the American lives lost on the Lusitania and satisfy all other claims of the United States and its citizens for war losses caused by the ex-Kaiser's Government before German property now held by this Government will be returned, Thomas W. B. Miller, Alien Property Custodian, said to-day.

The present German Government, Miller pointed out, has agreed to this in the new treaty with Germany, but he emphasized that no steps toward the return of German property be taken until actual payments have been made of all just claims by the Ebert government.

SPECIAL TRAIN TO CAMPBELLFORD DISTRICT.

The directors of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition are expecting a big crowd from the Campbellford district on the second day of the Fair, Thursday, September 15th. During the past summer, owing to the success of the Campbellford lacrosse team, a great many followers of the game in Peterborough have been much interested in the games in the district, and have attended games in Campbellford, while Campbellford citizens have come in goodly numbers to games in Peterborough. There is getting to be quite a close connection between Peterborough and Campbellford during the past year, and the number of people expected from the district to the Fair, it is felt, will be very large. The Fair Directors have arranged for a special train from Peterborough to Campbellford on September 15th, leaving Peterborough at 10 o'clock p.m., so that those who attend will be able to see both the arternoon and evening performances.

BODIES IN FRANCE KEPT 1,800 YEARS.

Woman's Features, When Body Was Exhumed, Found Perfectly Preserved.

Eighteen hundred years ago the woman of France was just as interested in her personal appearance as she is today and, comparatively speaking, as well equipped with toilet accessories. Several old stone coffins, recently discovered by chance in the district of Martres-de-Vayre, with bodies held in a wonderful state of preservation for 1,800 years, have yielded a perfect treasure-trove of women's ornaments, little vases and crocks and many other toilet accessories, ornamented linen and outer clothing as well as beautifully made sandals. The long black hair on the head of the body in one of these tombs was gracefully braided and arranged. In another, an older woman had an artificial braid woven in with her own natural tresses.

The find, which is put back definitely to the first century by the coins found in the coffins, is described in The London Telegraph as due to a lucky stroke of a pickaxe. Something hard encountered in the earth by a number of men breaking ground with pickaxes proved to be a Gallic-Roman stone coffin. The pickaxes were plied more carefully and the lid lifted.

"The cover when raised revealed a beautiful woman," says the report, "the flesh as perfect as it had been on the day of her death and her long plaited black hair arranged around her pillowed head. The vision only lasted a few minutes, and then, before the eyes of the workmen, the flesh, under the warm sun, crumbled to dust and soon there was nothing left but a skeleton robed in a serge dress."

The phenomenon as described from a report made by M. Auguste Audollent, points to the emanations of carbonic acid gas from neighboring mineral springs as the solution of the mystery. The body had lain in its stone receptacle for 1,800 years, the carbonic acid gas having driven out all the air, the result being that the body was not mummified, but conserved with everything buried with it.

Further excavations were at once pursued and five other tombs discovered. In one lay the body of a fair-haired young woman, dressed in white, on whose feet were sandals of particularly beautiful workmanship. Another woman, a little girl, and an old man with a beard were the occupants of the other coffins. All the bodies were reported to be in a perfect state of preservation.

French scientists are quoted as expressing the opinion that never have bodies and articles of this period been found in such perfect preservation. Fruits hardly shriveled and a sprig of some shrub still green were found in the tombs, in addition to coins, vases, crockery, baskets, many little toilet accessories and women's ornaments, and the linen, clothing and shoes. Scientists, it is said, will be able to study the latter and ascertain the exact facts regarding their manufacture at that far-off period.

Officials of the American Museum of Natural History here thought that the preservation of the contents of the tombs since the first century might be due simply to the fact that they were kept dry and that no outside moisture got into the coffins. In such a case, while the tissue of a body would break down, it would occupy more or less the same position with only a very slight shrinkage for the moisture drying out, it was said.

The so-called mummies found in Southwest Peru were cited as examples of this type of preservation. These are not true mummies, but bodies placed in the dry sand, where no rain ever falls. These so-called mummies are found in the strip along the coast where the water comes down in streams from above, but never in the form of rain.

Putting the body in the dry sand, where no moisture got at it, preserved it, with its clothing and any accessories buried with it, in good condition. If abruptly moved, of course, after it was exhumed it would "more or less fall apart," said a museum official.

Mr. Wissler of the Department of Anthropology recalled an incident that occurred at the museum which even more nearly approximated the disintegration of the apparently well-preserved body of the woman of Roman Gaul.

"We had a lot of Preuvian bodies in tin cans piled on top of cases in the hall at one time," he said. "Care is taken not to knock or jar these containers. One fell, however, and when he opened that tin a great lot of dust came out." The bones of the skeleton were there, of course, but most of the soft tissue had been lost through the jar of the fall.

"The tombs in France which had safely sheltered their occupants since the first century might have had some especially favorable local condition which would account for the preservation of their contents," he concluded.

The prisoners are Hattie and Joseph Kasorski.

SWISS AUTHORS IN NEED.

Government to Aid Them From General Unemployment Fund.

BERNE, Aug. 24. — The Swiss Government has just decided to allocate 100,000 gold francs, taken from the general unemployment fund, for assistance to necessitous Swiss intellectual workers, mainly authors, literary and scientific.

As most of the authors publish their works in Germany and are paid in marks, their means are exceedingly reduced. Before the war when a Swiss author received 1,000 marks royalty this meant 1,200 francs, whereas now it means only seventy. Some Swiss authors have not been able to buy a new suit since 1914 and have often had to sell household goods for food.

Statistics show that in 1920 literary production was the smallest for several years past.

EVENING SERMON BY REV. MR. ROSS

THE DEEP OF HUMAN NATURE AND THE DIVINE SUPPLY.

The subject of the evening sermon was "The Deep of Human Need and Divine Supply." An out line of the discourse follows:

A wounded eagle was found by a hunter on the mountain side. He drew back to watch its movements. After a brief space, he saw it lift its head and look skyward, but the hunter could see nothing. Again the hunter looked, and far away in the deep of the blue heavens he saw a tiny speck. It came nearer, and then h saw it was another eagle. As the great king of the air swept down, it passed over the wounded bird and fanned it with its mighty wings. Backward and forward over the wounded eagle it flew until the sick one was revived. Then there was a combined movement on the side of the hill; the next moment the great, strong, beautiful bird bore its wounded companion away on its own mighty pinions. From the deep agony and loneliness and bodily suffering, the stricken bird had penetrated the deep of the sky and the friend and companion bird came to its rescue. And this is just like God. He listens to the agonising cry of the human soul as it lies wounded and sick and ruined, and on mighty wings came to man's relief. But when the words of the text were uttered, David was thinking of the sea, and says, "Deep calleth unto deep." Notice the force of the image. Resistless power, impassive fixedness of purpose, and a certain solemn sadness make the ocean waves an image of life's conflicts.

How Deep is the Cry of Poverty?

In all ages the deeps of poverty have lifted their voice, crying for bread. Who is and has been responsible for the hunger of the world? Not God. The deep of divine supply is so vast that out of the fifteen hundred million of the human race, not one soul need suffer hunger. There is a divine supply deeper than the deeps from which the cry springs. Canada alone has 440 million acres of land fit for cultivation. Out of this only 110 million acres are occupied, and only 34 million acres are cultivated. Canada has only 9 millions of a population, and she could feed 200 millions. Canada could feed one-eighth of the entire human race with the richest food in the world. Oh, no, there is no fault with the mighty source of supply. There is something wrong with the commissary. Who is coming between the abundant supply and the deeps of suffering from which the agonising cry comes? Why are millions of acres of the finest land held by speculators, syndicates, corporations, and other organisations, while thousands of men would be happy to own a few roods of God's arable world, but are not able? There is certainly something wrong.

How Deep is the Cry of Sorrow and Trial?

There are two spheres of suffering. The one comprehends the common experience of life. Trial, cares, burdens and perils come to all mankind. But we mean something quite different from this when we speak of the deep of human anguish through which a soul sometimes passes and the despair in which it may be lost. It is wave rolling upon wave, deep after deep weighing the soul down, which is so exhausting. One crushing and merciless shock we can meet and master, but shock after shock is overwhelming. From this mighty deep of human anguish the soul cries up to the eternal deep of divine supply; and there is no depth of soul-crushing sorrow or anguish that cannot find a response in the heights of God's compassion. There is one wave which a strong hand holds back, one last crushing blow which is spared. He hath not suffered your hope to be removed. A sure Pilot steers thy storm-tossed vessel through the billows: and He will not leave the helm till he has handed thee on the blessed shore. I was standing on the deck of a vesstl as she came out of the harbour and entered the open sea. Three mighty waves fell in succession on the deck, each wave sinking the bow lower into the sea. A fourth wave might have swamped the liner, but that wave did not come. God holds back the last crushing blow.

From the Deep of Human Responsibility to the Heights of Divine Sympathy.

How deep is the sense of man's responsibility to himself? What does he owe to his family, his neighbours, his friends, his country, and his God? Oh, the deep of human responsibility. But how many realise it not at all? The deep of loneliness calls to the deep of companionship, the deep of human ignorance calls to the deep of divine wisdom, the deep of human remorse and repentance calls to the deep of divine pity and pardon. Who shall measure the deeps of human need and divine supply?

Be Sure You Seek the Divine Source of Supply.

If your demand is right, the supply is sure. One says, from the deep of my soul I want to know when Christ will come again. Well, that is not your business; better try to be ready when He comes, and help someone else to be ready. Another says, "I believe in divine healing for the body." So do I, but I believe that my doctor is the medium through which God works. Twenty-four years ago I had a friend called Archie. By accident he had his spine hurt in the lumber camp. Some "wandering lights" told Archie that a certain Dr. Alexander Dowie, of Chicago, could cure him by prayer. Archie was spirited away in the night, stayed in Chicago two weeks, paid $50.00 for "free treatment," came home as he went, only lighter in pocket. Dr. Dowie is dead long years ago, and my friend still moves about in his wheel chair. But he has learned that as many as God loves, "He rebukes and chastens."

Be Sure You Hear What God Says.

God never told us that because we had affliction we were either unbelievers or sinners on the sly. He did say that as many as He loves He rebukes and chastens. He did say that our afflictions will work out an exceeding weight of glory. From the deep of sorrow suffering and sin, seek the deep of divine supply.

BYNGS WELCOMED AT YACHT CLUB

R.C.Y.C. TENDERS RECEPTION TO GOVERNOR-GENERAL AND LADY BYNG.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

TORONTO, Aug. 29.—The Royal Canadian Yacht Club, in gala attire of flags, pennants and burges and gorgeous autumnal blooms, welcomed Their Excellencies Lord and Lady Byng this afternoon to the first reception and garden party given in their honor by the commodore, officers and members. At a quarter to four the Vice-Regal party motored to the Harbor Commissioner's Wharf which was smothered in flags, and were received by Commodore Gooderham and conveyed on board the R.C.Y.C. steam yacht Kuoasind, which, with the Royal Ensign and the Governor-General's Standard proudly flying, steamed slowly over to the Island Club-House, and were greeted on arrival by the entire fleet of yachts, fully dressed with flags, pennants and code signals. The Royal party were met by the Vice-Commodore, Mr. Aemilius Jarvis, who, after introducing them to the committee, conveyed them to the club-house, to the strains of the National Anthem and "O Canada," played by the band of the Governor-General's bodyguard.

The arrangements were the same as for the reception of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales. The guests, numbering about 1,600 ladies and 1,000 members, were received on the lawn in front of the tea pavilion.

BIG PARADE WILL AGAIN BE FEATURE OF FAIR OPENING

The trades and calithumpian parade which has become an established feature of the Peterborough Exhibition, promises to be a finer attraction than ever this year. Enquiries for information regarding the arrangements for entering have already found their way to Mr. W. R. Turner's desk, and the encouraging aspect of these early indications is that most of the letters are coming from local firms who evidently intend to fall in line for the first time this year. Other notifications have been replies to a circular letter reminding the merchants and business men of this opening event. This morning's mail for instance, brought acknowledgments and affirmative answers from the Peterborough Milk Products Company, the Peterborough Cereal Company, and the Duffus Motor Sales. Next!

Get Auto Banners.

Automobile owners can help to advertise the Exhibition by securing a display banner at the Turner factory and stringing it across the back of their cars. These banners will not fail to attract attention. They are being distributed free, and it is hoped they will all be taken.

Like a Motor Show.

So many applications for space allotments have been coming in from automobile manufacturers and distributors recently that it is predicted the display of cars will rival the spring motor show.

The proclamation declares that troops and munitions are being sent to Silesia in order that France may attack the Russian Soviet Government in the midst of the famine. It asserts that Roumania and Poland are France's accomplices in the plot.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—(Canadian Press.)—Acute weakness of local tractions due to the proposed receivership proceedings featured the early dealings on the stock exchange to-day. General Electric rose 2 1-4 points on the increased stock dividends.

During the morning Manhattan Elevated increased its loss to almost ten points. Interborough Rives fell 5 3-8 and all related tractions found new low levels.

General Electric held most of its gain and Mexican Petroleum was the only leader to run counter to the general trend, rising three points.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Sterling exchange strong, Demand 369 3-8; Canadian Dollars 9 13/16 per cent discount.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Oats followed Corn at the opening, which was unchanged from Saturday's close.

MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, Aug. 229.—(Canadian Press.)—The tone of the local stock exchange continued listless to mid-day, with gains and losses about equally divided. Canadian Cottons at 66 1-2, Montreal Power at 80 and Wayagamack at 32 were unchanged, while Breweries at 48 3-4 was better by a 1-2 point. Laurentide at 64 was up 1 1-4.

TORONTO, Aug. 29.—(Canadian Press.)—Cattle market receipts 3,883, trade heavy. Quotations: Heavy beef steers, $7 to $8; butcher steers, choice, $6 to $6.50; butcher cows, medium, $3 to $4.50; calves, $9.50 to $11; lambs, $8 to $8.75; hogs, selects, $11.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, Aug. 29.—(Canadian Press.)—Light dealings and narrow fluctuations marked the morning session on the Toronto stock exchange to-day. In not one case did the sales of a listed stock reach 100 shares, with the total sales of listed stocks for the morning less than 400 shares. With the exception of General Electric, where split shares at 94 and full shares at 92, appeared to make a wide market, fluctuations were confined to small fractions. Trade in bonds is gradually diminishing and this morning were exceptionally light.

EGGS AND POULTRY.

Toronto specials jobbing 54c, extras 51c, firsts 43c, seconds 38c. Receipts of poultry are heavier, and an effort is being made to reduce prices to a safe basis for storage. Quotations delivered are live chicken 20c to 28c, broilers 18c to 20c, fowl 16c to 23c, turkeys 37c to 42c.

MORRIS ACKERMAN FOUND MANY AMERICANS AT KAWARTHA LAKES

"From Peterboro to Bobcaygeon" Is the Line of Talk News-Leader Fish and Game Expert Promised our Readers. So read and Get Wise to What's What.

By MORRIS ACKERMAN.

Alex. Lowe's place on Stoney Lake, Kawartha lakes, Ontario, Tuesday morning, July 12, 1921.

Mr. Ed. Bang and friends:

Gee, ain't it hot? Say, and another thing, ain't it ahelluva job to hafta tsop right in the midst of a good fishin' trip and write home? Nobody didn't ever accuse us of losin' any opportunity to throw the male bovine and we really like to be athletic but this here is one time when we hates to take time off. However, we are doing so because our reputation does not permit us to stay out of the paper even for one Sunday and besides we wanna stay on the payroll.

These here Kawartha lakes is some place. There is seventy miles of water on a line from Lakefield, on Katchewanooka lake to Coboconk, on Balsam lake. However, on this trip we promised the dope "from Peterboro to Bobcaygeon," so we will stick to the first forty or fifty miles. In Peterboro we have a friend, a fur trader by the name of Tom Curvin. Tom has a automobile by the name of McLaughlin, known in our country as Buick. Well to make a long road short me and Tom made a deal to put one over on Mac. We done so by driving from P. to Lakefield to Young's Point to Burleigh Falls to Mount Julian to Buckhorn to Chemong Indian reserve to Peterboro. A distance of ninety beautiful miles, fourteen of which is over the Oregon trail from Burleigh to Buckhorn. This here trail is the only one of the roads we will comment on. It looked something like this: QJ-QQR-X. We didn't meet no traffic on this here road, only two poor li'l deer what was strayed away from home and got losted.

Say, from the amount of Cleveland folks we have saw to date on this trip we can't see how the department stores to home can have bargain sales. They is anywhere from a couple to a flock of couples at every place along the line. Judgin' from a close study of the registers (books what you write your nome-deploom in) in each place we find Rochester, N. Y., musta moved up this way. These here lakes is right across Lake Ontario from Rochester and it looks like somebody over there was found it out.

Well, Ed and friends, after gettin' a fine visualization of how the lakes over on this end look from a auto we took the train from P. to L. ten miles up the Otonabee, and then hopped on one of Capt. Young's steamers, the Islinla, whatever that means, and buzzed all over Stony Lake and finally finished up here. That steamer trip give us another fine look, this time from the inside out! Not havin' no space to spare we can't tell you much about the Stony lake steamers more than that the capt. can stop and tie up in a heavy sea at any rock or stick protruding above the brink. Its some stunt and wonderfu to see. They is a million islands in this lake and a cottage on every island.

Over to Burleigh Falls we got ourself a canoe and went down and saw Hal Morgan and Al Wagener, two Cleveland boys who have got a camp on Lovesick lake. They call their outfit the Burleigh Falls Fishing Club. They was glad to see us and is doing well for first yearers. When they le t home they was suit models and now they look like a coupla Kentucky moonshiners trying' to disguise their faces behind a facial growed scrub. The bass fishing, we suppose we should mention this by this time, is very good, but lunge has heard I was among them and has laid up for repairs a few days. Fact is we ain't been fishin' as much as we wanted to so far to date, but accordin' to results we figger the bass would be satisfied to have us quit. (When we ketch a good musky we will wire you. This will be did soon!)

We have found a guide named David Drain. Davy and me has struck up quite a fancy to each other and has promised each other faithful to not fish with nobody but each other until we catch a big lunge Davy he is gidin'. some rich guys over at Viamede in the daytime and me after they let him o ff. We got a deal on whereby if they get any musky strikes in the day time and miss the strkes Davy he is to mark the spot and me and him is to go back about dark and pull 'em in. You see in this way I don't have to fish during the heat of the day if I don't wanna. Thus not havin' to throw no lunge back. This is quite a original idea with me and Dave.

For the last four years we have promised Alex. Lowe and his wife to make 'em a visit. We have now done so. It may interest all concerned to know that these nice folks have signally honored the writer as well as all of Cleveland by naming their new boathouse after us. Upstairs over the boat garage is six rooms where you sleep in. By callin' the outfit the "Morris Acherman" the Lowes is using poor judgment (?) as all I gotta do is keep them six rooms filled each summer.

This place is beautifully located on a fifty-acre island on the north end of Stony Lake, at Boshink Narrows. Good bass and lunge fishing right out in front of the yard. Well folks we gotta quit now and get ready to do a li'l castin' for green bass up the line a piece.

The following Cleveland guests join us in sendin' regards from the fishin' grounds: J. T. "Waterworks" Martin and wife, Jack Bryan and family, Mrs. Nat. Jones, Nat Jr., and his pal Perry Thrasher, 'Ed "Flour" Theobald and wife, Ed "Johnny" Walker and wife, Henry "shoe repair" Dingleday and family, Dr. G. W. "Chyro" Thompson and his old man, J. M. from North East, Pa. Yours until Niagara Falls, ACK.

(P. S.: Notice to Spoke and Nunie: "The gang" landed fourteen lunge last Sunday near the shack on Pigeon creek. Oh you October! Notice to Lorelle, Billy and Kay: Am hurryin' like everthin', be home next week. Gooda bye, Daddy.

BULLETIN!

November, 1919, the reason for his selection was not entirely aparent. Mr. Clarke, however, had qualities of heart and mind which eminently fitted him for the position. A farmers' government now occupied the seats of the mighty at Queen's Park and the appointment of a business man to Government House seemed quite in keeping with the new order.

The stately pile which the Hearst Government had erected in North Rosedale for a government house, called for the selection of a man of private means. Mr. Clarke fulfilled expectations and retained his democratic sympathies in his new position. No knee breeches, silk stockings with cocked hat and plumes for him. He opened the Legislature wearing ordinary morning attier and in all respects acted quite as like one of the common people as any member of the Farmers' Government. In his new post he was ably supported by his accomplished wife and together they admirably maintained the customary social duties and hospitable traditions of Government House.

Born in Guelph, Ont., on July 20, 1859, the son of Dr. William and Clara Pigott Clarke, Lionel Herbert Clarke was educated privately, and at Trinity College School, Port Hope. When still a young man he started up at Palmerston, in the grain and malt business but soon began to look for larger fields. When about 30 years of age he arrived in Toronto and launched out in a bigger way the business he had established in the smaller town. He organized the Canadian Malting Co., Ltd., and in this concern was associated with the late W. D. Matthews. These two men were associated for many years in extensive grain operations and both became wealthy.

Mr. Clarke always took an active part in work of a public character. From 1917 to 1919 he was a member of the Board of Grain Supervisors. He was also a member of the Victoria Niagara Park Commission for 11 years, from 1908, and president of the Toronto Board of Trade, in 1908. There is a notion, it is said, among Toronto business men, that appointment to the presidency of the Toronto Board of Trade practically places a man on the shelf. But it was not so in Mr. Clake's Case as it had not been in the case of Sir Edward Kemp and some others.

Mr. Clarke's greatest work of a public nature was probably his part in giving Toronto a harbor worthy of a great commercial city. The waterfront plan on which between 15 and 20 million dollars have already been expended, was his idea, conceived it is said at a time when, as an official of the Board of Trade, he found a ship loaded with iron trying vainly to find a place to dock. He lived to see his plan developed almost to maturity and remained chairman of the Harbour Board from 1912 to the day of his death. He was also for a considerable time a member of the Toroto and York Highways Commission.

"Store of Quality, Cleanliness and Service"

Card of Thanks

The management of the New Centre Meat Market, 192 Charlotte Street, takes this means of thanking the people of Peterborough for that generous patronage on Saturday, the opening day, which exceeded the firm's most sanguine expectations.

Should we have been found remiss in service by a few of the hundreds of customers who thronged this store, Saturday afternoon and evening, that lack of attention, if any, was consequent upon an extraordinary rush of business; and Mr. Alex. Gordon, our manager, will be pleased to rectify any little oversight that may have occurred. Mr. Gordon is well-known in town as thoroughly conversant with the requirements of a discriminating meat-buying public; and in the future, as during his own personal business catering, under Mr. Gordon's supervision all patrons of the New Centre Meat Market may rest assured of getting at all times the fullest measure of Quality, Service and Cleanliness.

Our trade slogan is "Service, Quality and Cleanliness"; that policy will be strictly lived up to, and the New Centre Meat Market assures all patrons alike of the best meats procurable, at fair living prices.

OSHAWA TOO FAST FOR HAMILTON, WIN LACROSSE 12 TO 3

HAMILTON, Aug. 28. — Outclassed all the way, Hamilton's lacrosse team was forced to let the visitors from Oshawa down them on Saturday afternoon 12-3. The lopsided score is hardly an indication of the play for the Oshawa team was much better and could have rolled up a greater score. The result was not disappointing to the fans as this is the first year that Hamilton has gathered a team together, and considering that they have won the group honors the showing is not disapointing.

The visitors proved that their group is a much faster one than is this district. A feature of the play was the combination work and this had a great deal to do with the victory. The Hams worked hard but were up against odds and were forced to give way. Every man on the visiting team played well. Credit must be given the locals for although outnumbered they fought gamely until the end, and have hopes of making a better showing when the return match is played. The lead of Saturday with a team like Oshawa to beat leaves Hamilton with little chance of winning the series.

Oshawa jumped into the lead as soon as the game was started and increased it as time went on. The game was decided in the first period, when Oshawa scored 7 to Hamilton's one. From that time to the end it was a one-sided battle. The line-up:

Hamilton—Goal, Dextras; point, J. McFarlane; cover, Shuart, defence, Simser and Spalding; centre, Naylor; home, Cooper and Regan; outside, Allister; inside, Farr; extras, Drouchen, Evoy, Rohmer and Hawkins.

Oshawa — Goal, Jacques; point, Beecham; cover, Cook; defence, Clapper and McKinnon; centre, Lovegrove; home, Ganton and Saries; outside, Oliver; inside, Grahame; extras, Irwin, McDonald and Lee.

Officials—L. Smith and J. Labett.

PORT HOPE WON IN TENTH AFTER LONG GAME BITTERLY FOUGHT, IN WHICH THE UMPS. LOST CONTROL

PLAYERS COULD DO ANY OLD THING DURING GAME, SO PORT HOPERS "PINCHED" IT.

SCORE WAS 13 TO 12

Ten innings of biff bang baseball, interspersed with orations, demonstrations, and concluding with a row, the like of which Jiggs Mahoney never experienced in all his tempestuous career, gave the Petes the wrong end of the 13 to 12 score at Port Hope at the week-end. There is a happy land not far away, but Port Hope doesn't get the verdict.

Umpire-in-Chief Wilson, of Oshawa, was responsible for much of the trouble, because he allowed the players to get out of control. In the first place, Alex. Hills, who left the game in the fourth, was permitted to run at large, at any time and to any place, cussing the umpire and protesting decisions. Then there were mistakes made in determining how far runners should advance on throws that went through the catchers and were blocked at the grandstand. Both teams suffered. And imagine an umpire allowing a player to leave the bench and interfere with him, the batter and catcher in position, and the pitcher in the act of delivering the ball. That is what Wilson permitted Bob Chalk to put over.

The climax came in the tenth. The score was tied at 12 to 12. The Petes were at bat, and two were gone. Bob Ross doubled and scored on Lowe's single to right. Hughes, the base-umpire, just off first base, was watching the play on the ball, to first base. Port Hope players carried the intelligence to him that Ross had not touched third base. He promptly called Ross out. The runner certainly did touch the bag. Manager Solomon appealed to Wilson, but he refused to do anything in the matter. A fight, in which spectators and players joined, followed, and the police had to take a hand.

Port Hope scored the run that gave them the game in their half of the tenth.

It should never have gone ten innings. The Petes were well in advance in the fourth and sixth. They hit the ball often and hard. Harrison drove in five runs and scored three. Bob Ross drove in four and scored two.

First Innings.

Murray started the game with a strike-out. L. Rose drew a walk. Dear worked himself into a heat trying to get the runner, and then gave it up. Rose stealing second. He also purloined third. R. Rose was safe when the shortstop booted. Harrison met a low one at the end of the bat and walloped the ball far beyond Bob Chalk, who was playing deep. The two runners scored and Hap. made third. Ross bounced one over Dear, Harrison scoring on the shortstop's play to first, which got Rose. Lowe ended it with a high fly.

Alex. Hills singled between short and second. Guy laid down a bunt. Moise clouted through the box, Ray Rose getting Guy at second. McElroy threw out Bob Chalk and Harrison stopped F. Chalk on a line drive.

Second Innings.

Jackson and Kirn fanned. McElroy and Murray walked. Guy threw out L. Rose.

Murray threw out Fair and Friar on hard chances. L. Rose juggled Ware's grounder, the runner getting the bag. He stole second, and made third while Dear was being handed a pass. Hills doubled, scoring Ware. Guy flew to L. Rose.

Third Innings.

R. Rose was safe on a low throw. He stole. Harrison fanned. Ross doubled to middle, scoring Rose. Lowe grounded out s/c Jackson fanned.

A low throw gave Moise the base. R. Chalk doubled, out his brother's single and scored two. Fair grounded to Murray, and F. Chalk, who was heading for third, was run down, Friar skied to Murray. Ware was thrown out.

Fourth Innings.

Kirn flew to Hills, who then retired from the game, Carter replacing him, The new-comer took a hot liner from McElroy. Then the fun began. Murray hit through short and stole; L. Rose was deadheaded and R. Rose singled Murray home, Harrison shot another long fly to Chalk, sending two runners home. The hit was good for two bags, but Hap kept on going, reaching third when the ball was dropped on the relay throw. He scored when Ross doubled, and Ross went home on Lowe's two-base clout, Jackson was thrown out at first.

Dear was passed, Carter sent an easy fly to Harrison. Guy laid down a short bunt, Murray coming in to handle it. Moise hit into right, the throw in bounding over Ross to the stand, Dear and Guy scoring. The Petes argued in vain that the ground rules held Guy at third, R. Chalk singled, scoring Moise. F. Chalk's infield clout was handled by R. Rose, but the peg to L. Rose at second was wild, and the runner was safe. Fair's tap in front of the plate bounded nicely for Ross, and Fair went out at first. Friar hit to middle, the peg home by Lowe going to the stand, scoring the two Chalks and causing another Peterborough wave of protest. Friar made second and stole third. Ware sent up a foul for Ross.

Fifth Innings.

Bob Chalk moved in to third base, Friar going to middle. The Petes went out in order, Kirn and McElroy on strike-outs and Murray on a fly.

Kirn, now pitching, fanned Dear. Port Hope raised a howl when Umpire Wilson called a foul on Dear's waft to the flag. Carter shot a single into right, Guy sacrificed, and Moise grounded out. Demonstrations were becoming the order, with Wilson as the target.

Sixth Innings.

Lornie Rose laced a single into middle, stole second and made third on his brother's infield out. Harrison hit through short, scoring L. Rose, and Ross hit into middle, sending Harrison home, and when Ross went to third on the throw in that went to the stand, he was ordered back to second. Lowe skied to short. Jackson doubled Ross home, and Umpire Wilson, who was now having a bad time of it, "struck out" Kirn. The players were crabbing without any protest from the Umps.

With the Chalk brothers gone, Fair singled through short, Friar landed one in left, and Ware dumped another well behind third, scoring the runners ahead. The ball was thrown to the plate, and Ware tried to make third. He was sent back. Then the Port Hopers gnashed their teeth, their argument being that the hit was good for two bases, and that the runner was entitled to take third on the throw. Dear flew out to Lowe and there was a lull in the battle.

Seventh Innings.

Copeland replaced Dear on the mound, and hostilities were renewed, the Petes calling the attention of Wilson to the fact that the new heaver was working off the rubber. A nice play by Friar, who, after losing R. Rose's hard fly, fielded the ball to third and got Murray, kept the Petes away from the platter. McElroy walked, only to be thrown out trying for second. Murray hit for a base, and L. Rose took one in the slats. R. Rose sent up a fly to left which Friar missed, but got Murray at third. The pitcher took Harrison's fly.

A double play stopped the Hopers. Carter singled and stole second. Guy was thrown out by the pitcher, Carter going to third. Moise flew to Lowe, who retured the ball fast, getting Carter at the plate.

Eighth Innings.

The Petes went out in order, but the homesters got two, tieing the score. R. Chalk flew out. F. Chalk singled into right. Fair popped to R. Rose. Friar hit into left. Chalk took third and Friar stole second. With one strike on Ware, Kirn gave way to R. Rose, the former going to second. A couple of foul balls called by Wilson made Port Hope fighting mad. Rose got another strike. The Petes took it for the third strike, and several players ceased operations. After getting back again, Ware caused a whole lot of trouble by sending a high one back of second. Neither Rose nor Lowe could get to the ball, Chalk and Friar scoring. The count was tied at 12 to 12. With Copeland batting, Ware, who had stolen second, was thrown out by Ross as he tried to make third.

Ninth Innings.

Kirn fanned. McElroy took the hope out of Port Hope by smashing a triple to right. When Murray hit down short, McElroy scooted for home, the throw by Moise beating the runner. Murray stole second. L. Rose ended it with a fly to middle.

Copeland and Carter grounded out and Guy fanned, making an extra innings necessary.

Tenth Innings.

R. Rose and Harrison sent up flies to Guy. Ross doubled and Lowe singled, Ross scored easily on the hit. Then something happened. The base umpire called Ross out on the claim that Ross did not touch third base. Manager Solomon protested to Wilson that the runner did touch the base, and pointed out that the decision was one for the umpire-in-chief to make. Bob Chalk joined in the conference. Alex. Hills also took a hand. It was a hot argument. Chalk and the Petes' pilot fought a wordy battle. Players and spectators joined the melee, and soon hair was being pulled, faces slapped, and not a few stiff jolts were distributed. When it looked like real trouble, the law stepped in and the crowd dispersed. The Chief Constable and his staff restored order, and the game was resumed.

But there was little scrap left in the Petes. Wilson showed that he was not without nerve by finishing the game alone. Moise fanned. Bob Chalk drew a walk and stole. He went to third on F. Chalk's single to right, and scored the winning run when Fair hit to L. Rose. The latter had no chance to get the runner to the plate. The play was directed to third, F. Chalk going out.

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE GRAND.

The Rex Stock Co. supporting Miss Zana Vaughn which opens the season of Permanent Stock at the Grand tonight for the first three days of each week, is considered one of the best equipped orgnizations in the theatrical field today.

The play selected for their opening is George Cohen's successful comedy "The Man Who Owned Broadway", which has proven a most successful opening vehicle by most of the City Stock Co's of the past year, as it has a most entertaining plot with plenty of amusing situations and very funny dialogue. Mr. Rex Snelgrove who plays the title role is a perfect type for the part and has played it for over 70 performances, and considers it one of his best portrayals. Miss Vaughn has a light role for her talents, yet has every chance to look very pretty in a wonderful display of gowns.

The balance of the cast fully live up to the standard set by the two stars, and all we ask of the theatre patrons of Peterboro is to witness this opening performance, and we feel confident they will be delighted with the entire production and will not be disappointed in any of our advance tributes of this attraction, which we hope to keep with us for the entire season, and the list of splendid plays on the list for production here by this Co. will be a delight to all when each play is announced

Two special Vaudeville Acts, are given between acts that will delight all, being of the very highest order using refined comedy, singing, dancing etc. Special scenery is used for these acts which are staged in an elaborate manner throughout.

The especially low scale of prices should meet with the approval of all. Just remember the od adage "The proof of the pudding etc" and make it a point to see the opening on Monday night.

AT THE CAPITOL.

HE'S A VILLAIN YET NOT A VILLAIN IN "A WISE FOOL"

Allan Hale Has Unusual Role in New George Melford Paramount Production.

A Splendid Entertainment Offered To-night.

When is a villain not a villain? That is a question answered by Alan Hale, noted screen actor, in his portrayal of the role of George Mason in George Melford's new Paramount production, "A Wise Fool," which comes to the Capitol theatre to-night, with James Kirkwood as the featured player.

When Mr. Hale first makes his advent in the picture as George Mason, he is a home-breaker, for he falls in love with Carmen Dolores, the wife of Jean Jacques Barbillee, and plans an elopment. He later wins the sympathy and admiration of the audience and is more or less a hero. This is accomplished by a delightful twist in the story.

Mr. Hale is well known for his many excellent portrayals on the silversheet, including roles in such productions as "The Lone Thief," "The Price She Paid," "The Whirlpool." "One Hour," etc. "A Wise Fool" is an adaptation of Sir Gilbert Parker's novel, "The Money Master," and the scenario is the work of the noted author, in collaboration with George Melford, the producer. James Kirkwood has the role of Jean Jacques Barbille, and the cast also includes such notables as Alice Hollister, Ann Forest, Fred Huntly, Truly Shattuck, Harry Duffield, Charles Ogle and Mabel Van Buren.

Lyman Hawes' famous sensation, the Runaway Train, will also be a novelty worth seeing. Imagine riding on a train at nearly 200 miles an hour down mountains, through tunnels, across bridges and around sharp curves at a speed that simply makes an audience grip their seats and gasp. This feature, only about 800 feet in length, contains more real thrills than any film ever produced. Splendid musical selections by the Capitol Concert Orchestra will complete a splendid show.

Tricks of Picture Making Assure Safety of Child

There is a startling thrill and tense moments in "Ladies' Pets," latest of the two reel Chester Comedies, which comes to the Allen theatre for three days commencing today when Baby Albert Austin crawls out on a plank which appears to be extending over a cliff several hundred feet above the beach below. As a matter of fact that was just the position of the child but below it was a series of huge nets and several men so that there could be no possibility of the youngster getting hurt. Those who watch the picture closely will see the baby smiling at the men, when the people in the audience will think it in grave peril.

"Bob Hampton of Placer" Is Neilan's Best Yet

What may happen will be described as a classic of the silent drama is Marshall Neilan's spectacular, colorful and thrilling production, "Bob Hampton of Placer" which begins at the Allen Theatre tonight.

Not since "The Birth of a Nation" has an subject with a portion of American history as a background been so splendidly made into a motion picture, and in many ways the Neilan masterpiece outrivals the Griffith production.

One of the most picturesque periods of American history figures in "Bob Hampton of Placer"—namely, the Indian uprisings which followed the Civil war. And in the climax to this production, which is adapted from Randall Parrish's story of the same name, General Custer's famous last stand against the Sioux is reproduced and immortalized on the screen in a most fascinatng manner.

Interwoven skillfully in this thrilling background is an absorbing and beautiful story of faithful comradeship and love, as well as adventure.

James Kirkwood, in the title role, gives a masterful portrayal of Bob Hampton, the gambler, who, dismissed from the service in an army scandal, is restored to a place of honor with Custer in the Battle of Little Big Horn.

Marjorie Daw has the leading feminine role, and Pat O'Malley, as Lieutenant Brant, is seen as a gallant officer of Custer's staff and as an ardent lover. Wesley Barry, with his freckles and his grin, is one of the brightest lights in the production.

Others in the cast are Noah Beery Frank Leigh, Dwight Crittenden, Tom Gallery, Priscilla Bonner, Charlles West, Bert Sprote, Carrie Clark Ward, V. Potel and Bud Post.

Bob Hampton of Placer" is released by Associated First National Pictures, Inc. It is a great production—the best thing yet made by Marshall Neilan—and that is saying a great deal.

PATIENT DIES AS DOCTOR HOLDS EXTRACTED HEART.

GENEVA, Switzerland, August 29. — The Government has ordered an inquiry into an extraordinary operation performed by the chief surgeon at a hospital, who extracted the heart from a man named Pasche.

Pasche had shot himself in the heart. The surgeon spoke for twenty minutes to the horrified students, with the live heart in his hands.

At the end of the lecture, when the man was dead, the students protested to the surgeon, who dismissed their objections with the remark that the patient would have died anyhow within a few hours. He said that he wished to give a useful and palpable demonstration of the working of the heart.

Authorities are not satisfied with this explanation, while the victim's relatives think of bringing a civil action for damages.

THE CLEANERS' BIBLE CLASS PICNIC.

The Gleaners' Bible Class of St. James' Church spent a very enjoyable afternoon at Wallace Point on Saturday afternoon. They were taken down by the steamer 'Tootsie' and were a very jolly bunch, there being fourteen in number. They played games, had lunch, and after lunch held a business meeting, at which Miss Mary Masters was elected secretary-treasurer, as Miss Lillian Crowe, the former secdetary, is now out of the city. Then they had a little more sport, and left Wallace Point at half-past seven, to reach the city again at a quarter after eight, quite tired, but having had a splendid time.

PREDICTS DRURY LIBERAL LEADER

REV. DR. WEARING NOT SATISFIED WITH DEWART AS CHIEF.

WOODSTOCK, August 28. — "I most strongly believe in the Liberal principles, but I want to say that I am not satisfied with the Liberal leadership in this Province, and I think Ernie Drury is the real Liberal leader. I can see in the future a new Liberal party with Drury at its head."

Such was the opinion expressed by Rev. Dr. Thos. Wearing, of Woodstock College, in withdrawing his name from nomination at the North Oxford Liberal convention here on Saturday, at which W. W. Day, of East Nissouri, was chosen as candidate to contest the seat left vacant in the Provincial Legislature by the death of John Calder.

Dr. Wearing's criticism of Liberal leadership in Ontario brought forth much applause as well as cries of dissension from the floor of the convention. The Doctor is an old schoolmate of Premier Drury's.

Rev. Dr. Wearing is a brother of Mr. Joseph Wearing, of Peterborough.

OBITUARY

HUGH REGAN

Known throughout Canada as a prominent lumberman Hugh Regan who for the last half-century lived in Peterboro but has been engaged in numerous lumbering enterprises in several parts of Ontario died at Nicholls Hospital on Saturday night after an illness of two years. Mr. Regan was 66 years of age and for 46 years had ben in the lumbering business and from the time he was 22 foreman and superintendant.

Born in Alnwick Township, Northumberland County he early forsook the plow for the axe. After a hard apprenticeship he was made a foreman by J. M. Irwin in 1877 when this company was cutting around Louck's Lake, at the foot of Long Lake. After several years with J. M. Irwin he went to British Columbia but returned again in a few years to work for Thompson and Smith of Fenelon Falls. He was next with J. M. Irwin and then far a few years with the Dickson Co. After working for William Irwin for sometime he went to the north shore and since then, during the past 20 years worked for Midland Companies in the north bush. Till 1913 he was walking boss for Turners of Midland at Worthington near Sudbury. Since then, till he was forced to retire from failing health he was superintendant for the Hettler Lumber Company of Midland at Field Ont.

During a lifetime spent in the lumbering business Hugh Regan became known throughout Canada and lumbermen in all parts of the Dominion will mourn the passing of one who grew up in the camps and spent a life in the great forests of this country.

Mr. Regan was a Methodist, a member of Trinity Church. He was a veteran Oddfellow and a Mason, of the Masonic Lodge, Sturgeon Falls. Eleven years ago his wife predeceased him. Two sons and two daughters survive: Wilbert of this city, Bruce of Ingersoll, Mrs. H. C. Kirn of Peterboro, Mrs. R. W. Kirn of Tecumseh, Michigan. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

GOLF NOTES

GOLF AS ONCE PLAYED IN EDINBURGH.

"Hard by, in the fields called the Links, the citizens of Edinburgh divert themselves at a game called golf, in which they use a curious kind of bats stopped with horn, and small elastic balls of leather, stuffed with feathers, rather less than tennis balls, but with a much harder consistence." is a statement found in Smollett's "Humphrey Clinker," (1771). "These they strike with such force and dexterity from one hole to another that they fly an incredible distance. Of this diversion the Scotch are so fond that when the weather will permit you may see a multitude of all ranks, from the senator of justice to the lowest tradesman, mingled together in their shirts, following the balls with the utmost eagerness. Among others I was shown a set of golfers, the youngest of whom was turned fourscore. They had all amused themselves with this pastime for the best part of a century, without having the least alarm from sickness or disgust; and they never went to bed without having each the best part of a gallon of claret in his belly."

REAL MEANING OF WORD "FILIBUSTER."

When a legislator attempt to delay the progress of a measure he disapproves of in the hope of preventing its passage, spending hours upon hours debating it he is called a "filibuster." The only parliamentary body in the world where filibustering in the extreme is countenanced and where it has a chance of success is the United States Senate.

The real meaning of the word filibuster is a lawless adventurer, especially one in quest of plunder. The term is derived from the original filibusters, who were West Indian pirates. The name is traceable to that of the small, fast sailing vessels whih used to be called "filibotes" or "fly-boats."

Gradually the meaning of the expression began to embrace all sorts of military adventure. American usage finally broadened the phrase to such an extent that it now includes those senators or congressmen who use obstructive and dilatory tactics to gain their ends.

Old English Pickles.

A very old recipe for mustard pickles calls for four cups of diced cucumbers, four cups of midget cucumbers, four cups of diced green tomatoes, four cups of small white onions, four large green peppers diced and one large cauliflower broken into small pieces; do not chop the above but cut in even sized dice. Cover with a brine made of half a cup of salt to eight cups of water and let stand twenty-four hours. After twenty-four hours bring to a boil in the brine, and then drain off all the brine. Mix to a paste six tablespoons of dry mustard, one cup of flour, one tablespoon of tumeric, one cup of sugar and one cup of vinegar and mix smooth. Place on the stove seven cups of mild vinegar, stir in the spice paste and cook until smooth, stirring constantly. Mix with the drained vegetables and place in clean jars, seal tight and store in a cool dark place.

ATTEMPT TO CURB "SMELL NUISANCE"

TORONTO M. O. H. CONSULTING CITY'S LAWYERS IN MATTER.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

TORONTO, Aug. 29.—Dr. Hastings, M.O.H., proposes to close up the abattoirs if they do not abate the "smell nuisance" which is angering West Toronto. "I am consulting the legal department with a view to an injunction," he said today.

"I am in receipt of almost nightly complaints," he added. "We had the same thing a few years ago, and the abattoirs demonstrated their ability to control the offensive odors. Now they are as reckless as ever and I am seeing the city's lawyers about closing them up until they are ready to mend their ways.

"For a long while the residents of Toronto refrained from complaint and I was under the impression that the smells did not exist, but now find they have been a nuisance for months past. As soon as I invited complaints the residents let me know what they have been suffering."

BEAU BRUMMELS DISAPPEAR

And Barbers Tell of Facing Bankruptcy in Consequence.

PITTSBURG, Pa., August 29. — The Beau Brummel of wartime prosperity redolent with hair tonic, and with manicured nails and "sporty" clothes, who was wont to spent $2.50 every ten days in improving his appearance, is a thing of the past, according to barbers of the north boroughs.

They complain that since the business depression set in and wages have come down young men are less fastidious as to their appearance, with the result that there has been a serious falling off in the revenue of tonsorial artists.

"It used to be that the young men would come in about every week or ten days," said one Bellevue barber. 'They would get a haircut, shave, and all the frills we know, and would spend from $2.00 to $2.50 at a sitting. Now they come about once in six weeks and get a plain haircut—and they shave themselves.

"Young and old men are getting mighty economical. We can't stand it much longer, and unless barbers' wages come down and business picks up, many of us face bankruptcy."

FOR CHRONIC CONSTIPATION

By buying this produce from us, you can get the Highest in Quality that can be procured at an ESPECIALLY LOW PRICE.

There are many thin Oils on the market that are not suitable for internal use; other Oils have irritating qualities which render them also unsuitable. The one we are selling is Guaranteed thick and entirely pure.

It is recognized that a good grade of Mineral Oil is one of the best remedies for CHRONIC CONSTIPATION that is being used. It acts mechanically and does not irritate the intestinal tract, nor does the dose have to be constantly increased as is the case with ordinary purgatives.

It is much better and cheaper than Castor Oil as a laxative for Children, since Castor Oil has two effects, the first of which is purgative and the second or after-effect, which is Constipating.

ENFORCEMENT OF PEACE TREATY OPPOSED BY HUNGARIAN FORCES WHICH HAVE TAKEN BURGENLAND

TERRITORY AWARDED TO AUSTRIA BY TRIANON TREATY BEING HELD IN COUP RESEMBLING FIUME AND SILESIA.

CZECHS MOBILIZING; AUSTRIA ASKS HELP

VIENNA, Aug. 30.—(United Press).—In the fighting between Austrian and Hungarian forces over the possession of Burgenland, as the strip of West Hungary ceded to Austria by the Trianon Treaty will be known, a British captain representing the Entente was captured by the Hungarians and either wounded or killed, it was learned today.

Austria has brought this casualty and the Hungarian resistance to the attention of the Ambassadors' Conference, requesting that Allied troops be sent to West Hungary to enforce the cessation of Burgenland to Austria as provided in the treaty.

Irregular Hungarian forces have seized Odenburg in the disputed territory. Bands of men some uniformed, patrol the streets armed with pistols and hand grenades. Communication with the city has been prevented by the tearing up of railway lines.

Czechs in Austria are massing on the Hungarian border and demonstrations are feared unless Hungary cedes the territory. Reports from Budapest state that all West Hungary has been officially abandoned, except the Podorsdorf section, which is being held to guarantee financial claims against Austria. The trouble has been occasioned by insurgent bands, it is claimed.

The territory in dispute has an area of about 1,700 square miles and a population of over a quarter of a million.

Resembles Fiume Coup.

VIENNA, Aug. 30.—(Canadian Press).—Burgenland, a narrow strip of territory situated along the Hungarian border, which was awarded to Austria by the Treaty of St. Germain, is apparently in possession of Hungarian insurgents, with Lieut. Hejjas enacting the role of Adalbert Korfanty in Upper Silesia or Captain Gabriele D'Annunzio in Fiume. The Government is not receiving any news from the district, where on Sunday night irregular Hungarian forces attacked Austrian gendarmes sent to occupy the district. Austrian Commissioner Davy, however, reports from the town of Mattesdorf that he narrowly escaped being killed in Odenburg.

There are unconfirmed reports that one allied officer has been killed or wounded in the fighting in Burgenland.

Lieut. Hejjas is reported to have posted placards throughout the district calling to the colors all men under 45 years of age. It is also said that 3,000 Hungarian regular troops have arrived and are encamped near Odenburg. A detachment of 200 Austrian gendarmes is reported surrounded at Gerersdorf

FLAVELLE NEXT GOVERNOR, SAYS TORONTO RUMOR

DR. SHEARD ALSO MENTIONED WITH KEMP AND HEARST TO SUCCEED LATE HON. LIONEL CLARKE.

ONTARIO GOVERNMENT COMPLETELY SUSPENDED

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

TORONTO, Aug. 30.—The post of Lieutenant-Governor for Ontario, left vacant by the death of Hon. Lionel H. Clarke, will be filled within a few days, it is understood, by a man whom the Governor-in-Council at Ottawa has already in view. In Toronto circles there is considerable speculation as to whether either Sir Joseph Flavelle or Dr. Charles Sheard is the man in view.

Other names which have been mentioned in this connection are those of Sir Edward Kemp and of Sir William Hearst. It is considered unlikely, however, that the latter would be in a position to resign his post on the International Joint Commission on Waterways in order to accept a position imposing such onerous financial responsibilities as the Lieutenant-Governorship.

The Government of Ontario has been completely suspended as the result of the death of the late Lieutenant-Governor. Not only is Sir William Mulock, who was recently appointed as administrator for the Province, automatically relieved of his duties by this deplorable event, but the Cabinet itself is unable to transact Government business until such time as a new Lieutenant-Governor is being sworn in. That, it is anticipated, will be done within the next few days, and certainly before a fortnight has expired.

In the meantime, nothing save Departmental business may be legally transacted by the Drury administration. Any other official acts which it might take as a Government could be upset in the courts of law, it is learned on good authority.

This situation results from the constitutional theory that the King's powers are vested provincially in the Government of the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council. With the decrease of this representative government is brought to a standstill, since an administrator can neither be appointed nor function except on behalf of a living Lieutenant-Governor.

Start Probing Ku Klux Klan

DISTRICT ATTORNEY TERMS IT "ABSOLUTE MONARCHY" OPPOSED TO PUBLIC POLICY.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 30.— (By United Press.)— Federal investigation of the activties of the Ku Klux Klan was started to-day by John V. Clinnnin, Acting United States District Attorney. Clinning's action started following the receipt of numerous complaints against the organization of the new "Invisible Empire," he said.

The investigation Clinnin announced, would be based on these claims:

That the Ku Klux Klan is an "absolute monarchy;" opposed to public policy; that $10 a year is collected from each member without an accounting; that it charges $6.50 for regalia that costs about $2, and acceptance of this money places the organization in the class of a corporation operating for profit.

That numerous lawless acts have been ascribed to persons acting in the guise of the Ku Klux Klan, although leaders of the Klan repudiated the acts.

Col. Joseph Simmons, head and organizer of the Klan, will be called, Clinning said, if the inquiry justifies an investigation.

"I don't wish to cast any reflection upon the organization or its leadership," Clinnin said, "and I don't know whether there had been an illegality, but I have had numerous complaints to that effect.

"If I find anything wrong, I'll blow the lid off. I'll lay the whole thing before a grand jury and ask indictments."

CONGRATULATIONS FOR THE EXAMINER ON FEATURE JOB WORK

That the Peterborough Examiner's Job Department excels in the high quality of its production — large or small—is frequently attested to by satisfied patrons; but when Mr. Perry Alexander, proprietor of Oak Orchard Lodge, and also interested in the Florida Hotel Corporation, sends along such flattering commendation as below, the Examiner surely will be pardoned for not "hiding its light under a bushel."

Unded date of August 10, 1921, Mr. Alexander writes:

Mr. Dawe,
Superintendent of the Examiner.

I have received many letters of congratulation on your work of getting out the prospectus. I will quote a few excerpts:

"I wish to congratulate you on the beautiful prospectus and illustration of new hotel. The type setting is good and the name selected is a winner."

"Have just received a copy of the prospectus of the 'Floridian.' It looks mighty good to me and I want to congratulate you and the others for getting out such a good piece of advertising. The few people that I have seen since this was received are very complimentary, and its appearance has created quite a little sensation, although it is quite dull here now with every one out of town."

"Congratulations on prospectus. It's a winner from first to last."

"If the hotel looks as good on the ground as it does on your prospectus you have a winner."

The Examiner is certainly pleased to receive the above commendation, for its advertised policy is "efficiency and service," which principle every best effort is applied to carry out to the very letter.

Not to be prolix, the work in question is a folder prospectus for the proposed "Floridian" Hotel of 210 rooms, at Cocoa, on the east coast of Florida. The color used is a rich maroon on highly coated sepia tinted stock, a combination which produces exquisite harmony and reflects that distinction which discriminating patrons seek. The design and lettering throughout is arresting without being ornate, while for clear-cut legibility the type press work cannot be excelled. This is particularly marked in copper plate replicas of two typewritten letters reduced to about one-third their original size —always a difficult task to reproduce faithfully.

A front page copper plate illustration of the proposed new hotel shows a palatial modern building staged in a beautiful semi-tropical setting and printed with outstanding true-to-nature effectiveness in main subject, perpective, and lights and shadows, vieing with photographic effort. The whole job, both in design and execution, reflects commendable taste and skill in the art preservative, and may be classed as a splendid specimen of letter-press artistry.

And the Examiner Job Rooms can show other samples of many lines of pripting, all reflecting the same measure of high-class efficiency and supervision as embodied in the work referred to above, and which seems to have attracted favorable notice away from home.

INQUEST HELD OVER SLAYING OF POLICEMAN

ITALIAN TESTIFIES THAT MAN POINTED WHAT HE THOUGHT WAS A GUN AT HIM JUST AETER SHOOTING.

HEARING ADJOURNED PENDING DEVELOPMENTS

(Special Despatch to the Examiner.)

KINGSTON, August 30. — Sensational evidence was given at the inquest last night to inquire into the circumstances surrounding the killing of Constable Richard A. Beard early on Sunday morning, when Vincent Bova, an Italian fruit dealer, declared that a man had pointed a gun at him from a laneway off Dundas street about three minutes after the shooting of Constable Beard had taken place.

Pressed on the matter later, witness stated that he could not say for sure whether it was a gun or a long stick the man had pointed at him.

Eight witnesses were heard at the hearing when an adjournment was made for two weeks, in order to give the police more time to work on the case.

Of the witnesse called, there was not one who could give a description of the three men said to have been in the alley way. They stated they did not have the opportunity of getting a good view of the men.

The revolver carried by the late Constable Beard was produced by Chief of Police Barrett and the fact was established that his gun had not been discharged at all as all the chambers were found to be filled.

A post mortem examination was held on the body of the late Constable Beard by Dr. James Miller of Queen's University, assisted by Dr. T. W. Simpson of Napanee, and their report showed that death had been caused by a penetrating wound caused by a rifle. Miller would not say that the need was not done by a smaller gun.

RESTRICTIONS IN GERMANY SEVERE

CLOSELY APPROACH MARTIAL LAW

BERLIN, Aug. 30. — (Canadian Press).—Germany was to-day under restrictions closely approaching martial law, as a result of a decree issued late yesterday by President Ebert. Meetings, processions, demonstrations and the issuance of publications "likely to encourage seditious movements" were forbidden in the decree, and warning was given that "any and every insurrection" would be supressed with relentless severity.

WORLD JUSTICE COURT ASSURED

OTHER INTERNATIONAL PROJECTS NOT TO BE LAUNCHED BY THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

By HENRY WOOD
(United Press Staff Correspondent).

GENEVA, Aug. 30.—The League of Nations' Council to-day continued discussion of the procedure in its settlement of the Silesian question. Meanwhile, members of the Council held that the forthcoming General Assembly of the League, scheduled for September 5, has been completely overshadowed by the Washington Disarmament Conference.

The launching of important international projects with the exception of the proposed international court, has been rendered impossible, they say. The world court has been definitely decided upon.

Ninety candidates have been nominated for seats on this International Court of Justice. Among them is Elihu Root, whose election is considered certain. Representatives of larger nations here declare that it is useless for the League to take up other questions, so the session will last only a fortnight instead of a month, and the number of delegates being sent by various countries has been materially reduced.

10,000,000 CHILDREN STARVING; RUSSIA TO ASK LOAN FROM ALLIES

RIGA, August 30 (United Press). — Nearly ten million children are starving in the famine regions of Russia, according to the Bolshevik's own estimate to-day.

A loan of ten million pounds is sought by the Soviet to relieve their hunger. Dr. Fridtjof Nansen has been authorised to ask the Allies for this amount, for which Russia's assets and revenues will be offered as security.

The second part of American Relief workers left here last night for Moscow. They carried all their equipment in the single Pullman car attached to the long train of box cars in which the Russians and Latvians ride.

INTERVENTION BY GOVT. SEEN IN MINE FUED

MORE BLOODSHED IN THE WEST VIRGINIA MOUNTAINS WILL BRING THIS, WASHINGTON BELIEVES.

LOGAN COUNTY KEEPS UP ITS GUARD TO-DAY

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.— Action by the cabinet on the threatened renewal of hostilities in the west Virginia mine war area was expected today.

More bloodshed will bring federal intervention, it was believed here.

CITIZENS ON GUARD

LOGAN, W. VA., Aug. 30.—Logan county kept up its guard today.

Fearing that a relaxation of vigilance would be followed by an invasion of miners from "over the mountain" state police and deputized citizens paced the streets and stood guard at the ridge tha separates the town from the Coal River mine fields.

On the other side of the long ridge that separates the union and non-union coal fields in West Virginia, the miners are gathered. Only meagre reports of their movements trickle here. Efforts for peace and preparations for a closer guard, if it is necessary, proceed together today.

State officials and officers of the United Mine Workers were trying for peace. There was hope that they would be successful. Meanwhile, former service men met to perfect a permanent organization for duty when need arises. The plan was sponsored by Sheriff Don Chaffin.

Logan County men held captive by the miners are, reported safe Several are said to have been arrested and confined in the county jail.

INVASION CONTINUES.

MADISON, W. Va., Aug. 30. — Bands of armed miners are moving at intervals into Logan County, determined to carry out their intended invasion, County Prosecutor Mullens reported to the State authorities today.

LIKELY TO RENEW REWARD FOR SMALL

IN FAINT HOPE OF SOME CLUE TURNING UP.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Aug. 30.—The reward of $50,000 cash for the whereabouts of Ambrose Small, missing Toronto theatre owner, if alive, or $15,000 for his body, will be continued, it was believed today.

The reward expires on Sept. 1, and it is understood that as soon as the Osgoode Hall courts re-open application will be made on behalf of the estate for permission to extend the time. Although Mr. Small has been missing nearly two years, it is the belief of the authorities that the reward should be extended in a faint hope that some clue may turn up.

"This reward will be continued if the committee advises it," said Mrs. Theresa Small, wife of the missing millionaire. "I think it should be; yet, whatever my solicitor suggests will be carried out."

Mr. Frank J. Hughes of Hughes & Agar, solicitor for Mrs. Small, stated that Dr. Connolley of the Capital Trust, who has charge of Mrs. Small's affairs, and J. A. C. Cameron, official referee of the estate, are out of the city. "Nothing can be done until the courts open next month," Mr. Hughes stated. "Then I think the reward will be renewed."

The reward expired a year ago and was renewed for a year, and it is understood the time will be extended to make it possible to clear up the case.

BERLIN READY FOR POSSIBLE UPRISING NOW

SAFETY POLICE CALLED OUT, AMMUNITION RUSHED IN, AND ARMED CORDONS ARE THROWN AROUND DANGER ZONES.

SITUATION IS TENSE AMONG THE WORKERS

By CARL D. GROAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent).

BERLIN, Aug. 30.—Safety police were called to-day to patrol the streets, while barracks in various parts of Berlin were being hastily filled with reserves, ammunition, grenades and rifles—all in preparation for possible uprisings which may be fomented by Pan-German elements. Certain areas of the German capital are banned to the general public, and a strict watch is kept by armed cordons thrown around possible danger zones.

The situation among the workers is tense. Supporters of the left wing are extremely angry at reactionary demonstrations which followed the assassination of Erzberger, itself a political crime.

"Unwarranted Potsdam shootings," instigated by Pan-Germans, have caused bitter feeling among the German workers.

The strong stand taken by the Government has been approved by the entire left. It has imposed the most stringent restrictions upon the opponents of the Government. Anti-Government meetings and outbursts in the press have been forbidden and will be suppressed.

The Pan-German press already has shown signs of obeying the order. It has "soft-pedaled" its invectives against Loebe and Wirts.

After the Erzberger funeral on Friday the tension will probably be considerably lessened.

BELFAST, August 30. — Canadian Press.—For the first time in its history the Great Northern Irish Railway was completly tied up to-day by the strike of the engineers and firemen who ceased work at midnight. Station staffs were automatically disemployed because of the walkout.

The main line of the railroad runs between Dublin and Belfast and its branches extend throughout the province of Ulster.

THE WEATHER

The rainfall on Monday totalled almost half an inch (.47.) This brings the amount for August well up to the average. COMMUNICATION CUT FOLLOWING BELFAST RIOTS

TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH LINES TO THE SOUTH PUT OUT OF ORDER—EIGHT ARE DEAD.

MILITARY ATTEMPTING TO QUELL DISTURBANCE

(By United Press.)

BELFAST, August 30. — Belfast was cut off from communication with the South of Ireland to-day, the telephone and telegraph lines having been put out of order following the serious rioting here in which there were eight casualties, a shipyard worker and a visitor to the city being killed.

The fighting between the Sinn Feiners and the Loyalists, which broke out early yesterday, continued throughout the day, and the military in armoured cars, were kept busy dispersing the battling mobs. Bombs and rifles were used by both sides, as well as murderous "Belfast Butterflies"—steel rivets from the shipyards.

Fierce fighting broke out early today. The police were forced to pour volleys in the opposing mobs of Sinn Feiners and Loyalists in an effort to quell a renewal of yesterday's internecine warfare.

Fourteen casualties were reported up until noon, two more persons being killed, making four that have died in the fighting of the past 24 hours.

The rioting continued despite the efforts of the forces of the Crown, who used armoured cars.

McCallum Grant, Lieutenant-Governor of Nova Scotia, and Senator Lynch-Staunton and Mr. Waddington Hay, of Listowel, who says: "The Province has lost a valuable public man, and to many of us a true friend."

Other messages came from Mr. and Mrs. R. O. McCullough, of Galt; Mr. G. R. Caldwell, of Brampton; Capt. Wilfred Powell, of the C. N. I. B., Calgary; Mr. John Small, Guelph; Mrs. Shearson, Galt; Mr. Percy Barton, Calgary, and Mr. R. C. Lawson, Calgary.

The street fighting became particularly violent after one o'clock today, the dinner hour, at ninety factories in the side streets radiating from Duncairn Gardens and North Queen Street.

One laborer was shot dead and several other persons were wounded, including one army sergeant. Citizens placed sand bags in the middle of the streets and maintained heavy firing against the police and military, who were forced to abandon the streets. Armored cars were summoney. At one time the patter of bullets resembled a hailstorm.

TRICK PITCHING IS MOST TO BLAME.

Introduction of Spitball, Shiner and Others Retarded Development of Real Pitchers.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 30.—The development of artificial aids to pitchers during the last fifteen years or more has done more to harm baseball than the introduction of the lively ball. Baseball men who have studied the game for years are agree dupon that point, and their contention it would seem is well supported by facts. The leading pitchers of the American League today are spitball pitchers. They are Red Faber, the sturdy veteran of the Chicago White Sox, and Stanley Covelskie, of the Cleveland Indians. Then come natural pitchers like the gallant Bob Shawkey of the Yankees, Carl Mays, Sam Jones, of Boston, and others.

The lively ball has increased batting. In fact, it has resulted in a plethora of home runs and triples. No game is complete without some broad shouldered athlete poling the ball into the bleachers or over the fence or between the outfielders. Yet the fact will be established by figures that the leading hurlers today are spitball men, while a dry-ball pitcher, using no artificial air, has to be of exceptional ability to hold the pace.

It might be well to bow to figures in ranking the pitchers, and therefore accord the palm of leadership to Stanley Coveleskie. The Cleveland Pole has won 19 games and lost 8 for a percentage of .704. Red Faber, pitching for a seventh place aggregation, has won 23 games and lost 10 for a mark of .697. He has pitched 277 innings, as compared to 243 frames for the Cleveland spitball pitcher.

Urban Shocker, the erratic hurler of the Browns, has a fair record himself, having compiled 18 victories against ten defeats, and he, too, is a spitball pitcher. Carl Mays and Sam Jones, who scorn and dampened delivery, are prominent among the pitchers of the league. Mays has won 18 games and lost 9 for a mark of .667. Shawkey, a natural curve ball pitcher, rates right along with the select, winning his rank on sheer worth. Bob has won 12 games and lost 8.

Youngsters Not So Sound.

But look over the young pitchers coming into the game and note how few compared with the good ones. Rip Collins of the Yankees jumped right in and worked up to the first flight last year with fourteen victories and eight defeats, allowing 3.18 earned runs. This year after a late start Ripp has turned in eight victories and three defeats for a mark of .727. Ed. Rommell and Dave Keefe went good last year with the Athletics.

And here is the cause of it all:

In the spring the young pitchers would report to the training camps fresh from a lower league and supplied with a good variety of stuff. They would watch the old players shine the ball, nick it, spit on it, roughen it up, so that the leather performed all sorts of freaks. Forthwith they forgot the curve and went in for shining the ball. The result was that trickery and cheap chicanery replaced natural pitching. So it happened that a natural art became changed gradually, into legerdeman Hermann the great would have made a great pitcher. So would Kellar or Thurston. Finally the welcome edict was issued and the shiner, the emery ball and everything but the spitter were ruled out of the game. The kids who from their early training were dependent upon the trick pitching had no final resource. They could not cheat and they didn't know how to pitch. There is one pitcher on the Yankees who used to roughen up the ball and whose fast ball was a terror. He hasn't such a sharp break on that fast ball now, but he is still a high-grade pitcher.

So it may be that while the new ball has increased long hitting to a certain extent, the record made by Red Faber with a seventh place team would indicate that the ball is not altogether to blame. Perhaps if more true skill were used and more time devoted to studying the weak points of the hitters there might be more pitching duels and more of the old-fashioned low scores.

CAMPBELLFORD ODDFELLOWS OBSERVED DECORATION DAY

CEREMONY AT CEMETERY ON SUNDAY ATTENDED BY MANY TOWNSPEOPLE — DISTINGUISHED MISSIONARY AT METHODIST CHURCH.

CAMPBELLFORD, August 30.—Mr. and Mrs. John Douglas, who have been visiting at the home of their son, left on Saturday for their home at Pasqua, Sask.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Burbank and little son, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Hendricks, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brown returned on Friday after a pleasant month camping at Baptiste, North Hastings.

Mr. and Mrs. John Storrie and sister, Miss Margaret Storrie, who have been on a three months' visit to relatives in Scotland and England, have returned home after a most enjoyable trip.

Mr. James Caskey is in Toronto this week.

Decoration Day.

On Sunday the local lodge of Oddfellows marched in a body to the cemetery and decorated the graves of their deceased brethren.. The procession was headed by the band, which furnished suitable music for the occasion. A large number of motors joined in the procession, as well as a large number of pedestrians, who went to witness this very befitting ceremony.

Address on India.

In the Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning the people of town were highly favoured in having an address from Mrs. (Rev.) J. S. McKay, of India. Mrs. McKay has spent thirty-three years in India, and therefore speaks from first-hand knowledge of conditions there. She is, moreover, a fluent speaker, and all who had the pleasure of hearing her were delighted with her address.

The speaker referred to the giant mountains and rivers of India, all of which are sacred to the natives. India has, by actual census, a population of three hundred and twenty million people. She spoke chiefly of the Hindoo. To them the cow and peacock are sacred, and for the Hindoo this life ends all. The speaker also referred to the great ravages caused by the influenza, when over ten million people were wiped out, and some estimates placed the number near forty million. India is essentially an agricultural country, the people living in villages, and one cannot understand India unless he knows the village life. There is one acre of land for each inhabitant of India. Mention was also made of the mendicants and their pilgrimages. The great need in India is for workers, medical, educational, industrial, and religious, to carry on the great work of teaching those who wish to be baptised.

In the evening, in the Methodist Church, Mrs. McKay's address was "The Dawning of a New Day in India for Women." The speaker said there were as many women and girls in India as there were men and women in North and South America. The caste system, which at first consisted of four castes now embraced one hundred thousand different castes, is one of India's greatest evils. With Mohammedanism goes divorce and polygamy, two of India's paramount evils. The speaker spoke of the condition of women, the majority being illiterate, due to the lack of schools for women, the child mariage system and enforced widowhood, she characterized as a dark stain on India's page. India, said the speaker, is a bright gem in Britain's crown, and because she is such she demands our assistance, and she predicted that if we do not Christianize India and China, when they awaken to their possibilities it will mean disaster to our children. She again made a most stirring appeal to the young people who are planning their life's work to go to the Far East and bring to them the Gospel of Good Tidings.

Miss Helson, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. (Rev.) C. F. McIntosh, and also Miss Carl Shaw, rendered the solo "Will your Anchor Hold in the Storm of Life" most sweetly at the union services in the Presbyterian church on Sunday. In the evening in the Methodist church, Rev. Mr. Wood of Foxboro, who is a guest at the home of Dr. and Mrs. G. A. Hay, renedered a solo most effectively.

Friends will regret to learn that the two little children of Rev. J. J. and Mrs. Black of Burnbrae, are quite ill.

SINN FEIN IS TO MAKE REPLY TO GOVT. TO-DAY

BELIEF GROWS THROUGHOUT IBELAND THAT SEPARATION FROM THE EMPIRE IS IMPOSSIBLE.

EXTREMISTS MUST BE CONVINCED YET

By CLYDE C. BEALS,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

DUBLIN, Aug. 30.— At a late meeting of the Sinn Fein inner ring it was decided that the reply to Lloyd George's latest note should be delivered to-day. It was to be brief, intimating that the Sinn Fein Cabinet had been empowered by the Dail Eireann to particpate in further conferences.

Further developments in the Irish situation were not expected until De Valera and his colleagues resumed their conversations with Lloyd George. It was believed here that Sir James Craig, Ulster's Premier, was in London for that purpose. Arthur Griffith was expected to head the Irish delegation in his new capacity as Foreign Minister. It is now believed here that the negotiations will continue over a period of months. There is a growing belief, which is spreading throughout even the belligerent sections of the country, that separation from the British Empire is impossible of attainment. The principal difficulty, it was said to-day, would be for De Valera to persuade the Sinn Fein extremists of this truth.

UNAUTHORIZED WALK-OUTS THREATENED

(By United Press.)

CHICAGO, August 30. — Railway union leaders exerted every effort to-day to prevent local unauthorized strikes, pending the taking of the "strike vote" of two million railroad employees.

Union agents were sent to every large railroad centre of the country, ostensibly to help get out the vote on the strike question, but also, it was learned, to keep the men on the job until the ballots were counted.

Messages were sent by B. M. Jewell, head of the Railway Department of the American Federation of Labor and by other union leaders, to local union organizations, that were showing signs of restlessness, urging them to stay on their jobs.

Threats of unauthorized strikes were received from several of the large railroad centres.

STREET NOISES.

Noise has become so fixed an accompaniment to the rush of present-day life that it seems to be regarded as an unavoidable annoyance. But Hamilton's M.O.H. does not consider the swelling street noises as necessary or to be endured in patience and silence by citizens who desire some atmosphere of quiet and rest. He has stated that the abatement of this nuisance demands as much attention from a Board of Health as do unsanitary conditions. If this opinion could gain the support of health authorities in general and be translated into action there might be some hope of eliminating from residential districts much of the noise that has been too long tolerated without protest.

Automobiles running with the "cut outs" open vie with street cars galumping along with flat wheels. Children must of necessity play on the streets, because no proper places have been provided for them except in a few far scattered communities. There is no desire to criticize the litle folks in their play, but there should be some restrictions put upon motor cars and trucks that race about the streets with their exhausts sounding like machine guns. No consideration for possible sick persons counsels reckless drivers, who step on the accelerator in passing through residential districts, and apparently the law has no fears for them. Peterborough is not so swift and populous that it has much to worry about in this regard, but its residents get a full measure of the disturbance that has been complained of in Hamilton.

In other days street hawkers calling their wares were often denounced for their novel noises. Today they couldn't be heard above the din. Perhaps that explains their disappearance from the streets.

COMMUNITY SINGING.

The public choruses proposed for the evening performances at the Peterborough Exhibition this year should be a successful and exceptionally enjoyable feature. If it be successful it will certainly be enjoyable. It is assumed that the Fair Board's plans in this connection will be carried out in spite of the accident to Mr. Bert Caldwell of Toronto, who was at first engaged as leader. If he has not sufficiently recovered to permit his attending the exhibition, some other competent director should be secured to undertake the interesting assignment of evoking a flow of song from a promiscuous assembly in holiday mood, but somewhat doubtful of its vocal abilities and, perhaps, a trifle diffident about casting off its repressive conventions.

It may be that the Rotary Club could supply a qualified song leader, for, according to the reports of their weekly luncheons, the Rotarians are wont to enliven their business and prandial proceedings with familiar choruses. And with the practice they have already had it might not be too much to expect that some one of the members has by this time attained perfection in the persuasive art of arousing a prosaic crowd with the poetry of song.

At Montreal recently the Kiwanis, an organization somewhat similar to the Rotarians, held a sing-song on Fletcher's Field that attracted an immense throng; and their success was equalled by the Rotarians of Ottawa, who arranged a community singing event on Parliament Hill that brought together 12,000 people. The words of old household songs were flung upon a screen, suspended between two posts, and a Rotarian directed the choruses with a baton.

Community singing is one of the beneficient results of the war, a heritage of the days when "Pack Up Your Troubles in Your Old Kit Bag"

Borden's ST. CHARLES EVAPORATED MILK

More milk means better health. Have it handy and use it in cooking was on the lips of soldier and civilian alike. Remembered too are "It's a Long Way to Tipperary," "There's a Long, Long Trail" and "K-K-K-Katy." Community singing has become more widespread in the United States than in Canada, but the impetus given it at the Toronto Exhibition last year is slowly taking effect in other cities.

Of music's many influences, it may be said of the sing-song that it kindles the finest emotions, it stimulates the feeling of unity and brotherhood and it lifts and frees the spirit, while its spell endures, of the worries and cares of life. Evidently the Rotary Clubs have found it conducive to cordiality and understanding. So will the general public even though the occasions be only annual. One can't imagine a group of citizens, however numerous, uniting in the singing of "The Maple Leaf Forever," "O Canada" and "Rule Brittania" without being drawn together in their sense of citizenship and partiotism; or of singing "Annie Laurie" and "A Perfect Day" without mutual and stronger feelings of friendship that are quickened by the appeal to sentiments that lie deep in all of us.

UNPREPAREDNESS.

That Canada would experience a period of trade depression and consequent hard times following her participation in a four years' world war might have been anticipated, but apparently was not by either Governments or municipalities. At least such anticipation has not shown itself to any appreciable extent in preparation to combat the threatened wolf at the door of thousands of enforced unemployed by planning for public work on a sufficiently large scale. 'Tis true there is the Chippawa Canal (to be finished in December) and a fair mileage of Provincial highways under construction, together with a smattering of municipal improvements here and there throughout the country—and, O, yes, talk aplenty—but these have been and are but mere drops in the busket of employment-creating preparedness which should have been instituted to meet present unemployment exigencies, which threaten to become accentuated manifold next winter.

All great wars have been followed, sooner or later, by an aftermath of economic depression, and history is only repeating itself in this twentieth century. And it is that precedent revealed by history which, had Canada's statesmeen been wise they, to say nothing of the rank and file of Canadians, would have heeded and prepared against the inevitable slump resulting from trade and commercial readjustment.

After the Napoleonic upheaval in Europe, during which America became involved in a minor degree with England, the whole world suffered more or less from commercial and industrial depression pending readjustment of home and international affairs. In England the pressure of heavy taxes required to meet the financial legacies of the war was embittered by general distress in the country. The new tax on the importation of grains resulted in famine prices, while corresponding tariff restrictions abroad kept British markets overstocked with goods. Mills and factories had to be shut down, and the starving people grew bitter and menacing. In the United States also similar conditions obtained, although not quite so acute. While conditions in Canada today are, fortunately, less distressful than were those following Napoleon's downfall, still signs are not wanting of trying days ahead before an economic normal era again develops.

The Trades and Labor Congress in Winnipeg urged a scheme of unemployment insurance—which, by the way, The Examiner advocated some months ago—this to become effective at the earliest possible moment, and in the interim our Federal and Provincial Governments to construct such public works as are necessary, including overhauling all rolling stock on Government railroads and all other equipment of the Federal Government's spending departments; the Government of the Provinces to engage in road building on a large scale, repair and renew old public buildings and construct new ones where needed; engage in reforestation seriously, and develop agricultural lands.

This program is a commendable one; but even if adopted, partially or wholly, by Canada's Governments, it looks as though thousands of hungry mortals may have to be relieved by doles before such plans are actively engaged in. And this leads to the thought that whatever shape such relief takes, the methods of application should be so systematized that first consideration does not go to the least needy or least deserving. That is to say, they who would not work at a fair wage reduction commensurate with cost deflation of material and living commodities—of which class we believe there are none in Peterborough—carrying with them into enforced idleness thousands of brother mortals should not by any miscarriage of justiee find preference over such men as those who, while willing to shoulder their fair share of reconstruction deflation, still lack employment. Again, any bureau for the distribution of relief ought to be so organized that its officials are governed in their assistance rendered by the actual conditions of applicants, as to size of family, resources, etc. The exercise of care and judgment founded on accurate information as to an applicant's position in relation to relief will be necessary to safeguard against the abuse of any relief fund which may be created in Peterborough or elsewhere.

Of course, we should not be unduly pessimistic, but present indications, public work or not, presage considerable distress this coming winter, in relief of which preparations cannot be undertaken too soon.

The summer is ended, the harvest is past, and a small army of men in this Canada of ours have had but little work since spring opened, during a period when employment is usually found in abundance.

Don't think that because a man is quiet and does not advertise himself that he has no ability. He may have more brains to the square inch than there is to the square foot in the fellow who is hollering his head off. Don't think because a church is modest in its ways that it is accomplishing nothing. It may be doing more good in a day than is done in a week by the one you can hear whooping three blocks away. Don't think because a type of religion is undemonstrative that it has not the power of God's spirit. The spirit of God is manifested by men doing justly, loving mercy and walking humbly, rather than by raising the roof.

Have You Realized This?

Dear John:

Of course I know that you would not expect your loved ones to live on only $60.00 a year.

We would have to sell the home; and after the mortgage was satisfied we would have only $1,000! Invested at 6 per cent., this means an income of only $5.00 a month — and without a home! THINK! Get insurance.

BOY, 16, BATTLES OSTRICH TO SAVE LIFE OF CHILD, 8

LONDON, Aug. 30.— "Sonnie" Saunders, the 16-year-old son of Councillor Saunders of Oudtshoorn South Africa, is the hero of a thrilling duel with a fierce ostrich in a large ostrich camp in the veld, whither he had wandered, accompanied by a little boy "chum" of 8, The London Express recounts the adventure.

"A fierce cock ostrich made for the pair, and young Saunders, knowing that if he took to his heels it would result in his little friend being mauled and possibly killed by the bird, advanced to meet the attack, telling his friend to stand motionless.

"The boy and bird advanced toward each other. As the bird was on the point of striking Saunders stepped aside, seized it by the neck, and leaped right on its back. The lad, after a desperate struggle, in which he sustained a severe wound on his wrist, managed at last to twist the bird's neck and render it unconscious. It was only when his little friend had got safely through the wire fence that he consented to leave the motionless mass.

"Old hands describe the act as one of the pluckiest on record, even for a full grown man."

Chapter 50.

Tom and Lillian came to dinner. At first things seemed a trifle forced and awkward, and I was a bit doubtful over the success of my plans, but Kent came admirably to the rescue.

He was always so easy going and natural that it was hard for anyone to feel uneasy in his presence. Something about his fascinating manner and deep, hearty laugh always seemed to brighten up the cloudy atmosphere.

By the time we were half through the meal, everybody was talking and laughing naturally and with genuine spontaneity.

"Oh, Lillian!" I exclaimed, flushing a little, "you have that cup with a chip in it. I never meant to use it, I'm so sorry," I declared. "But you'll have to blame Kent for that, though I should have put it away some place where there would be no chance for using it.

"My fault!" Kent ejaculated, "that's because I'm henpecked and made to wash the dishes. Is that the cup I knocked against the faucet last night? I told you to throw it away, and now you're blaming me," he said pretending to be offended.

Tom's eyes opened in wonderment.

"Gee, does Kent do the dish washing for you, Barbara?" he questioned.

"Sure I do, don't you believe it?" Kent interrupted. "Just come around any night after dinner and see for yourself, or better still—take a look at the china. That will prove it," he laughed.

Tom shot a quick, sidewise glance at Lillian, and a look of embarrassment flashed across his features.

"Of course Kent doesn't really do it ever night," I explained. "He comes home too tired, and I wouldn't want him to, but you have no idea how much easier and more fun it is to clean things up after dinner when we are both doing it together," I said smilingly. "Just try it Lillian—make Tom help you," I suggested lightly.

After dinner I coaxed Lillian to sing something for us.

"Why, Barbara—I never sing any more. I haven't in years," she declared.

"And Tom! Doesn't he play the piano at all?" I asked, a little surprised. "You use to play and sing so beautifully together," I ventured. "What was that old English street ballad with the deep, wonderful notes in it that I loved to hear you sing, Lillian?"

Tom went over to the piano and sitting down struck a few cords, and then ran his fingers lovingly across the keys.

"That's it, Tom, 'I once loved a boy,'" I half hummed the words over softly as Tom picked out the deep, vibrating chords. "Please—Lillian!" I entreated.

She went over and stood by Tom's side. At first her voice trembled a little and then as she sang on and the old love of music rushed back into her heart, she forgot herself and sang the beautiful words through to the end with deepest feeling.

"That's splendid Lillian. I never knew you could sing like that," Kent cried enthusiastically as the song was ended.

Lillian turned with flushed cheeks and pleasure glowing in her tired eyes.

I slipped my arm around her waist as she came over near me and drew her down on the arm of my chair.

Tom hitched the stool a little forward and struck the keys forcefully in the opening notes of Shubert's Serenade. I looked up into Lillian's face. She smiled back at me. Then she leaned over and whispered softly: "This is the first I have heard Tom play in over two years."

Be sure you see the

"Williams" Exhibit

In Machinery Hall

Among other up-to-date equipment especially interesting to owners and superintendents of woodworking plants, you will see the new style

C. M. C. Ripping and Jointing Saw (No. 613)

This machine has been especially designed to accommodate those who have a quantity of light ripping, but not sufficient to justify the use of the heavier machine—No. 611. While somewhat lighter in construction than No. 611 and having a smaller feed range, the new machine is practically identical with it.

You will see also the new

C.M.C. Self Feed Rip Saw (No. 605)

which is a radical departure in design and embodies many features not found on any other self-feed Rip Saw on the market.

Many Other Interesting Features in This Big Machinery Exhibit

Here you will see the most up-to-date machinery and equipment for the machine shop, foundry and woodworking factory. Many of the machines will be in constant operation, thus giving you an excellent opportunity to judge of their efficiency.

See also the famous "Tunnel-King" Motor Boat and the "Wade" Drag Saw that does the work of ten men.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Peterborough, Ont.,
August 29, 1921.

Editor Examiner.

Dear Sir,—For some time I have been making personal investigations as to the claims made by Mr. E. J. Cowain, M.E., and others as to the existence of a body of oil running from the district around Belleville to the proximity of Peterborough. My conclusions are that it is likely to be a repetition of the Cobalt field development in that it is left to Americans and Britishers to develop and obtain the big share of the profits. These interests are already in the field. My information from reliable people in Belleville is that some people are drilling near Lonsdale and no one knows what they are getting.

The Standard oil people are supposed to be the secretive parties, as that is their method. The English company is taking its time. Mr. Reeves, the manager of the English company, frankly told me he got the best man he could obtain from the Mines Department to give him a geological report, and the report was first-class. Another group of United States and Toronto people with a leasehold of 2,700 acres near the "Central Ontario Oil Fields" holdings obtained a first-class report. I find the Government never gave this field a thorough investigation and, therefore, never obtained a proper report from a geological standpoint on the district.

Realizing this, Mr. Reeves had the examination properly made with encouraging results.

Whoever are now drilling must have encouraging reports.

My conclusion is that if these people got encouraging reports the Central Ontario Co. has very much more encouragement, as Mr. Reeves acknowledged, on account of the system of finding the exact location of the body of oil. Such an authority as Mr. Graham of Graham's, Ltd., of Belleville, who has had a large experience in Essex district, who has proven the system beyond a doubt in connection with the finding of water and who sees no reason for different results with oil is of value. Further he stated he would be in on this oil development if he had not undertaken in other lines his financial limit.

Is it not, then, a wise and important step for Peterborough citizens who are interested, not only in their own financial returns but in the interest of Peterborough City and surrounding district to determine the possibilities. Let the oil industry be once established as having a future and it is not hard to look ahead to see the benefits in employment and business dealings for years to come. All merchants should be interested, all manufacturers should be interested, all householders should be interested, for there is a very good outlook for gas.

I am very anxious, therefore, that the efforts of those who are trying to develop this industry shall be encouraged by financial assistance from Peterborough.

Can you think of any industry more important?

Your sincerely,
A. H. ALLEN.

The Ideal Laxative for Children

Mothers, give the little ones Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin for constipation. Acts mildly and gently. Formula on the package.

THE alert mother, ever anxious to find something better for her children's health, will interest herself in learning what is best to give them when they are constipated, have a headache, cold or fever, are bilious or dyspeptic. It stands to reason that the remedy that might be suitable for you, at your age, might be too drastic for a child.

By all means do what you can to regulate the diet, giving preference to the light, easily digested foods. But when diet fails you will have to help Nature with medicine. It would then be well for you to avoid the harsher cathartics and physics, castor oil, calomel and such, even if disguised in tablets or pills, for they weaken the child and make it irritable.

A better plan is to give half a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin. It acts mildly and gently and does not gripe or weaken. It has the unusual merit of being safe for the tiniest baby yet equally effective for grownups. The formula is plainly on the package, and a sixty-cent bottle is sufficient to last an average family many months.

There is nothing better or safer than Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin for stomach, liver and bowel troubles, and as it contains no narcotics or mercurials, mothers can feel safe in giving it to any member of the family needing a constipation medicine. It is syrupy and delightfully pleasant to take. It must meet the taste of the majority, for last year over eight million bottles were bought in drug stores, the largest sale of the kind in the world.

Buy a sixty-cent bottle today with the understanding that if for any reason it does not do exactly as claimed your money will be refunded. Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin has been on sale in drug stores for thirty years so you would not be experimenting with anything new.

Try It FREE

There are heads of families who will want to prove to their own satisfaction that my Laxative Syrup Pepsin is as effective in constipation, as mild and gentle in action, as plensant-tasting and safe, as I claim. Let such write me for a sample. It will be sent postpaid. Simply say, "Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 19 Front St., Bridgeburg, Ont.: Send a free trial bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin to—" and give your name and address. I will see that the rest is attended to promptly.

WHEN WILL YOU DIE?

A POISONED SYSTEM SOON DECAYS.

Ninety per cent. of us die 20 years before we should; we neglect ourselves by forgetting we have a Liver. When the Liver is not working our system becomes glogged with all sorts of poisons, causing Headaches, Indigestion, Constipation, Rheumatism, etc. There is only one drug known that acts directly upon the Liver and that is Tanated Calomel. Doctors say you should take one before meals and at bedtime, and in one to five days you will feel 100 per cent. better. You cannot expect to live long or feel well if you do not take care of your Liver. When your Liver does not exeret bile into the intestines, the waste collects in the bowels and is carried away by the blood causing all sorts of aches and pains.

Tanated Calomel is sold by F. C. Webber, Charlotte street.

BYNGS CANCEL ENGAGEMENTS

FOLLOWING DEATH OF LIEUT.-GOVERNOR CLARKE.

TORONTO, Aug. 30.—(Canadian Press.)— News yesterday afternoon of the death of His Honor Lieut.-Governor Lionel H. Clarke, was followed by the announcement that the Governor-General, Lord Byng and Lady Byng had cancelled all their engagements in Toronto, but that they would remain in Toronto for the funeral on Wednesday.

Lord Byng had attended a polo match at the Woodbine in the morning, had visited the Canadian Club early in the afternoon and had unveiled a memorial tablet at the headquarters of the Commercial Travellers' Association when word came from Government House of the fatal termination of His Honour's illness. Lord Byng, who was to have been entertained at the Royal Canadian Yacht Club at the Island, cancelled the engagement and he and Lady Byng remained at Holwood during the remainder of the afternoon.

CREATES SECOND VACANCY.

OTTAWA, Aug. 30.—(Canadian Press.)— The death of Leiut.-Governor Lionel H. Clarke, at Toronto yesterday creates the second vacant Lieutenant-Governorship in Canada. Although Sir James A. M. Aikins is still carrying on, his term as Lieut.-Governor of Manitoba expired some weeks ago, and the appointment of his successor is being awaited. It is possible that Sir James will be appointed for another term, but Premier Meighen has made no announcement yet.

FOR WOMEN SHOPPERS ONLY

BUENOS AIRES. (By Mail to United Press.)— Hundreds of imported millinery creations, covered with bird of paradise plumage and not a single bone hairpin, such as one buys at 25 cents a card in the United States!

Bolt after bolt of gorgeously figured silks from Paris designers and not a piece of plain moire or poplin!

Case upon case filled with filmy evening gowns and not a single plain silk or velvet skirt!

Row after row of jewelled satin slippers and not a single sport or street shoe!

Such are the women's merchandise stores of Buenos Aires.

The member of the foreign colony, who would shop on the same scale as in another land, finds that, unless she has cultivated the Argentine taste in feminine apparel, all the massive department stores in the big city could never supply even her most simple needs in dress accessories.

There is one underlying explanation for the general lack of ready-to-wear garments and that is that the local woman prefers to hire her own dressmaker, select a picture from a French or English fashion sheet and instruct the woman to make this up. The greater majority of the ready-made goods are in blacks, to be donned hastily as mourning.

In striking contrast to the black frocks are those for children in the very brightest colors, seemingly chosen to counterbalance the long periods of mourning the little girl will go through later in life. The most brilliant blues, carmens and rose and greens go into tiny coats, generally with a hat to match. Often the tiny miss will be completely clad in a garment knitted from bright tinted yarns and trimmed with a bit of white marabout or fur on wrists and collar, if it is during the cold season. Much of this type of clothing comes from Germany.

Quite contrary to the general impression one gets in a lingerie department of a store in the United States is that which one gleans from a visit to such a plane here. Instead of the heaps of dainty white and pale pink, lace-trimmed undergarments— frilly things that even the uninitiated have become acquainted with on the stage and in fashionable places—lingeries is of the strictly-buttoned-up-to-the-neck type; that instead of delicate pinks, grays and muddy cream are the predominant color notes. The Argentine woman is discreetly modest, unless she has come in contact with Europe or North America. Her taste runs to heavy woolens and opaque materials. She generally is seen in street dresses of serge and sink, made along straight, simple lines and worn with magnificent furs and coats.

The shopper finally finds herself in an English store, where all goods have been imported from Great Britain, but the clerks speak nothing but Spanish. Each bundle of knitwear, for instance, is wrapped in paper and stowed away on shelves. Whenever one package is opened, it must be tied again with a heavy cord before the next one can be taken down, all this going on while the customer frets as the hands of the clock go round.

At another place my lady shops for a hat. In an establishment copied after French shops, equipped with gold braid cushions, oval art mirrors, shaded standing lamps and imitation mannequins for hat-racks, a fashionably clad miss removes one cover after another from dozens of boxes. She must go through all of these containers in quest of the brown hat you have inquired for, because she has no idea in which of the boxes it has been stowed.

Merchandising methods are hard to understand. A woman enters a store in quest of a card of pearl buttons. She has them in hand and her cash is ready, but the clerks are endlessly rummaging through shelves in quest of missing goods in a most leisurely fashion. In another store. Buttons, the gilt braid bellhop who opens the door, hustles the shopper off to the ribbon department. The madame wishes one metre of black velvet baby ribbon to refurbish a blouse. Three senoritas are ready to wait on her, but all deplore the fact that they are unable to sell her anything less than a five-metre card and suggest that she trim five blouses with the ribbon.

A Half-Million Hungry Children

There may be one in your home. He has "plenty to eat"—but his food lacks the tissue-building elements that are needed by growing children. The foods that have no real food value generally cost the most.

Shredded Wheat

is the best food for growing children because it is all food and is prepared in a digestible form. A noted physician says there are a half-million under-nourished children in our country. Shredded Wheat builds robust, sturdy youngters.

Two Biscuits with milk make a nourishing, satisfying meal and cost but a few cents. Delicious with raisins, prunes, sliced bananas, peaches or other fruits.

SIMLA, BRITISH INDIA, Aug. 30.—(Canadian Press.)— A general staff report from Malabar, issued Sunday night, said disturbances had occurred south of Ponnani. The steamer Nawab had arrived at Calicut with supplies. Both Calicut and Dudalar were reported to be quiet.

The official communication of Saturday, from Calicut said a column returning from Lalapuram came into action with the rebels Friday at Pukkatur. The casualties of the Moplahs were about four hundred killed. The British losses were two men killed and six wounded, including one officer.

DRURY'S BROADENING OUT POLICY ADOPTED BY WESTERN FARMERS

W. B. COWAN FOUND THEM AS STRONG IN THE CITIES AS IN THE RURAL SECTIONS—CO-OPERATIVE DAIRYING SUCCESSFULLY AND GENERALLY ESTABLISHED.

That the broadening-out policy espoused by Premier Drury is being successfully carried out in Western Canada by the National Progressive Party is the statement made by H. B. Cowan, Managing Director of the Rural and Horticultural Publishing Co's and secretary-treasurer of the United Dairymen's Cooperative after six weks trip through the Prairie Provinces and British Columbia. The Farmer movement has taken hold of Urban centres and from observation and conversation Mr. Cowan felt safe in saying that the Progressives were overwhemingly in the majority. Mr. Cowan's six weeks in a comprehensive dairying survey indicated he states a impetus in the dairying industry in the three provinces in the last five years. Mr. Cowan declared that the butter was of a higher grade than Eastern and in the matter of legislation to better dairying industry. The Western governments have shown a more progressive spirit. Cheese must be graded for the factories. Butter is being manufactured for export and the provinces are seeking export markets and are grading all butter for export. While in Winnipeg, Mr. Cowan said an order for a car of butter, was received from Manchester and expected to be opening of profitable English trade.

In Western Canada and in Washington state, cooperative businesses are flourishing. Mr. Cowan declared and in no field has there been greater advances made than in cooperative dairying. "In Manitoba the farmers asked the government at the last session to assist them in buying up existing dairy plants or establish new ones on the same basis as the Saskatchewan government did for the farmers there. In Saskatchewan the farmers who wanted to erect or buy up plants subscribed stock for the amount involved and paid up 25 per cent of it and the government advanced the other 75 per cent.

There was quite a discussion over it in the Legislature with the result the government finally agreed to advance 50 per cent. The farmers did not accept this offer and have themselves a creamery in Winnipeg now operating and are endeavouring to link up other cooperative creameries hrough the province in one provincial company.

In Saskatchewan the cooperative creameries control about two thirds of the creameries of the province. They own 25 creameries and eight cold storage plants and they have just completed a big plant in Regina at a cost of about $300,000. They control about 80 per cent of the milk cream and ice cream trade of Regina

Probably the strongest cooperative company of its kind in this country is the one of the farmers of the Frazer valley. They have a wholesale and retail plant in Vancouver controlling 80 per cent of the trade in dairy products of the cities of Vancouver and New Westminister They own a cheese factory and creamery in the country and have an arrangement with two condensaries whereby their surplus milk is handled. About 95 per cent of the farmers have signed an agrement to sell milk through their own organization

On Vancouver Island there is a similiar organizaton. The farmers there own a creamery in Victoria and make their surplus milk into butter. The balance is sold to three big firms in Victoria who will buy all their milk and cream from the organized farmers.

Five large cooperative farm enterprises in five counties in Washington state have just been started. They are doing a big business but haven't been organized long enough to determine what the final success will be.

Before returning east Mr. Cowan and his little son spent an interesting week in the Rockies in Lake Louise district and Mr. Cowan had the distinction of climbing and taking photographs from Mount Temple at an attitude of 11,0000 feet. Mr. Cowan successfully negotiated several smaller peaks and has evidence of his Alpine experiences in numerous photographs.

"A QUALITY CIGAR"

IT STARTED HIM GOING UP HILL

HAMILTON MAN DECLARES HE WAS ALMOST DOWN AND OUT BEFORE HE STARTED ON TANLAC.

"Tanlac has rid me of my troubles and built me up seventeen pounds in weight and I now feel like an entirely different person" said Frank N. Hower, of 193 East avenue N., Hamilton, Ont., well-known salesman for the Harris Abattoir Co., Ltd.

"Yes, Tanlac certainly delivered the goods for me. Last May I was taken with pneumonia and lay in the hospital for five weeks hovering between life and death. While convalescing I had to lie around home for a couple of months and was just as weak as a baby. I had no strength or energy for the slightest exertion, and was almost completely down and out. I had no appetite, felt like I had a lump of lead in my stomach all the time, and suffered a lot from biliousness. I could never get any good rest, and always felt wornout and miserable.

"I couldn't find anything to build me up until I got Tanlac, but this medicine started up my appetite and improved my digestion and I was soon going up hill right along. I kept taking the medicine until I could eat anything I wanted and digest it perfectly, and I am today feeling just as fine as I ever did in my life. Tanlac has pulled me right around to the very best of health, and it seems almost miraculous to me that it could have fixed me up so wonderfully."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by the Warne Drug Co., Ltd., and all leading druggists.

SHE DONS KNICKERS: COMFORT? OH GIRL!

Sally Has Thrown Away Her Skirts For All Time.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—Sally Waldman threw away her skirts to-day and served notice on the world she was going to wear knickerbockers the rest of her life.

Whereupon Sally started out among her girl friends to organize a Knickerbocker Club.

Sally grew weary of wearing skirts all the time.

"Women have been wearing them for centuries," he said. "It's time for a change. Paris can't dictate our style any longer.

"The girls who join the club—and I am getting lots of members—28—wear the knickers to work teas, theatres, school and everywhere."

Sally claims to be the first girl in America to go 100 per cent. knickerbocker.

"Comfort?" she exclaimed. "Oh, girl!"

It has been a great addition to the village and provides diversion for the young people and also for older people who throng the park to see the pretty scene.

Work on the Dam.

The work on Lakefield's new concrete dam is going on apace, the great pillars of concrete are more than two-thirds of the way across and on the west side the scene during working hours is like an ant ill, when viewed from the bridge. Everyone busy carrying out each his given task. It will be an enduring structure and one which will add greatly to the appearance of the river.

Rink is Taking Form.

Work is being rushed at the new rink and the end of each day's work shows a decided advance. It will be a great asset to this village, which has for years deplored the lack of a suitable rink. The accommodation for the curlers is twice as great as in the Agricultural building, which was used for years and one can hope and expect a bonspiel will be held in Lakefield during this winter. Each year brings fresh recruits to the ranks of the devotees of the 'roarin' game,' and with such a fine new rink, the membership will be a record one for 1922.

IRISH REPUBLICAN ARMY IS PREPARED FOR NEW WARFARE

By CHARLES McCANN
(United Press Staff Correspondent).

DUBLIN, Aug. 29. — No matter what happens in Ireland as the result of the present peace negotiations, the Irish Republican Army will be prepared for it.

Soldiers of the army are convinced that the I.R.A. has beaten the Crown forces in Ireland. Peace negotiations were instituted by the British Government after over a year of desperate guerrilla warfare. The Irish leaders see in that fact victory in their fight for Irish independence.

From various Republican army leaders in Dublin, the United Press has gained information, much of it confidential, which shows that the army will be prepared to resume the fight immediately if peace efforts fail.

The various units of the army are just as well co-ordinated to-day as they were before the truce started. Though all of the men are on leave except a few engaged with officers in liaison work, they are not being permitted to forget the fact that so far there is only a truce, not a permanent peace, in Ireland. They do not want a resumption of war; but they will be perfectly prepared for it.

According to army leaders, the men would be ready to resume the fight on a day's notice. To question whether an army necessarily so loosely organized would not deteriorate during a truce, they reply that the men of the I. R. A. pay a membership contribution in order to belong to it; that they are as ready now to fight as they were a month or six months ago; that they are fighting a victorious fight for their own country on their own soil, and that they will not stop fighting until their cause is won or the I. R. A. is wiped out.

BERLIN WOMEN APE THE PRUSSIAN APPEARANCE.

BERLIN (by mail to the United Press). — Monocle wearing by women is now considered here as quite modish.

Before the war one might see here and there, a woman wearing one of these glasses which have done so much to give the Prussian a reputation for being hard-faced. But now it is becoming fairly popular, especially among "super-cultivated" folk.

Authoresses, actresses, "people ahead of the times," are the type effecting this new style. With the make-up generally goes a walking-stick, and very often a Dachund, poodle or lapdog. These same women are likely to smoke a cigarette as they stroll along Kurfuerstendam.

Thus far, they haven't adopted the scarred face—the sure sign of Prussian education and Kultur.

A Paradox: It takes ovens of 500° of heat to make this cooling breakfast dish—

PUTTING A BOTTLE OF BEER ABOVE THE CONSTITUTION

SENATOR REED, OF MISSOURI, ATTACKS REPRESENTATIVE VOLSTEAD, LEADER OF RADICAL DRYS.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The Senate and House fought another fast and furious round over the Campbell-Willis anti-beer bill.

The House, by a vote of 169 to 81, ratified the conference agreement under which the Stanley search and seizure amendment, adopted by the Senate, is destroyed along with the House substitute interpreted as legalizing home brewing and distilling.

Before agreeing to the conference report, the House by a vote of 181 to 3, adopted a resolution by Representative Newton, of Minnesota, calling upon the Senate to expunge from the record the remarks of Senator Reed, of Missouri, criticizing Representative Volstead, of Missouri, leader of the radical drys. The Newton resolution characterized Senator Reed's remarks as "improper, unparliamentary and a reflection on the character of Representative Volstead.

Senator Reed's language as printed in the Congressional Record follows:

"Until the other day, I never had the pleasure of seeing the distinguished author of the Volstead Act. His brief biography states that he was born in the United States. I am, however, informed he speaks a very broken English. I do not know what his ancestry may be, but I do know that I have gazed upon pictures of the celebrated conspiritors of the past, the countenances of those who have led in fanatical crusades, the burners of witches, the executioners who applied the torch of persecution, and I saw them all again, when I looked at the author of this bill.

"I have no respects for a man, whether he be a member of the House or elsewhere, who proposes to whittle down the constitution of the United States, who tries to leave it as does the amendment of the House, so that an officer can go into every building except a residence who puts the discovery of a bottle of beer above the Constitution, who, in the pursuit of his favorite pastime of hunting somebody who may take a drink, is willing to destroy that Constitution which he held up his hand and before Almighty God swore he would maintain, protect and preserve.

"A man who thinks more of getting a bootlegger than he does of preserving the palladium of human liberty is not fit to be in a legislative body and not fit to be a citizen of the United States. I have more respect for an anarchist, who, in his ignorance and blindness, stands upon a soap box proclaiming against all government, than I have for the man who will in this body or in the House of Representatives, swear before the Almighty that he will preserve the Constitution of the United States and then employ the authority and power he people vested in him to preserve the Constitution for the purpose of destroying that sacred document."

KANRED, NEW AMERICAN WHEAT

The New York Herald says: Kansas has a new wheat which her farmers believe will not only increase the annual yield of her golden belt, but also give to her a far superior grain. This new wheat was born, in the language of producers, at the Kansas Agricultural Experiment Station at Manhattan in 1915 and 1916. It was called by the distinctive Sunflower State name, Kanred. The present season is the first in which there has been an opportunity to determine by practical tests its actual value. About 500,000 acres, according to an estimate by the State Agricultural College, were planted in the new wheat and the results have been carefully watched. Many reports are to the effects that where the yield from other varieties common to the hard wheat region was twenty-four or twenty-five bushels an acre the yield from Kanred was thirty-five or thirty-six bushels. The average increase of the yield from Kanred over the varieties commonly grown as estimated by the authorities at the experiment station, is from three to five bushels an acre.

The story of wheat and of its development is peculiarly fascinating. hTe old French scientist, J. Henri Tarre, philosophically remarks that while history celebrates the battlefield where men met death it scorns to sneak of the ploughed fields where they thrive: "it knows the names of kings' bastards, but cannot tell us the origin of wheat." While modern history fails in its efforts to find the origin of wheat, it has followed and recorded with a great minuteness of detail the development of the modern varieties. A striking example of this is the tracing of the growth of Marquis wheat, the famous wheat of Western Canada, an immediate predecessor of the Kanred.

The Saunderses, father and sons, began their work of developing a wheat which could be grown successfully in Western Canada and along the northern wheat belt of the United States a quarter of a century ago. For their purpose they searched for wheat in all parts of America, Australia, Japan, in the colder districts of Russia and at different altitudes in the Himalayas. In 1903 they finally obtained a few grains from a single head of wheat which they planted in a small patch on the Canadian experimental ground. The yield of this planting was a pound of grain in 1904, the parent grain from which in 1918 came a crop of 300,000,000 bushels of Marquis wheat with a market price of $600,000,000. Canada estimates that the Saunderses by their discovery of Marquis wheat increased the value of the Canadian wheat crop $15,000,000 a year.

The work of the pioneer experimenter Pringle of Vermont to discover the Defiance, of Jones of New York to perfect a wheat for the Eastern States, of Luther Burbank to develop a white wheat and of Dr. Wheeler, of Canada, to develop the Red Bobs and to improve the Kitchener are all interesting chapters in the history of wheat culture. Despite the remarkable progress made in the development of wheat, agriculturists say that there yet remains a vast field for improvement. When we remember that it was not many years ago that men believed hard wheat could not be grown profitably in Kansas and that twenty-five years ago it was said that wheat, which now flourishes at 65 degrees north latitude and thrives within 300 miles of the Arctic circle could not possibly be grown north of Winnipeg and Medicine Hat, in 50 degrees north latitude, we can understand the full import of this statement.

The point, perhaps, is that most of the new varieties of wheat possess certain special qualities, some being immune from wheat plagues and diseases, others ripening early and withstanding frost, or baking or grinding to better advantage or showing great productiveness. The goal of the wheat experimenter is the production of grain which will have all of these qualities in the highest possible degree.

SAYS WIFE ASKED HIM $5 TO SEE HIS CHILD.

Husband Runs With Son to Police Station.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30. — Walter Taylor, of Brooklyn, rushed breathlessly into a police station carrying a 3-year-old boy. Immediately in his wake was Mrs. May Taylor, his wife and the mother of the child. Behind Mrs. Taylor were a number of stalwart neighbors.

Taylor told the police that he and his wife were separated and that while she had the custody of the child, the court gave him the privilege of having it for a short while each week. But his wife made him pay $5 for the privilege, he said.

So, he said, he shoved his wife out of the way, grabbed the boy and ran. Mrs. Taylor and her neighbors gave chase and the police station looked better to him than the river.

Before the lieutenant could get his solemn clothes on, Mrs. Taylor and her party left the station and took up a point of vantage across the street. Every time the father looked out the party was there; and Taylor realized that it wasn't his kind of a party. At Toomey's suggestion the father took possession of the reserves' room, and there he had the child build card houses and domino bridges until his hour was up, when he called the mother over from the park and handed the child into her arms.

HEAVY SHIPMENTS OF GRAIN OVER LINES THROUGH PETERBORO

BOTH G.T.R. AND C.P.R. HAVE BEEN RUSHING TRAINS FROM THE ELEVATORS TO MONTREAL —PORT NOW CONGESTED.

During the last three weeks many million bushels of grain have passed through Peterborough on the Grand Trunk and C. P. R. lines en route to Montreal, but until the present congestion at the port is relieved, there will be no more grain shipments, according to advice the local agent of the G. T. R. has received from Montreal.

Day and night the golden stream has been pouring through Peterborough eastwards, eventually to feed Europe's millions. As many as ten trains a day went through on the G. T. R. from Midland, and at least as many or more were rushed to Montreal from Port McNichol by the C. P. R.

On the Grand Trunk, four train crews handled the grain from Midland to Montreal. One crew worked from Midland to Lindsay, another from Lindsay to Belleville, a third from Belleville to Brockville, and lastly one from Brockville to Montreal.

All this grain is last year's crop, Mr. J. A. McNab, local agent of the G. T. R. stated to-day, the elevators at Port Arthur and Fort William being cleared to make way for the wheaten tide this year.

Despatches from Montreal indicate that there is an unusual congestion of grain there. All the resources of the harbour are being taxed to handle the record amount of grain. Already over 55,000,000 bushels have left the port for overseas, only 15,000,000 less than the total for 1914, the previous high year of the port; and if the present rush keeps up, which it promises to do, this record will be beaten.

During the transportation of the grain, rolling stock on both roads, it was stated, has been a trifle scarce; but with the order from Montreal to hold up on the grain till the port is cleared, there is again freight cars enough to meet every demand on the roads.

Practically all of the grain shipped from Montreal, excepting for a portion carried by boats on the Great Lakes, went through Peterborough from either of the Georgian Bay ports, Midland, or Port McNichol.

RUMORS SUGGEST SALE OF LOCOMOTIVE WORKS

KINGSTON, Aug. 30.—There have been rumors of the disposal of the Canadian Locomotive Works here. One stated that Henry Ford had purchased the works, to which a director replied that there was no more truth in the rumor than if it was said that Hugo Stinnes, of Germany, had purchased it. The works were regarded as too good a paying proposition by the company. Another report is that the American Locomotive Company wishes to lease the Kingston plant, which it is hoped will be re-opened in November.

BETHANY FARMER'S BARN AND HARVEST DESTROYED BY FIRE

WILLIAM BOGGS SUFFERED LOSS OF NEARLY $8,000 EARLY THIS MORNING—IMPLEMENTS, STOCK AND 1,600 BUSHELS OF GRAIN CONSUMED.

INSURANCE LIGHT

(Special to The Examiner.)

BETHANY, Aug. 30.— A disastrous fire swept one of the best farms in this vicinity early this morning, when the entire outbuildings on the farm of Mr. William Boggs, about six miles south-west of the village, were totally destroyed, together with the entire season's crops, implements and stock.

Mr. Boggs awakened about three o'clock, to find his barn in flames, the roof having already fallen in, and although help was received from neighbors as soon as possible, nothing was finally saved from destruction except the house. The barns, implement sheds, pig pens and silo are a total ruin, with the year's yield of over 1,600 bushels of grain, the threshing of which was just completed last Wednesday, implements, four horses, six pigs and two hundred hens. The loss is estimated at between seven and eight thousand dollars and very light insurance was carried. The cause of the fire is unknown, the only clue being the presence of a tramp in the vicinity recently.

TRENTON LANDS NEW AUTOMOBILE PLANT

The Town of Trenton has landed a large motor plant, an agreement having ben made between the Town Council and the Anglo-American Motors to locate there. The company will receive a bonus of $25,000, a free site of 30 acres of land and a fixed assesment. The works or the company will be increased on the unit system. The company is to manufacture the LaMarne automobile, a French type of car. The ratepayers will vote on the by-law in about a month.

SAGE TEA DARKENS HAIR TO ANY SHADE

Don't Stay Gray! Here's an Old-Time Recipe that Anybody can Apply.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two, it becomes beautifuly dark and glossy.

AMBITIOUS PLANS FOR OTTAWA EXHIBITION.

Formal Opening By Baron Byng Gives Unusual Impetus.

The fact that His Excellency Baron Byng of Vimy, Governor-General, will formally open the Ottawa Exhibition, and later receive the men of Eastern Canada, who served under him overseas, has given a great impetus to the Ottawa exhibition. A feature of the opening day, Monday, Sept .12th, will be a mammoth parade, in which returned men will participate. In addition to local floats, various municipalities will be represented. In fact the parade and reception will take in quite a large area and many towns in the Ottawa Valley have expressed their intention of having floats in the parade.

Never has the outlook for the success of the exhibition been more promising. Early in the year some fears were expressed that the success of previous years might not be continued. The directors promptly dispelled this idea. To make success doubly sure all plans were laid on a scale more ambitious than for any previous year. The live stock and other exhibits are the basis of a successful fair and so the management added $7,000 to the already large prize list. Entries in the various departments must be in by September 1. For pleasure seekers special provision was made. The special attractions committee has secured a midway with new shows, new rides, new games of skill and a hundred and one things to please old and young. In front of the grandstand the program will include horse races, high class vaudeville features, aerial feats, plenty of comedy, an elaborate fireworks display, military and other features, making the strongest bill ever assembled for the fair.

Already all space in the various buildings has been arranged for. Each will be replete with much to attract and educate. Each year sees new feautres added to Ottawa's big fair and the visitors are no longer able to see it all in one day. Among the outstanding features are the pure food show, baby show, automobile show, dog show, cat show, poultry and pets, dairy exhibits, with a specialty in butter modelling, horticultural display, with singing canaries, art and fancy work, Dominion and Provincial government exhibits, and scores of others.

With the improved roads into the Capital, the management expects many visitors to come by auto. For their convenience a much larger parking space has been arranged in the grounds. The aims of the directors is to not only provide a wonderful fair but to get the people of the district to appreciate fact. An attendance of half a million persons is the wish of the directors and if worth counts this year should see the wish nearly fulfilled.

For Saturday night there will be a big Mardi Gras for a grand closing. Various organizations are already working for the parade and at the grounds there will be a riot of fun. Everything will be in readiness for the opening on Monday morning and the midway, and the other features will be intact until late on Saturday night.

It was announced this morning that the Exchange will close at 2.30 p.m. to-morrow out of respect to the memory of the late Lieutenant-Governor Lionel H. Clarke.

MONTREAL, Aug. 30. Canadian Press.—The listless tone of the local market continued to mid-day with the sentiment mixed in the transactions recorded. FRUIT DEALERS REPORT PEACHES MOVING SLOWLY

CROP IS LIGHT. ADVICES SAY, AND PURCHASES SHOULD NOT BE PUT OFF.

Peaches are not selling as readily as they should be, according to local fruit men, who maintain the prices will not be much cheaper, if any, and peaches are now at their best.

As usual the public are holding off for cheaper fruit, and as the crop is short this year, there is a strong possibility of there being none when they go to buy.

Prices of peaches range from $1.00 to $1.65. No. 1 Crawfords are $1.65 an 11-quart basket, and according to quality the price is graded down. There is no difference in the price of leno or straight covered baskets.

The dregs of the plum crop, Lombards and greengages, are being sold at $1.25, and by bulk 10 or 15 cents.

Blue grapes are plentiful in the stores at 70 cents, and dealers say they are selling quite a few baskets.

Bananas have slumped considerably lately, and are being sold at 30 cents a dozen.

Oranges are still high, and lemons are unchanged.

Tomatoes are being sold at 50 cents a basket, 75 cents a half-bushel, and $1.50 a bushel in downtown shops to-day. Dealers say there are fairly good sales for canning, pickling, and ketchup making.

Green and red peppers, also used for pickles, are prominently displayed in the stores at $1.60 and $1.25 a basket.

Small pickling onions for similar purposes are selling at 20 and 25 cents a quart.

WHITBY OBJECTS TO "BENEFITS" OF HYDRO

PROTEST TO COMMISSION THAT OLD CONTRACT SHOULD OBTAIN.

A deputation, consisting of Mayor C. E. Harper, A. M. Ross, Supt. G. W. P. Every, and Town Clerk A. W. Jackson, of Whitby, went to Toronto on Wednesday to meet by appointment representatives of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, and on behalf of the Whitby Public Utility Commission to protest against the proposed increase in the power charge to $29.00 per horse-power per annum from the rate of $25.00 which has previously been paid.

The representatives of the Public Utility Commission submitted that under the agreement with the Seymour Power Company which was taken over by the Hydro Whitby was entitled to a maximum rate of $25.00 over a period of thirty years, and that this agreement is binding upon the Hydro-Electric Commission, as successors of the Seymour Power Company, in supplying power to Whitby.

The outcome of the present negotiations will be awaited with interest.

ZR-2 WRECKAGE IS NEARLY ALL RAISED

HOPE STILL EXPRESSED OF RECOVERING MOST OF BODIES.

HULL, Aug. 30. — Canadian Press. Virtually all the wreckage of the ZR-2, which fell into the Humber last week, has now been raised, according to Sir Frederick Young, salvage expert, to-day.

The British Naval Salvage Ship Reindeer, which was used during the war in salvaging submarines, arrived to-day to assist in recovering the remaining debris. Hope was still expressed that the majority of the bodies of the airmen who lost their lives in the accident, would be recovered.

Various estimates of from 175,000 to 250,000 were made of the crowds of kiddies on the spacious grounds and buildings of the Exhibition at noon.

EXPECT MEIGHEN TO ENUNCIATE AN ELECTION POLICY

IN COURSE OF SPEECH TO BE DELIVERED AT LONDON THURSDAY.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

OTTAWA, Aug. 30. — Premier Meighen is back again from Montreal, where he took part in the inauguration of the French Exposition which will tour Canada. The Premier will now engage in the preparation of his speech to be delivered in London on Thursday. In the course of this speech it is fully anticipated that he will, to some extent, enunciate the Government's policy with regard to elections. The writs for the West York by-election have already been issued. For the others, with the exception of St. Antoine and Victoria-Haliburton, there is a sort of moral obligation upon the Government to issue writs not later than about December 1.

MEET THE MOPLAHS

REBELLIOUS INDIANS ARE A FANATICAL MOHAMMEDAN SECT.

The Moplahs, or, as they are variously named, Moplas or Mapillas, are a low-caste people of the Calicut district on the Malabar coast of India. They are a fanatical Mohammedan sect, and claim to be descended from Arab immigrants who landed on the western coast of India in the third century, after the Hegira. Their language is a Mahayalim (Dravidian) dialect, and they are the most enterprising people on the Malabar coast. They are remarkable for their fanaticism, displayed in several attacks upon the Hindus, and have several times resisted British troops. A regiment of the Indian army was recruited among them, but the experiment proved a failure, and the Moplah Rifles were disbanded in April, 1907. They are described as being a ruddy black in color, with black wavy hair and somewhat regular features.

The term has also been applied collectively to the Laccadive islanders, and is extended even at times to the Christian and Jewish communities of the Cochin district, but the true Moplahs number about a million.

BICYCLE RIDER INJURED IN COLLISION WITH MOTOR

WELLAND, Aug. 29. — Frank Rossie had his collar-bone fractured when he collided with a motor car driven by Malvin Towlson, of Bridgeburg, while riding his bicycle on the canal bank near the town line last night. Rossie is said to have swung out from behind a motor car going in the same direction and ran directly in the path of the Towlson's car, which was saved from plunging into the canal only by a snubbing post on the bank.

CANADIAN SOPRANO SINGS IN CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—(By Canadian Press.)—Jeanne Drusseau, the French-Canadian soprano, is among the new stars who have been engaged by Mary Garden for the forthcoming season of the Chicago Opera Company.

Mlle. Dusseau, as representative of the Dominion among Chicago's new songbirds, will find herself in company with representatives of almost every other nation on earth. George M. Spangler, assistant manager for Miss Garden, has just returned from Europe, where he and Mary combed six countries for talent. An announcement from the company's office here states that twenty-one new stars have been engaged and thirty-four of the former members of the company are to be retained.

Among the other new stars will be Tino Pattiera, the Dalmatian tenor, who Spangler predicts will be the reigning matinee idol, and Clara Dux, the sensation of Berlin and Vienna. The Metropolitan Company made an effort to get her, but she preferred to sing with Miss Garden's company. Others are Cincente Ballester, Spanish baritone; Nine Koshetz, Russian dramatic soprano; Edward Lankow, a Polish basso; Lydia Lipkowska, Russian coloratura soprano; Mary McCormick, a U. S. singer; Graziella Pareot, Italian coloratura soprano; Jeanne Schneider, French soprano and Joseph Schwartz, German baritone.

WAGE FOR WIFE LONDON TOPIC.

Pro Arguments Say She Works Hard as Mate, But Must "Beg."

LONDON, Aug. 30.—A discussion started by one of the penny weeklies as a circulation-making feature is having certain serious echoes. This newspaper began it all by asking: "Should wives have salaries?"

The thought has spread like wildfire and hundreds of quite serious-minded people are writing to all sorts of editors about it.

One cannot go to a lunch without having the subject dinned into his ears. It is talked at the theatres, and one fears that it may be breakfast-table conversation in more homes than husbands wish.

Americans here who have been watching the flood of words which has swept over England on the subject are predicting that ere long it will be picked up in America.

Pro-Arguments.

For the idea that wives should be paid regular wages by their husbands there seems to be innumerable advocates, their theories, boiled down, being about this:

A wife often works quite as hard as her husband does at whatever trade, profession or business he may follow. By his efforts he not only earns for her support and that of the family, but is at liberty to put aside a certain moiety for his own use absolutely without obligation to account for it to anyone.

"Men," says an able letter-writer, "value this highly. If they cannot otherwise maintain this position of financial independence perfectly truthful men in other things unblushingly will lie to their wives about their earning power or exaggerate expense burdens. Women have no earning power. They have to beg though they work hard."

Bankers Oppose Idea.

The matter has interested London bankers. Curiously enough they are almost unanimously against giving wives wages on the theory that they would not know how to handle the money intelligently.

"Women," they seem to think, "do not know how to invest money or what to do with it except to spend it."

This statement has brought a storm of protest — though no dissenting voices from any bank officials, several of whom commended the pronouncement and added words about women's lack of financial intelligence when it comes to handling bank accounts.

WHY HON. N. W. ROWELL RESIGNED

AN INTERVIEW WITH J. H. BURNHAM

Interested readers of The Examiner have been asking what reply Hon. N. W. Rowell K.C., made to Mr. J. H. Burnham's recent statement so widely circulated in the press that it would be found that Mr. Rowell had resigned from Durham for the same reasons that he (Mr. Burnham) had resigned in West Peterborough, namely, because the Liberal-Unionists of 1917 had not given him any mandate for other than the Union Government, and that to join or support any Government not the Union Government of 1917 would be a breach of faith with the Liberal-Unionists of Ontario.

Unfortunately, Mr. Rowell's letters to Mr. Burnham regarding the matter are marked "personal," but it can be said that the following statement is absolutely correct: That Mr. Rowell did not feel that his mandate from the Liberal-Unionists of Ontario who gave their support when he entered the Union Government, extended to joining in the formation of the new party, and he had therefore intimated to the Prime Minister (Borden) that he desired to retire from the Government at the close of the present session."

It will thus be seen that Mr. Burnham's statement regarding Mr. Rowell's retirement is correct. It will be remembered that Sir Robert Borden himself resigned from the Government shortly after. This extraordinary action can not be explained. He could not deny what Mr. Rowell, who had toured Ontario with him in 1917, had said. Here then was the opportunity to call a between-session Conservative Party convention and of keeping faith with all parties in an appeal to the country. But the consideration of the railway question opened up too great an opportunity for the financiers of Canada to be resisted. It would never do to risk an appeal to the people. So the Grand Trunk Bill was passed to acquire that railway after making its preferred stock a fine speculation at the expense of the people. The arbitration for purchase is now on. However, Sir Joseph Flavelle was asked to report on the desperate railway situation, and he does so by suggesting that the railways to be taken over be capitalised at $750,000,000, consisting of preferred stock guaranteed by Canada at 6 per cent., and common stock which he says he can pay nothing but deficits.

Now no known existing party would father such a scheme as that, hence a new one, existing nowhere but at Ottawa, was made, and the others were shut out; hence no grumbling. Who was to do it if the Government was not responsible to anybody? The old Conservative party was jettisoned and a brand new combination substituted. It is a good thing for Canada that she has men like Hon. N. W. Rowell, K. C.

STREET CAR AND JITNEY MEET IN HOT COMPETITION

Striking Street Railway Employees in St. John Organize 'Bus Service.

ST. John, N. B., August 30. — By Canadian Press. — For possibly the first time in Canada the street car and the jitney are in active competition as carriers of the city population. The test for supremacy is taking place in St. John where street railway motormen and conductors quit work last June. The men declare that they were locked out; the company, the New Brunswick Power Company—claims the former employees finished the term for which they were engaged at a certain rate of wages, and then refused to accept new terms offered for an indefinite period. Whether it was a strike or a lock out the fact remains that out of it has come an organized jitney service that is carrying the larger part of the travelling public of the city at the present time.

When the clash came on a Wednesday morning no attempt was made to start the street cars until the following Sunday. In the meantime an unorganized swarm of auto drivers raced out to the streets with every sort of car imaginable to earn a bit of change. Some of the cars that apeared were of decidedly ancient vintage, and went by fits and starts. Some stubbornly refused to climb the grades with which St. John abounds. But in a few days a better class of motor came on the scene and travel became less of a gamble. Now the former employees of the Power Company have organized an up to date motor car service with new busses and are running these on several of the routes that the street cars follow. More cars are due soon and it is the intention of the service to put busses on every tram route.

At the present time it is apparent to all that the busses are getting the traffic. Street cars go their way with few riding but almost every auto on the street is full. For the auto it is contended that it is quicker, more comfortable, and that it can be sent to any place that the crowd wishes to go. It can run directly to the gates of the ball park or the race track while the street car must follow the rails even when they do not run to the place of popularity. Of course at the moment labor feeling is intense and that is assisting the traffic carried by the jitneys. How they will succeed in coming cold and wet weather is uncertain, although Fred Campbell, the president of the buss company, says that the autos will be enclosed and heated in the winter time.

While the "war" is on the people are getting a reduced car fare. The street fares were three tickets for a quarter, six for 50c or 14 for a dollar. Now the Power Company has cut them to 20 tickets for a dollar. The jitney owners at once made the same drop. The public is riding cheaper than for a long time.

There are many who predict that the success of the jitneys here will result in the formation of other companies in smaller centres where the cost of maintaining street railway services is very heavy in proportion to the number of passengers that are carried.

INNOCENT BRSTANDER IS SHOT BY PEDDLER

DETROIT, Aug. 30.— An innocent bystander was wounded in the neck and Leo Williams, 14 years old, 1936 Mullet street, was shot through the left leg when James Strutsos, a pedler, fired a small-caliber revolver into a crowd of newsboys who, he says, were teasing him at Woodward avenue and Fort street. Strutsos is charged with assault with intent to kill.

The bystander, Arthur Hoemer, 35 years old, 700 Selden avenue, and the William boy, were taken to Receiving Hospital. Neither case was serious.

Strutsos told Lieut. Sam Smith of Central Station that the newsboys had driven him nearly frantic by stealing fruit when his back was turned. He had the revolver for protection against bandits, he said.

LEARN THE VIOLIN

BEGINNERS CLUB OF 24 MEMBERS NOW BEING FORMED ON MOST FAVORABLE CONDITIONS.

The desire to play the violin is strongly implanted in the mind of hundreds who never venture to make a start to learn.

With the idea of encouraging any who would like to develop their taste for the king of string instruments the Greene Music Company secured a very special instrument, well adapted to either beginners or even quite advanced players and formed a club, limited to twenty-four members, each one of whom will receive a violin and complete outfit, including case, bow, pitchpipes, chart, rosin, instruction book, etc., and ten free lessons, all on payment of the very small sum of two dollars and fifty cents at time of joining the club and one dollar a week for twenty weeks. This extremely easy plan is very little more than paying for the lesson each week, and the violin and outfit costs but a trifling amount. The lessons are given by a competent teacher, a member of the Peterborough Conservatory of Music staff, and only twenty-four members can be accepted. The club is now open, and Mr. Greene or his son, the violinist, may be consulted as to choice of outfits and arrangements, for the 10 free lessons.

LONDON LARGEST CITY IN THE WORLD.

There are 7,476,168 in Her Greater City; Figures For New York 5,621,151.

LONDON, Aug. 29.— London is still officially, the largest city in the world. Census figures for 1921, announced last week, show that in the area of 695 square miles known as Greater London there are 7,476,168 inhabitants.

Greater New York, comprising the five boroughs, or 315 square miles, had a population of 5,621,151, according to the 1921 Federal census, although the total number of persons in the metropolitan district in New York is estimated at more than 8,000,000.

The population of the registration City of London, is less than in 1911, however, and although the outlying districts have swelled their census figures, the total increase for Greater London in the last ten years is only 225,000.

The population of the British Isles, exclusive of Ireland, where conditions have been too turbulent to permit census taking, is 42,767,-52, an increase of 4.7 per cent. over 1911. There are 1,906,000 more women in the United Kingdom than men. The proportion of women to men is greatest in England, although Scotland is a close second. England shows a much larger increase of population than does Wales or Scotland.

Birmingham, with 919,438, is the second largest city in the British Isles. Liverpool ranks third, and Manchester a poor fourth. London is still bigger than the combined populations of the fifteen next largest cities in England — Birmingham, Liverpool, Manchester, Leeds, Sheffield, Bristol, Bradford, Nottingham, Portsmouth, Oldham, Croyden, Brighton, Norwich, Birkenhead and Plymouth.

The population of the Ise of Man has increased almost 16 per cent. in ten years, but the Channel islands report large decreases.

The population of the Indian Empire is 319,75,132, an increase of 1.2 per cent.; of the Union of South African (Europeans only) 1,521,635, an increase of 19.2 per cent.; of Australia, excluding full-blooded aborigines, 5,426,008, an increase of 21.8 per cent. and of New Zealand, excluding the Maoris, 1,218,-270, an increase of 20.8 per cent.

MRS. SHERRY SANG TO ROTARY CLUB

At Yesterday's Meeting, When Field Reports Were Presented.

Yesterday (Monday) being Field Day in and for the Rotary Club, the members came together in good number. By the fortuitous aid of John Crane the gathering enjoyed the pleasure of two songs, charmingly sung by Mrs. Helen Davies Sherry, now of Saskatoon, and who being in the city on a visit to friends consented to sing for the Club.

Mrs. Sherry was greeted very heartily, and at the close of the singing was presented with a handsome sheaf of roses in acknowledgment.

As outlined in previous notes, the Field Day included reports from many of the Clubs in District No. 4. that in which Peterborough Club is situated. These reports, now to hand, were communicated to the gathering, either in the shape of the written communications or in a summary made by the receiving member.

It is the wish of the Club that these reports be taken, and excerpts made from them, giving some idea of the work being carried on by Rotary. It is seen that the mission of Rotary is to take hold of beneficial work and opportunity that is now neglected by other organisations. Its welfare work far exceeds that undertaken by any of the churches, and rightly so. The business man is brought into contact with the real thing, the need for cultivating the best national asset we have—our boys.

The meeting broke up with the usual songs and expressions of fellowship and cordial resolves to catch hold and lift where lifting should be done.

COBOURG FANS ARE LOYAL

Cobourg people stand behind their team win or lose, and with the Cobourg team occupying the cellar position the attendance at the games has not fallen off in the least and the club has to-day a balance in the treasury of over six hundred dollars. According to the Sentinel Star baseball will flourish in the eastern town next summer and Cobourg will be there or thereabouts when the championship honors are being distributed. The Star says: "Free transportation was furnished the baseball team on their trip to Peterborough yesterday by Messrs. R. J. Hannah, A. C. Kimmel, R. E. Barnes and Alderman A. J. Plunkett, and when it is taken into consideration that the club is well fixed financially, in fact perhaps the bank account is the largest in the history of the club, and that the standing of the league shows Cobourg to be at the bottom of the list, it proves conclusively that Cobourg is indeed fortunate to have such loyal and generous sports. The trip to Oshawa on the 10th was also a gift to the club, the cars being provided on that occasion by Messrs. Kimmel, Hannah and D. W. Jex, and to prove that they are with the boys to the finish, win, lose or draw, a number of motorists have declared their intention of providing the necessary transportation for the club on the occasion of their last away-from-home game in Belleville on Saturday. The foregoing, coupled with the fact that since the Central Ontario League was organized Cobourg has dangled at the tail end of the string, but has received the never failing support of as loyal a lot of fans as any club ever played to, one is naturally compelled to wonder what would be the condition of affairs in the sport loving town were our fans supporting a winning team. Cobourg has been a real ball town since baseball first made its appearance here, and the newspaper files of bygone years show that for several seasons the fans of Cobourg were treated to the best exhibitions of the game layed in the province. The fans are evidently still with us, but gone is Cobourg's glory as a championship aspirant. It is posible for the best organized baseball team to go wrong—for instance Jake Soloman's machine has not been working up to specifications this season, but it's no idle guess to say that Peterborough will come back strong next season, but what of Cobourg? We have had years of hard times as far as a real snappy ball team goes but surely we have at last arrived at the parting of the ways and that our long-suffering fans will soon be treated to the brand of game they have so long cheered for—let 1922 be the year when history repeats itself.

SPORT COMMENT

Attention is called to Zach Wheat, Brooklyn outfielder. Wheat, carrying more than average poundage, is still apparently as fast as ever. The amazement comes in Wheat's ability to retain his speed because of the fact that he is heavy and slides often. Hitting the dirt is a specialty with Wheat.

Other players have closed their career early because of their sliding. Bob Butcher played the outfield for Cincinnati not many years ago when Tyrus Cobb was in his prime and led the base runners of all base ball. Bescher was the leader in the National League, and while not in the same class with Cobb at any time was still one of the best the game produced in recent years and by far the best in his own league.

Bescher, weighing a bit more than 20 pounds, lasted only a short time. He slid "hard" and he slid often. This act was a terrific strain on him for, as Bescher slid, his 200 odd pounds sent the strain on the ankles and the ankles, weakening under the constant punishment, caused Bescher to slow up and he soon passed from the major ranks.

Sam Crawford might have lasted several years longer in the majors had he learned to slide properly. Crawford passed to the minors because he slowed up. Crawford generally went into a bag standing up. He rarely slid and when he did slide he did it awkwardly, putting all the strain on his ankles. The constant jar from stopping short and from awkward sliding cut short his career in the big leagues.

Cobb has done more sliding and suffered less penalty than any player in base ball. When Cobb slies every muscle is relaxed and no strain is put on any part of the body. Complete relaxation of all muscles when he hits the dirt is the secret of Cobb's long career.

Signor Capablanca, Cuban chess master, said the other day that he lost ten pounds weight during his match with Dr. Lasker in Cuba.

The average reader of sport news, holding chess in contempt, at times with unusual bitterness, will be amused by this statement and some will be surprised.

There is, after all, nothing surprising or amusing about it. Chess causes a greater mental strain than anything we know of in the line of so-called recreation, and checkers is not far behind. It requires an unusual mind to properly master chess.

PITCHING STRENGTH WILL DECIDE NEW YORK'S CHANCES

M'GRAW STAKED EVERYTHING ON HIS MOST DEPENDABLE HURLERS IN LATE SERIES WITH PITTSBURG.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—The major league pennant races approach the September stretch with the Pittsburg National league leader wavering badly as New York increases its speed, while the Cleveland and New York Americans continue their neck and neck pace. The two St. Louis teams are playing splendid ball, but have only a mathematical chance of reaching the top. On the National the question before the house is this: Will the Giants, flushed with the success attained in the Pittsburg series of happy memory, make a battle of it right down to the tape, or did they burn themselves out in beating the Pirates straight?

Giants Pitching Question.

The latter promise is by no means an unlikely one. Having but three dependable pitchers at his disposal, McGraw was forced to use two of them out of turn and while no team ever got better pitching in a big series than did the same McGraw, he may yet pay the penalty should the big three flop as a result of this unusual strain.

The writer does not blame McGraw for staking everything on one tooss of the coin so to speak. Starting the series seven and one-half games to the rear of the Pirates, he had no alternative but to play his mitt for all it was worth. It was a case of then or never. The fact that he has now better than a white man's chance of nosing into the pennant at the finish, is ample justification of his rather drastic measures.

It was feared that, with Nehf and Douglas pitched out, all might not be well in the Cub series, just starting, but it was gratifying to note that Jess Barnes pitched one of his best games of the year yesterday in turning back Alexander. However, the Pirates came back in the Brooklyn opener, beating Burleigh Grimes, which makes it look very sour—from a New York viewpoint— for the rest of that series.

Pirates Not In Great Danger.

All in all, we are not inclined to believe that the Giants will make any further advances between now and September 16, when the three-game series in Pittsburgh is due to begin. That will be the Giants' big movement. In a game-to-game conflict, they have shown that they can hit all pirate pitching at their will, this fact alone being responsible for their record of fourteen out of nineteen games played between the teams this year.

The spectacular feat of the New York Nationals in cutting down Pittsburgh's lead by winning five straight contests from the Pirates was surpassed by St. Louis in taking six sraight games from Boston and decreasing the Braves' advantage over them for third place to almost one game.

Turning to the opposite page we find the Yankees back in their accustomed role of second runner, in spite of the fact that they knocked the Indians off, two out of three, in the so-called crucial series last week. It was crucial only in this respect, the Yankees had to take the majority of the games to remain in the running.

The Dope.

Everyone knows they can beat the Indians; that is taken for granted. So also is the fact that the Indians can beat the rest of the field consistently while the Yankees can do nothing of the kind. It is therefore necessary for the Yanks to knock the Indians flat every time they meet up; otherwise, Cleveland would win in a walk.

Manager Speaker of Cleveland, is jockeying with his pitchers to good effect. Only three runs a game were averaged off the Indian pitchers last week. Bagby was called upon for relief duty three times. Sothoron was the only Indian pitcher to go the full distance last week.

The Washington moundsmen are ineffective and the heavy batting of the St. Louis Browns ought to carry them into third place. The Boston and Detroit pitchers are not doing very well, although both clubs had a winning balance last week. Chicago and Philadelphia also lack pitching strength.

WHATTAM CUP IS HERE YET

JACK MAYNEORD'S RINK DEFEATED REG HAYDEN OF PORT HOPE MONDAY NIGHT.

Jack Mayneord's rink successfully defended their title to the Whattam Cup last night when they turned back Reg. Hayden and his Port Hope rink by the score of 28 to 16.

The next challenger on the list is Capt. Hugh McCullough, of Cobourg, who will be given a chance to carry off the trophy on Wednesday evening.

THIS TIME LAST YEAR.

Pittsburgh took a double-header from the Giants, Carlson won the first and Ponder the second.

Columbia beat Greenville in the decisive game for the South Atlantic championship.

Sam Jones, Boston, beat the White Sox for the fifth straight time.

Jimmy Peoples, former Indianapolis and Brooklyn catcher, died at Detroit.

SMASHING BLOW DEALT PITTSBURG

WEEK AGO HAD PENNANT ALMOST CINCHED, BUT LOOK AT THEM NOW. . .

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—The miracle is almost complete.

The Giants are almost in first place.

To-day they beat the Chicago Cubs by the score of 8 to 7, while the Dodgers won from the Pirates.

The Giants are now only a game and a half out of first place.

Less than a week ago they were seven and a half games behind Pittsburg. The miracle is almost complete.

Baseball precedent has been smashed and shattered. Never has a team accomplished in so short a period of time what the Giants have accomplished since last Wednesday, when the Pirates came to the Polo Grounds apparently secure, deeply entrenched in first place.

On the stretch of the pennant race, it seemed that only a miracle would enable the Giants to catch up with the Pirates. But Wednesday they played a double-header with the League leaders, and the Giants won.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday the teams met, and each time the Giants won out after a snarl of stubbornly contested conflicts.

Sunday the Giants beat Alexander the Great, while the Pirates beat Burleigh Grimes, one of the best pitchers in baseball.

The Pittsburgers held on, tenaciously and desperately to their fast-fading lead. And to-day, while the Dodgers, reaching out their hands across the trans-borough divide, beat the Pirates, the Giants came from behind in a fighting finish and beat the Cubs.

The tying run, and possible defeat, was on second base. Marriott, batting for York, drove a sharp drive past first, and Kelly, diving at the ball, scooped it up and threw to Shea at first, retiring the side, as Meusel crossed the plate with what would have been the tying run. Cunningham singled, and the entire complexion of the game changed. In the seventh, after replacing Burns in the centre garden, he singled again, and brought Rawlings home with the run which put the Giants in the lead.

Emil Meusel, the Philadelphia derelict, was again prominent in the play of the day. He drove in two runs in the first with a double, singled in the sixth and subsequently scored, and in the seventh tripled and again scored. Rawlings followed with a double, and for the first time since the third innings when the Cubs brought their total of runs to five, the Giants went out into the lead.

HURTUBISE CUP GAME—SERIES B.

The Classics again went down to defeat at the hands of the South End Wild Cats on Saturday afternoon at the Oval when they were beaten 9 to 6. Thus the Wild Cats win Section B of the Schedule and will play the winners of Section A on Wednesday at 5:15 at the Oval.

"A WISE FOOL"

FEATURE PICTURE AT CAPITOL SHOULD NOT BE MISSED.

Someing quite different from the usual conventional picture play is the feature picture at the Capitol for the first three days of this week. "A Wise Fool" is one of those movie productions that no one should miss seeing. It is the type of picture that keeps the attention keenly rivited from bginning to end. Not exactly thrilling, but interesting to the very highest degree, and portrayed with such naked human emotion that the characters seem to live and move on a real stage, instead of a silver screen. The settings, placed in old Quebec, are unusual, the French hero with his temperamental Spanish wife is unusual and the villian of the piece is unusual. Altogether, it is a most fascinating picture. James Kirkwood is the sublime egotist, Jean Jacques Barbille, with the simple childlike outlook and manners which make everyone love him, and the single-track mind which refuses to be taught but by bitter experience. The part of the wife, Carmen Dolores, is wonderfully well portrayed, and there is a strong supporting cast. Poignant emotion, sustained interest and a little elemnt of whimisical comedy weave themselves into an unusual picture of exceptional merit.

Lyman Hawes' famous sensation The Runaway Train, provides some gaspy thrills. The audience goes careering through a panorama of wonderful scenery at breath-taking sped, from a precarious angle, trees and sky and track reeling by at a terrible pace, and then "something happens."

"The Country Heir" and the adventures of the actress' jewels supply lots of comedy, the Topics of the Day are as interesting as ever. Jack Johnson with other other notables beams from the introductory films, and the Capitol orchestra continues to provide good musical programme. The strains of the haunting "La Paloma" sounded all through the feature picture, blending harmonisusly with the action of the play.

AT THE ALLEN.

While in a miltary camp recently during the filming of Marshall Neilan's "Bob Hampton of Placer," James Kirkwood, the popular actor whose face is known to every movie fan, was halted at night by the sentry.

"Halt! Who goes there?" came, the challenge.

"Jim Kirwood," replied the actor, to which he received the reply:

"Step forward and be recognized."

The Marshall Neilan "blimp" used in the production of "Bob Hampton of Placer," the new Neilan spect acle released by Associated First National, playing at the Allen Theatre to-day and to-morrow, took part in the first dirigible race ever staged in this country, at Long Beach, California, recently.

The event marked the special attraction at the big winter air races, in which many famous flyers and aeroplane stunt men vied with each other in thrilling the thirty thousand spectators.

Despite the fact that the giant navy dirigibles against which the Neilan blimp was raced had greater horsepower than the movie ship, the latter crossed the line a close second, coming in eleven seconds behind the winner.

And speaking of the Neilan "blimp," Wesley "Dinty" Barry, the freckle-faced hero of the screen, accompanied by Marjorie Daw and James Kirkwood tried thier hand at fishing from the airship off Satalina Islands recently. The pony dirigible which carries four people, was anchored five feet above the water and the idea worked beautifully. At least, they came back with two dozen "big ones," and who would doubt a fisherman when he returns with a big catch?

SNOOKY LEARNS AUTO DRIVING, AND GETS INTO MORE TROUBLE

Snooky, the Humanzee, has learned to drive an automobile. It was necessary to teach him this in the production of "Ladies Pets," latest of the Chester two reel comedies, which will be seen at the Allen Theatre to-day and to-morrow. In this picture he locks his enemy, the dog catcher, in the dog wagon and drives him to the "pound."

All well enough for the picture, but again Snooky demonstrated that a little knowledge is a dangerous thing by jumping into a car at the studios and starting it off. Only the fact that the studio gate was shut saved a lot of damage, but the result was a badly dented radiator and the purchase of a bundle of court plaster to patch up Snooky's face after he had been precipitated through the windshield.

HOME RUN A RECORD.

SARANAC LAKE, Aug. 30. — (United Press).—If the big league outfielders had to do their fly stabbing under conditions faced by the outer gardeners in the Adirondack league, their fielding averages would not look so well in the annual baseball guides.

In a recent game between Malone and Loon Lake, at the latter resort, one of the Malone players busted one on the trade-mark for a humming bird into short right field. The outfielder came in fast, trying hard for a pick-up, but as he stooped to scoop the ball, it faded from the scene.

A frantic search revealed that the old apple had shot cleanly into a woodchuck hole, down which it sailed so far that a new ball had to be put in play. It was probably the shortest home run on record.

REX STOCK CO. MADE BIG HIT AT THE GRAND

PRESENTATION OF "THE MAN WHO OWNED BROADWAY," OPENED STOCK REPERTORY.

"The Man Who Owned Broadway" pretty nearly owned Peterborough last night, judging by the audience at the Grand Opera House for the initial performance of the Rex Stock Company. The reception given this company proved that the public can always be trusted to appreciate something good, that Trans-Canada was right in leading the movement to reduce prices, and it augurs well for a long, successful season. Mr. and Mrs. Rex Snelgrove scored a personal triumph from the moment each appeared upon the stage, but so well balanced is the whole cast that every person received his or her due in the way of applause.

Mr. Rex Snelgrove plays to perfection the irrepressible, pleasure-loving, Jones-spoken of as "polite comedian," he fully deserves the title—never does his humor grow tiresome or boisterous—yet he handles with perfect taste a role that is farcical in the extreme. In the hands of a less competent actor, it might be anything, but what the author meant—from the moment of Rex's appearance to the final curtain, he held his audience easily. The spontaneous applause spoke well for his popularity, as did the response to his speech before the curtain at the end of the third act.

Miss Zana Vaughn was also an instant favorite with the audience. Aside from the fact that she is so easy and graceful, that she can act so naturally that one scarcely realizes she is on the stage, how could she do otherwise than become instantly popular when she is so beautiful?

Every member of the east was good. I can only mention the fact now that Billy Seymour was excellent as Bob Wallace, the devoted friend. A. J. Cole made the Judge a loveable, natural old lawyer. Gloria Machan was sweetly pretty as Clara. Nom Yule, a correct and solemn butler, while Katherine Van Esse did fine character work, first as Mrs. Gerard and later as Mrs. Spottswood. Charles Hannah, as Higgins, a workman, and Wrenn, as Wallace, Sr., acquitted themselves creditably. Keith and Gene Park were the attractive children of Judge and Mrs. Spottswood. They both have reason to expect the brilliant future Keith promised himself as Sam, when the excellence of their dancing and singing is taken into consideration with their histrionic ability.

Mr. and Mrs. Seymour provided an attractive entracte by their singing and dancing. Mr. Seymour won much applause for his solo, and Mrs. Seymour certainly showed lots of "pep." This programme will be continued on Tuesday and Wednesday night and at the Wednesday matinee. Undoubtedly last night's performance was satisfactory in the extreme, and for one am looking forward to next week's offering so attractively mentioned by Mr. Snelgrove.

CLOCK TELLS ALL TIMES.
A new German clock that records all kinds of things besides time aroused the interest of Consul Breed at Prague to such an extent that he wrote the commerce department all about it. He saw it at a fair, and said it would tell the second of the minute, minute of the hour, hour of the day, day of the wek, week of the month, month of the year, season of the year, position of the stars and the exact position of teh earth in its orbit, all for the trifling cost of 5,000 Austrian crowns, or about $50 in real money.

SONG NEARLY LOST LIBRARY.
The loss of a song nearly cost Magdalen college (Oxford, England), her Pepysian library. The great diarist, Pepys, bequeathed to that college, his complete library—that in the event of any of the collection being lost, the library should be transferred to Trinity college. The Magdalen authorities were, therefore, much perturbed when it was reported to them that the MS. of the famous Song of Agincourt could not be found in the library. A most thorough search failed to trace the lost score, and Magdalen was beginning to resign itself to the loss of the library, when Sir Edward Clarke, when consulting the music in the library for the purposes of a lecture came across the Song of Agincourt between the leaves of a volume of fifteenth-century ballads. And with him at the time was one of the trustees charged with the duty of enforcing the terms of Pepy's request.

RIOTING IN BELFAST BRINGS IRELAND TO VERGE OF CIVIL WAR; THE SOUTH IS AROUSED

"AN EARLY TERMINATION OF THE TRUCE IS THREATENED," SAYS SINN FEIN ANNOUNCEMENT, AND ORDERS ARE ISSUED FOR I.R.A. TO BE READY FOR INSTANT MOBILIZATION—MILITARY TAKE CONTROL OF BELFAST.

RIOTING IN BELFAST .....

BY CLYDE C. BEALS

DUBLIN, August 31. — The killing of Catholics in Belfast to-day brought Ireland to the verge of a renewal of civil war.

Orders were sent out to all men of the Irish Republican Army to be ready for instant mobilisation. Many wanted by the British authorities, whose arrest would instantly follow a break in the truce, after slipping away, headed for secret Sinn Fein strongholds in the hills.

Everywhere preparations were quietly but rapidly being made for war, following reports from Belfast of fighting in the Ulster capital, where over sixty casualties have resulted from the internecine warfare.

"An early termination of the truce is threatened," says the official Sinn Fein announcement.

Meanwhile, President DeValera and his colleagues, still struggling with the difficulties of reaching a common ground with Lloyd-George, were making efforts to see that nothing should be done in the South of Ireland that would break the truce or lead to an outbreak of reprisals against the Loyalists of the South for the Belfast killings.

Every effort was made to-day to hold the excited Southerners in check. Optimism that there would be no break in the negotiations was expressed, despite the official warning.

The strictest secrecy was maintained regarding the time of the despatch of the Dail Eireann's reply to the latest note from Lloyd-George.

It was frequently stated to-day that the text had not yet been decided upon, but it was learned authoratively that the Irish reply will endeavor to evade the question of dominion home rule and to persuade the British Government to offer a "treaty association"—a union between England and Ireland somewhat similar to the defunct Austro-Hungarian alliance.

Communication with Belfast was still interrupted, reports of the trouble there reaching here, sometimes via England, greatly distorted. The authorities are anxious that as little about the Belfast fighting as possible be known here, because of the effect upon the population.

Military in Control.

BELFAST, Aug. 31.—(Canadian Press).—The military, it was announced at mid-day, will assume control of Belfast within an hour as result of representations of the Lord Mayor as to the urgent necessity of affording the city's citizens protection in view of the fierce rioting and fighting in progress.

BELFAST, Aug. 31. — (United Press.)—Terrific firing broke out in Belfast's streets to-day. Shipyard workers on their way to work were ambushed and cut down by rifle firing in York and Queen streets.

One man was killed and scores of workers were wounded by the enfilading fire from ambushes on either side of the car lines.

The military threw an armed cordon around the area where fighting was most severe, but at noon and during the lunch hour for the shipyard, fighting was resumed.

Rifles and grenades were used by both sides and there were many casualties.

At four o'clock this afternoon the city was comparatively quiet. The military had taken to street duty, although they had gone into Royal Avenue. Traffic had been restored in York Street. The critical time ahead was at the return home of the ship yard workers, and if this period of the day should pass without trouble it was expected that the rioting would be considered ended.

So bad was the rioting in York Street in the early hours of the day that the workers in great flax spinning works were allowed to leave. When it was time to report for work this morning they were unable to enter the works by the door which was directly in the line of fire, and it necessary to knock a hole in the factory wall on a side street.

WOOD SUPPLIES COMING TO CITY

Local Dealers Cannot Afford to Work on the Supposition that it will be a Hard Winter.

There is considerable activity in the wood business in Peterboro and dealers are busy getting in their supplies ofr the winter month. For some unaccountable reason a long, hard winter is anticipated, but so far as the local dealers are concerned they are not depending on signs. It costs too much money to buy wood in excess of actual requirements. A cold winter is said to follow a hot summer, and that is the main bulwark of those whose predictions run in that direction. The wood dealers are stocking up with a normal supply of wood and when this runs out they will not likely have much difficulty in getting more. Every week sees several scow loads unloaded at the wharf with another couple of months to run before navigation closes.

CITIZENS AND MINERS CLASH IN W. VIRGINIA

REPORTS OF SCATTERED FIRING AT "FRONT" STARTS TREK OF DEPUTIES TO SCENE.

(United Press).

LOGAN, W. Va., Aug. 31.—Scattered firing broke out to-day between civilian patrols and armed miners on opposite sides of the Ridge near Logan, authorities here were advised. Armed citizens quietly left Logan for the front after the report was received. Within an hour the roads toward Ethel were specked with automobiles carrying deputies to the mountain passes.

(United Press).

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 31. —A skirmish between deputies and miners occurred near Blair Mountain early to-day, Governor E. F. Morgan was officially advised.

The reports to the Governor did not state whether there had been any casualties. Advices were very meagre. The belief was advanced that only advance forces of the armed miners and outposts of the deputies had come in contact. There was no word here indicating a general battle was threatened.

Major Thompson, War Department representative, sent into the zone with President Harding's proclamation, completed his mission early to-day. He was in a special train. On arrival here, he will be rushed immediately to the office of Governor Morgan for a conference. The conference will determine whether Federal troops will be necessary.

"MOVIE TRUST" IS ALLEGED; GOVT. IS TO TAKE ACTION

CHARGE FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY WITH VIOLATING TRUST LAWS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(United Press.)—Formal action to break up an alleged "movie trust" was taken to-day by the Federal Trade Commission. The Famous Players-Lasky Corporation was charged by the Commission with being a combination in violation of the Anti-Trust laws.

Violation of the FFederal Trade Act by unfair trade practices was also alleged in a formal complaint which was filed as the result of an extended investigation by the Commission. The corporation was given one month in which to make a reply.

Eleven other corporations and individuals were cited as respondents in the action, the charge being that they are part of the combination.

LEADER PLANS UNIFICATION OF THE REPUBLIC.

(United Press)

HANKOW, China, Aug. 31.—General Wu Pu Fu, Chinese republican leader, has captured Yochuo without any bloodshed, according to word received her today. The city was bombarded with blank shells from a warship while the troops entered. Wu Poi Fu now proposes calling a national conference of representatives of all provinces to plan unification of the republic of China, under one government. The insurgents, apparently badly defeated appear to welcome peace.

THREE PAY PENALTY FOR MURDER THURSDAY

GOVERNOR REFUSES APPEALS FOR COMMUTATION.

ALBANY, N.Y., Aug. 31.—(United Press.)—Three men are to die in the electric chair at Sing Sing tomorrow night. Governor Miller has denied their last minute pleas for executive clemency. The condemned men are Harry R. Van Reed, Edward J. McNally and Angelo Giordano, all of New York City. The first two killed in the act of robbery, while Giordano shot down a man in a New York restaurant. Efforts were made recently at a hearing efore Governor Miller to secure commutation to life imprisonment, but the Governor announced that he could find no ground for interference.

FREIGHT RATE ON WHEAT MAY BE DOWN SOON

BELIEVE RAILWAY BOARD WILL ORDER THIS SO AS TO ALLOW COMPETITION WITH U. S. GRAIN ABROAD.

LOWERING DEPENDENT ON WAGE REDUCTIONS

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

OTTAWA, August 31.—The conference between the railway companies and the Board of Railway Commissioners regarding the proposed reduction of freight rates on Canadian railways, which was adjourned last evening, will be resumed here to-morrow.

In the meantime, railway officials have gone back to headquarters to consider how far it is possible to go toward meeting the demands made upon them.

No official announcement as to the result has yet been given out.

It is understood, however, that whatever decision is reached on general rates, an early reduction will be ordered in the rates on wheat.

Increases in freight rates in Canada followed increases in wages ordered by the United States Wage Boards during the war, and adopted simultaneously on Canadian roads. However, wage reduction was in the nature of a "hold back" pending the result of conferences with the Unions or of a probable arbitration. This being so, the railway companies may claim it to be unfair to decrease the railway rates until after the wage decrease has been made permanent. No doubt this phase of the situation was placed before the Commission today.

Whether the Commission will permit the argument to weigh in the matter remains to be seen, but it is believed that the Board will insist upon an immediate reduction in the rates on wheat, so that the big crop of the West may be moved East as early as possible, and be able to compete with the American exportable surplus in whatever European markets may be available.

ATTEMPT TO BAR FORD'S WEEKLY

NEWSBOYS ARRESTED IN PITTSBURG FOR SELLING IT.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 31.—(United Press.)—A legal battle is under way to-day as the result of the arrest of two newsboys here for selling the Dearborn Independent, Henry Ford's weekly.

Hearing is scheduled for to-morrow, but it is believed a postponement will be asked by counsel to give more time in preparing the case. The city bases its action in suppressing the Ford paper on the claim that the sale of such paper tends to incite disorder and is therefore an act of public policy.

Counsel for the newsboys will contend, it is understood, that to forbid the sale is an act of discrimination that is not defended by local ordinances.

NEW CONCERN IS SEEKING LOCATION

Canadian Sanitary Can Company Looking Over Peterborough.

The Manufacturers committee of the City Council will meet this evening to discuss matters concerning the industrial interests of the city. Two concerns seeking locations here are the Birmingham Motors and the Canadian Sanitary Can Company. The former concern has made itself known to the public, but the latter is a newcomer into the field. The Canadian Santiary Can Company manufactures cans to contain food products such as the condensed milk product of the Peterborough Milk Products. The Company has large orders on hand and at the start would be prepared to occupy a building already up. The payroll would cover about twenty employees at the start. A stock issue of $150,000 is being sought by the Company.

Unable to regain its equilibrium, the yacht slowly swung over on its side and came to rest with its keel looking up to the sky.

In the meantime, Mr. Patte, with swift presence of mind, extricated himself from the overburdened yacht as he felt it swi tion of safety, clear of the o sized. He was in the water, swim, called promptly rende

BERLIN FEARS BIG OUTBREAK

TROUBLE ANTICIPATED AT A GREAT MASS MEETING OF 250,000 WORKERS AT 4.30

BY CARL D. GROAT.

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

BERLIN, Aug. 31. — Nearly a quarter of a million workers have come to Berlin for demonstrations to-day. They were to converge upon a tremendous mass meeting at 4.30 and it was then that trouble was most feared. The murder of Erzberg and the recent growth of reactionism has aroused many of the workers to threats of reprisals.

Socialist leaders appointed deputies in the ranks which marched this morning to prevent clashes and arguments en route. Sinister threats against members of the government especially the Chancellor, have led to unusual precautions being taken to-day. The action limiting the Monarchist activities was said to be responsible for threatened attacks upon Wirth, Loeb and others.

SHOT FIRED FROM AUTO KILLS MAN IN STREET

Two Small Boys the Only Witnesses of Tragedy on the West Side.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Frank Knox of 420 West Fifty-sixth street was killed on West Fifty-second street between Ninth and Tenth avenues at 11 o'clock last night by a shot fired from an automobile. Two small boys, unknown to the police, were the only witnesses of the shooting. They notified Eleazar Temple, a negro, of 429 West Fifty-second street, who was sitting in an automobile half a block away, and Temple drove Knox to the Roosevelt Hospital. Dr. Parr found that Knox was dead, with a bullet through his heart.

The boys told Temple that the automobile was being driven through the street when the shot was fired. The police of the West Forty-seventh Street Station were seeking for other witnesses early this morning.

IRISH TRUCE BREACH FEARED—BELFAST IS ON FIRE

TO-DAY'S NEWS OF THE DISTRICT

AUTOMOBILE STRUCK RAIL

OCCUPANTS THROWN OUT AND BADLY SHAKEN UP—MILLBROOK NEWS.

MILLBROOK, Aug. 31. —What might have proved a very serious motor accident occurred on the road running west of the village about eight-thirty Monday evening, when a car full of young people, in turning out to pass a horse and buggy, ran into the railing which runs along the side of the hill at that point, carrying away three of the posts. The top of the railing pierced the wind shield, shattering it completely, and about six feet protruded through the rear curtains, while the car and its occupants were precipitated into the deep ditch, from which the auto had to be hauled out by a team of horses next morning.

Beyond being badly frightened and severly shaken up, only two of the party were injured, the driver, Eddie Thorndyke, somewhat seriously.

Memorial Plaugue.

A handsome "memorial plaque" made of bronze and bearing the inscription: "John Patrick Sloane. He died for freedom and honor," has recently been received by Mr. and Mrs. John Sloane, parents of the deceased soldier. The "plaque" is the gift of King George and accompanying it was the following letter:

Buckingham Palace.

I join with my grateful people in sending you this memorial plaque of a brave life given for others in the great war.

George R. I.

A Presentation.

A number of friends gathered at the home of Mr. Sandy Kelly, Cavan, on Friday evening and held a "shower" in honor of Miss Kathleen Deyell, daughter of Dr. J. D. Deyell, of Peterborough, whose marriage is to take place next month. The guests included about thirty friends of the bride-to-be from Peterborough and quite a number of others from Millbrook and the surrounding country besides.

A similar memorial will of course, be sent to all next of kin of deceased soldiers.

Miss Etta Needler returned home on Monday after spending a month's holidays with her brother, Dr. Needler, and his family, at their summer home on the Lake of Bays, Muskoka.

Mrs. Killenbeck, of Peterborough, is visiting her sister, Mrs. J. J. Russell, Main street.

Two Prize Winners.

Dr. Fred A. Leach, of Togo, Sask., a former Millbrook boy, has been successful in winning the first prize for the best letter from a professional man in connection with the letter-writing contest. "Put Canada on Wheels," recently gotten up by the Willys-Overland Limited.

The prize was $250 and the contest was open to the whole of Canada.

Mr. George Eagleson of Bailieboro, was also a successful contestant, being one of many others to win $25 each.

Personals.

Bishop Arthur Pengelly, of South Carolina, who is now visiting at his father's home near Pengelly's Landing, Rice Lake, preached in Christ church, Bailieboro, on Sunday at the afternoon service.

Mr. and Mrs. Borden of New York, with their two daughters, motored through town recently and called on the Misses Dean, who are aunts of Mrs. Borden.

Mr. and Mrs. Borden are on a motor trip from New York to Quebec.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Birchard and Mrs. Tamlin, of Cambray, who is a sister of Mr. Birchard, motored to Wooler on Sunday to attend the funeral of their cousin, Mrs. James Terrill.

Mr. Jack Emmerson of Nestleton, visited friends in town on Saturday.

Miss May Needham has returned from a lengthy visit with friends in Toronto, motoring down from the city with Mr. R. H. Kells and family. The latter are now guests of Mrs. J. C. Kells and other friends in town.

Miss Preston, who has been the guest of her aunt, Mrs. I. E. Needham, for several weeks past, returned on Saturday to her home in Lindsay.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brock, of Peterborough, accompanied by their two daughters, and also by Mr. G. W. Mulligan and Miss Mulligan, motored over on Sunday and visited the Methodist Sunday school. Mr. Mulligan delivered a very instructive address at the special session of the school, which was being held, and he and Miss Mulligan also added greatly to the enjoyment of the service by several musical numbers, both in solo and duet.

Rev. S. T. Tucker and daughter, Miss Gladys, went up to Toronto on Saturday to visit friends there and also to attend the Exhibition.

Dr. and Mrs. Mitchell, with their guests, Dr. McKeown and family, of New York, are spending a brief holiday camping near Burleigh. Dr. McKeown is Dean of the Chiropractic Colleeg of New York City.

PAINS SO BAD STAYED IN BED

Young Mrs. Beecroft Had Miserable Time Until She Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Hamilton, Ont.—"I have suffered for three years from a female trouble and consequent weakness, pain and irregularity which kept me in bed four or five days each month. I nearly went crazy with pains in my back, and for about a week at a time I could not do my work. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the Hamilton Spectator and I took it. Now I have no pain and am quite regular unless I overwork or stay on my feet from early morning until late at night. I keep house and do all my own work without any trouble. I have recommended the Compound to several friends."—Mrs. EMILY BEECROFT, 209 Victoria Ave. N. Hamilton, Ontario.

For forty years women have been telling how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored their health when suffering with female ills. This accounts for the enormous demand for it from coast to coast. If you are troubled with any ailment peculiar to women why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? It is made from native roots and herbs and contains no narcotics or harmful drugs.

MUCH SIGNIFICANCE ATTACHED TO VISIT OF SIR JAMES CRAIG

London Despatch Says He Was Urgently Summoned By Cabinet.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Great importance is attached to the arrival in London of Sir James Craig, Ulster premier, who is expected to confer with Lloyd George at length during the next few days.

Craig's presence here was brought about by an urgent summons by the British Cabinet, and would indicate that Lloyd George may make another attempt to persuade the Ulster leader to recede from his stand.

In this connection Lloyd George's Barnsley's speech was delivered with one eye on the attitude of Ulster, his declaration that "the most cruel and most terrible civil war the island has ever seen," would result from complete severance of Ireland from the United Kingdom, and his appeal "to clear aside prejudices" being taken as warning to Ulster quite as distinctly as to Sinn Fein. But the chief hope that negotiations will continue rests on this fact:

Lloyd George has declared that Ireland can have anything but complete separation and de Valera has not demanded a republic in any of the exchanges so far.

GOLD PROSPECTING FINE OUTDOOR SPORT.

MELBOURNE, Aug. 31. — Prospecting for gold is one of the most alluring charms of life in Australia. It may be enjoyed only a few miles beyond the boundaries of the larger cities; and there are still many eager adventurers on the trail for surface gold. This is attested by their frequent success.

Thirty miles from the city, two prospectors in June smelted approximately $1200 worth of gold, obtained from the quartz; and during their sojourn on the one site realized $5,600 worth of the precious metal.

Precious stones are also available. During June large deposits of sapphires were discovered in the basalt country of New South Wales. Two syndicates are prospecting the field and have obtained some exceptionally fine gems.

One of the finest pears in the world found in Australian pearling waters was a gem larger than a sparrow's egg recently exhibited by James Clark, a Queensland farmer, and a pearl magnate.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUS 31, 1921.

THE LATE LIONEL H. CLARKE.

With fitting state ceremony and public tribute and sympathy there will have been laid to rest to-day all that remains of an exemplary democratic Provincial representative in Ontario of Britain's democratic crown, in the person of the late Lieut.-Governor, Lionel H. Clarke. A staunch Conservative, his support of the party before elevation to the vice-regal seat was generous, while his marked political acumen and intelligent grasp of Provincial and Dominion problems won for him the confidence of such leading statesmen as the late Sir James Whitney and Sir Robert Borden, who consulted him at times on public affairs. Fair in political strife, of a warm-hearted, genial disposition, he commanded the admiration and respect of all with whom he came in contact.

As Lieutenant-Governor of this fair Province he practiced and inculcated those principles of that broadening democracy which are the spirit of this age and generation. In fact, His Honor, in his high office, served the people conscientiously, with an earnest regard for their advancement and well-being. A patriot among patriots, he displayed active interest in all patriotic movements, both during and after the war.

The late Lionel H. Clarke in public life was extremely optimistic for the future of Toronto, Ontario, Canada and Canadians, and he advocated planning for years to come. He gave his time unstintingly in furtherance of the Toronto harbor development scheme and improving the water front. To all worthy public enterprises he contributed generously of his energies and advocacy in a co-operative manner; and his loss comes at a time when Canada can ill-afford to lose the services of men capable and willing to guide our country through the breakers of economic distress with as little national suffering as possible.

MILK FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN.

For some time past The Examiner has published articles on milk and its products with a view to stimulating recognization of the important part milk plays in building up a healthy, sturdy manhood and womanhood, and also in contributing toward the prosperity of the nation. It has been proven irrefutably in the United States that the alarming number of children suffering from malnutrition can be reduced to a minimum, school children's physical condition improved and their capacity for study quickened by a judicious use of milk daily. School boards have even experimented on this question by giving free milk to weakling in their schools, with convincing results. And examination of 55,000 children in one American city revealed that children drinking milk regularly completed the eighth grade two years younger than non-milk drinkers. Then records of 100 little ones placed in nutrition classes where a daily diet of milk was served, to overcome physical deficiences, show an improvement of 10 to 15 per cent. in their monthly reports of grade work, as well as in bodily health.

That there is a certain number of Peterborough's school children but poorly nourished was revealed in Dr. MacPherson's report to the Board of Education. Similar reports to school authorities across the border induced the spending of a little money in testing the efficacy of milk for improving conditions; and the daily increasing health and mental vigor resulting impelled parents to fall in line and resort to milk as a diet for their children in generous quantity, unless deterred by poverty, when community associations came to their aid. Would it not be in the interests of this community's men and women of tomorrow, so to speak, were the precedent set by American school boards in combatting mal or indifferent nutrition in school children emulated here on similar lines, as a campaign to teach parents the importance of milk and its products as a daily diet for their children.

PLAYING THE GAME.

John Bull emerges from the arena in which visiting knights have engaged him in all kinds of sports during the past summer, bruised and battered. The Australians have shown him how the national game of cricket ought to be played, America has trounced him at polo and lawn tennis, at golf he has had the worst of the rubber. The British press is worked to a high pitch of excitement over these results, and reams have been written about the "decadence of the nation" and "the passing of the torch upheld so long to younger hands." One well-known newspaper writes as follows:

> "It would hardly be too much to say that the news of the defeat of England in the test matches created as much consternation as used to be caused by a disastrous defeat or retreat during the war."

If this really reflected the sentiment of England, then indeed could the picturesque sporting writers descant on the decadence of England It would mean that after her proud boasts of sportsmanship England had forgotten at long last that the important thing in games, as in life, is not victory, but the manner in which the battle is fought and in the acceptance of the result whatever it may be.

Sports, especially those demanding team play, are an asset to a nation. They tend to the betterment of the physical condition of the people to improving character and they offer relexation for the worker. The value of cricket and football is largely due to the fact that unselfishness and generosity are just as important factors as pluck and endurance.

There is a tendency in the playing of games to-day to take them too seriously, to set the phantom of success as the ideal. To these people the winning is the only thing that matters. It is this deadly seriousness that marks the American athlete with his intensive training and his large expenditures. There is a danger that this spirit may so permeate the playing of games as to become a menace. The game that is not played with a smack of careless adventure is not played according to the code which Britain has adopted for generations.

It may not always bring victory, but the "playing the game" deserves higher praise than the winning. — Montreal Star.

BUSINESS IMPROVES.

Signs of returning industrial activity in Peterborough may not be multiplying, but they are increasing at a rate that tends to rout the fears entertained last spring that unemployment would grow steadily worse throughout the summer and fall, reaching the bread-line mark next winter. It is comforting to observe that these gloomy predictions have not been realized thus far. In fact, the pessimists are running far behind their melancholy schedule. Certainly the end of August presents a much brighter outlook than was visioned in June. Optimism is finding a firmer footing, and there is warrant for the feeling that the business crisis has passed. At any rate, there has not only been a halt to the swing of depression, but on the positive side encouraging gains inspire the belief that industry is on the upturn.

Local mills that had been scarcely moving for months with no promise of an early recovery, began during the summer to discover buyers here and there. Demand for their products developed with surprising strength, orders rapidly accumulated, and today these factories are approaching their maximum output.

Equally encouraging, and, perhaps, indicative of a broader movement toward increasing employment, is the report today of moulders being called in to work in a local shop after many months' idleness. With the holiday season over merchants are looking forward to a certain liveliness in business beginning with September, and if their hopes materialize manufacturing generally should revive. These are pleasant speculations, but they are based on improved conditions that were not in sight two months ago.

The Royal Bank's review of business conditions, issued for September, is moderately optimistic. It contains the following observation:

> "Buying by the trade has been cautious, and many manufacturers think that the stock of their goods in distributors' hands is low, consequently they look for a moderate, though not a striking, improvement in business during the fall. . . . There is no standpoint from which a pessimistic view of the future of Canadian business is justified, but caution certainly is required until the process of adjustment to new conditions is completed."

FRENCH BIRTH CONGRESS.

Decrease in the Population a Matter of Grave Concern.

The problem of a decreasing population is now facing Frenchmen as a vital post-war issue, in which Germany's reassertion of power is looked upon as a not unthinkable danger. In announcing a birth convention to be held in Bordeaux, a writer in La Democratie Nouvelle of Paris, says:

"The two first birth congresses at Nancy in 1919 and at Rouen, in 1920, demonstrated in striking fashion the necessity of solving the problems presented by the lessening of our population, for not only our security but our economic and social life is endangered. To hasten this solution is surely one of the most serious matters of our time.

"The Bordeaux Chamber of Commerce with the General Council of the Gironde, and the municipality of Bordeaux, have organized in that city the Third National Birth Congress to be held from the 22nd to the 26th of September, under the official patronage of the President of the Republic, the Government, and the Chairmen of various Chambers of Commerce. It will comprise five sections—religious activities, instruction, hygiene, professional activities and legislation.

"To realize the importance of this convention and the duty of all to attend it or subscribe to its expenses, it suffices to ask what we shall be to-morrow if we are not strong to-day. The day after the armistice the Germans were again threatening us. The President of the National Assembly in announcing the terms of the Treaty of Versailles, added:

"'The German women will have children and these children will break the chains of slavery and wipe out the shame with which others would cover us.'

"To-day they feel themselves to be strong and do not fear to write and say: 'When France has celebrated her fallacious victory nothing will be able to hide the irresistible decrepitude of the French vitality. We have undergone a terrible defeat but we have with us the natural forces of life.'

"'To-morrow—understand it well—France will ethnically and politically disappear if in the meantime we do not adopt the quickest and most efficacious methods for increasing our population."

Chapter 15.

Our little dinner party for Tom and Lillian was not the last of our pleasant evenings together. They became frequent and welcome visitors. Even Kent seemed to enjoy them. Once Lillian insisted upon our coming down for dinner at their little apartment, and she seemed to take pride and especial effort in having everything just right.

Other than that, each day sped by with nothing unusual or exciting happening.

One afternoon I made a duty call on Mrs. Leon Walker. I had not seen her lately, and I knew that unpleasant memories would always keep me from being very friendly with her. Now that I was living only about ten blocks above her on Riverside Drive, I felt it was quite the social duty. Then, too, I had not seen her since the day she had taken me driving through the park.

But my call was entirely pleasant, and she did not allude to the Lachman diamond, for which I was very thankful. It was the first I had seen her since Kent had returned it, and I dreaded any possible conversation about it. On my way home I realised how casual the whole affair had seemed to her. It had faded entirely from her thoughts. When one possesses over one hundred diamonds of various shapes and hues, to say nothing of numerous other costly jewels, it is natural to place little concern on one, not overly large, rose-diamond. I felt a trifle disgusted. I could not help putting her in the class with the person who is prone to over-eat. I thought of Mr. Lachman's carelessness in the unguarded way he had carried the diamond just loose in his pocket. I wondered after all if a great deal of the blame of the whole terrible affair was not theirs.

But one point of our conversation I decided to tell Kent about. Mrs. Walker said that the Lachmans had decided to remain in New York City during the following winter, and that they were hunting for a small apartment. They felt they would like it better than hotel life. But such places, especially the type of one they were looking for were difficult to get, and they were fearful they would have to give up their search.

"If only Kent could do something for them—help them to get just the apartment they would want," I thought to myself. I knew it would please Kent to be able to be of service to them.

That night I told Kent of how they had been trying to find an apartment.

"Oh, Babs, I'd give anything to be able to help them," he said, before I had even suggested it, or told him of what I had been thinking. "Let's see—I believe I know just the place. I'm not sure I can get it. It may be too late. How many rooms do you think they would want?' he asked.

"I hardly know, dear, I said. "You see their idea of a small apartment is probably, at least, eight or ten rooms. Mrs. Lachman has her own personal maid, and they would surely want a cook and a butler. Couldn't you telephone Mr. Lachman and ask him?" I queried.

"By golly! I think I will, Babs," Kent speculated. "I know one beauty, but it has only seven rooms. It is on Fifth Avenue near 82nd Street. It is a gem." Kent enthused.

"Call Mr. Lachman up now, why don't you, dear?" I suggested.

Kent jumped up eagerly from his chair and strode over to the telephone. He got Mr. Lachman on the wire, and they talked for some minutes. Finally he hung the receiver on the hook and came over to me with a flushed, happy smile.

"He is going with me to-morrow to look at it, Babs. I'm going to do all in my power to get it for him, too," he declared vehemently.

To-morrow—Kent Closes the Dea.

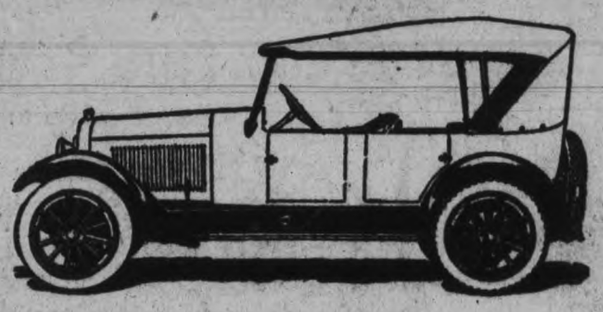
"ROCK OF AGES" SCENE OF A DEMONSTRATION.

BURRINGTON COMMBE, Somerset, England, August 30. — The rock visualised by Augustus Toplady when he was inspired to compose the hymn, "Rock of Ages," stands just outside this village, and a great demonstration to perpetuate his memory was held there on the August Bank Holiday.

Toplady is said to have taken refuge at the rock from a severe storm which was sweeping over the gorge on the edge of which the rock stands, and while waiting for it to pass over, he was led to compose the hymn.

The great pilgrimage to the rock was organised under the auspices of the Church of England, but a Salvation Army band also took part. The 10,000 people present, some of whom were perched on jutting rocks on the side of the gorge, took part in the singing of the hymn.

It was also decided that a memorial to Toplady should be placed on the rock.



Buy a Chalmers As an Investment

Buying a Chalmers car is recognized as a sensible and sound investment. One that pays definite returns.

Because of its low upkeep and replacement costs, the Chalmers is economical to operate. It renders service more continuously. It is at your command when wanted.

Due to Careful Designing

The low maintenance of the Chalmers is due to careful designing. Chalmers' engineers developed the hot-spot. This device pre-heats the fuel before it enters the cylinders.

This saves fuel. It reduces carbon. The motor runs more smoothly and accelerates more quickly. It renders better service, always.

Find Out for Yourself

The man who investigates, will easily find the truth of these statements. We will be glad to go into detail and explain just how fine a motor car investment the Chalmers is.

CHAS. WALKER DECLARES TANLAC CERTAINLY PROVED WORTH TO HIMSELF AND WIFE.

"Yes, sir, Tanlac has helped my wife just like it did me, and now both of us are enjoying good health," said Chas. F. Walker, 220 Langley Avenue, Toronto, a machinist employed by the F. N. Burt Co., Ltd.

"Both my wife and myself were badly run down. She complained of feeling tired out from morning till night, and had become so weak she was hardly able to do the housework. It was the same in my case, and it just seemed that my whole system was out of order. Nothing tasted right to me and I had about reached the point where I felt like I was going to give clean out.

"A neighbour of ours recommended Tanlac, and it seemed to help us right from the start. We have taken five bottles now between us, and I don't believe either of us ever enjoyed better health. I have been built up all round, eat heartily, and sleep good and sound. My wife is looking fine, and can do the housework without any trouble. Tanlac has certainly proved its worth to us."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by the Warne Drug Co., Ltd., and by leading druggists everywhere.

THE AIRPLANE IN SCIENCE.

More Accurate Meteorological Observations Made Possible.

The use of airplanes for meteorological observations is not only possible but essential to scientific progress, according to Gabriel Guilbert, Chief of the Forecast Service in the French Meteorological Bureau, in a recent address at Rouen.

"The basis of good forecasting is first of all good observation," he said. "Exact information and a capable staff of workers will not suffice; there must be a considerable number of stations placed at carefully selected points and under professionally trained meteorologists. Our daily charts, though the largest prepared anywhere in the world, must be developed, and in this the wireless telegraph will enable us to record observations in the North, coming from Spitzbergen or even nearer the Pole, from the East, from Siberia, the Caspian Sea, Asia Minor, from tropical lands to the South, and in the West from stations in Greenland and the New World, as well as maritime observations from transatlantic liners.

"Last of all, scientific progress demands the utilisation of the airplane. That is in the present and the future the best means of meteorological exploration. The aviator can determine the physical nature of different clouds, their extent, altitude, relative positions and motion. He alone can watch 'on the spot' the secrets of the formation of rain and storm. And if artificial rain is not an idle dream, the aviator can bring it about. The entire atmosphere is comparable to-day to an unexplored desert; and through airplanes new foundations may be laid for the development of scientific weather forecasting."

BIG RETURNS FROM LEVY ON CAPITAL.

BUDAPEST, August 30. — Hungary's first returns from the levy on capital produced 1,357,000,000 crowns Minister of Finance Hegedues told the National Assembly to-day. He said the money would be used to retire maturing bonds and pay interest.

Unless the exchange on Hungary's depreciated currency can be improved through friendly action by the Allied countries, he said not much could be done to put the country on a sound basis or make up the present 6,000,000,000 crowns deficit.

CROP CONDITIONS

Following is a summary of reports made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

Grain harvesting is completed, with the exception of some oats which are lying out stooked. Considerable threshing has been done, with rather poor prospects for all classes of spring grains. Oats particularly are yielding poorly by the measured bushel, and, as a rule, are very light in weight.

A good deal of corn in Essex has been cut for the ear, and all over the Province many silos have been filled, the season generally for this crop being put at about two weeks earlier than usual.

Essex also reports that considerable flue-cured tobacco has been cut already. The Representative adds that watermelons and mushmelons can find no sale.

Peaches are bringing from 90 cents to $1.50 a basket, according to variety and quality. Welland reports that canners are paying four cents a pound for years.

Kent reports grapes as being on the whole of fair promise. Other opinions place the crop at about a three-quarter yield.

The potato yield is a great disappointment. There has been a fine show of stalk in many fields, but the tubers have been few to the hill and small as a rule.

Roots are giving pretty fair promise, although there are complaints in Victoria of injury from the root maggot.

Hay is selling loose at from $14 to $18 a ton in Haldimand, but the price has been around $20 to $22 a ton in the greater part of Western Ontario. In the east and north, however, this commodity is scarce and dear.

Sweet clover is turning out very poorly for seed, compared with its recent records.

A large area of fall plowing has already been done, the land being in good tilth and stubble never being easier to cut through. Some farmers are using stiff-toothed cultivators with their tractors, and are doing good work. Fall wheat has been sown already, but the bulk of the crop will be got in during the first and second week of September, to escape the Hessian fly. It looks as if the acreage of new fall wheat will be at least ten per cent. more than that just cut.

There are more complaints of weedy fields than usual. The prolonged hot, dry spell, having hardened the soil so as to prevent cultivation, many weeds had a chance to start, and the rainy period later on when farmers were busy harvesting gave a great opportunity for growth. A good deal of skimming of fields has been done in order to get rid of the weeds.

The Ontario County Representative says that some heavy steers have been marketed for export during the last two or three weeks. Lambton also has been exporting some well fattened animals. Elgin speaks of the marketing of a number of steers, some of which were rather unfinished.

Many farmers are chary this fall about buying feeders to carry over winter after the rather painful experience of the past year.

Glengarry suggestively observes that one effect of the scarcity of feed is that farmers are getting rid of their scrub bulls and old cows.

Grenville reports fair grade cows as selling at from $40 to $50.

Renfrew points to the fact that while milk is selling at 8 cents a quart in town the farmers get only 3 cents a quart from the dealers.

Factory cheese sold during the week at 18¼ cents a pound in Lanark, and at 19 3/16 in Prince Edward.

Huron reports a large number of lambs going to market.

OVERSEAS EXPERIENCE VALUABLE IN ENGLAND

McGill Man Says Dominions Should Be Seen by British Officials.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—An appeal to the Mother Country not to "let the Dominions alone," but to give them moral, intelligent and creative leadership was the keynote of an address delivered yesterday by Prof. William Caldwell of McGill University before the London Rotary Club. "Get to know us better," urged the speaker, who claimed that no man was fit to undertake public office in Great Britain without first having overseas experience. If Great Britain would lead her vast Empire, her citizens should emulate the Prince of Wales, who, said Mr. Caldwell, was the best travelled and most widely educated public servant in the British Commonwealth.

If the British people would give their full contribution to civilization, each citizen must feel that he was personally concerned with the evolution of the Empire. This happy faculty of responsible citizenship was possessed to an extraordinary degree in the United States where work for the future of the country was almost a religion.

"But I never understood the joy of work in a champagne climate until I went to Canada," the speaker concluded.

"ALWAYS the same—this week, next week—any time you buy 'SURPRISE' you will always obtain the same high-grade Soap. For thirty-five years 'SURPRISE' has been made to a high standard and is in a class by itself for Household use."

CAMPS FOR MOTOR PARTIES ARE NOW ESTABLISHED IN WEST CITIES

H. B. COWAN FOUND THAT ACCOMMODATION FOR TOURING MOTORISTS — INVITED MANY VISITORS.

Impressed by the arrangements western cities have made to accommodate camping tourists, Mr. H. B. Cowan of Farm and Dairy has returned home confident that the establishment of camping sites and the providing of facilities in Peterborough and other Ontario centres would encourage tourist trade.

In practically every city in the West and in Western United States Mr. Cowan observed municipal camping grounds where American and Canadian motor visitors tied up for a few days or a week to rest or play enroute. In Calgary, Mr. Cowan said, he saw the most pretentious camp. It is located on an island in the Bow River and was established by the Calgary Automobile Club. During the two months the camp has been open this year about 1,000 motor cars containing over 3,500 people have enjoyed the camping facilities. For several reasons the camp has bee n popular—the saving in hotel bills, and the fact that their cars and baggage are safe from sneak thieves being two of the important reasons for its popularity. Trespassers are not allowed in the camp, and so there is an air of privacy about it that is welcomed by the campers.

A caretaker is employed, and for a small rental portable tables and fireplaces can be secured from him. Plenty of pure water is obtained from a big pump. When a car enters the grounds it must register and everyone of its passengers. Roadmaps and guides of all kinds adorn the walls of the caretaker's office and he is prepared to give advice on all and sundry matters. A permit to camp is issued each party and they have choice of any selection not previously staked.

Automobiles from nearly every State in the Union and every Province in the Dominion have visited the camp this summer, and in the month of July there were one hundred cars from Alberta points alone registered.

"That your honorable body would by way of resolution petition the Provincial Board of Health and our local member of Parliament in Toronto, asking for the removal of Dr. A. S. Thompson as Medical Officer of Health for the townships of Belmont and Methuen, believing, as we do, that, on account of his overbearing and domineering manner and apparently his strong desire to create animosity among our Council by constantly resorting to litigation and saddling the municipality with a lot of unnecessary expenses, which, we claim, is not justified and has never occurred before with his predecessors.

Poem in Polish.

A famous actress was at a big reception. She was asked by her hostess to recite something. She could think of nothing to suit the occasion, and begged to be let off with a short selection in her native language.

Her audience could not understand a word, but were enthralled by her gestures and tones. She received tremendous applause.

Just before the guest went, her hostess said, "Do tell me what you recited?"

"It has no name," said the mistress. "I was counting from one to two hundred and thirty—in Polish."

Marie dearest,—

Oush! — I just looked up rather suddenly, and hurt my poor old sun-burned neck. But oh, its much fun diving off the end of that pier! I has most terribly scared the first time, but now I could do it forever!

But water and sun, and then some more water and sun, don't exactly fit on with one's "pink and white" complexion, — so I found out to my sorrow. But Campana's Italian Balm came to my rescue again!! All you need to do is rub on a bit of the lotion, and your skin is soothed, smoothed and whitened.

Lots of love,

Peggy.

Battle Planes Shower President's Proclamation Over Camp.

(By United Press.)

LOGAN, W.V., August 31. — Battle planes roared over Boone County early to-day, showering down upon the masses of armed miners lying behind the ridge dividing Boone and Lagan counties, copies of the proclamation issued by President Harding, calling upon them to disperse.

Logans' County's first line of defense, 20 miles long, up and down the valley of the Guyandotte, bristled with rifles to-day, as hundreds of volunteers from the surrounding counties poured in to strengthen the force that will bear the brunt of the assault if the miners attack.

BERLIN ON EDGE AS WORKERS MEET.

Thaeats Made to Assassinate Chancellor Wirth.

BY CARL D. GROAT.

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

BERLIN, Aug. 31.—"Bloody Wednesday" dawned with all Berlin on edge with anxious speculation as to whether fresh bloodshed would result from the excited feelings of the hundred thousand workers gathered here to participate in demonstrations.

The morning however passed very peacefully, with the "safety police" out in great numbers, refusing even to permit verbal arguments in the ranks of the marching workers.

Chancellor Wirth was heavily guarded to-day, following repeated threats that he would be assassinated before nightfall.

HUNT IN GREENWICH FOR MAN OF MYSTERY

Douglas Demmon, Reported Wealthy, Said to Be Wanted on Robbery Charge in Texas.

GREENWICH, Conn., Aug. 31.—Douglas Demmon, said to be a wealthy ranch owner of Montana, who had been living here since last fall, is wanted by the authorities of Texas on a charge of robbing a bank in that State of $200,000. Secret Service men from the Department of Justice were here the latter part of last week, but Demmon was missing. For a time he stopped at the Y.M.C.A. here and then rented a cottage belonging to Thomas Irwin on Locust street, which was recently sold to C. Fred. Palmer.

Mrs. Palmer said that Demmon's peculiar actions had aroused the suspicions of many persons, and the local police had been watching him. All of his mail came through the Cos Cob Post Office under the name of Wilson, and he never would allow any person to enter the house he was occupying.

Mr. Palmer purchased the house from Mr. Irwin a few weeks ago, and on Thursday evening he went to see Demmon to order him to vacate the premises. Demmon refused to leave the house, and Mr. Palmer told him that if he did not vacate the next day he would throw him and his belongings out. When Mr. Palmer appeared on the scene yesterday Demmon, it was said, saw him walking up the road and retreated out of a rear doorway.

Early Monday evening two Federal Secret Service men came here and waited all night on the veranda of a neighboring house for Demmon to return, but he could not be found. With Mr. Palmer the house was searched, and some undeveloped photographs of Demmon were found which have been taken to Hartford to be developed. Palmer was told by the detectives that Demmon was the man they were looking for. He had shipped his trunk, it is said, by train to New York, and the detectives had seized it.

Demmon's young wife lived with him here. He is known to have been in frequent communication with many financiers and politicians in the country and had given the names of well-known men as references. He told Mr. Palmer that he owned a large ranch in Montana, and to other persons he stated it was his intention to bring a large number of ponies here and purchase a farm. He attracted much attention about the public streets by wearing a slouch hat and peculiar clothes.

The street faker expressed disgust with the crowd of pikers standing around him. "Why," he exclaimed witheringly, 'I'll bet you fellows aren't sports enough to offer me 50 cents for this bright, new dollar bill."

"I will," piped a ragged urchin.

"All right," said the faker. "Hand over the 50 cents."

"Take it out of the buck an' hand me the change," said the urchin, who wasn't taking any chances.—Boston Ttranscript.

BELFAST IS IN FLAMES; RIOTS ARE CONTINUED

A DOZEN FIRES BURNING IN CATHOLIC SECTION OF THE CITY THIS MORNING.

EIGHT ARE KILLED AND 54 WOUNDED

(By United Press.)

BELFAST, Augt. 31.—Belfast was in flames early to-day. A dozen fires were burning in the Catholic section of the city. More troops were pouring into the districts were sporadic fighting with sniping from the house tops and occasional grenade explosions, continued throughout the night.

The death roll mounted to 8, with 54 wounded.

BELFAST, August 31 (Canadian Press). — Street fighting of the most severe character continued in this city last night, following a day of disorder.

Many streets in the very centre of the city were in inky darkness because the lamplighters refused to enter the bullet-swept thoroughfares, and in the obscurity the opposing snipers were very active.

Yesterday's rioting and outlawry culminated at nine o'clock in the appearance of a party of men armed with rifles, who entered Stanhope Street, took possession on the ground, and opened a hot fire.

Pedestrians stampeded from the fusilade.

Many who were near enough to see the men doing the shooting, declared the rifles they carried were brand new.

It was the most audacious incident of the fighting since it broke out on Monday.

The exchange of shots between the contending parties began early in the morning and gradually spread over an extensive area with increasing intensity.

During the fusilade on North Queen Street in the afternoon, two persons were killed and a dozen were wounded.

RAIL WORKERS UNION LAUDED FOR ATTITUDE

MAYOR PARNELL PRAISES THEIR STAND ON THE QUESTION OF NATIONAL AUTONOMY.

SEES GROWTH WITH THE NATIONAL SPIRIT

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

WINNIPEG, Aug. 31.—Proclaiming the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees as one of the most powerful organizations in Canada representing labor and destined to expand with the growth of national spirit, Mayor Edward Parnell, in the course of an address at a civic luncheon tendered the visiting delegates attending the convention of the Brotherhood was eloquent in his praise of the organization's stand on the questionof national autonomy.

"We will never bow our knee to any outside nation, but it must be our duty to make Canada a welding influence for good, which she is quite able to do. It is Canada first, last and always," His Worship said. "If the country to the south of us desires to perpetuate the friendly concillion of the past, they should remove the tariff and embargo wall which has been raised. If we are going to build up this vast Dominion, we must use more home manufactures. By so doing the problem of unemployment confronting the nation to-day would be materially relieved."

President A. .R Mosher, of the Brotherhood, in responding to a toast "Our Guests," was optimistic or the organization's expansion. "We believe as a result of our expulsion from the Dominion Trades Congress that the Brotherhood will become the most popular and powerful organization functioning in the interests of the workers. The Brotherhood is not only seeking to advance its own interests, but on the principle of national self-government is functioning in the interests of the Canadian people," the speaker assented.

LACROSSE PROTEST WAS NOT SETTLED

MEETING OF THE EXECUTIVE OF O.A.L.A. ARRANGE OTHER ROUNDS.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Aug. 31.—Owing to conflicting evidence at last night's O.A.L.I. meeting, the Havelock protest against Johnson and Alexander, of Campbellford, having played under assumed names, was adjourned to to-morrow night, at which time said players must appear before the executive. It had previously been suggested to the Campbellford team that this be done, but no provision had been made as to the expenses of bringing these men to Toronto. The Bradford-Aurora mix-up will be re-opened for submission of further evidence from both sides tomorrow evening. The question is too important, so some of the executive felt to allow drastic action to be taken without sifting every little bit of evidence that can be secured.

St. Catharines and Shelburne will play at St. Catharines on Saturday, Sept. 10, and at Shelburne on Sept. 14 in the junior semi-finals.

The tie in the junior section between Brampton and Woodbridge will be played off at Orangeville on Wednesday afternoon of next week in accordance with arrangements made between the two teams. It had been previously ordered by the executive to have the game staged at Mimico this Saturday.

Riverside's request to go west on a pleasure trip must stand in abeyance until after the game between Beaches and Weston on Labor Day. If a three-cornered tie results, then Riversides will have to stay at home, failing which they lose their chances to play off for the group honors. This was the only decision to be reached under all the circumstances.

SUICIDE, MURDER ARE THREATENED BY UNEMPLOYED

MONTREAL, Aug. 31. — Canadian Press.—Two notes, apparently written by men who were starving, one threatening suicide and the other murder, have been picked up in a city square, and are being investigated by the police.

One, signed Ernest Godfrey, said, "You may find me in the River Bottom, as I have been starving for two months, and cant' bear it any longer."

The other unsigned, read as lows: "We will commit murder by insanity through starvation and unemployment unless we are looked after. Damnation unto him who sees us starve. Montreal Citizens, help us."

KINDNESS IS THE WORD.

"What is the real good?"
I asked in musing mood.

"Order," said the law court;
"Knowledge," said the school;
"Truth," said the wise man;
"Pleasure," said the fool;
"Love" said the maiden;
"Beauty," said the page;
"Freedom," said the dreamer,
"Home," said the sage;
"Fame," said the soldier;
"Equity," said the seer.

Spake my heart full sadly:
"The answer is not here."
Then within my bosom,
Softly this I heard:
Each heart holds the secret,
"Kindness is the word."

To Reach the High-Class Trade

Long Distance puts Business on a Personal —and therefore more Profitable—Basis.

"VERY kind of you to notify me by Long Distance of this sale of gowns. I expect to be in town to-morrow, and will call and ask for you, personally."

Out-of-town women show a strong tendency to trade where they feel they are known. Get one of them to visit your store,—and soon your's will become one of "her" stores.

No letter or advertisement will convey to them the kind of welcome you can extend by Long Distance. Because you are talking, the invitation becomes more unconventional. It suggests the friendly relation you would like to see established. Distance does indeed seem to "lend enchantment" to opportunities offered in such a personal way.

The method of presentation is three-quarters of any sale—what you say, and how you say it. The customers are right at your elbow. Don't call on them—call them up. It will not be the telephone's fault if you don't sell them.

HOUSEKEEPER FOR THE HILLS THREATENED WITH DEATH IF SHE TESTIFIED AGAINST THEM

MRS. MARY LITTLE SHOWED HER FEARS IN THE WITNESS BOX TO-DAY BUT WAS PROMISED FULLEST PROTECTION BY THE COURT — HER EVIDENCE INCRIMINATORY.

ALLEGED CATTLE POISONING

Damaging evidence against William Hill, who is jointly charged with his brother, Davis Hill, with having poisoned eleven head of cattle belonging to William Davis, of Dummer, on Friday, June 3rd, was given by Mrs. Mary Little in the County Judge's Crinal Court before His Honour Judge Huycke this morning.

She swore that she had heard William Hill declare that he would get even with William Davis for sending him to penitentiary, referring to a former trial in which two of the Hills were sentenced to prison terms for stealing cattle from William Davis. Mrs. Little, who has been housekeeper for the Hills, also testified that she heard conversations in which strychnine had been mentioned as the best means of killing the cattle, that she had seen William Hill driving William Davis, cattle off the Hill farm and that she had told him she believed he had poisoned them.

The audience in the gallery this morning was composed mostly of Dummer township farmers who know the Hill family and their record. Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for the defence and Crown Attorney Hatton conducted the prosecution.

Chief Newhall and John Miller, of Toronto, criminal inspector, were seated at Mr. Hatton's table. Both prisoners pleaded not guilty.

Mrs. May Little.

Mrs. Little said she kept house for Russell Hill and his father. She was there in May. William Hill was also living there, but Davis Hill was "keeping batch" on an adjoining place. Witness knew the cattle belonging to the Hills and William Davis. On June 3rd she saw the Davis and Hill cattle "mixed up" on the Hill farm near the house.

Mr. Hatton— Was anyone with the cattle?

Mrs. Little— Yes, William Hill. He was driving them off when I saw them.

Was he driving them away from the farm?

He was driving them away from the house. I can't say whether he drove them off the farm.

Did you have any conversation about the cattle?

Yes. I asked William Hill what he was doing with Will Davis' cattle, and he said they were not Will Davis' cattle, but that they belonged to Davis Hill. That afternoon when Davis Hill came back from Norwood he told me they were not his cattle.

Had Been Threatened.

Mr. Hatton—Are you frightened? You seem to be nervous?

Mrs. Little—Yes.

Have you been threatened?

Yes. Davis Hill told me I'd better keep my mouth shut and William Hill said he would shoot me if I told.

Judge Huycke assured the witness that she would be given every protection, and advised her to give her evidence without fear.

Mr. Hatton—Was there any other occasion he threatened to shoot you?

Yes. I told him he had poisoned Bill Davis' cattle.

Witness said she had seen W. Hill with a parcel and a rifle when driving the cattle off.

What was in the parcel?

There was salt in it.

You were going to tell us something about poisoning?

William Hill was all the time talking about doing something like that. I heard him mention about strychnine and salt. I heard Wm. Hill say to Russell Hill that was the way to get the cattle.

Judge Huycke— Did they know you heard?

No. I heard Will and his father talking.

Witness said the parcel she saw in Wm. Hill's hand was a small paper bag. She thought it was not very big for salting cattle.

Continuing, she stated that Robert Hill, the father, had kept a bottle of stychnine in his room. He bought it for baiting foxes.

Had Quarrelled.

"I saw Davis Hill take the poison away. The old fellow had it hidden under the carpet at the head of his bed. Robert and I had some spats and that was why Davis took it away. Robert threatened to give me some of it.

Mr. Hatton—Well, Davis took it away?

Yes.

Did you ever see it again?

Not until I saw it in Chief Newhall's possession.

How did you know it was the same poison?

It was the same bottle, about three inches high.

How long have you kept house for these people?

About four years.

Were Bill and Davis Hill there all the time?—No.

Who returned first?—Will.

How long after was it when Davis Hill returned?— About 2 years. I couldn't hardly say.

Did they tell you where they had been?—Yes. They talked about it. They said they had been in Kingston.

On the day of the alleged poisoning witness heard William say when he came back to the house that he had let down the fences.

Was he away quite a while or only a short time?—Quite a while.

Mrs. Little identified the bottle of strychnine produced by Mr. Hatton.

Wanted Revenge.

Did you hear anything said about Wm. Davis and his cattle?

I heard William Hill say he would get back at Will Davis for sending him to penitentiary, and that he would lose more than he ever lost before.

Mr. Hatton—Anything else?

Yes. After the cattle were dead, William Hill said William Davis wouldn't have to go roaming around looking for the hides. He would find them right under his nose.

Mrs. Little identified a smock produced in court, as Davis Hill's.

Did you see what became of the parcel?—No.

Cross-Examination.

Mr. Gordon—Did you mark down June 3rd? Is that how you remembered?

Yes. It looked very suspicious. I told Willie I wrote it down.

You and he had some violent quarrels before that?

No. Not till afterwards.

How soon after?—About a week.

William Hill taking meals with you and Davis Hill?

Yes.

Who did you speak to outside the family after the quarrel?

Told the Police.

Mrs. Little told of having driven by night to Norwood and the next day she went to Constable Puffer.

When did you see Chief Newhall?

That afternoon. I came to Peterborough.

You gave him a statement?—Yes.

Was it drawn to your attention that you were living with Russell Hill?—I think Mr. Newhall knew it.

Did the Chief tell you that if you and your children stayed with Russell Hill you were leaving yourself liable?—No, I don't think he did.

Did you sign the statement?—No. I didn't see any one taking it down, but I guess it was taken down all right. But I signed nothing.

Do you remember that Russell Hill was in jail charged with this offence?—No. I don't think he was ever behind the cells.

He was arrested?—Yes.

Were you told that Russell would go to jail if you didn't tell?—No.

Father of Her Children.

How long have you been living with Hill?—Four years.

Since then two children have been born?—Yes, I don't think that has anything to do with this.

Russell Hill is not your husband? No.

Your husband is living and is a returned soldier?—Yes. He's some place.

It is true that Russell Hill is the father of your children?—Yes.

At the conclusion of his cross-examination, Mrs. Little turned to Mr. Gordon with a remark that she could use dirt, too, and stated that "Bill Hill killed Wm. Davis' steer a year after coming out (of the penitentiary)."

Mr. Gordon—Did you ask Robert and Russell Hill to marry you?

Mrs. Little—I did nt.

William Davis.

William Davis, once before the victim of the criminality of members of the Hill family, was first called. He said that he had a herd of fourteen cattle when he counted them the last time on May 29th. On June 6th he was told that six of them were dead on his ranch adjoining the Hill property. Going out he found four head near the seventh line. One was staggering like a poisoned dog. He had to kill it. The other three seemed all right. They are the only three of his fourteen cattle that he has left.

Mr. Davis told of having found evidences of the fence having been let down.

Dr. Deyell.

Dr. J. D. Deyell, veterinary surgeon, gave expert evidence as to the condition of the cattle when he examined them. "I would say that the animals I saw died from strychnine, administered by some one I don't know." His testimony was to the effect that traces of poison might not be found in the parts of the stomach which had been analysed because it had likely disappeared into the earth with the decomposition that had already taken place. His opinion was based on muscular contortions and other signs based upon twenty-eight years' experience.

DORCHESTER FARMER KILLED BENEATH AUTO

DORCHESTER, Aug. 30.—About 9 o'clock last evening James Hardiman of this village, aged 65, was almost instantly killed, and his son, Edward, and a son-in-law from London badly shaken up when the son-in-law's car plunged down a ten-foot embankment, and turned turtle. The men were crossing a filling where a cudvert had been washed out by the flood of July 10 last. It is supposed the car got out of control on account of the dirt filling being softened by the heavy rains of yesterday afternoon and evening, and went over the edge, turning top down and pinning the three men under it. Mr. Hardman leaves his wife, two married daughters and two single daughters, all living in London, and a son, Edward, at home on the farm.

GERMAN GOVERNMENT SELLING ITS WAR DOGS.

BERLIN, Aug. 30. — The German government is selling off its war dogs. It has a large number of wounded and disabled canine for sale and has offered them to the public at a price to be fixed by a valuation commission composed of veterinarians.

Many of the dogs are said to be too old for war work and others have been sick so long that the army officials have despaired of their ever being able to engage in active service again, should such service be required.

The puplic, which appears greatly attached to the lively and ferocious "police dog" has nevertheless displayed little interest in these canine veterans.

OULETTE AND CHAMBERS HERE ON SATURDAY WITH GRAYBIRDS

Lindsay's coming at the week-end will make an interesting baseball bill for the fans on Saturday afternoon, regardless of the league standing. The greybirds always make things lively in their local appearances, and with Oulette and Chambers ready for the hurling heap, it will be no chinch for the Petes. Oulette has had a hard row to hoe in the second half, and Chambers has been doing much relief work Both pitchers will likely be seen in action on Saturday.

The Leafs were finally stopped by Reading after winning fourteen straight. The Marines won in the 12th in the first of a doubleheader, but were badly mauled in the second contest.

Kilties won ground yesterday, when the Indians were idle. Today Cleveland has a chance to get it back, at Detroit, as New York is not playing.

The Pirates got sixteen hits and ten runners were left stranded at Brooklyn. Gibson's men winning by 8 to 2. Brooklyn used four pitchers none of whom appeared at bat. New York Giants made it eight straight by trimming Chrcago. The Pirates have a margin of one and a half.

St. Louis got eleven hits and one run in the first game, and sixteen hits and nine runs in the second battle dividing a double hill with Phillies.

GALLANT U.S. OFFICER RELATED IN PETERBOROUGH

Buried with Full Military Honours—Was Nephew of Mr. P. Alexander.

The funeral of the late Lieutenant Percy Raymond Winch, a young American Great War veteran, whose remains were interred at his home town, Laredo, Texas, on 10th August, with full military honours, has local interest in that deceased has relatives in Peterborough.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Winch, he was a nephew of Mr. P. Alexander, this city, his mother being a sister of Mr. Alexander, and also of Mrs. Walter Evans, Boswell Avenue, Peterborough, and Mrs. Jos. Hopkins, of Monaghan. His father, who predeceased him some time ago, was a cousin of the late Mr. Harry Winch, and Mr. Richard Winch, this city.

To the memory of this gallant young soldier the whole community of Laredo including the 17th Infantry Band, city officials, ex-Service men of the American Legion, and Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs, paid a touching tribute in one of the biggest funerals ever held in this Texas town.

The late Lieut. Percy Raymond Winch was generally commended as one of the bravest of the brave during his active military career, and an exemplary citizen in every respect.

WEE DEOCH AND DORIS BOTH WEAK AND DEAR

Cold Comfort Held Out by Distillers in Britain to Customers.

LONDON, Aug. 30.— (Canadian Press Despatch.)— Cold comfort is furnished to those optimistic folks in England and Scotland who are anticipating a better "kick" in their whiskey, at a cheaper price. These concessions were expected by some as the result of the removal of government control. The association of distillers is now out with the statement that no such a thing as cheaper or stronger whiskey is possible until the present "savage" duty, amounting to eight shillings and fivepence half penny a bottle is abated. On the contrary, the association is unable to accede to the suggestion to permit the retailers to increase prices, in order to give them—the retailers—a penny a bottle, is abated. On the wholsalers, might "drive the people dry."

Bulk Tenders, to include all trades, endorsed on the envelope, "TENDER FOR PROVINCIAL LABORATORY," and addressed to A. M'GRAWS MEN ARE FIGHTING; PITTSBURG BECOMES CONCERNED

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, August 31. — With the exception of the advance of the St. Louis Browns, the baseball front remains the same to-day. Lee Fohl's men slipped up into a tie with Washington for third place in the American League race. St. Louis had a chance for a double advance, but Cards missed the chance to nose out the Braves for the third place by splitting even with the Phils, while the Braves were doing the same with the Reds.

Cleveland was idle, but the Yanks closed in four points by mauling the Senators. The Giants and Pirates remain one and a half games apart. Both won the final game of the series yesterday. Third place in the National League may change hands to-day, but the leaders will remain in the same position as both the Pirates and the Giants are idle.

Cleveland swings into action against Detroit in a series that promises no easy picking for the champions. In fourteen games played this year, the Indians have won nine from the Tigers.

The Yanks have Washington again, and unless the club suffers one of its chronic busts, Huggins has a chance to regain the lead.

While the Giants have been getting good pitching during their streak of eight straight victories, and while the club has been hitting good, another factor in their recent success has been apparent in the Chicago series. They are fighting.

Early in the season and until recently, a two-run handicap meant almost a surrender by McGraw's men. They lacked the winning spirit shown by the Pirates and Braves. In the last two games, however, the Giants have come from behind and won out. Pitsburg is showing obvious signs of concern. Gibson is making almost daily changes in his line-up.

BLAMES UMPIRE WILSON

For Trouble at Game in Port Hope

THE GUIDE ALSO SCOLDS PETES' MANAGER, BUT LETS HOME TEAM DOWN EASY.

For the trouble at Port Hope on Saturday, the Guide places the blame upon the shoulders of the Umpire-in-Chief, scolds the Peterboro manager, and in presenting the case for the home team, uses the soft pedal. The ring-leaders, Hills and Bob Chalk, are not named. The Guide, cannot find any excuse for the rough-house tactics of a player who after leaving the game, remains on the playing field, using insulting and profane language, and finally attacks the umpire-in-chief, and, accordingly leaves him out of the story The Pete's manager was in his usual fighting form, but was not offensive and The Guide is unfair to him, when it suggests that his conduct on Saturday should chase him from the Central League. Here is the Guide's version:—

"What is termed in baseball as a "free-for-all" where players and spectators mix things up in general took place and as this is the third time on the local grounds this season it is the duty of the management to see that it does not occur again. Policemen are always on the ground and at the first sign of trouble they should place the guilty parties under arrest. A good stiff fine will soon remove their desire for mixing it up. There were three causes for Saturday's trouble and the chief one was Umpire Wilson's lax manner of handling the game. Second Jake Solomon's determination to make it unpleasant for every person by his continual mousing and third Port Hope's readiness to retaliate. Mr. Wilson should know that as a league representative he has the support of the league Executive and any interference with them either by spectators or players would be promptly dealt with, with this assurance he should have exercised his authority on Saturday and the offenders ordered from the grounds. They should not even have been entitled to a place on the player's bench. among this number was Jake Solomon, a member of the league executive. We always admired Jake Solomon as a baseball mnager but his tactics on Saturday were childish in the extreme and were carried on for the one purpose of creating trouble which he finally succeeded in doing. His attitude all through towards the umpire and the opposing players was anything but sportsmanlike and we are suprised that a man of Mr. Solomon's standing in the league and his wide experience in basball should be guilty of draging clean sport to the depths he did on Saturday. Fortunaaely for Mr. Solomon the season is at a close, otherwise the Executive would in all probability orded the Peterboro team to select a new manager. A certain responsibility also rests with the Port Hope management. Players should not settle their differences with their opponents by fistic encounters. Patrons do not attend baseball matches expecting to see prize fights and it not only gives the team a bad name but also the team a bad name but also the town. Players and management should use their best efforts to quell all disturbances and report names of the gulity ones to the polce. We hope this is the last of the "free-for-alls" on the Port Hope grounds.

SPORT GOSSIP

At the Executive meeting held in Cobourg to consider the Belleville protest against the Port Hope Club, Rev. D. C. Ramsay presented Belleville's side of the case and presented seven affidavits signed by Belleville people that were present at the game, stating that Umpire Lewis had made the statement that he was going to steal the game from the Grand Trunks. Port Hope's defence was put in by the secretary of the Club, after which a ballot was taken and the protest declared lost.

"Chambers made a good impression on the local fans with his creditable work," says the Post. "The victory was a dearly bought one for Oshawa, as two of their star players, Fair and Rowden, were injured in sliding into third in succesive innings, and will be out of the game indefinitely."

Oshawa asked the Belleville club to agree to a change in date for Saturday's game, but Belleville refused. So at Oshawa on Saturday there will be a Central League game and a semi-final O.A.L.A. contest, Hamilton playing the return game, after getting a bad drubbing in the first game at home.

Dick Butler is umpiring the Petes-Lindsay game this afternoon.

THIS TIME LAST YEAR

Detroit and Philadelphia played a fifteen-inning, 8 to 8 tie.

Kelly batted out of turn, and the Giants lost a chance to tie the score with Pittsburgh.

The Braves beat the Reds in ten innings on singles by Boeckel, Mann and Holke.

Canada had 154 railroad mishaps during July, including 42 deaths. Serious as these igures are, they are boubtless largely outstripped by casualities due to motors.—Hamilton Spectator.

SCENE FROM THE BIG EIGHT REEL FEATURE "THE VALLEY OF DOUBT," WILLARD MACK'S WONDERFUL STORY OF THE CANADIAN NORTH SHOWING AT THE GRAND FOR 3 DAYS, STARTING TO-MORROW, THURSDAY.

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE ALLEN.

"Bob Hampton of Placer," the feature picture showing at the Allen Theatre the first three days of this week is one of the best seen here in a long time. Randall Parish wrote a strong virile story which has not suffered in the scenario done by Marion Fairfax, and the cast is an unusual one. James Kirkwood plays the hero, one time officer in Custer's famous Seventh Regiment, on frontier duty, who has been disgraced for the supposed murder of Major Brant. After effecting his escape from prison he becomes a gambler, befriends 'Buddy,' a devoted little waif, and ofers to protect the 'Kid' after rescuing her from the Indians. There is a treat in store for all lovers of red-blooded thrills and heroic performers. Several features I noticed added to the realism of the picture. The costumes in vogue in 1876 for men and women, were faithfully reproduced. The log cabins and frontier posts, army uniforms and equipment, were all correct, while the orchestra played the sweet old fachioned heart songs so popular at the close of the Civil War. The man who impersonated General Custer bore a striking resemblance to the old Indian fighter, whose picture may be found in many American homes to-day. At intervals there swept across the great plains hordes of U. S. cavalry, frontiersmen and Indians.

Among the most impressive views were those near the end depicting the last rally of the red men to the banner of Sitting Bull—the titles run simply—"Sioux," "Blackfeet," "Cheyennes," and then one sees a picture that brings joy to the heart of every lover of romance.

The work done by the freckle faced kid, Wesley Barry, is well nigh perfect. He is a wonderful actor for his age and the only one I can compare him to for depicting intense pathos as the tears run down his brave, homely little face, is May Marsh. It is interesting to know that the director, Marshall Neilan, is the first man to use a 'blimp' in photographing the panoramic scenes which caused much comment from the audience.

Genuine Indians, sometimes difficult to manage, were also employed and they lent much realism and local atmosphere.

AT THE GRAND.

Last week I told you that Mr. Rex Snelgrove, "The Man Who Owned Broadway," was tall, slim and athletic looking. You see first impressions are really very important ,and it was a great pleasure to me Monday night to hear my own views repeated on all sides by the audience which greeted so appreciatively the first appearance in Peterborough of the Rex Stock Company. It is a treat to see a company work together so easily, to watch such a smooth, well trained performance as was given by every member of the company. Mr. Snelgrove's pleasing personality, his natural, easy fun-making made him instantly popular, while his lovely wife caused a thrill of pleasure the moment she appeared upon the stage. Miss Vaughn is a perfect blonde, with really, truly, golden hair that would cause Lillian Russell to sit up and take notice in her best days. She wore three simple, pretty little gowns which were most becoming. The first, a girlish grey dress made in surplice style, the second a blue serge suit dress with soft white blouse, and in the last act she wore a little informal evening dress of apple green satin, white chiffon over flesh colour and rose-bud trimming. I could not help thinking what a seasonable hint this dress was to some debutante of the coming season. In fact I think after the fashion of the usual female in the audience, I made mental note of the fact, "that that would be most becoming to me." I recover very quickly, however, and realize that the leading woman of every show and picture I see, does not bear the slightest resemblance to my humble self.

Glancing over the audience of the Grand, I noticed a good representation from all classes of people—there were sedate business men and mothers of families, there were young mothers accompanied by loudly protesting offspring of tender years—two or three barefly twelve months old babies were remarked, and several young girls were carried away by their enthusiasm over Rex's witticisms, to the point of hysteria. But after all, excessive giggling is a privilege generally accorded youth, so one must be tolerant and smile when one would prefer to turn a severe and forbidding glance upon the unconscious offenders.

Considering the vaudeville accompanying the show, it must be admitted we got our money's worth. But what wonderful kiddies are the two Parks. Their little dance in pantomime style was splendid. I told them it reminded me of two Spanish dancers who specialize in that variety of interpretive number and now "Sam" thinks more than ever he may be a great man some day.

AT THE CAPITOL.

"A Wise Fool," adapted from the screen from "The Money Master" by Sir Gilbert Parker, and directed by George Melford, is really an artistic production. Even those unfamiliar with Quebec province must realize the perfection of local atmosphere in the picture, but no one who had ever seen the habitant at home, or his neighbour, the seigneur, could doubt Sir Gilbert Parker's close supervision. The photography is very good, also such details as old fashioned furniture, kerosene lamps, antiquated horses and carriages and clothes such as might be actually worn at St. Sauveur. Among the most vivid pictures are those in which Jean Jacques Barbille, the principal figure of the drama, appears as a young man, self-convdent, assured and overbearing. He is so secure in the possession of his philoophy of life, he has no time for any one else, though the seductive charms of lovely Carmen Dolores captivate his heart and name on the voyage out to Canada. His home-coming achieved, his bride presented to the old friend, Jean Jacques proceeds to forget that an ardent young woman needs more than a protective acection. She needs companionship, pleasure and sympathy. After seventeen years the inevitable happens—but in this picture the lover listens to reason, saves his life and cautions the woman he has partially led astary to return to husband and child. Development of character, the insufficiency of philosophy unsupported by love ,and the softening effect on the one time conceited egotist, lead on to a really happy eneding. After many trials and vicissitudes, Carmen and Jean Jacques are re-united —their daughter Loe and her husband, happy in the sudden turn of events, are back at theold homestead in Quebec after being in the west, and "the end' is flashed on the screen. leaving in one's mind a picture of love and contentment, amid an orchard heavy laden with blossoms. James Kirkwood's portrayal of Jean Jacques was flawless—in youth he is handsome, debonnair and self sufficient. His passionate temperament causes him many strong outbursts, but the later pictures of him as he leaves the ruins of his home, bird cage in hand with its silent canary within in hand and bundle strapped over his shoulder, depict him a man changed and broken, but all the better for having learned to forgive.

Alice Hollister as his wife Carmen, presents a strong picture of a lovely woman, still young, full of life and deprived of that which to a nature like hers makes life unbearable. It is very easy to realize the effect of the stranger's love upon her—but the redeeming feature of the situation is, that beneath the mask of philosophy, her husband really loves her. It is this love that endures and brings about the happy ending.

Other features of the programme at the Capitol were the usual Pathe News, Topics of the Day and a comedy called County Heir. "The Yellow Arm" presented the second episode of this thrilling serial. It is called "The Vengeance of the East," and as usual grips the interest at the very start and leaves one trembling with excitement over the fate of some one or other of the characters. It is no use—"Continued next week at this house" follows inexorably.

LAURA.

COMING ATTRACTIONS AT LOCAL THEATRES.

"Black Roses" at the Capitol.

"Yoda," the Oriental gardener on a millionaire's estate, has achieved the production of black roses and holds the secret of them. He is falsely accused of a murder he never committed and, a victim of circumstances, is sentenced to life imprisonment. Hardened and embittered, he succeeds in making a thrilling escape from prison, only to find his wife stolen from him—the punishment he metes out to those who brought about his conviction when as a Chinese prince he entered society—is worth seeing. His vengeance is complete as he succeeds in double-crossing the very leaders of the gang who framed him up when he was in the humble capacity of gardener.

"Black Roses" has a powerful theme, well worked out, and possesses the lure and fascination of the Orient, though the play is a thorough American drama. Sessue Hayawaka possesses an extraordinary appeal, and is seen in his best in this emotional role. For the first time in some years his lovely wife, Tsuru Aoki, plays opposite him as his screen wife. In this part she is the only one to wear Oriental dress, but her kimonas are the richest and most beautiful ever worn in one show. Robertson-Cole is producing a series of thrilling photoplays for the great Japanese actor, this one being specially written for him by E. Richard Schayer. Beautiful Myrtle Stedman plays the first 'bad" woman of her career and Henry Hebert is her partner in crime.

"The Valley of Doubt" at Grand.

At the Grand the last three days of this week will be shown a special all-star production directed by Burton George for Selznick. "The Valley of Doubt" is the name of this photoplay from the story by Willard Mack, one of the best this playwright has ever done. The plot is simple and stirring: Marion Hilgrade, the daughter of a great lumber king of the Northwest, is loved by a big French-Canadian at her father's camp. The villain, Jack Macy, tries, by lying, to discredit him in Marion's eyes and charges that he is responsible for leading her brother away and mistreating Annie, a young French girl. After much strong acting and situations tense with emotion, Julis faces Macy, Annie reveals the truth and vindicates the hero. Naturally the ending is a happy one. In addition to the fine acting, splendid scenic effects in snow-clad mountain and valley, there are real, genuine thrills in this great picture of the Northwest. The cast includes such prime favorites as Thurston Hall, Arline Pretty, Anna Lehr, Robert Agnew, William P. Davidson, Jack Costello and the famous trick dog, Jean.

The Allen Will Show "The Girl in the Taxi."

Mr. and Mrs. Carter de Haven have always been fun-makers. They did "The Girl in the Taxi" on the legitimate stage; so what could be more fitting than to put them in the screen version of the clever farce. They tell the world it is better than the original show, and they ought to know. To be called a mollycoddle by one's own father, to steal papa's evening clothes and then hide in a waiting taxi, only to find it occupied by a beautiful girl, starts the ball rolling, and from then on Mr. Haven experiences one funny situation after another. Papa and somebody else's wife are having a party, the policeman's wife is mixed up in the tangle, and Mrs. Carter de Haven as "The Girl" wears the most elaborate and beautiful gowns of her career. She "outvamps" even the great Theda or the new German siren of "Passion" fame, and don't miss this big First National attraction. Besides the stars, King Baggott plays a big part and is very impressive in uniform; Grace Cunard, the erstwhil epopular serial star, has given up thrills and plays to the sedate Narietta, married to a policeman; Otis Harlan, Tom McGuire, and many others, round out a first-class cast.

JUDGE HUYCKE PAID TRIBUTE TO CLARKE

EXPRESSED REGRET AT UNTIMELY DEATH OF LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR.

Before proceeding with the trial of William and Davis Hill this morning, Judge Huycke paid a warm tribute to the late Lieutenant-Governor Lionel Clarke. He had received the highest honour in the gift of the province but he had remained unaffected by his position, kindly and unostentatious, the same simple and considerate gentleman he had always been. He had brought honor to the office as well as the office honoring him. His death had caused a great loss, not only as Lieutenant Governor, but as Lionel Clarke, the man. Judge Huycke said he felt sure that he was voicing the sentiments of all Peterboro in expressing the deepest regret at the death of Lieutenant-Governor Clarke, whose funeral took place to-day.

A DIFFERENCE IN THE MEAT PRICES

WARSAW NEWS OF INTEREST—THRESHING LIGHT.

WARSAW, August 31. — There is a tremendous difference between the prices of fresh meats we see advertised in the local papers and the prices obtained by the farmers. The profits must be large, even after all expenses are paid.

Cheese was shipped from Warsaw at Lakefield last Wednesday.

More milk is coming in now than has been the case all summer.

The regular Women's Institute meeting will be held in the Institute Room on Thursday of next week. Rev. Vose will talk on "Books and Magazines We Should Read."

The Farmers' Picnic in Lakefield on Thursday last had a large representation from Warsaw.

The telephone men are wiring for the municipal line along the boundary. Some of the people on Bell lines 6 and 595 are being put to a great inconvenience by the lines being sold out to the municipal. They are on the boundary, or near, between Douro and Dummer, and much of their 'phone work is in the other township. The Bell Company sent notices last week to some patrons that they had sold out to the municipal.

Misses Eileen and Gertrude Pogue are visiting their aunt, Mrs. Charles Foster.

Misses Valetta and Cora Drain and Thelma and Doris Payne had a happy time together last week.

Miss Gow has returned from visiting friends in Perth.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Miller, Miss Miller, and Messrs. William and Robert Miller motored to Lindsay on Friday.

Messrs. Verne and Clifford Selkirk, Allan Taylor, and Mark Lonsberry, motored to Toronto on Sunday to attend the Exhibition.

Miss Emma Darling is having her holidays.

Miss Alberta Darling is assisting in Mr. Archie Hawthorne's store.

Miss Ella Dewart left this morning to return to her duties in Stamford No. 4 School. The schools in Welland re-open on 1st September.

The regular meeting of the Presbyterian Ladies' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. David Taylor on Wednesday last. The usual work was done, and the matter of having better lights, cleaning pipes, and redecorating was discussed, when it was decided to ask the Board to meet the Aid on Tuesday evening.

Refreshments are forbidden, but the hostess treated the ladies to maple sugar made in their own bush. Mrs. Foster and Misses Vera Taylor and Freena Cooper gave some instrumental and vocal music.

On Friday evening the Methodist and Presbyterian Young People met in the Town Hall, and spent a very pleasant evening with music, etc. They will hold weekly meetings alternately in the two churches. This week the meeting was held on Monday evening. Miss Dewart gave her excellent talk on "Edith Cavell." Miss Olga Miller gave a solo, Mr. and Mrs. Stark and son rendered a selection on the guitar, mandolin, whistle, and mouth organ, and later Mr. Stark gave an illustration of the use of the mouth organ; Dr. Munro and Mr. Hector Munro contributed two violin duets, and Mr. H. Munro a solo. Several hymns were sung by all. Rev. Weir took charge of the opening exercises, and left early, when Rev. Mr. Graham took his place.

Next week's meeting will be held in the Methodist Church on Friday evening.

The two frame buildings and their contents are a total loss, even the money in the store's till being destroyed, according to reports current here.

The fire broke out about two o'clock, following the explosion of tar which was being heated on a stove in the house, to be used in roofing the building.

THE WEATHER

Yesterday was the warmest day in August, the thermometer rising to 88 degrees in the shade, This is the 31st of August. The month is called after the old Roman Emperor Augustus, who was born 63 B.C., and died 14 A.D. July was named after Julius Caesar, and had originally 31 days, while the following month had but 30. To avoid envious comparisons, a day was taken from February, which was then the last month in the Roman year, and added to August.—W. P.

TRAIN LEAVES RAILS, NAILS MAN AGAINST POLE, CRUSHING HIM

(Special Despatch to The Examiner.)

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 1. —Last night a trolley car coming from Victoria Lawn Cemetery, jumped the track at the corner of Geneva and St. Paul streets, skidded across the pavement and nailed Saul Heroz, a tailor, against a telegraph pole, crushing out his life in an instant. BELFAST QUIET AFTER RIOTING SINCE TUESDAY

DEATH TOLL 16, WITH 100 WOUNDED, AND PROPERTY DAMAGE AMOUNTING TO THOUSANDS OF POUNDS.

MILITARY CONTROL SITUATION TO-DAY

(United and Canadian Press Despatches.)

BELFAST, Sept. 1.—At noon today Belfast was quiet. The fierce sectarian warfare that flared up on Tuesday despite the truce, had apparently died away, leaving the city to face a death roll of sixteen, with more than 100 in hospitals and a bill for damages amounting to many thousands of pounds.

Armed patroles kept order in the main streets, and the city was still under military control.

Soldiers were rushed to the Grove street section of Belfast this morning, when several shots were fired in that district. When the troops arrived, however, the gunmen had vanished. This was the first recurrence of the street fighting since yesterday, when six persons were killed and thirty were injured, many seriously.

ADOLESCENT ACT TOO INQUISITIVE, APPLICANT SAYS

MOTHER TELLS COLOR OF SON'S HAIR AND EYES AND SAYS COLOR OF FEET WILL PROBABLY BE ENQUIRED ABOUT NEXT.

Mr. F. W. Miller, who is administering the Adolescent School Attendance Act, issued his forty-first certificate of exemption at eleven o'clock this morning, and there were many other applications in prospect. His file has grown to that number since last Thursday. One mother who applied this morning stated that her son was 15 years and 9 months old, and was now at work. Another has a girl of fifteen learning to be a milliner, and still another girl had been working in a south end factory but was temporarily out of employment. Her mother took home a "Promise of Employment" sheet to fill out and have signed by the foreman of the factory. Four mothers were waiting at one time for Mr. Miller's permits this morning.

When he asked one of them the color of her son's eyes and hair she said that it seemed strange that he should want to know all that.

"I don't want to know lady," he answered, "but the Department of Education does. Why they want these details is more than I know, but there they are."

"They'll want to know the color of his feet next," retorted the mother.

Mr. Miller has discovered some parents who have been permitting children under fourteen to work. This also pertains to the factories that engaged them. Mr. Miller emphasized the fact that these parents are liable under the Factories Act, and it makes no difference whether their employment is during the school year or vacation period. No child under fourteen years of age shall be employed is the regulation as Mr. Miller knows it.

FREIGHT RATE REDUCTION TO BE 10 PER CENT

UNDERSTOOD IN OTTAWA THAT THE REDUCTION WILL BE EFFECTIVE IN ABOUT FIFTEEN DAYS.

SCHEDULE REVISION STARTED, IT IS SAID

(Special Despatch to the Examiner)

MONTREAL, Sept. 1. — While railway officials decline to discuss freight rate negotiations owing to the progress between the companies and the Railway Commission, it is generally understood in railway circles that a reduction of ten per cent. in rates will be announced almost immediately and that it will become effective in about 15 days.

Staffs of the tariff departments have already been instructed, it is said, to commence a revision of the schedules on a general bassi of ten per cent., though it is possible that on live stock and grains the reduction to be ordered will be greater.

The railway executives and commissioners are continuing their conference at Ottawa to-day, it having been adjourned from Tuesday to allow the procuring of figures covering earnings and operating expenses. It is said to be the plan of the commissioners to establish rates at a point fair to the Canadian Pacific Railway, though a reduction on this ground means a heavier deficit for the Canadian National System.

At present eastern freight rates are 30 per cent over. The intended ten per cent. reduction will bring the spread down to 25 and 20 per cent.

ABOLISHING WAR FUTILE, HARDING TELLS OFFICERS

ARMIES AND NAVIES ALWAYS NECESSARY, DECLARES SUMMONER OF DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE.

.. .. ..(United Press) ..

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Hope of entirely abolishing war is "perfectly futile" President Harding told officers of the Army War College here today.

Armies and Navies probably will always be necessary, he said, no matter how far aspirations towards world peace lead.

The President blamed lack of understanding for the warfare in West Virginia and declared that a policy of understanding at home and abroad would solve many ills.

ECHOES OF ELECTION CAMPAIGN STILL HEARD,

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

MONTREAL, Sept. 1.—The appointment of Napoleon Seguine as Governor of Bordeaux Jail, announced by Premier Taschereau last evening, will not put an end to the contestation proceedings instituted against him by Alfred Mathieu, president of the Trades and Labor Council, as a result of the last election in St. Mary's division.

Mr. Mathieu was defeated and immediately instituted proceedings to have Mr. Seguin unseated, alleging impersonation, telegraphing and all the other electoral crimes on the calendar. Mr. Sequin retaliated by taking out an injunction to have the ruse stopped, and since then it has been held up in the courts on one technicality or another. At one time Mr. Mathieu tried to get a warrant out against Mr. Sequin for perjury, but this was not allowed as the previous case was still in the courts. A decision as to whether the hearing will go on is expected this fall.

FOOD SUPPLY OF CHILDREN CEASES

225,000 HAVE RATIONS CUT OFF IN TARTAN REPUBLIC.

RIGA, Sept. 1. — (Canadian Press.)—In one of Russia's starving regions, the Tartar Republic, even children will receive no food after to-day, according to an announcement published by Izvestis. Twenty-five thousand children maintained by the State institution, will be dismissed, while 200,000 fed under the card rationing system, also have received their last supplies, the announcement said.

CROTHERS FAVORED AS NEXT GOVERNOR

(Special Despatch to the Examiner)

OTTAWA, Sept. 1. — It was learned here to-day that the choice for the Lieutenant-Governorship of Ontario, now lies between Hon. T. W. Crothers, Former Minister of Labor, in the Borden Government, and Mr. P. D. Ross, the publisher of the Ottawa Journal, with the chances in favor of the former.

Mr. Crothers is said to desire the position, though not in rugged health. He has been a long time in public life, and a constant supporter of the Government party.

EXPECT GOV'T INTERVENTION IN COAL "WAR"

UNLESS MINERS OBEY HARDING'S COMMAND AT ONCE TROOPS WILL BE RUSHED IN.

DEPUTIES HOPE TO HOLD OUT TILL THEN

BY A. L. BRADFORD

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1. — Armed intervention by the Federal government in the West Virginia Coal war seemed to be certain to-day.

As Secretary of War Weeks reached his office reports from West Virginia indicated that the miners are continuing to defy President Harding's command that they disperse and that fighting is still occurring in the disturbed areas.

President Harding and Secretary Weeks are determined that force will be the next step to be taken to quell the fighting in West Virginia if the president's proclamation is not obeyed by noon to-day.

MINERS IN CHECK.

LOGAN, W. Va., September 1. — Confidence that the miners' army will be held in check until the arrival of Federal troops after the declaration of martial law, was expressed by deputies in charge of the defence of Logan county to-day.

Scattered firing was reported throughout the night but so far as was known at headquarters the defences had not been penetrated.

FIGHTING STARTS.

ETHOL, W. Va., Sept. 1.—(United Press.)—Fighting between miners and defenders was in progress near here this morning, it was announced at State Police Headquarters. No casualties were reported.

Sporadic fighting could be heard coming from the vicinity of Blair Mountain.

TROOPS PREPARED TO GO.

CAMP SHERMAN, Ohio, Sept. 1.—Orders have been received here from the War Department for a United States' infantry regiment to hold itself in readiness to entrain for West Virginia trouble zones, it was learned by the United Press to-day.

AIRPLANES DESPATCHED.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1. — A squadron of airplanes was dispatched to-day to the fighting area of West Virginia, Secretary of War Weeks announced. The squadron consists of thirteen airplanes and was ordered this morning from Langley Field, Virginia. The airships, it is understood, are to be used as an evidence to the army of miners that the government stands ready to quell the fighting.

Whether the airplanes will go so far as to bomb the force of miners, Weeks would not say, but he indicated any action necessary would be taken. The planes probably will be used mainly for observation purposes, however.

Man Said to be Hunger Striking in Western Jail

CAPTAIN JANNEY, ONTARIO MAN, HAS REFUSED FOOD FOR 25 DAYS, WARDEN SAYS.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Sept. 1.—For the first time in the history of the Provincial jail at Lethbridge, an inmate is staging a hunger strike. Captain E. L. Janney, who is being held without bail pending trial on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses as a result of efforts to float an aircraft company in this province, is stated by the jail authorities to have refused all food for 25 days and persists in his conduct in spite of everything done to tempt him.

Warden Rivers states that Janney refused to go to the mess table with the other prisoners. Food is therefore carried to him, but guards have been unable to detect him availing himself of any of it.

Dr. Wray, the jail physician, is inclined to think that he is camouflaging by surreptitiously taking enough food to keep himself alive, as despite 25 days' hunger striking his physique shows no signs of malnutrition.

Janney is understood to have a splendid war record. He is a Toronto man, but has been living in Point Grey, near Vancouver. During the winter he endeavored to float an aircraft company to carry on commercial trading in the far north by means of airplanes. The Alberta Utilities Commission frowned on his efforts, and in disposing of some of his stock without the Commission's authority he got into his present trouble.

Capt. Janney is a native of Galt, Ontario and is well known in Toronto. He was a student at the University there and after going overseas with the 1st Canadian contingent, he started an aviation school in Toronto. Later he had been interested in a scheme to get skins from Labrador by means of airplanes.

LEARN THE VIOLIN

BEGINNERS CLUB OF 24 MEMBERS NOW BEING FORMED ON MOST FAVORABLE CONDITIONS.

The desire to play the violin is strongly implanted in the mind of hundreds who never venture to make a start to learn.

With the idea of encouraging any who would like to develop their taste for the king of string instruments the Greene Music Company secured a very special instrument, well adapted to either beginners or even quite advanced players and formed a club, limited to twenty-four members, each one of whom will receive a violin and complete outfit, including case, bow, pitchpipes, chart, rosin, instruction book, etc., and ten free lessons, all on payment of the very small sum of two dollars and fifty cents at time of joining the club and one dollar a week for twenty weeks. This extremely easy plan is very little more than paying for the lesson each week, and the violin and outfit costs but a trifling amount. The lessons are given by a competent teacher, a member of the Peterborough Conservatory of Music staff, and only twenty-four members can be accepted. The club is now open, and Mr. Greene or his son, the violinist, may be consulted as to choice of outfits and arrangements for the ten free lessons.

CITY'S HEALTH GOOD DR. YOUNG REPORTS

BUT ISOLATION HOSPITAL HAS TWENTY-TWO PATIENTS

Sixteen scarlet fever patients and six diphtheria comprise the present register at the Isolation Hospital, Dr. T. W. H. Young, M.O.H., reported to-day. The health of the city is generally good he said, but there has been quite a number of scarlet fever cases all summer. The Queen Mary hospital staff has been keep busy and practically every case has been treated successfully. It may perhaps be generally understood that these two wards are absolutely separate. They are divided by a wall that permits no communication. The one nurse in charge of the diphtheria patients takes her meals alone in her lunch room in that section and the three nurses attending the scarlet fever patients have their own lunch room. Dr. Young stated that the work of taking care of six diphtheria cases is no little task, especially when it is considered that there is only one nurse for the entire twenty-four hours.

The new electric stove bought by the Board of Health has been installed and is giving every satisfaction in the kitchen.

A knot hole is not a hole unless the knot is not in the hole as the Terible Mr. Bangs discovers in "The Skipper's Treasure Garden, the third in the Toonerville Trolley series at the Allen Theatre to-day.

ELECTION BEFORE SNOW FLIES IS EXPECTED TO BE MEIGHEN'S ANNOUNCEMENT AT LONDON, ONT.

THE EXAMINER WILL BULLETIN TO-NIGHT PREMIER'S DECISION

The Examiner will receive Premier Meighen's announcement at London, Ont., regarding the government's decision as to an election, as soon as it is available to-night. This will probably be in the neighborhood of eleven o'clock standard time. A summary of the Premier's announcement will be bulletined.

DAIL EIREANN NOTE DOESN'T CLOSE PARLEY

CARRIED TO LLOYD GEORGE IN SCOTLAND BY A SPECIAL COURIER AND ITS CONTENTS KEPT SECRET.

BUT OFFICIALS SAY DOOR IS STILL OPEN

By CLYDE C. BEALS

(United Press Staff Correspondent).

DUBLIN, Sept. 1.—The reply of the Dail Eireann to the latest British note was forwarded to Lloyd George last night, it was officially announced here to-day.

Special Irish couriers carried the Dail's reply directly to the British Premier in Scotland. The text would not be given out here until some word had been received from Lloyd George, it was said. Nevertheless, the reply has not ended the negotiations, unless the British Government insists upon breaking them off, it was said. Further pour parlers have been suggested.

VOLUNTARY CUT MADE IN WAGES

VERITY PLOW EMPLOYEES ACCEPT LESS TO SECURE EXPORT BUSINESS.

Brantford's unemployment situation is considerably improved by the recommencement of operations this week at the Verity Plow Company plant, which normally employs between 450 and 500 men. This plant, in common with practically all other agricultural implements factories in Canada, was completely closed down early in July, owing to the lack of demand for its products. Domestic business is not yet forthcoming in sufficient volume to warrant re-opening the plant. A large export order was booked contingent on price reductions. It will take two months' normal run to fill this order.

The Industrial Council of the Verity Plow Company met recently to consider the situation. This council consists 50 per cent. of representatives elected by the employees and 50 per cent. appointed by the company. The situation was laid before the council in detail. It was found to be necessary to effect a material reduction in wages in order to produce the goods at the price stipulated by the export customer in question. The employees' representatives took the initiative in solving the problem by suggesting a wage cut of 25 per cent. This has accordingly been put into effect.

At the outset about 200 men have been taken back, and this will increase steadily until the whole working force is again employed. It is noteworthy that wages were still at the peak when the plow factory was closed in July. A significant feature of the order is that it is for export account. The Verity Plow Company officials feel there is room for congratulation that their employees met the situation fairly, thereby aiding to speed up manufacturing operations.

Export business in implements has been considerably below normal this year. Reference is made elsewhere to prospective business with Russia. The implement manufacturers in Canada have hopes that Russian business will develop next year. Krassin, the Soviet trade emissary, has been expected to arrive in Canada for several months past. Hopes are entertained in some quarters that his visit will materialize and that actual business will result.

THE PETERBORO CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC WILL RE-OPEN ON TUESDAY NEXT, SEPT. 6, FOR PARTICULARS REGARDING THE VARIOUS COURSES OF STUDY APPLY 302 HUNTER ST. PHONE 355. 3d553347

IN EVENT OF IMMEDIATE APPEAL THERE WILL BE NO REDISTRIBUTION OF SEATS.

NEWS TO BE FLASHED AT ELEVEN TO-NIGHT

(Special Despatch to the Examiner.)

LONDON, September 1. — Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Prime Minister of Canada, will arrive in London about noon to complete arrangements for to-night's meeting at which it is believed, he will announce a general election for Canada before the snow flies.

Special wires have been installed in the Opera House over which the election news will be flashed about 11 o'clock to-night, to all parts of the Dominion.

The last general election was held on December 17, 1917, and reports received by prominent supporters of the Government here are to the effect that the Premier will dissolve Parliament and go to the country before Christmas

In the event of an immediate appeal to the country there can be no redistribution of seats, owing to the fact that the census returns will not be completed in time. Thus the west will have to be satisfied for another period of years without additional representation in Parliament. Nor will the tariff be revised now as promised two sessions ago by the Borden ministry.

The feeling here is that the Agrarians will sweep the Prairie Provinces, that the Liberals will have an overwhelming majority of the votes in Quebec and the Maritime Provinces, and that British Columbia and Ontario are the only two provinces in which the government will hold may seats.

PETERBORO MEN IN PRIZE LIST

Among the successful Peterborough contestants in the competition conducted by the Overland Motor Car Company entitled, "Put Canada on Wheels," was Mr. Fred Roy and Mr. A. B. Cunningham. The former won one hundred dollars and the latter twenty-five dollars. The entrants were required to write a letter under the caption of "What My Car Means to Me."

THIS WILL INTEREST STOMACH SUFFERERS

Says Indigestion comes from an Excess of Hydrochloric acid.

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion are nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation, then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas, or have heartburn, flatulence, waterbrash, or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast while it is effervescing, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important it neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with Lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousand of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.

"A GENERAL ELECTION BEFORE THE END OE THE YEAR," SAYS PAPER KNOWN TO BE CLOSE TO OFFICIAL OTTAWA

OTTAWA, September 1 (Canadian Press). — The Ottawa Journal, which is generally recognised as being close to the Government, will to-da yprint the following editorial, forecasting Premier Meighen's speech at London to-night:

"A general election before the end of the year, the Journal believes, will be the momentous announcement that Mr. Meighen will make to the country in his speech at London to-night. It will be a decision, not popular, perhaps, in many quarters, a decision which probably fails to take account of party strategic considerations, and which some may question on other grounds, but one in respect of which this can be said, that it will be a conclusion reached after the most conscientious consideration, and based completely on patriotic regard for the best interests of the nation."

A New Unified Express Service
the Canadian National Express Co

TO extend their service and increase their usefulness, on September 1st 1921, under the name of Canadian National Express Company, a consolidation of the business and operations from 3465 offices of the long-established and well-known Canadian Express Company and the Canadian National Express Company became effective.

The facilities of each of the two Companies are thus, in effect, doubled. The direct and tangible advantages to the public of this unified service will become increasingly apparent in each department

More Cars of Various Types are now available. The cars of the railways are now being used interchangeably throughout the National System of Railways, to speed up the service.

A Consolidated Vehicle Service in the cities and larger towns ensures prompt response to public calls. Fleets of speedy motor trucks and express wagons will speed up the service.

Consolidation of Local Offices in various cities under a single head will centralize control of operations, eliminate duplication, and speed up the service.

Exclusive Fast Express Trains are operated between some of the large centres. Their arrival and departure is timed to allow receiving packages as late in the day as possible for delivery to consignees early the following morning, speeding up the service.

Articles of Value. The shipment of these, for which the express service is especially adapted, will benefit by the co-ordinated facilities. A trusty messenger in each car and a reliable driver on each wagon guard every package. The services of these men are so important that each of them is bonded to ensure security.

Foreign Express Business. Traffic arrangements enable the Company to quote lowest rates and accept shipments for the United States, Great Britain, the Continent, and all Foreign Countries. In every large city of Europe the Company has a representative to accept goods for shipment to Canada, to speed up the service and ensure security.

Money Order Department. Never having lost a dollar entrusted to their care, both Companies have enjoyed the confidence of the Government Departments, the banks, and the leading business houses. Express Money Orders of the Canadian National Express Company are on sale at its express offices, and by numerous branch agencies conveniently located in every town and city. They can be endorsed any number of times. Merchants accept or cash them. There is no more satisfactory way of transmitting money quickly, safely, economically. The Company issues Foreign Drafts payable at Banks and Foreign Postal Remittances payable through Foreign Post Offices. Its Travellers' Cheques, a universal currency, are accepted anywhere without further identification. If lost, the amount is refunded without charge.

This Service is Yours

The Goverment Railways of Canada are back of the Company's every receipt for goods. Each receipt is an insurance policy. Good for a valuation up to $50.00 without extra charge, it can be increased at slight additional cost. As a vital factor in business and social life, the Company welcomes suggestions from the enlightened public it serves.

JOHNNY GOES FORTH.

(By Jaennette.)

Several hundred children in the city of Peterborough doubtless entered a class room for the first time to-day. The first school day; there is nothing in the life of the child which can compare with it. Out of playtime into work time; out of the world of make believe into the realm of hard facts; out of the abstract into the concrete. Yesterday a baby, to be mothered and watched over, to-day a growing child whose brain is esteemed fit for the serious beginnings of a studious existence. Yesterday, the free, unfettered life of the playing tot, to-day the routine of the class-room, with fixed hours and fixed tasks, and no deviation from them, under pain of mysterious displeasure from higher authority. Yesterday, the formless meanderings of untramelled fancy; to-day the set sounds of the beginner's alphabet. The world that was a vast horizon of misty, wonderful vision has become overnight a round globe perched on a stand, with markings of red and white, and the carefree imagination that constructed an enchanted castle from picture blocks and climbed the magic beanstock with the mighty Jack is now confronted with the inexorable facts that two and two make four and that c-a-t spells cat and nothing else.

It is the end of freedom, of irresponsibility, and of vagueness; the beginning of crystallized thought, of knowledge, of action. No longer is it 'Johnny,' for you don't find 'Johnnies' on school records. The change to John is symbolical, so when mother leaves the breakfast dishes, tidies up her small son, when he takes her hand, and with shining face and clean collar marches off to face the wonderful new realm of the school-room, John Jones has taken the first step forward in the battle of life He has embarked upon the Great Adventure.

AN AMERICAN VIEW.

At the request of the Canadian Government a careful scrutiny of the national railway system has been completed by Sir Joseph Flavelle.

His conclusions are interesting, for he starts with the admission that the public-owned property is in a bad way, and demonstrates conclusively that the proper thing to do is to continue operation since it is a certainty that in time the Government railways will be a profitable enterprise.

First of all, he points out that the reason, in part, for the financial burden at present imposed on the people by the lines is due to past carelessness, not principally in operation, but in lack of attention to public policy when the Grand Trunk Pacific was promoted and the transcontinental plans of the Canadian Northern became known; this gave three roads for a territory sufficient only to support two.

Now the Government system has to meet the competition of the Canadian Pacific Railway, whose fixed chargest are slightly under $16,000,000 a year, while the Government lines eventually will operate under annual fixed charges of $66,000,000. The Canadian National system includes 19,433 miles, acquired at an average cost of $85,000 a mile, while the C. P. R. cost $83,117 a mile.

The investigator faces all these facts squarely, and says the public must meet them in the same way. So the Government gives full publicity to his findings, a healthy bit of publicity. Granting that the problem could have been prevented by foresight, and admitting also that for some years this public-owned property may give Canadians an uncomfortable time, Sir Joseph expresses the conviction that, at worst, it is a property developed before its time, and that years will liquidate its present disadvantages, if the public has patience and balance.

At least the Canadians can not quarrel with the Government for lack of candour. Doubtless the task of building up the public system will be undertaken determinedly by the bulk of the people who have the supreme advantage of knowing right at the start just where they stand. — Detroit News.

GAMES OF CHANCE.

Attorney-General W. E. Raney, deservedly or not, has run into showers of vigorous protest, which threaten to develop into a veritable storm in Mimico community, because in that town half a dozen county police raided the Mimico Memorial Park grounds and confiscated a number of games of chance, under the Act forbidding gambling. The occasion was a field day held by the Mimico Athletic Association to raise sufficient funds for improving the park and equipping it as a playgrounds for children, in which worthy cause the Independent Daughters of the Empire have been commendably active. The police did not, it appears, interfere with a drawing for prizes, but Dr. Forbes Godfrey, M.P.P. for West York and Vice-President of the Mimico Athletic Association, takes strong exception to their activities, in which he seems to suspect the hand of the Attorney-General himself. In fact, reading between the lines of his verbal protest the inference is conveyed by Dr. Godfrey that Mr. Raney personally ordered the raid, selecting Mimico as the one place in Ontario to insult, and insinuating that his reason was ulterior to the exercise of his high office.

We do not believe that the raid originated from any other functioning than by those responsible for carrying out general instructions to seize and confiscate gambling devices wherever found; and Mr. Raney, when he denies any special interest in the Mimico incident, is firmly entrenched behind the law and its liability to enforcement without specific instructions from himself, and also behind the constitution which forbids as, he declares, either a Mayor, the Crown Attorney or the Attorney-General to abrogate the criminal code.

There is, however, in this regard, an exception in favor of churches, the organizations of which are allowed to operate such games of chance, as it is alleged were confiscated at Mimico—presumably because their operation is for a worthy cause. No one objects to that, but there are many worthy causes, among which the object the Daughters of the Empire and the Athletic Association at Mimico had and have in view, find a premier place. It is indeed unfortunate that the good people of Mimico should have reason to feel insulted in their efforts at raising sufficient funds for fittingly perpetuating the glorious memory of their soldier dead—in other words, to beautify and equip park and playgrounds, where, in enjoyment of the healthy recreation there afforded, present and future young folk and elder folk may keep for ever green remembrance of Canada's loyal defenders who died and lie buried beneath the poppies in Flanders' fields that all people British might still live free.

But the law, designed, in part, to restrict pure gambling and "shell" operations by professional fakirs, allows no exceptions in regard to 'games of chance other than that conceded to churches"—to use the Attorney-General's own pronouncement. It recognizes no other worthiness justifying extenuation in enforcement; hence, of course, the criminal code must be respected. And so it is and ever has been in civilized days, we are so hedged in by codes, conventionalities and systems that ofttimes individuals and people are restrained in philanthropical propositions for fear of establishing a precedent which may react to the advantage of those seeking nothing but their own selfish ends. In this case at Mimico, and at other events for commendable purposes, the raising of revenue by games of "pure chance" suffers restriction because, originating perhaps with the old-time circus, in games of chance, in too many of such operations, bare-faced "faking"has dominated. Therefore we may assume that, with one exception, no exemption is to be allowed by which through laxity of scrutiny or other means advantage may be taken of a concession to defeat the object for which that concession was made. And thus the innocent suffer with the guilty, although it is difficult to conceive wh yif people are willing to indulge in a "clean" game of chance on the one hand, they should not have similar privilege for a philanthropic cause, where imposition would not be countenanced.

A Seamless Oven

SEVENTY years' experience in stove and range building infallibly guided McClary's to correct principles in constructing their Electric Range oven.

Heat for the oven of a coal or wood range is generated in the fire pot and conducted to the oven.

Heat for the oven of a gas range is generated from an open, oxygen-consuming flame.

Heat for an electric range oven is generated from an element inside the oven.

That means you can economize in electric current, can turn it down to "low" or "medium" and still maintain the temperature of the oven, as the heat is held in the oven until the door is opened.

McClary's Electric Range

Heated air exerts pressure. This air pressure will force vapors and odors through any kind of joint or seam, and lodge them in the insulating packing between the outer and inner walls of the oven.

So McClary's make the inside of their Electric ovens in one piece, without a joint or seam. No vapor can be forced into the lining, and no heat is lost.

French Designers Now Displaying The Princess Model New Skirts

Vivid Shades, Particularly Red, Are Popular; Duvetyn is Used This Year---The New Gowns.

PARIS, Sept. 1.—Poiret models as shown here divide themselves into two absolutely distinct types. Some are made with the smooth fitting corsage, moulding the bust, and with the waist descending low in back and mounting higher at the front. The skirts of this group have the width and fulness distributed around by means of a gathered mounting.

The other type of gown is diametrically opposite and more closely resembling the princess style, following the silhouette of the figure. This last type is seen in straight gowns, slender sheaths, and what one might call scabbard styles, with the drapery clinging, in flowing long lines, giving extreme delicacy to the silhouette.

As in Poiret's preceding collection, there are a large number of models which betray the Moyenage and Renaissance influences.

Along with the exaggerated styles, which are exceedingly original in point of cut and color scheme and also in the combinations of fabrics employed, with the distinctive Poiret cachet, there are a certain number of much more orthodox models, which nevertheless have the straight, smooth fitting corsage and the fullness of the skirt.

Among the treatments most exploited in this collection are dull, soft painted kid, and alo painted velvet. A kind of reconstructed fur is also used, called 'Boreale," dyed in several shades, but especially in beige and old gold. This half fur, half fabric trimming is used either as the basis of entire capes in a two-color scheme, or else in the form of immensely broad ornamental bands to trim wraps or capes.

With rich fabrics, brocades and velvets, one making the corsage and the other the skirt, sumptuous contrasting effects are obtained. On velvets, too, the gold embroideries are much to the fore.

Evening gowns are often made up of a small corsage entirely embroidered in metal with the full skirt in some plain soft silk material or metalized fabric.

Other models of a more sumptuous aspect are developed in brocade, with the princess dress effect in the back prolonging itself just by the cut into a long pointed train, and shortened in front. The front is cut out into a sort of bodice with a basque over the skirt of another contrasting material.

A number of frocks blousing at the hem after the harem style are also shown.

In the vivid shades those which lead are bright red, especially in the elaborate wraps and capes, and also chartreuse yellow, old gold and marigold.

The extensive use of metalized fabrics is noteworthy in this collection; for example, a plain gold fabric glaced in color, brocades of steel and black, and haute fantaisie silks often in black with large bands in metal or with immense geometric designs.

Rich gold embroideries are used in numerous models, even on informal serge frocks.

For the tailleurs, contrasting effects are favored. A skirt of black velvet, for instance, with a jacket in velours de laine in some lighter shade. Other models have the medium jacket with a rather wide peplum allover embroidered in some bright color, or all striped in small strips of fabrics appliqued in two colors, often stressed by a border of fur.

For the afternoon the use of moire in the darker hues should be noted. Clocquella silk is also employed, giving a matelasse effect through the use of metal stitches, or else all over embroidered in Chinese designs carried out in silk.

All the wraps and capes have a tendency to be full. When the capes are elaborate, for evening wear, for instance, they are extremely wide and full, and sometimes irregular, giving free play to movements of the drapery.

Red plays a major role even in the simple wraps, of which some are made partly in red duvetyn, and some in fur.

Swimming Meets

A programme of weekly swimming meets has been arranged for the Y.W.C.A. pool during the month of September. At each meet there will be races for the following groups: Girls of twelve and under, girls of sixteen and under, girls over sixteen and first-year pupils. Points will be given to each girl, according to the length of time in which she makes the race, and at the end of the series the girl in each group who has the highest number of points will win the prize, which in each case will be a sterling silver spoon, the gift of Dr. and Mrs. Harvey.

To enter these races it is not necessary to have tickets for the pool, but membership in the association is required. Spectators are welcome at all times. The first meet will be held on Tuesday, September 6th, at 8 o'clock.

Sunshine Girls

The Sunshine Girls, a group of young ladies, the eldest of whom is eleven years old, held a very enjoyable bazaar and tea at the home of Mrs. Gordon Greer, 580 Gilmour street, on Tuesday afternoon last. The girls, who have been busy during the summer months in making small articles for this bazaar, sold their own fancy work and home-made candy, and also served tea with very little outside help. They had a most successful and entertaining little bazaar, which formed also a sort of community gathering for the neighborhood. With a small entrance fee, they realized the very nice little sum of $21.48, which will be given to the fresh aid fund for tubercular children. The girls have become very interested in the good work of the Peterborough Health Association in connection with the summer camp at Jackson Park and wish it to benefit by the profits realized from their generous little undertaking. The members of the club are the Misses Betty Greer, Jean Puttick, Barbara and Dorothy Foster, Sarah Sams, Leota, Helen and Jean Wilson, and Ruth Barns.

Home Builders

Both architects and home-builders are coming more and more to realize the value of built-in furniture. The architect realizes that it gives a certain finish to the house.

The chief built-in is the cabinet partition between kitchen and dining-room. This very often comprises the entire wall. It is convenient. It saves the maid or housewife many steps a day. The glass panelled doors open from either room. Food may be served in the kitchen and placed through the cabinet into the dining-room. Likewise the dishes and food may be removed from the table and pushed through to the kitchen side of the cabinet. When the doors are closed the cabinet makes a perfectly good china closet.

The next most popular built-in is the bookcase. Many builders place closets underneath. This built-in readily lends itself to room decoration, as curtains are often hung in front of it which may be drawn over the books as desired. Fireside built-ins are increasing in all the newer houses. The "Ingle nook" make have a long built-in bench or two side built-in chairs, or two side built-in book cupboards. For the bed-room, built-in dressing tables and dressers are increasing in popularity. The architect can have several convenient cupboards about the house. Little corner colonial cupboards with a hooded top are in especial favor.

OLD ONTARIO COUPLE MARRIED 73 YEARS AGO STILL HALE AND HEARTY

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 29.—Mr. and Mrs. Simon Brooks, of Roland, Manitoba, who on Monday celebrated the seventy-third anniversary of their wedding day, are both still busying themselves with their daily tasks. They were born in Ontario and have lived under four British monarchs. During their early married life they lived on the old homestead near Ameliasburg, Ontario. Later they moved to Brighton, Ontario, and in 1889 came west, settling on the homestead near Roland. Here they took up tasks of the early pioneers, enduring many hardships, but were always cheerful and hospitable to those in need.

To-day's trip was the first step in increase of exercise and a rapid return of strength and health, his friends said.

FORCED TO PUT UP IMMIGRATION BARS.

BUDAPEST, August 11.— Hungarians expelled from all parts of old Hungary by the new states carved out of them, have been fleeing into the new; smaller Hungary in such numbers that the government has issued a decree forbidding further entries for three months. The refugees had crowded the border villages and cities beyond their capacity and housing facilities have been exhausted.

Bathing Accomodation For Ladies

This season has witnessed a great deal of exercise in the water. All summer long the inadequate swimming accomodations of the city have been crowded with swimmers and would-be swimmers, and there has been a gratifying dearth of accidents of a serious nature. Everyone should know how to swim, and there are many facilities afforded for the acquisition of such knowledge. At Inverlea Park there is a notice posted on one of the largest trees in a conspicuous part of the grounds, headed, "Ladies, Women, Attention." The style and diction may not be of the very highest order, but the intention is good, and that is all that really matters, after all. It is an invitation to all women interested in the acquisition of swimming knowledge to avail themselves of the expert and free tuition of swimming instructors who will be provided on application and includes an admonition to be not observers only, but to get into the game, learn to swim, "and enjoy yourselves." There is a flavor of the community spirit about this simply-worded notice that makes it very attractive.

SEVEN BRITISH OFFICERS MARRY GERMAN WOMEN.

LONDON, Aug. — Seven British officers with the army on the Rhine have married German women since the occupation, it was stated in the House of Commons by a government spokesman in reply to a question. He added that it was not the policy of the war office to encourage such unions but the department has no power to prevent them.

TYPEWRITER RUN BY ELECTRIC POWER.

BERLIN, Aug. 30. — A German manufacturing company is offering an electrically-operated typewriter on the market, claiming it is a labour-saving device, in that the 'touch' is much easier, the speed considerably greater, with virtually no 'wear or tear' on the operator's nerves.

NEW FIGHT STARTS ON DEATH PENALTY

Sheriff Knott Says Brandon Case Will Form Basis of New York Campaign.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Sheriff David H. Knott announced yesterday that the execution of George Brandon of Trenton, N. J., would form the basis for a new campaign for the abolition of capital punishment in this State. The Sheriff, during the last session of the Legislature, participated in a futile effort to have such a measure passed.

In the new campaign it is planned to circulate petitions so that when the next Legislature convenes the movement will have acquired sufficient strength to make a formidable appeal at Albany. Sheriff Knott and those associated with him were impressed by the fact that Brandon died protesting his innocence.

KENT CLOSES THE DEAL

Chapter 52

The next night Kent came to me beaming.

"Victor Lachman took that apartment on Fifth Avenue, Babs," he exclaimed delightedly as I went to meet him at the front door.

"Oh, Kent, I'm so glad." I breathed softly against his shoulder as he hugged me up so fervently.

"Yes, he was very much pleased with it-thought it was just the thing and it is a beauy, Babs."

"Better than ours, Kent?" I teased.

"Well, I'm afraid just a little, but we'll be moving up on Fifth Avenue ourselves some day, little wife," he promised.

"We couldn't be any happier, dearest, and that's what count's," I returned warmly with my arms about his neck.

Kent was doing so well in business and it had been a wonderful stimulus to his faith. I was so thankful. I semed almost like the answer to our determination to retrieve Kent's mistake. Kent tremendously pleased and encouraged but he showed plainly he never spoke direcly of its being the act of Providence. Belief like that comes more slowly to a man. My faithl made me look for the answer, for some reason for it all, and I found it in the fact that Kent had risen above his mistake.

"Did you have any difficulty getting the apartment for Mr. Lachman" I interrogated as we sat down to dinner.

"Yes, thought I wasn't going to get it at first. You see another agent was handling it also, and he had a party that was on the poin of renting it."

"How did you manage to procure it for the Lachman's dear?" I questioned interestedly.

"I made a little deal with the other agent myself—made it worth his while to let me have it. Of course I wouldn't want Victor Lachman to know I had to do it," he cautioned. "He would want to settle up, make it up to me in some way. I'm only to glad to be able to do something for him he added warmly.

I felt a little badly that Kent had been forced to take the apartment away from the other party that was negotiating for it. But I could not tell him so. After all, in this world it was the survival of the fittest and especially soin business matters. I could not be too narrow minded and discourage Kent when he was so anxious to do a favor for Victor Lachman.

I suppose we ought to invite Mr. and Mrs. Lachman and the Walkers here some evening," I suggested. I waited to see how Kent would take it.

"I suppose we really should" Kent responded slowly. "I have thought of it myself but I'll confess I don't look forward to it," he declared honestly.

"Maybe it won't be so very hard after all, dearest," I encouraged. I knew that Kent's concience was still a little raw and vulnerable. Poor boy, I understood him so well and felt deeply for him. Yet I was hoping even his strained awkard feeling for the Lachmans might be overcome. I knew he dreaded meeting Mrs. Lachman even more acutely than he did Victor Lachman. I also knew it was simply because Victor Lachman was a man. He had not mentioned this to me, but I felt it instinctively. It is so much easier for men to square things with each other. They seem to understand and sense each others goodness more readily.'

But I had great hopes and faith in Kent.

WORKERS ORGANIZE SOVIET IN BRUREE.

(By United Press.)

DUBLIN, Sept. 1. — The Red Flag has been raised in Southern Ireland.

Placards declaring that the mills were now the property of the Bruree Soviet Workers were put up in the town. They contained the announcement "We make bread—not profits."

The action followed the dismissal of two employees of the mill whom the owners refused to reinstate.

THE PETERBORO MOTOR CLUB

The "Canadian Motorist" for August contains a bright little article on the excellent work of the Peterborough Motor Club during this season. Comment is made on the services extended to visiting motorists in the way of informaion with regard to roads, fishing areas, camping grounds, and places to secure supplies, and to the efforts of the Peterboro Club to restrain reckless driving. The article says: "A novel method to minimize reckless driving by local motorists is being employed by a polite letter being forwarded to the offending motorist as notified by any of the club's members, drawing the atention to the desirability of practising caution as a protection to himself."

"The resoluton forwarded of the league and the Minister of Public Highways, recommending the adoption of a systef whereby motorists can retain the same licence number plate from year to year is one which should receive the serious consideration of the Department. The suggestion from the Peterboro Club is o the effect that only necessary change needed would be use of an interechangeable year date of a different color for each year, and bolted to the stationary number plate, which would be made of more durable, metal, preferaby enamel those issued at present. It is claimed that a considerable amount of work will be elimated in issuing the licence each year, as practically seventy per cent of the same license numbers would be renewed in approximately every five years. Then again the expenditure each year on new number plates would be reduced considerably."

The Club is giving every assistance possible in the endeavor to secure better roads throughout the district, in getting reports from members on road conditions and in urging repairs and improvements where needed. It is the intention of the club to issue a road map of Petrborough and district, showing the most atractive routes to be taken Road signs are being placed from time to time where necessary under the supervision of a special committee appointed for that purpose.

The club has done a great deal of charitable work throughout the summer in its carrying out of a programme of drives to the inmate's of the charitable institution's of the city, St. Vincent's Orphanage, Protestant and the House of Providence having been favored in this way, and has also done a great deal of in direct advertising of the city in the motor trips extended to the delegates atending convenions of the florists, the Knights of Columbus and the Independent Order of Foresters.

BYNGS LEAVE FOR CAPITAL AT ONE

DEPARTURE WAS EFFECTED VERY QUIETLY

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

TORONTO, Sept. 1.—Lord Byng, of Vimy, Governor-General of Canada, left for Ottawa at one o'clock this morning. The original time of departure was fixed for eleven-thirty, and the Vice-Regal party arrived at the station shortly after ten o'clock, accompanied by the host of the affair, Sir Joseph Flavelle, and a small group of friends.

The arrangements were conducted very quietly, however. The farewells were brief and few people noticed the Governor-General's party as they proceeded to the cars "York" and "Cambridge." The two cars were hidden in the furthest and most obscure corner of the dingy Union station and here, safe from observation, Lord and Lady Byng enjoyed a quiet few minutes on the platform conversing with Brig-General and Mrs. C. H. Mitchell, who appeared on the scene to pay their res pects.

At the weekly practice of the G. W.V. Band last night, Bandmaster Peryer paid a high tribute of the services rendered the band by Bandsman Wm. T. Dyer and on behalf of the band presented him with an engraved silver cigarette case.

Bandsman Wm. T. Dyer, who is leaving for England on Friday, feelingly responded by thanking the band for their kindness.

LOST 29 POUNDS DYSENTRY

WAS THE CAUSE

Dysentery is one of the worst forms of bowel complaint, and hard ly any other disease so quickly undermines the strength and brings about a collapse that often terminates fatally.

To check the unnatural discharge without bringing on constipation you should use that grand old remedy with a reputation extending over 76 years,

DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT WILD STRAWBERRY

Mr. G. H. McVagh, Mawer, Sask writes:—"About eight years ago I had a severe attack of dysentery. I was sick for three weks. I weighed 154 lbs. when I took sick and 125 when I got it stopped. I think I tried every medicine on the market but did not find relief until I used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Straw berry, and one bottle did it. I think there is nothing like it for diarrhoea or dysentery. I always keep some on hand as a person does not know when he will need it."

HAS KEPT HER IN FINE CONDITION

MISS McCUEN SAYS TANLAC RESTORED HER HEALTH AND BROUGHT BACK STRENGTH.

"I certainly am glad I found Tanlac, for it restored my health and keeps me feeling good all the time," said Miss Jennie McCuen, 149 Wentworth street, North, Hamilton, Ont. "Four years ago I found myself in a run-down and weakened condition. I got so weak that I had to stop every few minutes to rest while doing some little light housework, and many days I couldn't even prepare the meals. My stomach was so out of order that I was afraid to eat because of the suffering I knew it would cause. I got to where I couldn't eat anything but bread and a little milk.

"Well, Tanlac certainly is an excellent medicine. Three bottles of it built me up to where I felt fine, and since then I've made it a habit to take a bottle occasionally to keep me feeling right. It keeps me eating and digesting most anything I want, and gives me plenty of strength to do my housework. I am glad to praise Tanlac for the wonderful good it has done me."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by the Warne Drug Co., Ltd., and all leading druggists.

POWERFUL GROUP IN U.S. SENATE FIGHT FOR BEER

PRESSURE BROUGHT TO BEAR ON ADMINISTRATION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press.)—Pressure was brought to bear on the Harding administration to-day to force the issuance of regulations allowing the sale of medicinal beer.

The fight is led by a powerful group of Senators. Behind them is the combined strength of all the Liberal organizations in the country.

"The regulations are being illegally withheld," declared Senator Brossard, of Louisiana, "and I propose to find out why."

Secretary Mellon, in holding up the beer regulations, announced that the anti-medicinal beer bill, still hanging fire in the Senate, clearly indicated the intent of Congress on the question. Brossard refuses to accept this as an answer

"The dry forces which have thus far succeeded in suppressing the beer regulations are demanding enforcement of the Volstead law," said Brossard.

REGENT TAILORS HOLDING AN INTERESTING CONTEST AT THEIR EXHIBIT AT THE BIG FAIR.

Men from this city who attend the Toronto Exhibition should be sure to call at the stand of the Regent Tailors, Number 83, under the grand stand, and register a guess as to the number of paid admissions to the big Fair this year.

The man from this city or district who guesses the nearest to the correct number will be given one of the Regent Tailors' best suits or overcoats, made to order, absolutely free. The exhibit itself is decidedly worth seeing, as this enterprising tailoring company is showing a magnificent range of new fall suitings and overcoatings, which they will sell at three prices only—$20.00, $25.00 and $30.00—the greatest tailoring value in Canada. They are also offering a genuine all-wool blue serge suit to order for only twenty-five dollars—which is the talk of the Fair.

A man may have a good understanding but he doesn't get credit for it unless he is covered with trousers as is proven by the Terrible Mr. Bangs in "The Skipper's Treasure Garden," the third in the Toonerville Trolley series, at the Allen Theatre to-day.

Our Autumn Openings of New Apparel for Women Continues on Friday and Saturday

"The Hat that Makes Madame So Beautiful"

As the little French saleswoman would say.

And your new Autumn Hat must do just that, or it isn't the right hat for you, at all.

If the new hat does not add beauty to the wearer it has no reason for existence. Better go without or wear a plain sailor.

But the new hat must do that—WILL DO THAT—if it is wisely chosen, to meet the wearer's requirements, in line, color and adornment.

It must not be chosen because you like it in the window or show case. HOW YOU LOOK IN IT must impel the final decision—and we can help you immensely as to that.

BELFAST QUIET TO-DAY, TROOPS KEEPING ORDER

DEATH ROLL 16 WITH 100 WOUNDED—SINN FEIN REPLY BELIEVED TO PROVIDE FURTHER PARLEYS.

(United Press).

BELFAST, Sept. 1—More troops arrived in Belfast to-day. The "No Man's Land" areas between the Catholic and Protestant sections and the street car lines along which the shipyard workers travelled this morning were heavily guarded. Barbed wire entanglements were erected along York Street.

The latest death roll was sixteen, with approximately 100 wounded.

FURTHER POUR PARLERS.

DUBLIN, Sept. 1.—Although the strictest secrecy was still maintained regarding the Dail Eireann's reply to Lloyd George, it was authoritatively stated here to-day that the letter had actually been despatched, direct to the Premier, who is in Scotland. Hints as to its contents continued to bear out the belief that it provided for further pour parlers.

ELEVEN KILLED IN MINE EXPLOSION

HARRISBURG, Ills., Sept. 1. — (Canadian Press).—The bodies of eleven miners were recovered last night from the Harco mine, following an explosion yesterday afternoon. More than 400 men had been working, but had been warned and escaped when a dynamite charge broke down the wall of an old room, loosening black damp. Seven men who escaped the explosion, but are suffering from the effect of black damp, were taken to local hospitals. It is believed they will recover.

PLAGUE SPOT OF MEXICO CITY GONE.

Famous Belem Prison Completely Renovated

MEXICO CITY, August 30. — Belem Prison, which has been described by guidebooks as a "microbe spot to be avoided by sightseers," no longer deserves that name. Formerly known as one of the plague spots of Mexico, in which were yearly gathered hundreds of thousands of offenders of the law who were herded together in horrible filth, this prison has recently been renovated, and now provides almost comfortable quarters for the 1,500 or so prisoners within its walls.

Schools for the teaching of manual training and the rudiments of education are now maintained, the 300 women in the prison being divided into five groups for instruction. Such schools are not yet provided for the men, but according to Director Vasquez, they will be installed within the next fe wmonths. Meals are the next few months. Meals are wholesome and sufficient.

Shower baths have been installed, and several large fountains have been placed within the patios where those who have the inclination may wash their clothes. There is a large parade ground for both men and women, and the rules of discipline are few.

Smoking is allowed at all times, and every prisoner may receive such additions to his daily bill of fare as his circumstances permit. Special attendants are provided for the small children of women prisoners, of whom there are many, the authorities also providing them with food and a place to sleep.

"Death Alley" has been abolished. This was a long corridor through which the condemned were led on their way to execution, and in almost 60 years there is no record of one escaping or returning alive. No executions are permitted within the prison.

Belem has been notorious for its unhygienic conditions, and to be sentenced to Belem was considered the worst fate imaginable to be meted out to a criminal.

DISTURBANCES IN INDIA NOW REACH MADRAS

WHOLE EUROPEAN COLONY IN PANIC—POLICE AND MILITARY BEING ASSISTED BY VOLUNTEERS.

LONDON, Sept. 1. — (Canadian Press).—Calcutta despatches to the Daily Express give details of rioting in the city of Madras over last week-end. The whole European colony is in a panic. The police have been forced to fire on the rioters, and the troops in citadels are kept under arms night and day. Bodies of volunteers have been organized and armed, and the main roads have all been barricaded and are being patrolled. The property of all European companies is being guarded to prevent destruction by mobs.

FEAR TRAINING OF YOUTH MEANS WAR.

German Pacifists Alarmed at New "Krieg."

By CARL D. GROAT.
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

BERLIN, Sept. 1.—Pacifists believe the old war-making crowd is trying to train German youth for a new "Krieg," through compulsory physical culture.

The draft of a law which the National Committee for Physical Culture has made had led them to believe this law would merely be a substitute for the compulsory service law, now dead. This draft provides that children shall be trained throughout their school years until they become of age, and that no one shall have papers for working positions unless he can prove he has fulfilled the necessary training, either in the schools, in turn or sport societies.

The Versailles treaty provides against organization of societies for war-training.

And the Pacifists contend this new law would not only serve to upbuild the youth for a new war, but would place restrictions on the freedom with which a workman could get a position. On the other hand, the promoters hold that it is well to build a strong nation, and point to the overwhelming post-war sport movement as evidence that Germany wants body-building.

The "Freiheit," organ of the Independent Socialists, writes: "We do not desire to appear to be enemies of sport; we have too often asserted that for workers it is advisable to have a harmonious upbuilding of the body. Labor, however, would do well to remember that it is high time to make up for the war losses in spiritual strength."

FOREST FIRE NEAR CROW'S NEST PASS IS NOW BEYOND CONTROL

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Sept. 1. — (Canadian Press).—With a gale blowing at noon the forest fire west of Crow's Nest Pass was out of hand, in spite of the efforts of hundreds of fire-fighters. Half the timber limits of the McLaren Lumber Company, which operates at Blairmore, had been destroyed, and hope for the remainder had practically been given up.

CANADIAN NATIONAL LINES IN U. S. ARE IN BAD CONDITION.

1,900 Miles of Railway Worse Than U. S. Lines.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press).—"American methods may be softer on the sensibilities than Mexican," says The Wall Street Journal, "but in dollars and cents the two appear to work out about the same when the present state of Southern Pacific's investment below the Rio Grande is compared with the state of the Canadian Government's railroad investment below the St. Lawrence.

"The Dominion owns the Canadian Northern and has resolved to buy the stock of the Grand Trunk, so that it will control, through stock ownership or lease, subsidiary properties of these two companies in the United States, aggregating about 1,900 miles of railroad. Unfortunately, this mileage is doing a little worse than the rest of the American railroads.

"As the result of physical disorders, the Southern Pacific has incurred great losses in the Republic to the south, and has entered claims for damages, but it is doubtful whether they are greater than the losses incurred by the Dominion in this country, as the result of mental disorders.

"When it is represented to President Obregon that military guerillas, wearing serapes and mounted on mustangs, have burned up railroad property belonging to the people of a friendly nation, that accomplished statesman is likely to be reminded that political guerillas, wearing cutaway frocks and sitting in leather chairs, have dried up the earning power of railway property belonging to the Government of a friendly nation.

"Whenever Villa ordered an office boy shot at sunrise, the Southern Pacific, after assuaging its momentary grief, could hire another, at the market rate. When McAdoo reclassified an office boy as an electrician, because the youngster turned out the lights before going home, the loss of the Grand Trunk became irreparable and its grief inconsolable.

"When the Yaquis applied torches to the bridges on the Southern Pacific of Mexico, the company at least was able to withdraw service. But when the Democrats placed petards under the income of the Grand Trunk the company was forced to meet the deficit.

"There is no precedent in international law whereby reparation may be claimed for losses growing out of a national brainstorm. If there were, we might as well confess judgment in favor of the Dominion of Canada."

The soviet will not lie on the bed it has made if it can lie out of it.—Norfolk Virgianian-Pilot.

GENERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY REACHING PRE-WAR WAGES

PLANTS AT LYNN, MASS., AND SCHENECTADY, N.Y., INCLUDED IN RETRENCHMENT PROGRAM.

LYNN, Mass., September 1. — A 10 per cent. reduction in the pay of all salaried employees was announced to-day at the local plant of the General Electric Company. The cut will become effective on 1st November, and the officials here said it was understood that it would apply to the general offices of the company, as well as to all plants.

The wages of the 10,000 employees here recently were reduced, the amount of the reduction varying in the different departments.

SCHENECTADY, September 1.—General Electric Company plans a series of lay-offs in the near future which will result in the dismissal of several thousand men and women from the Schenectady plant, according to semi-official information. It is said that there will also be a cut in the pay of office employees effective on 1st November. Additional wage-cuts are planned until the pre-war level is reached. The retrenchment programme provides for monthly lay-offs based on the reports of efficiency men now working under C. E. Patterson, vice-president in charge of accounting, who formerly confined his activities mostly to New York offices, but has recently established offices in Schenectady. It is said that during the war the factory pay-roll increased from 80 to 100 per cent., and the office pay-roll almost as much. Since then the office personnel is said to have been cut about 50 per cent. The factory force has been subjected to intermittent lay-offs and the scale greatly reduced from wartime figures.

U. S. TO DOMINATE WORLD COMMERCE UNDER NEW ORDER.

So Thinks Sir Edgar Rees, Just Returned From America.

By CLYDE A. BEALS,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Sir Edgar Rees Jones, English author, lawyer and member of Parliament, who has just returned from the United States, sees America as coming to be a tremendous force in the markets of the world through the thoroughness and vigor of her people.

"The resources of America in production, in finance and in the great qualities of her people," said Sir Edgar, "must mean, when the world settles down, that she will be a tremendous force in the markets of the world, and probably a dominating force."

Sir Edgar feels, on the whole, however, that America is at present in a maze of financial and industrial difficulties. Her expanded mercantile fleet, he pointed out, has become a financial drain. Great quantities of exportable goods were stored in warehouses with no demand, and in some cases, owing to stagnant markets, goods had even been returned to America.

It had been found, he declared, that American banking methods were not as suitable for international commerce as those of London. This, he said, was due to lack of experience. America had, he believed, however, learned thoroughly its financial and industrial dependence on the rest of the world.

"A bankrupt world, unable to consume and pay for goods," said Sir Edgar, 'is as ruinous to America as it is to any other country.

"Even raw products, like cotton, wheat, tobacco, sugar, copper and spelter, have brought disaster to all those engaged in producing them in the United States. The great manufacturing nations of the Old World were the principal consumers of those materials, and when the rest of the world failed to absorb from those countries their manufactured products, then there was no market for the United States materials.

"America soared high in wages and salaries, in general extravagance, and luxury, and consequently her high cost of living went to a degree far bevond anything that occurred in this country.

"The thoroughness of America's captains of industry and the zest for hard work and vigorous activity among the mass of the work-people are factors we shall have to reckon with. They will call for all our English brain and muscle and character to keep pace with, let alone surpass.

"The general physique of Americans has advertised itself in a sufficiently concrete form in the achievements over here during the past year in every phase of sport."

SUNBURNT EYELASHES DYED WHILE YOU WAIT

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(Associated Press).—Getting sunburnt eyelashes dyed dark while you wait is the latest trick of Brooklyn girls. A beauty parlor near Borough Hall, which does the job in 15 minutes for 50 cents, is doing a sure fire business "giving settings to the eyes."

The proprietress, whose method is to drop a white and then an amber fluid on the sun-bleached lashes, declared Egyptians had used the system and that the French had followed it.

And, it was hinted, certain men also ruled by vanity dropped into the shop to have their lashes re-varnished.

USED STRICHNINE TO POISON WOODCHUCKS, SAID WM. HILL

MIXED IT WITH SALT AND SPREAD IT AROUND STONE PILES—CHIEF NEWHALL SWORE THAT WOODCHUCKS WOULD NOT TASTE SALT.

EVIDENCE ALL IN

William Hill was the only witness called for the defence in the trial before Judge Huycke on Wednesday in which he and his brother Davis Hill, were charged with poisoning 11 cattle owned by William Davis.

Examined by his solicitor, Mr. G. N. Gordon, he denied virtually in its entirety the rather startling evidence given in the morning by Mrs. Mary Little, and pleaded that the strychnine and salt found in his smock had been used to poison woodchucks.

In rebuttal, Chief Newhall declared that woodchucks would not touch salt.

William Hill swore that he did not threaten to shoot Mrs. Little but had said that she ought to be shot.

The evidence in the case was all in by six o'clock, and the court was adjourned until Tuesday, September 6th, when Judge Huycke will hear the argument of counsel, Crown Attorney Hatton, K. C., for the prosecution and G. N. Gordon for the defence.

Asked for Exclusion.

When Chief Newhall was called by Mr. Hatton yesterday, Mr. Gordon mildly protested that the understanding with Mr. Hatton that several constables who had searched the Hill premises would be permitted to remain in the court room during the trial. Mr. Gordon did not expect that Chief Newhall was to take the box.

"I'm the informant," said the Chief.

Mr. Gordon then asked that all witnesses be excluded.

"They're all out except Detective Miller," Mr. Hatton replied. "He's a representative of the Crown, and should remain here."

Mr. Gordon asked that a note be made of his objection.

Told of Raid.

In his detailed account of his activities in this case, Chief Newhall told of the raid on the Hill farm on the night of June 24th. In company with a number of constables he drove into Dummer and left their automobiles on the 8th line, and hid them in the bushes along the road.

"We proceeded to Davis Hill's place. I put the flashlight through the windows but could see no clothes or hats. I went in and found that no one was there. We went out and started across the field to Robert Hill's, about 200 yards away. I then heard creaking that sounded like pumping. We went back and arrested Davis Hill. L. Filion was with him. I sent Davis Hill back to the cars in charge of Constables Puffer, father and son."

Chief Newhall told of surrounding Robert Hill's house and of arresting William and Russell Hill there. We came back to Peterboro about 5.30 a.m."

"I had Puffer pick up Mrs. Little and they arrived at the police station about the same time that we did. I confronted Davis Hill with her and let her tell the story she had told me. I warned David Hill that he was not obliged to say anything, but if he did it would be used against him."

Observing the witness referring to a paper on the ledge of the box, Mr. Gordon objected to reading any evidence.

Chief Newhall—I wouldn't like to give it from memory. This is a serious case, and I want to construe words properly.

Mr. Hatton—Do you require it now?

Chief Newhall—I certainly do.

Judge Huycke—How do others manage to give their testimony?

Chief Newhall—They have not to handle 20 or 30 cases a week. I want to give it properly.

I let Mrs. Little tell her story and then I took Davis Hill's statement, and he signed it.

The signed statement was admitted and the other memoranda were also received as exhibits.

Evidence as to Poison.

Throughout the prosecution, Mr. Hatton endeavoured to elaborate the evidence respecting the several exhibits of strychnine. Mrs. Little swore that she saw William Hill carrying a paper bag in his hand when he was alleged to have driven William Davis' cattle off the Hill farm.

Dr. Deyell testified that from the contorted positions of the dead cattle he saw they had died of strychnine poisoning.

Dr. Joslyn Rogers of the University of Toronto, stated that he had found strychnine in a sample of salt taken from a paper bag which had been delivered to him by Inspector John Miller of the Criminal Investigation Department of Ontario.

In his turn, Detective Miller testified that the bag of salt had been placed in his keeping by Chief of Police Newhall, and Chief Newhall said that the bag had been found in a smock for which William Hill admitted ownership.

Mrs. Little had told the Court of seeing a small bottle of strychnine in Robert Hill's room and that David Hill had taken it away. She identified the bottle produced in court which P. C. Graham Bromley said he had found in a hole in a rafter in the Hill barn. Mrs. Little said she could not swear that the paper bag was the parcel she saw in William Hill's hand.

The prisoner Hill maintained that it was not the bag in question which Mrs. Little saw but a package of shells which he had picked up with his Ross rifle.

Davis Hill's Statement.

The following are passages from the signed statement of Davis Hill, on June 25, read by Chief Newhall, and entered as an exhibit:

"On Friday afternoon, June 3rd, I remember Mrs. Little asking me if my cattle were in William Hill's lot that morning? I replied 'Not that I know of,' as I would have missed them if they were, and they were all right that night as I had to milk some.

"I remember my brother Will saying last Wednesday, 'If you don't keep that old plug (meaning horse) out of my place you will find it lying dead.' I replied 'It will not be like some other people's stuff.' Mrs. Little, hearing this, corrected Davis Hill and said, 'You did say, 'It won't be like poisoning Bill Davis' cattle.' Davis Hill replied, 'I said something like that but can't tell the exact words. What I meant was that when he was doing it on me he would not be doing it on some one else.'

"William Hill then grasped the rifle, clicked the lever, loaded it and Davis Hill and said, 'You did say, 'It pointed it at my head. I said to Mrs. Little, 'Mary, look at him, pointing that rifle at me.'

"William Hill then said, 'Don't look, Mary, then you won't have to swear against me.'

"William Hill then said, 'Well do not accuse me of killing Bill Davis' cattle.'

"The matter dropped, with Mrs. Little saying 'Put down that rifle or I will appear against you.'

"I don't know where I bought the strychnine."

Statement to Wm. Hill.

Chief Newhall continued to read from his notes as follows: "Mary Little repeated the previous statement to William Hill in my office. She told him 'You know you poisoned Bill Davis' cattle behind our house on Friday the 3rd of June. You threatened to shoot me if I said it again, and I said 'I saw you take the paper bag with the salt and strychnine in it. Then when Davis Hill told you that you poisoned Bill Davis' cattle to get even with him, you pointed and clicked the rifle at him, and told me not to look. Then you said before me and Russell Hill, it would cost Bill Davis more cattle than he had ever before lost, and this time he would not have to be running around the tanneries looking for hides. He would have the damned hides right under his nose this time.'

William Hill said: "Go on May, you'll get me the "pen." Do you believe her Chief?" She then said: "I heard you say the best way to get the old ——'s cattle was to give them salt with strychnine."

I (Chief Newhall) asked who did he mean and May Little said Bill Davis' cattle.

May Little—The next day when we heard the cattle were dead what did I say?

W. Hill—You said a hell of a lot just like you're saying now.

May Little—Yes, I told you that you poisoned Bill Davis' cattle and you threatened to shoot me.

W. Hill—You seem to know a hell of a lot.

May Little—Yes, I do know a lot and the court will know it all. I'm going to tell it all. It's a dirty trick. Ever since you came back from Kingston you said you would get back at Bill Davis. They have all threatened me if I tell.

This concluded Chief Newhall's notes of a long session in his office with the principals in this case.

"I had to send William Hill back to the cells," said the Chief. "He was like a lunatic and I couldn't stand it any longer.

Mr. Gordon pointed out that the notes were quite brief for a discussion that lasted three or four hours.

The Chief continuing, said that he and P. C. Bromley immediately set out for the Hill farm, "but Russell and the old man were there ahead of us."

It was on that trip that Bromley found the little bottle three-quarters full of strychnine.

At David Hill's the smock was found behind a door in the house, and in the right hand pocket was the paper bag containing salt.

"I examined the salt and moistened it. I noticed other small grains. I tasted a granule and found it to be strychnine. I have seen quite a bit of that stuff. I afterwards gave the bag to Detective Miller to take to Toronto for analysis of the contents. While we were searching the house Robert Hill came in. He said no one had been there, but I knew there had been some one, for I had left the doors and windows in a certain way. Robert Hill then admitted that Russell had been there.

Cross-Examination.

In cross-examination, Mr. Gordon asked—"You knew Mrs. Little was living in adultery with Russell Hill?

Chief Newhall—That's not a criminal offence.

Mr. Gordon— It's an offence to have the children living with parents in that relation?

Chief Newhall—That comes under the Chillren's Aid Act.

Mr. Gordon—You have taken no action yet?

Chief Newhall—I have reported it.

Miller and Bromley.

Detective Miller and P. C. Bromley gave evidence supplying links in the Crown's case respecting the bag of salt and the finding of the bottle of strychnine.

William Hill.

William Hill, one of the prisoners, was called to the stand for the defence by Mr. Gordon. He denied Mrs. Little's evidence virtually in its entirety. The bottle of strychnine had been in the house for years. It had been bought to poison foxes. Prisoner denied having a bag or parcel in his hand the morning he drove cattle off, as told by Mrs. Little. He had a package of cartridges, and in his other hand he carried his rifle "to shoot wood chucks."

Mr. Gordon—Did you ever threaten to shoot Mrs. Little?

No sir. I did not. But I did tell her she ought to be shot.

Is she a high tempered woman?

Prisoner—Is she! She takes fits every time the moon changes and there's simply no living where she is. A year ago I had to move away from my father's house and stayed away till this spring.

Hill said that when wood chucks hid in the stone piles he spread the mixture of salt and strychnine for them.

Recognized Paper Bag.

To Mr. Hatton he said he recognized the exhibited bag of salt and strychnine as a package he had when putting out poison for wood chucks.

Mr. Hatton—You admit you had a package in your hand when Mrs. Little saw you?

Yes. Ten shells.

You have set out salt and strychnine for wood chucks?

Yes.

Did you ever hear of anyone else doing that?

I heard it was done.

Do you know, as a matter of fact, that ground hogs won't touch salt?

I'm told they will.

Hill said he put the mixture on the grass or clover when it was damp and it dried on.

Hill admitted ownership of the smock produced in court, in the pocket of which the bag of salt and strychnine was found.

Mr. Hatton— Do you remember telling Chief Newhall that the smock was your brother's?

Hill did not give a direct answer. He said he had not been on oath and that in the Chief's office he was excited.

He wouldn't deny having said it, nor having said that the police had put the bag in Davis Hill's pocket.

Chief Recalled.

This concluded the case.

Chief Newhall, recalled by Mr. Hatton, said—"William Hill called me at the police station and said the smock was not his but his brother's. He said the police had put the bag in Davis Hill's pocket. When I assured him that was not true, he said it must have been young Felion.

Mr. Hatton— Did you ever trap I've killed hundreds of them.

With salt and poison?

No. They won't take salt.

Mr. Gordon— When was the last time you administered salt and they wouldn't take it.

Twenty years ago.

What kind of a wood chuck was it?

It was one I caught in Dave Hunter's field.

Did you ever try them with pepper to see if they'd take it?—No.

Or with anything else?—No.

Chief Newhall said he had tried mixing with salt because he knew salt kept animals healthy Rabbits would take salt.

After a few other questions on this point, Mr. Gordon concluded his cross-examination and the court was adjourned until Tuesday, September 6.

Tennis a World Sport, Says the Donor of the Davis Cup

(By DWIGHT F. DAVIS, Donor of the Davis Cup. Written for the United Press).

Many people have asked me, what the main object was I had in mind in establishing the Davis Cup.

The answer can be found in every city throughout the country. Twenty years ago, when the cup was established, tennis was practisally unknown to the great majority of the people. Today hundreds of thousands of boys and girls, young men and young women, are playing tennis in courts established and maintained by the public authorities.

Lawn tennis no longer a rich man's game—it is every man's game. Lawn tennis not only has become nationalized—it has become internationalized.

At first, two nations only—England and America—were sufficiently interested to compete for the cup. This summer thirteen nations competed for the championship of the world in lawn tennis, and millions of people all over the earth will watch the results with intense interest. No other game in the history of the world has made such a record.

Golf, cricket, polo, baseball and football have their devotees in a few countries at most. Interest in lawn tennis is becoming universal and its enthusiasts can now boast that lawn tennis is THE WORLD'S SPORT.

Sir Aucklond Geddes, the English Ambassador to the United States, at the banquet of the United States Lawn Tennis Association last winter when the victorious American team was welcomed home from its conquest in Australia, made the interesting suggestion that these international contests have an important influence in promoting better understanding and good-will among nations. It does not matter what race they come from, or what language they speak—sportsmen are brothers the world over. The visits of teams competing in international contests may sometimes do more good toward building up the entente cordiale between nations than the visits of official commissions and even of accredited ambassadors.

Of course, the Davis Cup, did not of itself bring about this wonderful development in the interest of lawn tennis throughout the world. The credit for the development should go to the officials of the various national associations by whose energy, self-sacrifice and enthusiasm the results have been accomplished. The cup merely started and focused this interest.

Intrinsically, the cup is of comparatively slight value; sentimentally, it is probably the most highly prized trophy in the world. Its value comes not from its cost and size, but from those splendid things of which it stands as a symbol—a manly sport, hard fought and cleanly played contests, and, above all, the highest possible standards of good sportsmanship.

THIS TIME LAST YEAR.

Keating, Buffalo shortstop, made an unassisted triple play. He caught a line drive, stepped on second for a double, and touched out a runner on the base line.

Cleveland again went into first place in the American League race.

Harris, Athletics, let Detroit down with two hits.

MINERAL OIL

FOR CHRONIC CONSTIPATION

By buying this produce from us, you can get the Highest in Quality that can be procured at an ESPECIALLY LOW PRICE.

There are many thin Oils on the market that are not suitable for internal use; other Oils have irritating qualities which render them also unsuitable. The one we are selling is Guaranteed thick and entirely pure.

It is recognized that a good grade of Mineral Oil is one of the best remedies for CHRONIC CONSTIPATION that is being used. It acts mechanically and does not irritate the intestinal tract, nor does the dose have to be constantly increased as is the case with ordinary purgatives.

It is much better and cheaper than Castor Oil as a laxative for Children, since Castor Oil has two effects, the first of which is purgative and the second or after-effect, which is Constipating.

HUGGINS CLAN SURE OF PENNANT; HAVE A CHANCE TO TAKE LEAD OVER TRIS SPEAKER'S INDIANS TO-DAY

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, September 1. — New York's bunch of young American League hopefuls returned home to-day. From Babe Ruth down to Banjou Bennett, the bat boy, the Huggins clan is sure of a pennant. Huggins, the sawed-off manager, as usual is reticent.

"The club is going fine. We are right up there fighting, and we're going to stay there. Of course we have pennant hopes, but the hardest part of the road is ahead," he said.

Just one slim point behind the League-leading Indians, the Yanks have a chance to take the lead this afternoon, when they hook up with Washington in a double-header, while the Indians are having a single game with the Detroit Tigers.

The Yank pitching staff is still spotty, but Hoyt, Shawkey, and Mays have been delivering. Even with ineffective work by Collins, Quinn and the reserve hurlers, the bats are being wielded strong enough to overcome the handicap.

The Giants swing into action to-day against Brooklyn across the river. So far this season, the Robins have been like so much poison to the Giants. Out of sixteen games with Uncle Bobby's bunch, McGraw has been able to win only six. No brotherly love that might inspire the Robins to help the Giants along exists between the two clubs.

Pittsburg has a mouthful to chew in the series with the St. Louis Cards, which are sweeping down the stretch at high speed.

Gibson puts his Pirates against Rickey's clan to-day in a double header, and will face them n another game to-morrow.

New York can reach first place in the League only by a victory over Brooklyn and some help from St. Louis by three wins over the Pirates.

The battle for third place between the Cards and the Braves is becoming almost as interesting as the pennant hunt in both Leagues.

GRAYBIRDS HIT HARD AND WIN AGAINST PETES BY 8 TO 4 SCORE

CHAMBERS RELIEVED OULETTE AND STOPPED PETES WITH 11 STRIKEOUTS.

The Petes failed to pull through at Lindsay yesterday afternoon, the Greybirds winning a well-contested game by a score of 8 to 4.

The League standing to-day is:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Belleville	7	2	.778
Oshawa	6	2	.750
Lindsay	4	4	.500
Port Hope	4	5	.444
Peterborough	3	6	.333
Cobourg	2	7	.222

Oulette made an effort to come back, after being knocked out of the box at Oshawa last Saturday, but lasted only one innings, the Petes opening with a brace of runs. Lindsay got both counters back in their half, and Chambers was sent to the mound. He had elusive curves and good control and after holding the Petes to a run in the second, blanked them for five innings. The Petes opened up again the eighth, but the rally was short lived, as Chambers, with good support behind him, allowed the visitors to get home but once, and finished the game with a brand of pitching against which the Petes could do nothing. The Lindsay heaver hung up eleven strikeouts.

"Lefty" McElroy went through the entire performance for the Solomonites. He was hit for a dozen safeties, including a quartette of doubles, and when the Greybirds were hitting the local heaver had to work against some wobbly support.

Birds Here Saturday.

Lindsay comes to Riverside Park next Saturday afternoon and will make a big effort to better their position in the league race. The Greybirds feel that they should be up at the top.

Score by innings: R.H.E.

Peterborough	21000001	4	7	6
Lindsay	22101020x	8	4	1

Hall in the evening. Refreshments will be served.

The P. D. F. A. Executive will please take note that owing to Monday being a holiday, the regular meeting will be held in the G.W.V.A. Hall to-morrow (Friday) evening at 8 o'clock. A full turn out is requested, as the fall schedule will be drawn out.

MAYNEORD'S RINK HOLD WHATTAM CUP

DEFEATED CAPT. H. M'CULLOUGH OF PORT HOPE LAST NIGHT.

After winning again last night, Jack Mayneord's rink is beginning to feel a certain possessiveness toward the Whattam Cup. They have retained it now longer than the average holder and have turned back strong rinks to keep it. Before a numerous gallery last night they defeated Captain Hugh McCullough's Port Hope rink by 21-11 in twenty-one ends. The rinks were as follows:

E. Guillet	R. Elliott
C. Guillet	A. Ross
Dr. McNaughton	W. J. Oke
Hugh McCullough	J. Mayneord
Skip 11	Skip 21

Next on the list of challengers is A. J. Webster of Bowmanville, who will probably be entertained on Friday night. The public is invited to see this game and any others providing the local rink maintains its winning streak.

SESSUE HAYAKAWA and TSURU AOKI in A SCENE FROM THE ROBERTSON-COLE SUPER-SPECIAL "BLACK ROSES"

At the Capitol To-day, Friday and Saturday

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

"BLACK ROSES" IS A MURDER MYSTERY.

New R-C Photoplay Starring Sessue Hayakawa Has a Gripping Story.

Is it true that remorse follows the commission of crime? Police Court annals show that in many cases the criminal is urged to confession by the promptings of conscience, but more often he is convicted through carelessness in failing to destroy every clue.

On the other hand, there are many cases on record where the lawbreaker has followed crime with crime, apparently exulting in the successful accomplishment of his evil work.

In the new Sessue Hayakawa vehicle, "Black Roses," a Robertson-Cole super-special production, a gang of crooks operate under the eyes of the police. Beginning with the murder of an old member of the gang they fasten the crime on his gardener, Yoda, played by Hayakawa, and then abduct the latter's wife, thus making certain she cannot betray them.

Yoda manages to escape from prison, and, thoroughly disguised, becomes their confederate, with the intent of obtaining vengeance and rescuing his wife. She, in the meantime, helpless in the power of the gang, and imprisoned in the Chinese quarter of New York, almost becomes the victim of their plot to force her into association with them as a safe-breaker. To attain their ends, they employ hypnotism, but happily her rescue is effected before they have achieved their purpose.

With subtle skill, Yoda gradually draws the toils closer around them, and eventually accomplishes the triumph of a justifiable vengeance, wherein is no time for regret or repentance, as the sure arm of fate strikes remorselessly and swiftly.

The picture opens at the Capitol Theatre to-night.

The balance of the programme will include the latest Sennett comedy, his youthful fancy; "Purple Riders"; Topics of the Day; Pathe Review; Paramount Magazine; and the splendid musical selections of the excellent Capitol Theatre Orchestra.

FAN-FAN.

AT THE GRAND.

The Grand Theatre offers as its star attraction for three days, beginning to-day, "The Valley of Doubt," a Selznick picture, in which Arline Pretty and Thurston Hall have the leading roles. It is described as an "outdoor" picture, as most of the action takes place out in the Canadian snows.

Marion Hilgrave goes with her brother, Tommy, a weakling, to their father's lumber camp, hoping that the free outdoor life will make a man of him. There Marion meets Jules Bonnivet and they fall in love with each other. This does not please Macy, the manager of the lumber camp, who has designs on Marion, and he does all that he can to discredit Jules. The story promises much in the way of intrigue and unusual plot development.

Burton George directed "The Valley of Doubt," and the result is said to be a vivid picture of life and conditions in the Far North.

AT THE ALLEN.

CABARET NOVELTY IN "THE GIRL IN THE TAXI"

Entirely new and strikingly different cabaret scenes were erected by Mr and Mrs. Carter De Haven for their latest farce comedy production, "The Girl in the Taxi," released by Associated First National Pictures, Inc., and coming to the Allen Theatre to-day.

The cabaret sets are unique in structure and Mr. DeHaven, who was desirous of introducing a number of novelties in his latest comedy, spent many days with his staff arranging them. An idea of the cabaret sets may be gleaned from the the fact that a few years ago the first of these exquisite pleasure rendezvous, the Jardin de Danse, New York City, took the city by storm. Mr. DeHaven was the first person to introduce the novelty. In a short time a nation wide rage for such places sprang up. It is reported that Mr. De Haven has decided to put up such an establishment as will be seen in "The Girl in the Taxi," in Los Angeles, Cal., for the benefit of tourists.

CARTER DEHAVENS REVIVE WELL KNOWN STAGE FARCE

"The Girl in the Taxi," a First National attraction, starring Mr. and Mrs. Carter DeHaven, will be shown at the Allen Theatre to-day.

The picture is an adaptation of the musical comedy stage success of the same name in which Mr. DeHaven scored a triumph. The story centres around the exploits of a young man whose father has dubed him a mollycoddle. His efforts to untangle the embarrassing situation that confronts his father earns for him a temporary laurel wreath. The situation which caps the climax of the farce comedy s said to be most humorous.

Other prominent members of the cast include King Bagott, the old time screen hero who has appeared in over 300 photoplays; Grace Cunard, the serial queen who was a star in her own right not so long ago; Otis Harlan, Tom McGuire, Margaret Campbell, Lincoln Plumer, Freya Sterling and John Gough.

Stanislaus Strange wrote the original stage version and Robert McGowan picturized the story for the screen. Lloyd Ingraham directed the production.

TORONTO, Sept. 1.—Ex-Warden James A. Cameron, of Weston, the U.F.O.-Labor candidate in the West York by-election, is withdrawing from the contest after holding the nomination of the alliance since June 26, 1920.

SURPRISE PARTY FOR MRS. CUNNINGHAM.

A very pleasant event took place on Wednesday evening, in the form of a surprise party given for Mrs. Elizabeth Cunningham, Frank Street, on the occasion of her birthday. Friends and relatives gathered at her home and presented her with many useful gifts. Miss Ruby Cunningham made the presentation and Mrs. Dale read a very appropriate address. Mrs. Cunningham, who was taken completely by surprise, thanked her friends for their thoughtfulness. The evening was spent in cards and in music. Dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Geo. Cunningham, and the evening proved most enjoyable. After wishing Mrs. Cunningham many happy returns of the day, the friends dispersed shortly after midnight.

WEDDING BELLS

DRURY—PALMER

At Murray, Street parsonage on Wednesday evening, August 31st. at 8.30. Amelia Elizabeth Palmer and William Stanley Drury were united in marriage, Rev. J. R. Webb officiating. The happy couple were unattended. On returning from their honeymoon trip Mr. and Mrs. Drury will make their home in Peterborough.

TOLL—STEVENSON

A wedding of local interest took place in St. Mary's Anglican Church Wakerville, on Saturday afternoon last, Aug. 20th, when Adelaide Erskine, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Stevenson of Walkerville, formerly of Peterboro, was united in marriage to Philip Hughson Toll, of Walkerville.

The bride was charmingly gowned in white charmeuse satin with net overdress, her long veil of tulle caught with a bandeau of pearls. Her exquisite bouquet was of pink ophelia roses and baby's breath, tied with long streamers of white satin ribbon. Her bridesmaids were Miss Audrey Miers of Walkerville, in pink taffeta, and Miss Marjoria Stevenson in blue charmeuse satin. Both bridesmaids carried colonial bouquets of Ophelia roses, for-get-me-nots. The bride's mother wore midnight blue with a hat to match. The groom was attended by Wilbert Smale of Toledo, and ushers were Sherwood Stevenson and Lieutenant Harold Vrooman of Walkerville.

Miss Ruby Quartermaine of Peterboro sang "O Promise Me" during the signing of the register. A luncheon was served at the home of the bride's parents, following the ceremony, after which the young couple departed on a trip to the coast of Maine, the bride travellling in back hat with touches of silver and veil of black embroidered net.

Many lovely gifts were received by the popular young people, the groom's gift to the bride being a beautiful string of pearls. Out-of-town guests included Mrs. T. Q. Quartermaine and Miss Ruby Quartermaine of Peterboro, Mrs. Z. Wigle the Misses Beulah, Grace and Helena Wigle of Leaminton, and Mr. Ernest Sherwood of Cleveland Ohio, uncle of the bride.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press).—The foreign oil group furnished the only noteworthy exception to the lower trend of prices at the opening of to-day's Stock Market.

Steels, Equipments, Rails, Shippings and food prices were lower. These were chiefly represented by Crucible Steel, General Electric, Reading, Chicago and North-Western, American International and American Sugar, where losses extended from large fractions to 1½ points.

Additions to early gains were made by Mexican and Pan-American Petroleums, American Locomotive, Famous Players, Tobaccos and Express Companies' shares. Counter movements continued, howeverfi in Equipments, Shippings, Sugars and Chemicals, those issues making extreme declines of 1 to 5 points. Rails, especially Northern Pacific and Great Northern, added to yesterday's reversal. Call money opened at 5½ per cent., the highest initial rate of the week.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press).—The Toronto Stock Exchange was without any noteworthy feature this morning. The few issues in which there was any activity fluctuated within yesterday's limits. Steamship Common advanced ¼, the Preferred half a point and Brazilian 1-8. Toronto Railway closed unchanged. Brompton Paper, in the unlisted section, sold at 14, two points under yesterday's last quotation.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1. — (Canadian Press).—Wheat opened steady to a half cent higher with September at 1.21½ to 1.21 3-4, December at 1.23 to 1.23¼, and May at 1.26 to 1.26½.

An hour after the market opened wheat was up 3-4 to 1¼ cents above the opening.

September oats opened at 33 5-8 to 34, December at 37½ to 37 5-8, and May at 41 3-4.

LIVING COSTS HERE ARE 4TH HIGHEST OF 6

WEEKLY BUDGET IN THIS CITY $20.41 AS AGAINST PROVINCIAL AVERAGE OF $20.91

LOWEST IN ONTARIO KINGSTON, WITH $19,63

The Manufacturers' Association held its first meeting for the fall season last evening, with J. J. Turner in the chair. Mr. Turner, in a few suitable words, referred to the great loss sustained by the association within the last few months in the deaths of two of its prominent members, Adam Hall and G. W. Green, an irreparable loss to the association and to the city, of which they were such worthy and estimable citizens.

A discussion on the cost of living in Peterborough occupied the attention of the meeting last evening. Although living costs are generally beginning to assume more reasonable proportions here, it was believed that there are still several commodities which might be sold at a cheaper rate than at present. A budget for the month of August, compiled from the Labor Gazette, was presented. This budget is based on the expenses for a family of five for one week, and includes food, cleaning, laundry, fuel and rent. An average cost for Ontario is $20.91, and for the Dominion of Canada $21.55. Toronto, with a population of 500,000, shows a budget of $23.34; Kitchener, with 22,000, $22.86; Kingston, with 24,000, $19,63; St. Catharines, with 20,000, $20.97; Brantford, with 33,000, $20.28; and Peterborough, with 22,000, $20.41.

TWO HATS IN THE LOCAL RING ALREADY.

G. N. Gordon, present member for this riding (left), and J. H. Burnham, former member (right), who to-day signified their intention of running on Liberal and Independent Conservative tickets respectively in the coming Federal election.

PETERBORO TO BE IN THROES OF ANOTHER ELECTION FIGHT, PROBABLY LATE IN NOVEMBER

G. N. GORDON AND J. H. BURNHAM ONLY ENTRIES YET, BUT THE BATTLE WILL LIKELY BE FOUR-CORNERED.

THREE FOR MEIGHEN; RUMOR CAMPBELL AGAIN

West Peterborough, like all other constituencies in the Dominion, will soon be in the throes of a general election. Last evening at London, Ontario, Premier Arthur Meighen announced that he would recommend an early dissolution of the Government to be followed by a general election before the New Year.

In this case the recommendation of the Prime Minister will be just as good as a mandate. Whatever protest there may be from individual members of the Government will be unavailing. It is altogether probable the election will be held in November, so as not to conflict with Christmas. An election can be held in forty days from the time the writs are issued.

In West Peterborough, Mr. G. N. Gordon, M.P., will enter the field for re-election as a Liberal candidate, and Mr. J. H. Burnham, ex-M.P., will run as an Independent Conservative.

Messrs. R. Denne, J. F. Strickland, and V. J. McElderry may enter the lists as standard-bearers for the Meighen policy, and Mr. James Corbett Campbell may again be persuaded to uphold the U.F.O. cause.

Labour will hardly place a candidate in the field unless there a definite understanding with the Farmer group on matters of support.

Local Interviews.

Local interviews on the subject of the coming general election follows:

Mr. G. N. Gordon, M.P.

Mr. G. N. Gordon, M.P., when asked this morning what he thought of Premier Meighen's declaration that there would be an election this fall, said that he was not surprised, because under the redistribution, it would give more seats to the Farmer candidates in the West and cut off a large number of seats of the Government supporters in the East.

If redistribution had taken place it would have meant that East and West Peterborough would have been joined, as well as some of the other Ridings, meaning a serious loss to supporters of the present Government.

Under the circumstances, Mr. Gordon said, he felt that an early election was the best thing to settle the uncertainty of business conditions, and to let a Government with a fair working majority get down to business.

In conclusion, Mr. Gordon said as far as he was concerned, he was ready. His committees are formed, and in a position to start work.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, ex-M.P.

MEIGHEN TO GET SURPRISE OF HIS LIFE, SAYS KING

(Special Despatch to Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 2. — "If that is the opinoin of Mr. Meighen, he will get the surprise of his life," observed Hon. W. L. MacKenzie King, the Liberal leader, when asked his views regarding Premier Meighen's statement last night to the effect that at the coming election he (Mr. King) would not have a candidate in the field between the Great Lakes and the Rockies. "The Premier will be seriously dissillusioned on the point."

The announcement of the coming dissolution will make no change in the plans of Mr. King for his series of speeches in the Maritime Provinces.

LE DEVOIR PREDICTS THAT SEVERAL MINISTERS WILL BE DISCARDED BEFORE THE GENERAL ELECTION.

FRENCH-CANADIANS W.LL SUCCEED THEM

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

MONTREAL, September 2. — Discussing the Cabinet re-organisation expected before the general election announced by Premier Meighen last night, the Ottawa correspondent of Le Devoir wires his paper, as follows:

"It is very probable that Mr. Meighen, before the elections, will reconstruct his Cabinet and discard the old ministers who are desirous of obtaining outside positions.

"Mr. Doherty will probably obtain a seat on the International Tribunal of the League of Nations. Mr. Foster will be either Agent-General for Canada in England, or will obtain a seat in the Senate. Mr. Kemp will in all probability obtain the post of Lieutenant-Governor for Ontario, and as there are some vacancies in the Senate, two Lieutenant-Governors to nominate, one at Winnipeg and one at Toronto, within the next few weeks, as well as one in Nova Scotia, where there will shortly be a vacancy, Mr. Meighen should have no difficulty in obtaining niches for those of his colleagues who desire to escape the risk of an election.

"As to the representation of the Province of Quebec, Mr. Meighen will probably call three or four French-speaking men to the new Ministry. He will have to do without Mr. Blondin, however, as he has already obtained a seat in the Senate."

"Three Quebecians named so far are J. L. Gauthier, G. H. Bouvin, and Romeo Langlais. Of these three only Mr. Langlais is a Conservative. There will be considerable dissatisfaction amongst the Conservative party in Montreal if Mr. Meighen insists in choosing Mr. Gauthier and Mr. Bouvin, but Mr. Meighen is in the habit of conducting his affairs without allowing his friends to tell him what to do."

PARLEY ASKED BY SINN FEIN IN LAST NOTE

IT IS BELIEVED THAT FORMAL CONFERENCE TO REACH A FINAL DECISION IS THE DAIL'S PROPOSAL.

MEETING TO SELECT THE IRISH ENVOYS

By CLYDE C. BEALS,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

DUBLIN, Sept. 2.—A formal conference between Sinn Fein leaders and the British government, at which decisions for home rule or more warfare must be reached had been proposed by the Dail Eireann in the latest communication to Lloyd George, it was believed to-day.

The text of the Irish reply was not made public, but it was believed this was what the Sinn Fein Cabinet now desired—a conference at which the definite decision could be taken.

In many ways if the conference were secret this would be to the advantage of the Sinn Fein. If Lloyd George, who received the Irish note at his vacation camp in northern Scotland, accepts the proposals for a conference, Ireland will ask that it be held at the earliest possible date.

Meanwhile, the Dail was to be reconvened in order that it might be asked to satisfy the selection of the Sinn Fein plenipotentiaries.

Those, it was thought would be President De Valera, Griffiths, Collins and Burgess. They wished to have the formal approval of the Sinn Fein Parliament so there could be no question as to their representing the Irish people.

Cabinet Summoned.

DUBLIN, Sept. 2. — (Canadian Press.) — Prime Minister Lloyd George has sent the reply of Eamonn De Valera, Irish Republican leader, to his latest communication on the Irish peace proposals to London for circulation among members of the Cabinet. Having regard for the serious issues involved, Mr. Lloyd George has summoned a Cabinet meeting to be held on Monday next at Inverness, Scotland. King George will be at Moy Hall near Inverness and Mr. Lloyd George will visit him there.

ELECTION SOON PLEASES MANY

MAJORITY EXPECT IT TO STABILIZE BUSINESS.

Opinion among local business men is divided as to whether an election in the near future, as announced at London last night by Premier Meighen, will have a demoralizing or stabilizing effect on business.

The majority sentiment is that, while the unrest and uncertainly which always accompanies an election campaign will temporarily prove a detriment to business, a definite settlement of political questions for the next four years will give business a chance to recover from the period of depression, unworried by politics, and will clear the air of the lack of confidence in the Government which exists in many quarters. "The manufacturing and business interests would be safe in the hands of either of the historic parties," was the expression of several business men to The Examiner this morning.

On the other hand, a minority holds that business, now just emerging from depression, will be thrown back and suffer seriously from the chaos which they expect to accompany a campaign or change in government.

AIRCRAFT BOMB MINERS' CAMPS TO STOP FEUDS

FOUR GOVERNMENT PLANES SWOOP DOWN ON INVADERS OF WEST VIRGINIA COAL FIELDS.

SEVERAL HITS ARE SCORED BY AIRMEN

LOGAN, W. Va., Sept. 2.—(United Press.) — Airplanes swooped down on the Hewitt Creek and Crooked Creek regions early to-day, dropping bombs on the homes and gathering places of miners.

It was reported that a number of direct hits were scored on buildings. Whether there were casualties is unknown.

There were four planes.

Federal troops from Camps Dix and Sherman were moving into the battle zone in West Virginia to-day, where the war between miners and deputies continued unabated.

Fighting was expected to cease upon the troops' arrival, for the miners announced their intention of going home peaceably once the regulars arrived.

Reports from the fighting around Logan to-day declared that fighting continued throughout the night. The 19th Infantry entrained from Camp Sherman, Ohio, and the 26th Infantry from Camp Dix, N.J.

The imposition of martial law in Logan and Boone Counties was being considered by the Cabinet.

MADISON, W. Va., Sept. 2. — (Canadian Press.)—The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad train the armed forces around Blair have been using since the regular service on the Little Coal River branch was stopped, passed through Madison this morning bound for Whitesville, a mining village on the Wyoming County border. In one car it was stated were the bodies of a number of Whitesville men who had fallen in the fighting on Blair Mountain. The doctor reported that he had treated two men who reached Madison during the night from the vicinity of Blair. One had a gunshot wound in the arm and the other said he had fallen over a cliff in the mountains.

According to reports reaching the authorities here there was another brush on Blair Mountain this morning. Firing continued for almost an hour.

ADDITION TO THE COLLEGIATE AND TECHNICAL SCHOOL TO BE CONSTRUCTED HERE VERY SOON

E. G. PATTERSON, IN REPORTING FOR BUILDING COMMITTEE OF BOARD OF EDUCATION, AT OPENING OF NEW PRINCE OF WALES SCHOOL, ANNOUNCES THAT PETERBOROUGH HAS $618,000 INVESTED IN SCHOOLS—OPENING OF NEW BUILDING LARGELY ATTENDED.

The new Prince of Wales School opened last evening with an enthusiastic crowd in attendance, which filled to overflowing the assembly hall, capable of seating six hundred, and extended out to the corridors and school steps.

Dr. Neal occupied the chair, with Messrs. A. A. Fowler, J. W. Worth, E. G. Patterson, and D. Walker on the platform. Dr. Neal was the first speaker. He reviewed the progress of the new school building in a brief and interesting manner, showing how no time, care or attention has been spared in making a building which combines beauty, efficiency, sanitary conditions and economical arrangements of space. Dr. Cody says: "Education is the most important question of Canada's post war policies, and Ontario the banner province," and Peterborough cannot afford to be behind other cities in this matter.

The speaker reviewed the progress of educational equipment in Peterborough during the last sixteen years, in which a new Collegiate Institute, four new public schools, and several important additions to schools have been added to Peterborough's list, a creditable record. He referred particularly to the splendid accommodation afforded scholars in this new building, which provides a three-year course in both manual training and household science, and also sewing classes for the younger members. There is also the necessary accommodation for the school doctor, school nurse, and for the use of a dentist, when it is thought wise to begin this work. Dr. Neal spoke in glowing terms of the work of Mr. E. G. Patterson, as chairman of the building committee.

Committee's Report.

Mr. E. G. Patterson gave a detailed report of his activities as follows:

The reason I am called upon to say a few words to you is that I have the honor of being chairman of the building committee of the Peterborough Board of Education—the personnel of this committee being: Dr. Neal, Mr. A. A. Fowler, Mr. Roland Denne, Mr. J. M. Green and myself.

Long before the Board definitely decided to proceed with the building of this school they were on the lookout for a suitable site. Within the city limits there was no vacant land within the school area. The only two sites in the city that were considered as meeting the requirements was a block in the city east of Monaghan Road and the site chosen. At the time, the law embodied boards of education to expropriate property in their municipality for educational purposes, but not outside the corporate limits. Many efforts were made to buy this property, but the owners would not consider selling any or all of it. The Board could not consider expropriating a block in the city which was suitable, because of the fact that there were thirty-nine houses on it, and they could not afford to purchase thirty-nine houses and destroy them when houses were so scarce. Finally, the Board was driven to ask the Provincial Government to amend the "School Site Act," giving boards of education the right to expropriate property on the boundary line of their municipality for educational purposes. After this amendment was passed by the Legislature the Board acquired the property, and then called for tenders and for plans and specifications for the school (which had already been prepared). The Board of Education made a great mistake in not purchasing the whole property, as it is now apparent that the ground is not large enough as a playground for an eighteen-room school.

The Contracts.

The plans and specifications were prepared by Messrs. Wm. and W. R. L. Blackwell, architects. Melville R. Thomas, Toronto, was engaged as engineer to prepare the specifications for the heating, ventilating, plumbing, electric lighting and power supply. The contract for the work was awarded to Messrs. R. Sheehy & Sons for $169,779. The amount as invested in this school is as follows:

Cost of site	$ 10,846.00
R. Sheehy & Sons (contract)	160,779.00
Miller, Powell & Watson (wiring)	2,747.00
Geo. A. Brenton (plumbing)	13,000.00
R. G. Sturgeon (heating and ventilating)	32,145.00
James O'Keefe (grading, sodding, seeding, walks)	13,526.00
Architect and Consulting Engineer (est.)	8,800.00
Blackboards	1,783.44
Geo. M. Hendry Co. (desks)	2,092.50
Columbia School Supply Co. (manual training equipment)	873.16
J. D. Craig (furniture)	1,264.15
Ed. Wand (household science equipment)	888.00
Miller, Powell & Watson (light fixtures)	1,298.00
J. J. Turner & Sons (window shades)	896.60
	$250,938.85

In building this school it is remarkable that there were extras to the value of only about $1,500, which shows how carefully the plans and specifications were drawn up and considered before asking for tenders.

This building is a credit to the City of Peterborough; to the Board of Education; to the architect and consulting engineer; to the various contractors and sub-contractors. The citizens of Peterborough have practically the best school buildings of any city in the Province, and when two more school (which are now badly needed) are erected, they will have the best schools in the Province. The citizens have principals and a teaching staff equal to those of any municipality.

New Schools.

The schools referred to as being absolutely necessary this year and next are, first, an addition to the Collegiate Institute, which should be built at once; the next is a technical and vocational training school toward which the Dominion and Provincial Governments will pay half of the total cost of the building, and more than half of the cost of the equipment.

The citizens of Peterborough have now invested in their school system the following (all Property Account):

Central School	$ 62,405.56
South Central School	26,764.43
West Ward School	3,596.07
King Edward School	46,263.26
Queen Alexandra School	34,924.81
King George School	51,739.85
Queen Mary School	58,335.12
Collegiate Institute	83,991.89
Prince of Wales School	250,938.85
	$618,959.84

The work of the Board of Education has been very interesting to me—the work of the Building Committee especially so, and very harmonious. The Board of Education for the years 1922, 1923 and 1924 will have many large problems to settle for the citizens, and it behooves you to see that well-qualified citizens are elected to look after your educational affairs.

"A Successful School."

Mr. D. Walker gave a brief and pithy address, congratulating the different workers who were responsible for the new building, and outlining the work of the elements composing a successful school, from the Board of Education and Trustees down to the teacher and pupil, whom he regarded as the most important elements. When speaking on the question of discipline, he remarked that educational authorities have never thought it wise to lay down in set terms just what discipline may be administered to the child, going on the principle that it shall submit to such correction as "a kind, wise, firm and judicious parent would exercise."

Mrs. P. H Neville, president of the Prince of Wales Home and School Association, spoke a few words in the interest of the association, and Mr. Maurice Park rendered a vocal selection, which was enthusiastically encored.

Hearty thanks were extended by the Board to Mr. J. M. Greene, one of its members, who has presented the new school with a fine gramophone.

PETERBORO TO BE IN THROES, ETC.

"It's a little early to express any opinion, isn't it?" said Mr. J. H. Burnham, ex-M.P., to The Examiner to-day, "but if your bulletin board is right, Mr. Meighen has struck the right string. The tariff is certainly the issue, and it would have been a fine thing, as I think all will agree now, if this dissolution had taken place when it should have taken place. But they have had to come to it at last, and I do not want to say too much on that score. We can let, in the interests of our common country, which all should hold first in their hearts, all these wretched bygones be by-gones and start afresh. I must confess though that I cannot see how the new party can go on with the name "Liberal" on its banners, in view of the issue being the tariff. Let us quit all camouflage and fight it out as Mr. Meighen suggests, on a straight issue. We owe it to common decency to play the game fairly once in a while at any rate."

Roland Denne.

"I endorse fully the Hon. Arthur Meighen's action in deciding to call a general election," said Roland Denne. "He will go to the people on the tariff issue, which will undoubtedly have a very strong appeal to the people of manufacturing centres like Peterborough. Personally, I believe that a united Liberal-Conservative party would be in an exceedingly strong position to go to the people for an endorsation of the tariff policy laid down by Premier Meighen."

Joseph Wearing.

"The Premier's announcement of an election this year is not a surprise," remarked Joseph Wearing. "His Government would have liked to stay by the flesh-pots for a while longer, but they knew that a majority of the House could not be held through another session. Meighen's Government will, of course, be swept out of existence, and not many tears will be shed at the passing, except by the Big Interests. I see that the Tariff Bogey is to be groomed up and trotted out again, but I am afraid it will have very little real kick in it. The ass may dress up as a lion, but can only frighten children. After the election W. L. MacKenzie King will be called upon to form a Government, and his whole training fits him to lead the country through such disturbing times as these. Labour will find him a friend who understands their needs. It is not unlikely either that West Peterborough will be represented in this next Cabinet."

J. J. Duffus.

Mr. J. J. Duffus, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said: "I think the Hon. Mr. Meighen's decision will coincide with the opinion of the great majority of the people of Canada. An election will assist materially in stabilising things generally."

H. B. Cowan.

"Under the circumstances, I think Premier Meighen has done the right thing," said H. B. Cowan. "The Government's majority had got to the point where to retain office any longer would be considered as good ground for the charge already made freely that Premier Meighen was clinging to office against the wishes of the people. Even those who do not agree with his views must admit the fact that Premier Meighen is a bold fighter, and this should add interest to the approaching campaign. In regard to the organised farmers in this Riding, nobody knows anything, and will not know until the executive gets together. I found that they are thoroughly organised throughout the West, that is, in the Prairie Provinces, and have been for a long time."

V. J. McElderry.

The following satement was made by Mr. V. J. McElderry:

"I have not yet had the opportunity of reading the Prime Minister's London speech, but I am impressed with the wisdom of his decision to bring about a general election in the near future. Mr. Meighen has again based his decision upon the principles of statesmanship rather than upon mere partisan expediency. No doubt the recent criticisms directed against the administration have been a factor in deciding upon a general election at once without waiting for a redistribution. Apparently it is the desire of the present ministry to give the people the opportunity of deciding at the earliest possible moment upon the many important problems which confront Canada.

Of course, the principal issue at the present time is the tariff. Discriminating tariffs are being directed against our agricultural interests. These interests are vital to our commercial existence, and should be fostered and protected from external commercial aggression. It would seem at the present time that there is no political group so clearly determined upon affording this necessary protection to our various industries as the Meighen administration, and, therefore, I think that Mr. Meighen may look forward with confidence to receiving the support of the Canadian people in the approaching contest."

SETS OUT ON QUEST FOR SUNKEN FORTUNE

Trawled hopes to Return with Gold and Silver.

NEW YORK, September 2. — Bound on a quest for more than $1,000,000 in sunken treasure, the steam trawler Ripple was plowing south today headed for Cape Charles, Va., and the submerged wreck of the Ward line steamer Merida.

The little trawler's decks were littered with equipment for the salvaging operations when she sailed from here and her crew included Frank Crilley, one of the best known of deep sea divers, and two assistants. George W. Nordstrom, chief officer of the Merida, when she went down also was on board to aid in locating the wreck. The Merida was sunk in about 35 fathoms of water May 12, 1911, in a collision with the steamship Admiral Farragut. Her cargo included gold and silver bullion valued at from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000, which she was transporting from Havana to New York.

The Ripple's salvaging expedition is the second undertaken. The first effort was made in 1916 and was reported to have been financed by Jas. A. Stillman, banker, and Percy Rockefeller.

GENERAL ELECTION TO BE STAGED BEFORE NEW YEAR

TO-DAY'S NEWS OF THE DISTRICT

CAMPBELLFORD'S BAND NOT LIKELY COMING TO THE EX.

SOME OF THE PLAYERS ARE EMPLOYED IN WOOLEN MILL, NOW WORKING ON RUSH ORDERS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 1.—Supporters of the local lacrosse team, and that means practically everybody in town, were eagerly waiting for the decision of the O.A.L.A. executive to-night on Havelock's protest. Manager Dick Cole accompanied by Thos. Thomas, Pete Johnston and Charlie Alexander, went to Toronto this morning to attend the meeting, and "Dot" Phelan, coach of the team, was in Cornwall for the purpose of securing John White and "Red" Donahue to go to Toronto to establish the identity of Johnston and Alexander for the benefit of the O.A.L.A. executive. Local opinion regards Havelock's action as decidedly unsporting, and it was confidently expected that the protest would be thrown out. It is contended that under the rules of the Lacrosse Association any affidavits should have have been filed within four days after the protest was laid by Havelock, but according to statements made here, the depositions did not reach the executive until they were two days overdue. There are other phases of the situation that have aroused local resentment, and that have strained the relations between the two towns. One certain result is that the Campbellford club will be put to considerable expense in their efforts to disprove Havelock's allegations. In the meantime the players are practising every day and the team is ready and unafraid to meet Oshawa.

Cheese Board.

At to-day's cheese auction 815 boxes were sold at 18 1-2 cents a pound. The factories boarded as follows: Brae 50, Empire Bay 60, Forest 45, Ideal 95, IXL. 65, Kimberley 50, Meyersburg 40, New Model 40, Prince of Wales 40, Rylstone 100, Stamwood 50, Trent Valley 40, West Seymour 40, Woodlands 40.

Band Is Undecided.

Mr. R. T. Cowell, conductor of the Northumberland band, stated today that the engagement offered by the Peterborough Exhibition might have to be declined. Many of the bandsemen are employed in the Trent Valley Woollen Mills, which have been running day and night in some departments. On that account they might not be able to get a day off to attend the Exhibition. A definite reply will be forwarded to the Peterborough Board shortly.

Councillor J. R. Wilkinson has made a decided improvement to the appearance of his residence by raising his lawn level with the new sidewalk. He built a concrete retaining wall along the east side of his lot, filled in the depression with rich soil and already has his lawn in good shape. New concrete walks have also been constructed.

ARREST MEMBERS POPLAR COUNCIL

FOLLOWING REFUSAL TO RAISE TAX RATES AS ORDERED.

LONDON, September 2 (Canadian Press). — Sheriff's officers in motor cars went to Poplar last evening and visited the residences of the Poplar Borough Council members who had refused to comply with an order of the High Court, requiring them to raise tax rates, in accordance with the ruling of the London County Council.

Many of the Councillors were not at home, but several of them were arrested and conveyed to prison, amid sympathetic cheers from the crowds which gathered as soon as it was known that the sheriff's officers were active.

WELLS RAN DRY DURING APSLEY FIRE

APSLEY, September 2. — The disastrous fine which destroyed the store and the house owned by Reeve Duncan Brown, would have swept through the village had it not been for the strenuous efforts of the bucket brigade.

Not a single article out of the house and store was saved with the exception of the cash register and accounts (in the saving of which Mrs. Brown was somewhat severely scorched) the flames spreading with such rapidity that the salvaging of any of the contents was rendered impossible. It was feared that the whole village would be destroyed, and the efforts of the neighbors were concentrated on preventing the fire reaching Windsor's store which is just across the road. At one time the situation seemed hopeless, the verandah and the railings catching fire. However with a number of men on the roof of the building saturating it with pails of water passed up to them by men and women all heroically working, the danger was averted just as all the wells in the village were pumped dry.

Had there been any wind Apsley would have been doomed. The gasoline reservoir, only put in this year, at a cost of $500 was caught by the flames, and the tank was momentarily expected to blow up, but fortunately it was so deep in the ground this did not happen, although the covering, etc., was destroyed.

The fire was apparently caused by the boiling over or exploding of some roofing cement which was being used by Mr. Brown's son, Stewart, in repairing the roof. He had put a receptacle full on the kitchen stove to melt and was working on the roof when smoke and flames burst out of the windows and doors, and within a few minutes the whole building was burning fiercely.

The loss which is partly covered by insurance, will be very heavy, the stock alone being valued at about $5000. Mr. and Mrs. Brown and family have the sympathy of the entire community in their misfortune.

CAMPBELLFORD STILL IN RING

HAVELOCK FAILED TO SUSTAIN CHARGES BEFORE LACROSSE EXECUTIVE.

TORONTO, September 2. — The executive of the Ontario Amateur Lacrosse Association met here last evening to consider the Havelock protest, in which the Havelock management claimed Campbellford was carrying two players under assumed names.

Players Johnson and Alexander were produced.

In the opinion of the executive the Havelock interests did not sustain the charge against Campbellford—therefore the protest fails.

IMPROVEMENTS AT MILLBROOK

NEW BRIDGE AND SEVERAL NEW SIDEWALKS—MILLBROOK NEWS.

MILLBROOK, September 2. — The new bridge over the creek and the sidewalk leading up the school hill have now been completed, also the wide cement crossing, the latter being placed west of the garage so as to lessen, as far as possible, all danger to the scholars, especially the younger ones, from the many cars which necessarily pass in that vicinity.

The statistics did not include the wines consumed locally in the provinces of Mendoza San Juan, and other regions, or the amounts of alcoholic liquors such as rum and vermouth, made in Argentina.

AN EARLY DISSOLUTION OF PARLIAMENT TO PROVIDE FOR ELECTION BEFORE THE NEW YEAR HIS COURSE, MEIGHEN STATES

RT. HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN, Prime Minister, whose government will go to the country before the first of next year, he announced at London, Ont., last night.

PREMIER ANNOUNCES AT LONDON THAT HE BELIEVES THAT RECOMMENDING AN EARLY DISSOLUTION TO PROVIDE FOR AN ELECTION BEFORE THE NEW YEAR IS THE RIGHT THING TO DO AND THAT HE INTENDS TO PURSUE THIS COURSE.

LONDON, September 2 (Canadian Press). — Premier Meighen announced last night that in his opinion the right thing to do was to recommend a dissolution of the Canadian Parliament at an early date to provide time for full discussion and an election before the New Year. That course, he said, he intended to pursue.

The annoucement, which has been awaited with anxiety by all sections of the Dominion, came as a surprise to all but a few of the Prime Minister's hearers. But when the Premier announced that the considered it the proper thing to recommend early dissolution and a general election, applause rang through the theatre.

Re-distribution could not be carried within reasonable time the Prime Minister staed. The census returns would not be complete, it had been announced, until December, and that would mean another 20 months or so of indecision with regard to tariff matters.

Tariff the Issue.

Canada could not get settled down to business unless the tariff problem was settled. Real change to government, he said, came from the Farmers' party which demanded free trade. That their policy was wrong he was certain and he was equally certain that it would be proven wrong by developments. Revision of the tariff in Canada was due and overdue. To decide the principle of the tariff was the big imperative question before the people of Canada to-day. "Until they do decide it," declared the Premier, "we cannot have tariff stability, we cannot have business stability, we cannot have confidence, we cannot have full employment, we cannot have health and growth and virility." "Until we know whether the people want a protective tariff or whetner they don't no tariff is secure. Either the Opposition platform, adopted in convention and set down in black and white, either it or the Farmers' platform means beyond all dispute the overthrow of the historic policy of this country."

Referring to the growth of the Farmers movement, the Prime Minister said that they had proved in the decisiveness of recent victories that no policy could have the least security until the gauntlet they had thrown down was taken up and an answer given by the whole people of Canada.

No Redistribution.

The question arose of when the contest should come. A regular session of Parliament for the purpose of passing a redistribution bill meant another 20 months of uncertainty, waiting and unnecessary unemployment. The Prime Minister said he did not want to be responsible for that. The extraordinary results of Medicine Hat and Alberta had brought him to the belief that there should not be a regular session. If the voice of Medicine Hat was to be the voice of Canada, somebody else besides himself would have to carry it out. The Premier said he had never pledged himself to redistribution. If a redistribution bill could have been passed without long delay he would have urged holding out for it, and had sincerely intended to submit such a measure. Both Farmer and Liberal parties, however, attached less importance to the need of redistribution than did the government and had voted last February to dissolve without it. A special fall session for redistribution, to be followed by an appeal to the country, was unthinkable, because a mid-winter election in the great northern and western provinces was out of the question.

There was no doubt as to what the issue would be. It was a straight tariff issue laid down before the country. The Government's policy, Mr. Meighen declared, had brought prosperity and to-day Canada was in better condition than were any of the other nations of the world. The Liberal platform had been laid before the people at the 1919 convention. It bound them to place on the free list 19 classes of articles including foodstuffs, farm implements and machinery, lumber of every kind, "and to increas the British preference at once to 50 per cent. and let the country take the consequences ,and to substantially reduce the tariff which they themselves had made on all clothing, boots and shoes and articles of general consumption." Hon. Mackenzie King, seeking election, must answer either "yes" or "no" to the challenge of whether or not he intended to bring that platform into effect if he were elected. If he says "yes," he is unfit for power because his platform is unsound and un-Canadian, Mr. Meighen declared. "If he says "no," he is unfit for power because he deliberately contemplates bad faith." If he refused to answer at all then

ORDER TROOPS TO END FUEDS IN MINE AREA

TWO FEDERAL REGIMENTS REACHED WEST VIRGINIA COAL FIELDS THIS MORNING

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 2. —(United Press.)— Federal troops were expected in West Virgina today to end the mine war in the south-western counties.

Their coming was welcomed by State officials, the miners' official of the United Mine Workers and the coal operators.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—(United Press.)—Federal troops were ordered into the West Virginia coal fields early this morning.

The orders were issued shortly after 4 o'clock this morning by Major General James G. Harder, Acting Chief of Staff, and Adjutant General Harris, who remained at the War Department all night to keep a close watch on the situation.

The first forces to reach the mine war area will be the twenty-sixth infantry from Camp Dix, N.J., and the nineteenth infantry from Camp Sherman.

Reports to the War Department early to-day showed that these troops already have arrived.

The decision to send the Federal troops into the coal fields was reached after the receipt of a report early this morning from General H. S. Bandholtz of Charleston, in which he stated that the miners were not dispersing in accordance with the command of President Harding.. "I am satisfied the miners will not obey the President's proclamation," Bandholtz wired. "I request that Federal troops be sent immediately."

DISTRIBUTION OF LABOR.

The employment Service Council of Canada, an advisory body to the Minister of Labor, are meeting in Ottawa to discuss co-ordinating methods of Labor Bureaus for coping as far as is practicable with the unemployment situation. And this inspires the thought that a measure of co-ordination between employers of labor in Peterborough, the local Labor Bureau and possibly the Chamber of Commerce might prove advantageous in assuring equitable consideration of the unemployed when work is offering. For instance, all things being equal, regarding ability to fill positions available, engaging men at "the gate" carries with it that element of "chance" liable in many instances to unwittingly give preference to the least needy, for first come first served is the principle which probably thereby obtains. Let us offer the thought that by some system of co-ordination here suggested a record of men's circumstances might be registered, as to duration of their enforced unemployment, in the aggregate for a given time, with their resources and responsibilities, and employers engage help through a bureau, governing their preference by the actual need of the men there seeking work. Of course, we do not advocate that established employees suffering from an abnormal depression in the industrial establishment with which they have been long connected should not be given preference by that industry—they naturally would be first considered in any case. But looking ahead to the possibility of other help being sometime in the near future, it is hoped, in demand, together with new or created activities, the engagement of those hands through a labor bureau—especially were the co-ordination proposed adopted—would, perhaps, make for a fair distribution of labor, and safeguard against, say, for example, a single man with no encumberance being selected before one with many calls on his earnings.

EVADING THE LAW.

"Safety First" has been the slogan driven home with commendable forcefulness the past few years by executives of automobile associations in the hope of stimulating the exercise of caution and control by motor car drivers that loss of life and property may be reduced to a reasonable minimum. "Think and act safely" are also precepts urged upon pedestrians when crossing busy thoroughfares, for fault in accidents does not always centre on the man at the automobile's wheel. And in furtherance of the "protection" end in view, municipalities have so framed their traffic by-laws that were they rigorously enforced, and their regulations conscientiously followed by all motorists, and foot-travellers also, the daily list of auto casualties and fatalities would appreciably shrink. Of course the authorities do attempt to strictly enforce compliance with their by-laws in this connection, but there are some reckless car drivers of the "no respect for law, person or persons" calibre, who need an object lesson in law enforcement, carrying with it a punishment fitting the crime. To some a mere threatened fine has no deterrent effect, and traffic regulations in their eyes are to be infringed ad libitum.

This is quite an old question now, but a live one still which cannot be allowed to sink into oblivion. For we have the arrogant, reckless, supercilious auto fiend with us yet who defies the law as opportunity offers. This fact was strikingly exemplified Wednesday evening at the corner of George and Charlotte street—a dangerous spot at traffic-busy times—where a young lady escaped being run down by a margin too close for comfort. The traffic by-law prohibits an auto passing a street car when unloading or taking on passengers—a clause with which all motorists are conversant. But, despite that regulation, on alighting from a C.G.E. car, on Charlotte street, an auto from George street north, and bound westward, dashed by at a fairly good speed, and all but struck her. The young lady did not notice if the traffic constable was on duty or not, but with four street cars standing at this corner and passengers transferring, to say nothing of motor cars travelling in every direction, such a guardian's watchful eye is easy of evasion by one or, perhaps, more irrepresible autoists inclined to risk an opening.

The foregoing is not an isolated case by any means, and on Charlotte stret, at Reid, we saw, not many moons since, a rather feeble old lady and a conductor assisting her to alight from his street car, nearly meet disaster by a motorist violating the Traffic Act in attempting to pass the public conveyance when stopped to allow this passenger to descend. Such men as referred to, should they have respect for the sanctity of human life and regard for the law, lack common-sense judgment and are dangerous in control of a car. Once convicted on a charge of this nature their license should be cancelled with no first offence consideration.

In France, we notice, speed limits have secondary place to a driver's efficiency in control of an auto, and his observance of traffic regulations for public safety. The police are especially instructed to watch for these qualifications in men and women at the wheel. Speed, perhaps, is not the main element of danger these days of automotive travel, for serious injury or sudden death may follow man, woman or child's impact with a heavy car travelling at but ver- few miles an hour. Hence, unless a person qualifies by his or her conduct in a motor vehicle as willing to observe traffic regulations even to minor detail, and as capable and cautious in emergencies, that person should be restricted from endangering life and property.

PROHIBITION IN INDIA.

The Indian prohibitionists have as yet done nothing to pave the way for the reform they wish to see introduced, and they certainly will not win over Indian opinion by the methods of violence adopted in Bengal by the non-co-operation party. The most that has been done is a small amount of temperance work in large towns: the country districts in which illicit distillation would thrive have scarcely been touched. But the prohibitionists have got to do a great deal more than educate public opinion and provide healthy recreation for the poor as an alternative to the lure of the grog shop. They have got to show from what alternative source revenue is to be procured after the drink traffic has been abolished. We heartily sympathize with them in their desire to end the evil caused by drink, but they will not achieve their object by mere declamation. Let them show that prohibition is not only desired by the masses, but that it is a matter of practical politics, involving no resentment at the transfer of the burden of taxation to some other commodity, and they will have won the battle and legislation will be no more than a formality. But at present that day seems extremely remote.—Times of India.

THE RUSSIAN LESSON.

The nightmare stories that are coming out of Russia these days surpass the worst of the ultimate horrors of 1914-1918. Then men killed and ravished and spoiled in the heat of war passion, their vision blinded by the red mists of hate. But in Russia today there is no heat of war or passion. Russia is a frigid hell where millions of the damned look forward only to oblivion to end their sufferings.

But why should news from Russia make us shudder? Isn't that the sort of thing we all were working for during four years, Germans and Allies alike? If we could have reduced Germany to the depths to which Russia has sunk would we have hesitated to do so and so have brought the war to a quicker end? If Germany's starvation campaign against England had succeeded, Englishmen and English women and children would have been eating grass and bark just as they are doing in Russia today, and Germany would have considered it a triumph for the right.

That Russia should have been the sufferer instead of Germany or England—or Canada—is due to other circumstances, not to any gentleness upon the part of the war gods. Famine and misery and death are the camp followers of war: invoke the one and the others follow. It has been so from the beginning: it will always be so. Russia is suffering today because to the chaos created by war was added the chaos of half insane social and industrial formulae, hammered into rigid regulations under which no life can exist. Russia is suffering just as France suffered from the same causes: she will recover just as France recovered. And some day, perhaps, a little before the millenium dawns, humanity will learn that war can settle nothing and can cure nothing.—Montreal Star.

THE LAW OF SYSTEM.

Everywhere in this civilized life of ours, one runs one's head against a system. A system is man's servile imitation of the blind tyranny of what in our ignorance we call "natural laws," a mechanical something through which the world is ruled by the cruelty of general principals to the utter disregard of individual welfare. By natural laws creatures prey upon each other and big fishes eat little ones upon a system. Every nation, every town, every hamlet, every occupation, has a system upon which, somehow or other, the pond swarms with fishes, of which a great many inferiors contribute to increase the size of a superior.

AN EARLY DISSOLUTION OF PARLIAMENT

he is unfit for office as lacking in frankness and candor.

Real Challenge From Farmers.

The real challenge came from the Farmer party, said Mr. Meighen. By class appeal, misinformation and prejudice this party had gathered strength until it was a political party "whose set purpose was to reverse the fiscal policy of this country." The platform of the Farmers' party was free trade, and the adoption of either, that or the Liberal platform meant the overthrow of "the historic policy of this country." Those who preached that the protectionist policy was the enemy of the Farmer had read very little of history. In the United States the farmers were behind the Fordney Bill. In Great Britain the farmer resisted free trade and the same would come true in Canada. In the meantime the farmers in Canada had not been unfairly treated at the hands of the Government.

The facts placed before the farmers and workingmen by the Government were of more importance than platitudes and promises. His appeal, he said, was to the whole people and not to any class; it was to "get together and engage in a battle to show that Canada was once more resolved upon her course," that she wouldn't be daunted nor turned aside and that she was steadfast, strong and true.

The Premier was cheered to the echo as he concluded his address.

2,000,000 Rail Workers Take Strike Vote To Force U. S. Operation

By RALPH F. COUCH

United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Government operation of the United States railroads is the aim of two million organized railworkers, Secretary Davison of the International Association of Machinists, frankly declared today in an analysis of the railroad situation. The transporation law gives the government authority to take over the roads in case of a strike or other emergency, said Davison.

"All railroad workers of the country now are taking a strike vote," he said.

REFORMER CENSURES DESIRE FOR LUXURY.

Condemns Idea That $2000 Won't Support Home.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.— The recent statement of Mrs. Julian Heath, president of the Housewives' League of America, commending the act of a young couple who broke their engagement because the husband's salary would be "only $2,000 a year" and they could afford no luxuries," has roused to comment the Rev. Wilbur F. Crafts, of the International Reform League.

"Doubtless Mrs. Heath was thinking of only the two individuals in this case," he says, "but the publication of her remarks has made it a matter of national significance. Her opinion will affect many other young couples, for she seems to indorse the unwholesome idea that young married folk must start at the top with a great establishment, whereas there would probably be more happiness in picnicking a little for the first year or two and reaching the top gradually.

"A curious idea Mrs. Heath and these alleged lovers have of the luxuries of life! What about the luxury of love, and of a quiet home life, so desirable in their first year? How about the luxury of reading great books, which cost but little, and living in health rather than in the weariness and vanity of sassiety?"

"A great majority of the teachers and preachers of this country who have lived happy lives and educated their children for usefulness never had as much salary as $2,000 a year.

"With more than 17,000,000 persons between 22 and 40 years of age in their country unmarried—a situation which is not paralleled anywhere else in all God's creation, where every sort of creature usually is mated at maturity and for the balance of their lives—such a proposition as Mrs. Heath's should be discussed as a matter of public interest.

"There is, apparently, such a reluctance by men to undertake the responsibility of a family, and such a tendency to perfer irregular relations, and apparently such an unwillingness by young women to leave the 'bright lights' for the serener joys of the fireside, that we believe the Y. W. C. A., the Y. M. C.A. and all organizations seeking the public welfare of young people should make special efforts to promote and encourage wholesome marriages."

DRESSES GO DOWN ALL AROUND IN GERMANY.

By CARL D. GROAT

(United Press Staff Correspondent).

BERLIN, Sept. 2. — Germany, never noted for shapely ankles or dainty feet, is about to hide these extremities.

Fashion, as represented by the fall mode week, has decreed that. True, some short skirts were still there, but the prevailing style showed long skirts. Sometimes these were actually long; other times the length was attained by addition of lace or streamers or such like creations.

And, while the lowering of the skirt was thus ordained, the fashion arbiters also showed a startling tendency to drop the neck, giving an even more decolete effect than the past season's creations permitted.

Furs will be quite popular. Capes, popularized already this summer, were shown extensively, made from silk and lighter fabrics to furs.

The tailors for men also participated in the mode week, and their newest fall styles show a tendency to less color and less fancy sporting lines than was the case a year ago.

KENT ARMOUR, JR.

Chapter 53.

Early in October Kent Armour, Jr., was born.

After the long dark hours had passed and Kent at last was allowed to come into my room, as he stood there looking down at me, pale and hollow-eyed, but with a smile of wonderment on his face, I forgot that I had suffered. He leaned over and kissed me passionately.

Then the nurse took the baby and placed it carefuly in his strong arms.

"Are you glad it's a boy, Kent?" I asked, watching his dear face.

"Oh yes, Babs! It's wonderful—I'm afraid I wanted a boy very much," he answered eagerly. "Did you guess it? Did I show my feelings too plainly?"

"And I did too, dearest, though I hardly confessed it eevn to myself," I said truthfully. "I didn't want to be too partial,' I added smilingly.

Kent looked at me thoughtfully and I felt quite sure I knew what he was dreaming about. I put my hand on his shoulder.

"Dearest, I want his name to be Kent Armour, Jr," I said softly.

Kent's face clouded a minute. I saw lines of pain catch at the corners of his sensitive mouth.

"Don't you think I ought to give him a—a fresh start—a chance of his own?" he asked, dropping his eyes.

"Oh, my boy," I cried, "no! There's no other name I love like that. I want just that one," I told him.

I have been recommending your medicine to my friends, and you are welcome to use my testimonial for I can never praise your medicine enough for what it has done for me."—RHODA E. CARBAUGH, R. START TOMORROW AND KEEP IT UP EVERY MORNING

Get into the habit of drinking a glass of hot water before breakfast.

Millions of folks bathe internally now instead of loading their system with drugs. "What's an inside bath"? you say. Well, it is guaranteed to perform miracles according to hot water enthusiasts.

There are vast numbers of men and women who, immediately upon arising in the morning, drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is a very excellent health measure. It is intended to flusn the stomach, liver, kidneys and intestines of the previous day's waste, sour bile and indigestible material left over in the body which if not eliminated every day, become food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels, the quick result is poisons and toxins which are then absorbed into the blood, causing headache, bilious attacks, foul breath, bad taste, colds, stomach trouble, kidney misery, sleeplessness, impure blood and all sorts of ailments.

People who feel good one day and badly the next, but who simply can not get feeling right are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to make anyone a real crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

ONE-NIGHT STAND BRANDED AS DEAD.

There'll Be Hay in Opera Houses on Kerosene Circuit.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—The one-night stand is dead.

There'll be hay in the opera house on the kerosene circuit, from this fall's lodge convention till commencement time next spring for Marie and the other beauties of the road show, will keep their lights and their eyebrows in storage this winter.

Usually by this time of the year 125 shows, with miles of lingerie and pecks of glass diamonds, would be dusting off the back drop for the thirteenth ravishingly successful season along the country's main streets.

This year only one show is on the road doing the one-night stands. And that one, with the few others which will start out, will keep to the big towns, James Wingfield, Chicago booking agent, told the United Press today.

Everything from movie competition to the high cost of hosiery and low selling price of corn is blamed. They can't afford the high rail rates. The weather is too hot. Times are too hard.

The managers say they are afraid of union labor among the actors.

"Our artists are so tempermental," they complain. "Too many shows went on the rocks last year because the leading flapper joined the union in the middle of the show and suddenly decided she wouldn't let any scab actor kiss her in the third act. We can't risk it."

A man must be either anvil or hammer, wails a poet. The majority however, seem content with being bellows.—Evansville Courier.

ANARCHY INCREASES IN SPANISH MOROCCO

SITUATION IN WEST SERIOUS—MELILLA ATTACKED.

LONDON, Sept. 1. — (Canadian Press.)—Anarchy has been increasing in the western part of the Spanish zone of Morocco during the past ten days, says the Tangier dispatch to the London Times. The situation is serious but the Spanish hope to avert a general outbreak.

Melilla Attacked.

PARIS, Sept. 1. — (Canadian Press.)— The Spanish positions at Melilla, Morocco, were vigorously attacked all day Wednesday according to a telegram received in Madrid from General Berenguer, Spanish High Commissioner in Morocco, says the correspondent of the Paris Midi, in the Spanish capital. Two transports with troops and materials have arrived in Melilla, he adds.

MOORS FIGHTING HOLY WAR WITH GERMAN GUNS.

France Keenly Watching Developments.

By JOHN O'BRIEN,

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PARIS, Sept. 1.—French political and military circles are watching with keen interest the progress of the revolt in Spanish Morocco, which apparently is developing in such an extent that the evacuation by the Spaniards of Melilla, which they have occupied since the days when Columbus was discovering the islands of the Caribbean, is looked upon as certain. French military experts emphasize the essential unity of the French and Spanish fronts in North Africa, a weakening or collapse of one portending grave peril for the other.

The revolt of the tribes of the Rif is looked upon as a holy war. Success is bound to have a far-reaching effect on the entire world of Islam. During the great war there was much talk of a "djelal," or combined effort of all the countries owning Mahomet as Allah's prophet, to drive out the "giour," but this is the first tion of the Fez-Taza railroad, the ment has met with pronounced success. Victory for the Moors in the Spanish zone would, it is believed here, find an echo all through Northern Africa, Asia Minor and even in the Far East.

Marshal Lyautey is putting into execution a vast plan for the permanent pacification of the Middle Atlas region, south of the Spanish zone. He presided on July 21 the ceremonies incidental to the termination of the Fez-Tada railroad, the last link in a line nearly a thousand miles long, connecting Bizerta, the Tunisian port, with the Atlantic and providing ample means of communication between the trade centres of Morocco and Algeria. The French War Office realizing the danger to Lyautey's plans, which would be the inevitable result of a Spanish debacle, has ordered the closing of the frontier between the French and Spanish zones and other measures of a purely military nature have been taken to prevent the incursion of rebellious tribesmen.

Stress is laid on the fact that the Moors seem to be well provided with field guns and ammunition, and are able to use them effectively. During the World War, Germany was able to utilize the Spanish zone in Morocco as a base for landing arms to be used against the French in Africa and point out that it is these arms that are now being turned against the Spaniards.

Spain has spent more than $100,000,000 in the last year in her effort to smash the power of Raisuli, Abd-el-Krim and other Mohammedan leaders, but the effort has been vain. In the five centuries during which Spain has been trying to establish her rule in the country across the Straits of Gibraltar, her military position has never been so precarious as it is just now. Her prestige, and the prestige of France and England, the other great Mohammedan powers, is rapidly declining. The military juntas in Spain is loudly calling for mobilization of every available man to recruit an army of 100,000 men for a determined effort to prevent Spain being wiped off the map as a colonial power. On the other hand, the Republicans and Socialists are organizing demonstrations against the militarists and there have been clashes with police and soldiers at Madrid, Bilbao, Saragossa and Barcelona.

If internal troubles or military failure should result in the loss of the colony which Spain has treasured as the last remnant of her once proud empire, observers predict that King Alfonso will have the hardest task of his career to hold his throne.

"HOW OLD IS ANN?" IS A BIG QUESTION.

Chief Problem Facing Insurance Companies.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—"How old is Ann?" is still the biggest question in the minds of some people, especially life insurance organizations.

The chief problem facing insurance companies is how to induce women to tell their right ages, say delegates attending the National Fraternal conference here today. The conference hopes to find a solution.

About one-tenth of the women applying for life insurance place their ages from two to ten years under the correct figures, Miss Bima West, Port Huron, Mich., told the United Press.

"With most of the women, it isn't a deliberate attempt to cheat," Miss West said. "Mothers and girls simply have the habit of thinking that their ages are less than they really are. Lots of husbands can't tell how old their wives are, let alone life insurance companies."

Women suffrage will be a big help in getting the truth on ages from women, Miss West believed.

"Women will get the habit of telling their ages correctly when they register to vote," she said. "Men have been telling their right ages for so long, that they are nearly always truthful about them."

ALBERTA'S FARMER PREMIER STARTED LIFE IN CITY

EDMONTON, Alta., Aug. 31.—(United Press).—Herbert Greenfield, elected to head the political party of the United Farmers of Alberta when it defeated the existing Provincial Government and who will become Premier of Alberta when the next Parliament sits, is a city boy who has made good on the farm. His career is a romance of the soil.

Greenfield was born in Winchester, England, fifty-two years ago. When 23, he came to Canada. Though he had neither capital nor rural experience, he determined to become a farmer. He hired out as a farmhand in Ontario. When he had accumulated a little money and experience, he bought a farm. Stories of bonanza farming on the prairies came to him and, selling out, he trekked to Alberta in 1906 and homesteaded a farm. He lived in a dugout. He had little more than health, a plow and a team of horses. He worked from dawn to dark. In a few years, a mansion had supplanted the sod hut. A village of barns, granaries and outhouses grew up about his home. His pastures were filled with cattle, sheep and hogs. His cultivated lands extended to the horizon. The poor settler had become a rich and influential farmer.

Now that he has been chosen for practically the highest honor the Province has to bestow, friends declare the qualities that made him a successful farmer will make him a successful statesman.

Canaries and Their Complaints

Cage birds are liable to numerous complaints, many of which are brought about through want of proper treatment, by being kept in draughts, suspended too high up in ill-ventilated rooms where gas is burned, dusty seed, impure water, and a host of other neglectful matters too numerous to mention. Damp weather or cold easterly winds often assist in bringing to the surface diseases which might have been tided over for some time longer with more attention paid to the pets. Many cage birds are subject to rheumatism, paralysis or cramps. The two former are brought about through exposure to cold and damp or impure air, want of exercise, transitions from heat during the daytime to the cold air of night, or the too frequent use of the bath in a small wooden cage, whereby the cage bottom becomes completely soddened. The birds mostly suffer in their extremities, and sometimes they are so severely afflicted as scarcely to maintain their equilibrium upon their perches. A removal into a dry cage where there is more space and their legs and feet bathed in warm water and rubbed with a little brandy and afterwards anointed with almond oil will frequently benefit them. A little cayenne with egg and biscuit and a free vegetable diet is necessary. Those who keep several birds should have at their command an infirmary cake—one well protected from draught and entirely closed all round but the front, which at night should be covered with a cloth. The cramps in the feet is mostly brought about through insufficient exercise in small cages, and improper perches to grasp. Similar treatment to the "fly" or room, furnished with perches above, with exercise in a spacious of various thicknesses, will be essential.

TARIFF BATTLE IS RAGING IN SENATE.

Canadian Wheat Battle Ground of Hitchcock and McCumber.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press).—Has the emergency tariff on agricultural products been a "gold brick" to the farmers of the United States?

Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, one of the foremost of the Democratic leaders, himself from a leading agricultural State, calls it a "gold brick" and a humbug and is prepared to carry the issue to the country. On the other hand, Senator McCumber of North Dakota, leading advocate of a high wheat tariff to keep out Canadian wheat, insists the effect of the tariff on wheat and the emergency agricultural rates generally has been to increase or to steady agricultural prices in the U. S.

Senator Hitchcock's version of what occurred after the emergency tariff bill passed about three months ago is interesting. He said in recent Senate debates on the question of extending the time of the emergency tariff:

"There is no method by which these prophetic statesmen, who assured the farmers that the life of this bill would be of great benefit to them, can now go to the farmers of the West and convince them that the decline in the price of wheat from $1.48 to $1.25½ during the life of this bill has been of any benefit to them; and no amount of prediction, for the future, no amount of explanation can overcome the fact that during the life of this bill wheat in Chicago has declined from $1.48 to $1.25 a bushel. This fact stands out as an unanswerable condemnation of the attempt to bolster up the price of wheat by legislature.

"The farmers of the West know that when they raise wheat they raise it for the world's markets. They know that when they raise wheat they raise a product which is regulated by the world's market and not by the legislation of the Congress of the United States. They knew when this bill was passed that it was a delusion and a snare; it as a gold brick offered to them; it was an attempt to get them to accept the idea of a protective tariff.

"Now, we will take flour—wheat flour. At the time this bill was passed it was selling in Chicago at $8.25.

"I have not the August quotation, but the July quotation on that flour is $7.

"Take potatoes. They were subjected to a tariff in this emergency tariff bill. Potatoes at that time were selling for $4.14 a bushel. The August quotation on potatoes is $2.92 a bushel. Do you think the potato raisers are going to conclude that they have been benefited by this tariff? Yet that tariff was revised for the very purpose of winning the support of the potato raisers to those who advocated high protective tariff as a matter of national policy.

"They were all told that as a result of this wonderful, this magical legislation, this emergency legislation that was needed immediately, that could not wait, was a regular tariff bill to be enacted—it had to be done at once, so as to give them instant relief—they were told that the price of potatoes would advance if only a tariff were put upon potatoes to prevent a few bushels from coming into this country from Canada; but, instead of having advanced, the price of potatoes has fallen from $4.14 to $2.92."

Opposing the Hitchcock view and contending that Canadian wheat had been partly checked, Senator McCumber said:

"Now, what did we claim in the debate on the emergency tariff bill? We looked across the Canadian border and saw forty or fifty million bushels of wheat before the opening of navigation ready to cross the lakes as soon as lake navigation was open. The wheat trade knew the result of increasing our surplus, and especially of increasing our surplus in the spring wheat section of the country, where they grind only for the spring wheat flour. They discounted that in the May and July purchase. They said: 'Here are forty to fifty million bushels of Canadian wheat that will come over to the United States just as soon as navigation opens. Navigation will open in May. We are now paying $1.48 a bushel. We can get that wheat cheaper in May, because the Canadian wheat is coming over in May, and this increase in our surplus will make for lower prices. If we increase the surplus we will drive the prices down still lower than at present; therefore, we will bid considerably less for May and July delivery.'

"Now, if we can prevent the importations of this Canadian grain, prevent the creation of a greater surplus, we may recover our price to a certain extent. That is just exactly what we did. That is what no man on earth could make the Senator from Nebraska understand, although we gave him the figures as plainly as 2 and 2 make 4, because he is obsessed with the idea that prices are fixed eternally in Liverpool, although the consumption in the United States is enormously beyond the consumption in Liverpool.

"Now, I wish to convince even the obdurate Senator from Nebraska that the dealers in grain know as much about the business as he does, that the grain purchasers and grain sellers in the city of Minneapolis who have been engaged in the business for forty years know as much of what influences the prices of grain in the United States as does the Senator from Nebraska. If they disagree wholly and totally with the Senator from Nebraska, I am bound to follow their suggestion and their reasons, which correspond with my own, rather than to take the dictum of the Senator from Nebraska as to whether or not a protection against Canadian wheat is a benefit to the American wheat raiser.

"Bear in mind that the Canadian will always sell his wheat where he can get the best price. He does not care whether it goes to Europe or whether it goes to the United States. If he can get just as good a price in Liverpool as he can get in the United States, he is not going to try any retaliatory measures because we place a tariff upon his wheat.

Senator McCumber quoted from Minneapolis prices to show the tendency had been for wheat prices to be sustained here by the tariff.

TRAVEL ON THE TRENT WATERWAY

The latest edition of Smily's Canadian Summer Resort Guide, the tourist's annual, contains an illuminating little article entitled "From Lake Ontario to Georgian Bay by the Trent Waterway." It is illustrated with a map showing "the shortest water route between Lake Ontario and the Georgian Bay, extending from Trenton, on the Bay of Quinte (Lake Ontario), near where Ontario waters merge into the head waters of the St. Lawrence River, to Port Severn on the southeastern shore line of Georgian Bay, a distance of 247 miles." The trip, which is described as one of the most beautiful and diversified cruises in America, can be accomplished by motor boat in from two to four weeks, according to the amount of loafing and sight-seeing indulged in. For lovers of the strenuous life, voyaging a la Champlain, there is no finer canoe trip anywhere, either going all or part of the way. The entire route can be negotiated at present by a 35 foot launch, but when the big dam and locks at Big Chuté on the lower Severn river, are finished, it will be possible to travel the entire distance in a 115 foot boat. There are no lock charges and no customs' restrictions on this route."

"The Trent Waterway is a canalized combination of the Trent river (from Trenton) into Rice lake, Otonabee river—through Peterborough and Lakefield into Stoney Lake, then Chemong Lake, Pigeon Lake, Sturgeon lake and river, through Cameron and Balsam lakes—the height of land—then down grade by canal to Lake Simcoe, past Orillia at the junction of Lakes Simcoe and Couchiching, entering Upper Severn river from Couchiching, into Sparrow lake, a widening of the Severn, down the rugged Lower Severn, where a pilot is advisable, and emerging into Georgian Bay at Port Severn.

"Strangely enough, the inhabitants of this region have but recently awakened to many of its possibilities, the foremost and most wide-awake organization in this connection being the Trent Waterway Development Association of Peterborough, of which Mr. Leon Fraser is secretary-treasurer, and who will cheerfully supply information both from a tourist and industrial standpoint."

Mr. Fraser states that many enquiries are coming in for inforamation along the lines quoted above.

Yesterday, Mr. Fraser received an enquiry from Balboa Heights, in the Panama Canal zone, for leaflets and detailed information regarding a cruise in these waters described in an outdoor magazine.

GERMAN EXPORT SUCCESS MUCH EXAGGERATED.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Ever since the reparations question was settled between the allied nations and Germany in May there has been a great deal of superficial discussion to the effect that German workmen are working long hours at very low pay, and that all the people of Germany — 60,000,000 souls with a single thought—are buckling down to capture the markets of the world, crush foreign competition, and pay off all their indemnities with manufactured products, enjoying all the while the advantage of greatly depreciated currency, low cost of living, and low cost of materials as compared with other manufacturing nations.

This impression has been materially increased by numerous newspaper articles which have given no concrete facts, but have been based chiefly upon atmosphere, without an analysis of the relative industrial activity of Germany to-day as compared with Germany before the war, and as compared with other nations.

Manufacturers in countries outside of Germany have not unnaturally been inclined to exaggerate in their own minds the competition to be expected from Germany, and have in many cases lent their voices to the chorus of those over-estimating the present German situation.

On the contrary, states L. R. Morris, Research Editor of the American Exporter, in an article in this week's issue of the American Exporter Bulletin, it should be realized that Germany, instead of being in a better position to compete with the United States than before the war, is in a much worse position.

American goods have never competed on a price basis except in staple lines—grains, steels, etc. Manufactured goods, which in the fiscal year 1913 formed 48.80 per cent. of our exports, and in June, 1921, formed 52.15 per cent. of our total exports, have never been sold so much on a price basis as on quality and service. In hardware, shoes, machine tools and many other lines, the United States has always sold large quantities of its goods, even in Germany, although German products in the same lines were sold at cheaper prices.

The chief characteristic of German goods has always been cheapness. This continues to be the case, and German trade papers and consular officials, as quoted above, are complaining that Germany's habit in this regard is seriously hampering her export trade.

With increase of wealth and culture all over the world, the demand for quality goods, rather than cheap goods metriciously dressed up, is bound to increase. This would suggest that the export future is with the United States rather than with Germany.

The belief abroad that the German workman is to-day working for long hours is likewise not supported by facts. The normal work day in Germany is 8 hours; in the coal mines it is only 7 hours; a bill has been submitted in the German Reichstag to make the day in all mines 7 hours; and last year in the Ruhr mines a general strike was at one time threatened in order to enforce the demand for a 6-hour day. The belief that German workmen are working for extremely low wages, as compared with pre-war conditions, is also a misconception.

Manufacturers in Germany have four factors to contend with from which manufacturers in the United States are free, and these factors materially affect, and often make it impossible for the manufacturer to control, his prices for export and his dates for delivery. These four factors are import licenses, export licenses, Government price fixing on exports, and export duties.

Although no German export statistics have been issued for any period of 1921, the import statistics of the other countries, so far as these are available, show anything but a preponderance of German trade.

With the United States about to adopt a higher tariff on imports, it might be expected that this would serve as a stimulus to rush German goods into this market before the tariff goes into effect. Yet United States imports from Germany in June of this year were only 47 per cent. in value of those of June, 1914.

On the other hand, our imports from France actually increased 15 per cent., and those from Great Britain, with a coal strike to contend with, decreased only 39 per cent., or substantially less than those from Germany.

In the case of Brazil, imports from the United States in the first three months of 1921 were five times as great in value as those from Germany and imports from Great Britain were nearly three times as great as those from Germany.

Imports from Germany were approximately 60 per cent. as great in value as in 1914, while those from the United States were 360 per cent. as great, and those from Great Britain were 136 per cent. as great.

New York Restaurant Still Doing Business on This Principle.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(Canadian Press).—Chronic habitues of New York's park benches are gurgling the praises of their newest and most beloved benefactor, a West Thirty-fourth street restaurateur.

Coincident with the recent opening of the doors of the new bean emporium there was an elaborate display of the sign painters' art, bearing the following magnetic phrases:

"All the beans you can get for fifteen cents."

"All the spaghetti you want for fifteen cents."

"A coffee you can drink for a nickle."

"It's hell to be broke; if you're hungry, come on in anyway."

"People ask how we do it. The answer is: 'We do.'"

The proprietor declares the restaurant is a great success. "There are few," said he, "who haven't fifteen cents. Those who haven't are such good walking advertisements that it is a joy to see 'em eat."

AN OPEN LETTER

To Every Property Owner and Every Tax Payer
To Every Man and Woman in Peterborough:

You are, of course, acquainted with the facts regarding the establishing of a factory to make BIRMINGHAM MOTORS in Peterborough.

While we have been accorded a great deal of encouragement there is lacking considerable interest on the part of property owners and tax payers. It has been brought to our attention that many have remarked they could "not do much" towards furthering this project.

To such we want to say that each and every one doing what they can, even to the extent of subscribing for ONE SHARE, will have the desired effect and be conducive of his neighbor doing the same.

THERE ARE UPWARDS OF FIVE THOUSAND WORKERS IN PETERBOROUGH, EIGHTY-FIVE PER CENT. OF WHOM OWN THEIR OWN HOMES.

If one-half this number subscribed on an average of $100.00 each an automobile factory making BIRMINGHAM CARS will be in operation in Peterborough in ninety days or less, employing, at the start at least, one hundred men, and within sixty days thereafter there will be between three hundred and four hundred employees on the pay rolls of BIRMINGHAM MOTORS working twelve months a year at the highest rate of wages.

We purpose organizing a Canadian Company to be managed by Canadians and controlled by the shareholders.

The establishing of an automobile factory in Peterborough should materially increase the population of your city as well as enhance real estate values and better conditions generally. This has been the experience wherever an automobile factory has been started.

Why Not Peterborough?

The Automobile Industry is the third largest industry in the world.

More than twenty billion dollars have been invested in building automobiles with less than one per cent. of failures.

No other industrial can show this remarkable condition.

The "BIRMINGHAM" has revolutionized automobile construction. We have produced a car to sell at a popular price that far excells the highest priced imported or American car and has everything that is desirable in an automobile.

It is the easiest riding car in the world, regardless of price. A car that will practically double the speed of all other cars over rough roads with greater comfort in riding, and we are willing to back this statement under a cash forfeiture offer.

The "BIRMINGHAM" can be operated for from forty to fifty per cent. less cost for up-keep than any other car. What in your opinion should be the future success of such a car?

Peterborough offers every advantage for manufacturing automobiles. It is centrally located with railroad and water facilities to supply Canada in every direction, has good reasonable light and power and offers admirable labor facilities.

As it is impossible to reach every one personally we are asking each one interested to cut out the coupon printed below, sign it at once expressing your interest in bringing BIRMINGHAM MOTORS to Peterborough, or better still, call personally on us and let us explain the opportunity more fully to you.

It is up to each and every one of you whether BIRMINGHAM MOTORS comes to Peterborough or goes to some other Canadian city.

This is the last opportunity we will offer Peterborough, and unless immediate action is taken we will abandon the idea of locating in Peterborough.

Investigate NOW.

Outside of the direct results to be derived from establishing BIRMINGHAM MOTORS here the investment in BIRMINGHAM MOTORS offers greater profits than any other known industrial investment.

WHAT THESE COMPANIES HAVE DONE BIRMINGHAM MOTORS SHOULD BETTER—AND THERE IS EVERY REASON IN THE WORLD TO EXPECT THIS

Probably no industry has equalled the profits of the Automobile Industry and certainly no industry has had such a small percentage of failures. Following are given the profits that some of the companies have made for their shareholders. These profits are large enough to suit anybody, yet none of these companies had a car that could compare with the "BIRMINGHAM" in features that make a car easy to sell to the automobile buying public. You will notice this list does not include some of the largest selling cars. What should BIRMINGHAM MOTORS pay?

DODGE BROS. BUY SANDWICH LAND

Intend Erecting Big Assembling Plant in Border Town.

WINDSOR, Aug. 31.—Thirty-five acres of land in the town of Sandwich, with 350 feet river frontage, has been acquired by Dodge Bros., Detroit, auto manufacturers, who intend to erect an assembling plant in the county town to care for its Canadian and British export trade.

For some weeks rumors have been in circulation that the Dodge Company planned such an extension, but no confirmation of the report could be had until today. The property was purchased from the Gauthier heirs in Sandwich, and was sold for $287,000 cash.

The announcement is expected to exercise an almost immediate effect upon realty values in Sandwich, where property is already held at a high figure on account of the expectation that work on the Detroit River Bridge will be begun within a few months.

MANDATES HARD PROBLEM BEFORE NATIONS LEAGUE.

By HENRY WOOD.
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

GENEVA, Aug. 31.—The thorny question of mandates over Germany's former colonies will in all probability be definitely settled during the second general assembly of the League of Nations, which convenes here on September 5.

Unless unforseen obstacles arise, the Council of the League will be able to submit to the assembly the final terms of the mandates under which England will administer Palestine and Mesopotamia and France, Syria and Lebanon. Mandates will similarly be approved and handed over to England, France and Belgium for the administration of the former German colonies in Africa.

In the meantime, German West Africa and all of the former German islands in the Pacific, both north and south of the Equator are already being administered under the terms of the mandates approved by the Council and assembly last December by the Union of South Africa, Australia, New Zealand, England and Japan—with but one exception.

This one exception is the Japanese mandate over the island of Yap, against which the United States has protested.

As a matter of fact, practically all of the delay in the approving of the terms of the mandates has been due to the American protest against the Yap mandate and the Franco-British oil agreement in Syria and Mesopotamia.

As a consequence, while waiting for the mandates to be actually given them, all of the allied powers who are to administer mandated territories are being obliged to hold down the latter by what is virtually a military regime and dictatorship. This has resulted in several revolutions and near-revolutions of the native populations, who are clamoring the mandate administrations promised them under the Treaties of Versailles and Severs instead of the French and English troops now governing them.

The result has been to make the question of mandates one of the most urgent importance.

Owing to the refusal of the United States to accept the approval of any mandates which do not provide for equal commercial rights in the mandated territories for all of the Allies and of the Anglo-French agreement to split up the oil production of Mesopotamia, and Syria between them, the final drawing up of the terms of the mandates by the League Council has been delayed.

The Council last June notified all of the Allies and the United States that the mandates could not be approved until the Allies should get together with the United States on the details. As a result, direct negotiations were immediately entered into between England, France and the United States. It is expected that a full agreement will be reached by them so that when the League Council meets at Geneva on September 1, five days preceding the opening of the League's second general assembly, it will then be possible to approve the terms of the mandates.

These will then be submitted to the assembly and finally given over to the mandate powers, so that they can begin at once the administration of the territories under the mandate system.

Each country holding a mandate will be required to report yearly to a commission on the manner in which it is carrying out its mandates, and this commission in turn will advise the League on the manner in which the territories are being administered.

PEASANTS SAY GOOD-BYE, THEN LIE DOWN TO DIE.

Graphic Story of Conditions as They are To-day in the Volga.

RIGA, Aug. 31.—(United Press).—"The terrible conditions in the Volga have not been exaggerated. Famine and disease are killing thousands every day. Vast sections will soon be exterminated."

Jerome Davis, instructor in sociology at Columbia University, today returned from a seventeen-day tour of Russia, including the famine regions, and in an interview with the United Press confirmed refugees' accounts of the desperate situation in the hunger zone.

Speaking fluent Russian, Mr. Davis travelled, independent of any organization, in the filthy, fourth class box cars where the peasants were huddled like cattle.

"In many villages of the Samara district," he said, "fully half the population were dead. People were eating bark, gnawing in desperate hunger at anything vegetable.

"Mothers, in desperation, were drowning their infants in the dirty rivers. Entire families were committing suicide together, locking themselves in a single room, huddling close to one another for warmth, biting their fingers and licking the blood and suffocating slowly in the midst of indescribable filth.

"Many other families were breaking up, scattering throughout the country.

"I saw scenes painful to talk about as they bade each other farewell and went off—'to die,' they said. There was not enough food, if you could call the grass and clay that they were eating, food, enough for all and they felt that they would do better each for himself."

The comparative order of the swarming, slow-moving bands of refugees, streaming across the barren plains, impressed Mr. Davis. He ascribed the phenomenon to the presence of heavy forces of Red soldiery throughout the hunger zone. All trains are guarded, especially food trains, to prevent the famished hordes from storming the coaches.

The Soviet is doing its utmost to provide seed for the 1922 crop, Davis said, and in some regions he saw almost unbelievable sacrifices by peasant families who were starving that their neighbor might sow his next year's crop.

Mr. Davis had been two years in Russia. He completed his trip with an aeroplane flight here from Reval. He is leaving now, and will teach at Dartmouth next year.

DOG'S INTELLIGENCE SAVES LIFE OF OWNER.

GENEVA, August 30.—The intelligence of his setter dog saved the French Alpinist, Morel, from certain death, when the climber, descending Voiron's Mountain, 4,875 feet, fell over a precipice, breaking both legs. The dog found its way down the precipice to his master who, unable to move, wrote a message to his wife in Croisette village, and tied it to the dog's collar, telling him to go home.

Six hour later help arrived, and Morel was carried down the mountain to the village, where a doctor was awaiting him. The dog conducted the rescue party up and down the mountain.

RIDE WITH WOMAN, ROB HER OF $3,000.

Mrs. Takac's Newark Cafe Acquaintances Get Lift in Her Car and Open Bag.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—A woman who said she was Mrs. Kate Takacs, 40 years old, of 1,620 Avenue U, Brooklyn, went to Police Headquarters at Newark, N. J., with Detectives Laval and McCarthy of New York yesterday afternoon and reported that she had been robbed of jewelry worth $3,000 in Newark.

Mrs. Takacs said she went to Newark in her automobile with three men and two women. The party went to a cafe at Fifteenth avenue and Nineteenth street, Newark, where they met a Newark man known to Mrs. Takacs. According to her story, this man introduced two other men as his friends. At 2.30 a.m., Mrs. Takacs says, her party started back to Brooklyn, and her two new acquaintances asked permission to ride in her car as far as the downtown section of Newark. She gave them a lift as far as Washington and Market streets, where they got out.

After driving two blocks further, she said, she looked in her handbag and found that a platnum breast pin set with thirty-two small diamonds, worth $2,000, and a lavalliere with four diamonds, worth $1,000, were missing. Other jewelry worth $4,000 remained in the handbag and $3,000 in cash, which she had entrusted to one of the men in her party to hold for her, was intact. She drove back to the place where the two men had got out, but they had disappeared. Then she went to Brooklyn.

Later in the day she communicated with a relative who is a member of the New York Police Department and returned to Newark to report the robbery. The Newark police asked her to explain having such a large sum of money, and she said that she carried it because she expected to pay today for repairs to her house. She said she did not remember the names of the two men to whom she was introduced Saturday night, but gave the name of the Newark man who introduced them. The Newark police are investigating.

CUPID CLUB BEGUN

ELDERLY WIDOWS AND WIDOWERS SEEK BLISS AGAIN.

By CARL VICTOR LITTLE.
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Father Time and Cupid ran a race today at the convention of widows and widowers.

Two hundred men and women ranging from 40 to 75 years of age, were young once more.

The gathering, which was held in Washington Park, was the result of the hard work of Miss Marceline Stokes, a social worker, and object—matrimony.

Miss Stokes imposed but one condition on those who joined the Widows and Widowers' Club—they had to affirm that they fulfilled their marriage vows and lived with their chosen mate until "death did them part."

Members of the club joined because they were weary of spending their last days unloved and lonesome.

"Yes," said Miss Stokes, "the club has been a success. Already eight marriages have resulted from our little gatherings and many more are in the offing."

She tells this "scandal" of the club:

"One old boy nearly 70 was a regular attendant at our meetings. He was the favorite with all the women and broke up many a happy little affair.

"All went well until an irate little woman appeared on the scene and shouted: 'Here you are, Ezra, posing as a widower when I'm still alive!'"

Bronze bead girdles will be worn with fur wraps.

THERE'S A MYSTERY ON PELLETIER FARM

Maid Tells of Strange Visit of Two Men With "Body."

PONTIAC, Sept. 1.—A mystery Sheriff James S. Butler, of Oakland County, has been unable to solve developed at 3 a.m. yesterday at the E. LeRoy Pelletier farm at Orchard Lake. Mrs. May Moody, employed in the Pelletier home, who makes her home in a tenant house with her baby, aroused the family and told them two men had just visited her home under unusual circumstances.

Mrs. Moody said two men had dragged a white object, resembling a human body, on to a screened porch and deposited it on a cot. After working over it for a few minutes, they entered Mrs. Moody's bedroom, she said, and threatened to choke her if she made any outcry. They looked around the room but did not molest anything and left in a few minutes, taking with them the object they had brought, together with a mattress and blanket that had been on the cot.

Marks showing where the mattress had been dragged off the porch could be seen and automobile tracks in the road showed where someone had driven up to the house as the woman had described. There were no other clues.

Mrs. Moody was to-day suffering from shock.

ASKED TO BE JAILED.

LINDSAY, Sept. 1.—Young Hepburn, who skipped town to evade facing a charge of intoxication, returned recently and yesterday visited the police station, asked to be arrested, and his fate settled. His request was complied with, and he is now in jail awaiting trial.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—For the first time on record, a will has been proven in which the testator made a bequest of aeroplanes.

It occurred in the will of Mr. A. Pilkington, the glass manufacturer, of St. Helens, and the son of Colonel Richard Pilkington, M.P.

Mr. Pilkington, who left estate valued at £386,076 gross, directed that his aircraft and motor vehicles and accessories should be left to his wife, in addition to an annuity of £3,000, his household and personal effects, and the use of Windle Hall, his residence, for life.

OUR MUNICIPAL BOND ISSUES REGARDED HIGHLY IN U. S.

Revealed When Foreign Securities Were Under Government Scrutiny.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(By Canadian Press) Canadian municipal bond issues are highly regarded in U. S. investment circles. This was indicated today when it was learned that bond issues of a number of foreign municipalities offered for subscription in the United States are under the scrutiny of the government for evidences of violation of "blue sky" laws. The Canadian Press was informed by an official of the government that the issues under surveilance do not include any of the Dominion.

"Canadian municipal bonds are very highly regarded in this country" he said, "and we do not consider there is any need for apprehension as to the terms and conditions under which they are offered to the public here."

A number of European municipal bonds are not so highly regarded, however, and according to officials here, the government has decided that it is necesssary to investigate the mehods by which hey are being isssued. The "blue sky" laws, as they are popularly called, are statues which regulates the issuance of stocks and bonds to the public and are intended to safeguard investors from unsound securities. Some European cities, it is declared, have been offering bonds for a mere pittance in U. S. money which would be redeemable years hence for many times the value of the original investment on the assumption of a recovery in the exchange rate. Some of these municipalities are said to have issued bonds totalling such enormous sums in the now depreciated currencies of their countries that if exchange regains a parity the face value of one of these obligations in U. S. dollars would be many times as great as the land, buildings and resources of any of these towns.

U.S. - BULGARIAN BUSINESS BOOMING.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 1.—Business between Bulgaria and the United States has made great strides recently in spite of the depreciation of Bulgarian money. Petroleum leads in Bulgarian - American commerce, American soil practically monopolizing the Bulgarian market.

Construction by Americans of grain elevators on the Black Sea and in ports of the Danube at a cost of several millions dollars, is the first step in a programme providing for the erection of central electric plants and construction of electric railroads, ports and docks.

The Bulgarian Government is negotiating for the purchase of railroad rolling stock in the United States, particularly grain cars to facilitate the exportation of cereals.

The trouble in resuming trade with Russia is that so many of her exports are anarchists.—Springfield (O.) News.

DOWNEYVILLE CORRESPONDENCE

DOWNEYVILLE, Sept. 2.—Miss Violet Roland, of Orillia, is the guest of Miss Mae O'Donnell.

Miss Bertilla Pigott, of Buffalo, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Piggott.

The death took place on Tuesday morning of Francis Lucas, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Lucas at the family residence.

The deceased was a member of St. Luke's church, also a member of the Holy Name Society. He was highly esteemed by all who knew him and his death was deeply felt by all. When the call of King and country came in 1914, he was one of the first to leave all that was dear to him, endured hardship, faced danger, giving up his own life that others might live in freedom. He leaves to mourn his loss his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Lucas, three brothers, Percy, Charles and James at home, and three sisters, Veronica and Genevieve at home and Kathleen of St. Mary's Hospial, Rochester, N.Y.

The funeral was held on Wednesday, proceeding to St. Luke's church, Downeyville, where solemn requiem mass was chanted by Rev. Father Galvin, assisted by Rev. Fathers McGuire and Guiry of Peterborough, as deacon and sub-deacon.

Interment took place at St. Luke's cemetery. The pallbearers were returned soldiers, Louis Clancy, William O'Neill, Victor Callaghan, Joseph Houlihan, George O'Donnell and Clement Lucas.

The Holy Name Society showed due honor at the funeral to their deceased brother.

GREAT ESTATES OF ENGLAND CRUMBLE UNDER WEIGHT OF TAXATION AND THE DEATH DUTIES AS PROPRIETORS SELL

PEERS FIND IT NECESSARY TO SEEK SMALLER HOMES AND ANCIENT FAMILIES SEVER CONNECTION WITH SOIL.

LONDON, Sept. 2. — England's great estates are crumbling under the weight of taxation and death duties and one big landed proprietor after another among the nobility is dividing and selling his holdings, many of which have been in the hands of single families for centuries.

The latest indication that peers are finding it necessary to seek smaller homes comes in the announcement of the Duke of Portland that he may have to abandon his palatial mansion, Welbeck Abbey, in Nottinghamshire. This is only one of the residences of the Duke who owns some 200,000 acres in England.

"For centuries past landed estates have been handed down from generation to generation," said the Duke, addressing his tenants on the occasion of the coming of age of his son, Lord Francis Cavendish. "Landlords and tenants have lived on terms of mutual trust and affection. I fear, however, that the state of things is passing away for with the present weight of taxation and the extremely onerous incidence of death duties, the future may become very uncertain for all landed proprietors. If this is good for the country, I certainly do not complain.

"With regard to my own case, it may or may not be possible for me and my family to continue to reside at Welbeck, but I fear that there can be little doubt that those who come after me will not be able to do so."

On all sides historic houses are finding new tenants and ancient families are severing their connection with the soil.

The Duke of Devonshire sold Devonshire House in 1919 and Stowe House, the property of Baroness Kinloss, was disposed of recently.

Others who have sold their properties recently include the Duke of Bedford, the Duke of Westminster, the Duke of Rutland, the Duke of Grafton, the Duke of Marlborough, Lord Leconfield, Lord Londesborough, Lord Portman, Lord Camden, Marquis de Castega, Earl Beauchamp, Earl Bradford, Lord Aberdeen, Lord Lovat, Lord Harrington, Lord Harlech, the Countess of Warwick and Sir Richard Bulkeley.

Welbeck Abbey is famous for the subterranean passages and apartments built by the Duke of Portland at a cost of £3,000,000 in order to hide himself from observation by the outside world.

The abbey has an underground riding school 400 feet long, 106 feet wide and 50 feet high, capable of holding 10,000 persons.

There is a subterranean ballballroom 158 feet long, 63 feet wide and 21 feet high, the walls of which are hung with famous paintings.

Both riding school and the ballrooms are connected with the abbey by a series of tunnels.

Other features are large subterrannean libraries and a tan bark course for galloping horses. It is a quarter of a mile long entirely covered in with glass. Altogether there are about 15 miles of tunnelling.

BOY BANDIT MAKES RAID ON HORSEBACK

Robs Apartment, Mounts Steed, But Angry Women Pull Him to Earth.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—In the Bronx, yesterday afternoon a sixteen-year-old boy hired a horse at a riding academy and started out to terrorize the county. He was chased out of an apartment house by half a dozen women, ingloriously unhorsed when he tried to escape on his noble steed and compelled to take to his heels to escape arrest. The police were looking for him last night and expected him to come home repentant as soon as the $5 which disappeared from the apartment is expended on candy, girls and movies.

The youthful Jesse James is said to belong to a respectable family. He paid $2 at a riding academy for the horse, which he mounted and rode to the apartment house at 1,710 Hoe Avenue. Entering the house he tried the doors till he found the apartment of Harold L. Birney an insurance agent, open, Mrs. Birney having gone next door to visit. He had thrust the contents of Mrs. Birney's handbag in his pocket when Mrs. Charles Naumann, her sister-in-law entered Mrs. Birney's apartment and caught him red handed.

Running down six flights of stairs the lad pursued by Mrs. Birney, Mrs Naumann and a constantly growing numbers of women, not to speak of their screams. By the time he reached the street and leaped to the back of his mount he was surrounded by a crowd of excited women and children. Desperately he tried to force his steed through the crowd, but Mrs. Naumann clutched the rein and tugged at them so that he finally jumped off the horse, ran around the corner and disappeared into a vacant lot.

The woman described the lad as a good looking young fellow, about 16 wearing an outfit resembling a Boy Scout's uniform, with a red bandana, khaki shirt and breeches and spiral leggings. The police of the Simpson Street Station quickly traced him to the riding academy and to his home, where his parents, whose name the police decline to divulge, waited anxiously last night for his return.

When we finally arrive at "normalcy" the Germans will be there to receive us.—Columbia Record.

NERVOUS DISORDERS INCREASE SINCE WAR

Strain and Worry Have Multiplied Cases.

LONDON. — Two words, familiar to doctors, but hitherto unfamiliar to most people, are coming into general use. Agoraphobia is one and claustrophobia the other; their increasing vogue being due to the war.

The trials of war time and the worries of peace time, have played havoc with the nerves of thousands of persons who never knew that they possessed any until 1914. Men who went through the war now talk about their nerves as their great grandfathers used to talk about their gout, and women who have struggled for the last few years to make a treasury note go as far as a sovereign used to, knowing all the while that it is worth less than half, now talk about their nerves, instead of about their servants. They have given up servants and suffer from nerves instead.

Both Agoraphobia and claustrophobia are forms of nerves—not so common as the snappy temper form of nerves but more common than they used to be. Agoraphobia is the fear of open spaces and claustrophobia the fear of confined places.

The sufferer from agoraphobia may feel all right as long as he is riding in a motor omnibus along the Strand or Piccadilly, but when he faces the problem of crossing Hyde Park or Trafalgar Square, he suddenly becomes afraid and seizes the arm of a friend rather than venture alone in the open. He looks around in terror for the nearest dugout and dives down a tube if he sees one handy or takes refuge in a teashop or a taxicap.

A variation of this fear of open spaces is the fear of high places. There may be no danger but the sense of height suddenly overwhelms the sufferer and his nerves collapse. If he is on top of a monumen he clutches the railings or shrinks against the pillar, although he could not fall from the monument if he tried.

Sufferers from claustrophobia, on the other hand, may become stricken with fear at the thought of entering a lift or of travelling through a tunnel or of sitting in a room with the doo'r shut. Every one going down a coal mine for the first time experiences something of this feeling of oppression due to a sense of confinement. Ie seems as though the millions of tons of earth above are crushing one down.

It is all due to nerves.

TRAGEDY FOR 2 LEADS TO JOY FOR CHILDREN.

They Didn't Know of Crash as They Played With Wreckage.

NEW YORK, September 2. — When the children of the Bowery went to school this morning they had great fun. Many of them had to stay after classes for being late. The cause of the delay was a whole street section littered with ducks, chickens, crabs, lobsters, clams and big chunks of ice.

The children knew nothing, of course of the tragedy that had occurred on that spot a short time earlier. A man had been literally roasted to death. Another was fatally hurt. The former was a helper and sat in an enclosed seat beside James Duffy, 33, the driver on a powerful truck, which ran wild. It tore off the rear of an ice truck and then crushed into an L pillar near the Manhattan bridge. This made the gas tank explode and within a few seconds the truck was ablaze. The impact hurled half of the load of fowl and seafood over the heads of the two men who were imprisoned in their enclosed seat, the pillar blocking their escape.

The Bowery children on their way to school had great gun throwing ducks and chickens at each other, scaring timid children with crabs, and munching pieces of ice.

THE GENISIS OF RIVERSIDE PARK

THE LAST FOUR HUNDRED FEET OF RIVER FRONT NOW AVAILABLE —ITS HISTORY AND LINEAGE, WHAT IT WAS AND NOW IS.

(By F. H. DOBBIN).

Of necessity the settlement and subsequent progress of hundreds of municipalities throughout Ontario (Upper Canada as the territory was then known) was made and prosecuted by men who had the one vital object before them of gaining a living and so getting on their feet, so to speak. Such work as clearing of the land, the first modest industries, the opening of places of general business all gained attention.

Few looked forward to the years in the future in which the locality, possibly having grown to a place of some importance, would begin to cast about with thoughts of what we now term civic improvement. In the institution of things that would make for the betterment of the people and for the locality and its surroundings.

In Peterborough, for a wonder, some such provision was really made, which indicates no lack of forethought in one direction. In the original survey, made by Richard Birdsall, in 1826, the block of land now known as the Market Square was set apart for municipal uses and benefit. Similarly several other plots were assigned, the object being that in future years the sales value of the lands would be used for erection of schools or other public uses. Also several plots were allotted on the outskirts of the town survey, and held in fee simple under the designation of park lots. Not just agricultural, and not quite of the town. The several denominations secured, in same manner, plots of land for prospective erection thereon of church buildings.

Future Overlooked.

But in making these reservations no thought was taken of possible future needs of ground for park purposes. Even the ground now known as Victoria Park, the Water Street frontage of the county buildings site, was not looked on as a possible park, though devoted to such outdoor sports as cricket, shinny, one and two old-cat (the precursor of baseball), and being the drill ground for Rifle Company No. 1. Indeed the ground narrowly escaped having the building, now Central School, placed on the north-west corner, opposite the site of St. Paul's Church.

Owing to this lack of foresight, if it may be so termed, we are now fussing over the question shall we pay down a cool $35,000 and get possession of Riverside Park. It could have been had for a song at one time. Could have been a town asset, and if not used, lent out on lease. And having missed possession, and being of a mind now to get the land we may look at the plot as it stood at the time of the incorporation of the town, 1890.

Largely, if not entirely, the water front, the borders of the river within the city limits, has passed out of control of the city. Parted with, given away or handed with the compliments of the bestower to manufacturing interests. In the general process of needs and necessity for purposes in view, the shores of the river have been hacked, cut, graded, filled in, filled out, washed away, until hardly a vestige remains of the original contour and proportion.

A River Picture.

If we be interested and so value written description of how the river front and adjacent lands appeared at a time before what is termed manufacturing needs began to be practiced along the shores, we have the scene depicted by Mrs. Catharine Parr Trail, in her beautiful story-romance, "The Canadian Crusoe, a Tale of the Rice Lake Plains." Written when Mrs. Trail had been introduced into the Canadian forest and pioneer life, and one of the latest books that she contributed to the several written by her facile and descriptive pen. A tale of engrossing interest. The river is pictured as viewed from the elevation at about the crossing of Murray and Dickson Streets, where several massive oaks still survive, and which are mentioned in the narrative. The current poured around the bend, now south of Smith Street, descending a wild torrent in curves and turns that straighten out as the locality of Hunter Street is reached. The fall in the river bed of over forty feet gave the water an impetuous rush. To spread out afterwards from the shore of Burnham's Point across to the bank at Sherbrooke Street, the flow modified by the islands in the river, below Hunter Street.

The first dam built to supply water power was raised by Horace Perry, and financed by the Legislature. The base of the dam is now in the river bottom, and extended across the stream about from the big stable, north of London Street, to a point opposite, now Hazlitt Street. At this dam the first flour mills were built, the power site being leased for a time, and afterwards purchased by John Hall and Moore Lee, in partnership.

The First Bridge.

Shortly after the first bridge was built, crossing the river at Elizabeth Street, now in East City, Hunter Street. Also erected by Horace Perry. And with the building of this bridge occupation of property started to take place in the "Scotch Village" as the east side of the river was termed. Afterwards to be known as Ashburnham. Presently the flat strip of land along the margin of the stream on the east side began to collect a few scattered houses. South of Elizabeth Street was the ground now known as Riverside Park. North of the street there was a wide margin of flat land from the edge of the water to the high bank, or bluff, and the location offered opportunity for power purposes and hence factories or shops.

It may be observed that the flow of water in the river at the time referred to (1826) was altogether seasonal. From the foot of Clear Lake to the stretch of river below the city there was not one power dam or anything to retard the rush. With a fall of over two hundred feet in the distance mentioned the current was impressive, and wholly unconfined, and with rapid erosion of the banks, except where rocky shores prohibited. The islands, below the bridge, before the dam at the Locks was built, stood up in low water, and from the western island to the foot of Charlotte Street and at King and Sherbrooke Streets, the bed of the stream, in summer and autumn, could be easily forded. In fact the first crossing of the river was at the end of Simcoe Street. Quite shallow except at one spot on the bottom, and the natives made a "bee" and dragged rocks and chucked them into the deep place, and crossing became feasible. Once across the driver made his way eastward as best he might.

Early Forties.

During the early forties, it was seen that with the fall in the current there was opportunity to gain additional water power if a site could be developed. This enterprise waited for a man to come along and catch hold, who proved to be Robert D. Rogers. He came up from the front, having been farming in the lower part of Otonabee for eight years, and reached the site of Peterborough in 1842. He was one of the forlorn hope of thirty men who participated in the cutting out of the steamer Caroline, at Navy Island, in '37. Was a member of the old Colborne District Council, representing the township of Otonabee.

Settling in what is now East City, he planned to put up both a saw mill and flouring mill. The power dam, afterwards known as "Roger's Dam," was built across the river, just about the end of Douro Street. Parts of the dam are yet in the river bed. The bluff, or high bank, was cut down and the spoil used to form the eastern side of the canal, or flume, to bring the water as far south as Elizabeth Street (now Hunter Street). At the street crossing the mills were built. First the saw mill. Every vestige of this building has been swept away. Afterwards the flour mill, a substantial building of stone, as yet standing, and completed in 1848. Esteemed to be at the time the finest mill in the province.

Then shops (not stores) began to be located along the power canal, for water had to be used and power developed where at hand. Marcello Mowrey, who was in business at Cobourg, was attracted to Peterborough, and built the fine (for its day) foundry and machine shop, that served the locality so well, right at the bridge crossing. Next followed the axe factory of P. J. Ayres, an enterprising American, and in many respects a mechanical genius. Doran's carding mill was presently a fixture, with the wood working and turning shop of Alexis Cope, in the lower story. William Dobbin built a large sash and door factory adjoining. Parts of this plant are still in use by E. Wand, coming down to him from his father, William Wand. And in the early eighties the Sheldon Furniture Co. (partly a local enterprise) selected a site on the canal, nearer the dam, and carried on for a number of years. For many years that part of the river bank was a scene of activity. This, as related, covers developments and occupations north of Hunter Street.

South of the street extended the ground covered by Riverside Park. Flat, covered with sward and a copious growth of willows, hazel and jewberry bushes. In contour pretty much as now seen. Cut from the bluff, which continued as the border of the river, and ended in Burnham's Point, was the tail race that served the Roger's mills. And in the early fifties (1855) Harry Calcutt came along, from Cobourg, and built and operated the brewery, the old building still standing, perched up on the bluff. A local landmark, and one which it is the daring hope that some day a lusty batter, going to bat, will do himself proud by sending a ball through one of the old and low windows. From the old brewery has gone out thousands of barrels of "Calcutt's Prime Pale Ale," to be imbibed by the thirsty and the thankful. At a time when it was the rule to cool the brew in the shallow vats, on a summer day, with all shutters open, the aroma of the brew was wafted over the vicinity, and men involuntarily wiped hand across mouth and wished for a pull at the keg. It is stated that the fragrance and flavor of malt and hops is invigorating.

Second Brick House.

Presently the lower section of ground (Riverside Park) began to be occupied. Across the road, from the foundry, Marcello Mowrey built his home, the second house of brick to be erected in Peterborough. The brick was drawn in from Cobourg during the winter previous. It beats all how much of men and things Cobourg had to spare, about that time. Indeed Cobourg went further, for William Cluxton, being in a general store business in Peterborough, and selling such goods as the natives desired, brought in at convenient time one hundred and fifty barrels of what was advertised as the very finest of its kind, whiskey distilled with all the care and skill that Cobourg afforded. Now will you be good?

It is worth while of an observing person to climb down from the level of the undeniably expensive Hunter Street Bridge, and just look at the brick walls of the old Mowrey house, still standing. It is laid in the "Flemish Bond" construction, the kind our fathers used to make. Dynamite would hardly dent it. Laid before the days of restricted output, as said to be recently cultivated amongst the building trades. As it stands, it is too ancient to buy. Too old to give away (in its site), too expensive to leave in the projected park, and too costly to pay damages for. And, over all, a serious job to wreck. But the March of Progress will presently obliterate it in its well attained old age.

The Tannery.

Then, speaking of the time referred to, John Clarke came and settled south of the Mowrey house and closer to the tail race, and put him up a tannery. Tanneries, in those days, were fragrant places, especially when the fresh tan liquor had been brewed, from the old-fashioned tan bark, cords of which were piled on the ground to season. Clarke did not go much on power consumption. The bark mill was the only appliance that had to be driven, and the mill to grind the bark was urged around and around by an old and sedate horse that lacked enterprise enough to rebel or run away. A boy stood within the circle trod out by the horse, and with a mallet smashed up the bark into convenient pieces and chucked it into the mill. The bark mill of that day was the forerunner and progenitor of all the forms of stone crushers that now besprinkle the province. Works on the principle of the mortar and pestle that the druggist used to plant on the counter while he pulverized the ingredients of some potion you hoped to absorb further on.

Clarke's enterprise (he also built a frame house adjoining the tannery) fired up "Parley" Ayres to get busy, and he built a homestead, facing the tail race. Ayres, coming as has been said, from the States, was the first man to import oysters in the barrel. Not big, capacious barrels, not at all. Neat little kegs that held about a gallon or two. Cheap, well yes, shilling a quart, charges paid. Most people were suspicious of oysters, and the fruit was not well esteemed, just as people afterwards were a trifle leary of tomatoes. He was, probably, the most hospitable man in the neighborhood. He is accredited as being the inventor of the "trip-hammer," a diabolical contrivance that flattened out the iron and steel in making axes. This contrivance, once it got steadily at work, could be heard as far as the Auburn Mill and south to the Little Lake Cemetery. The artillery in Flanders had nothing on the triphammer in the way of concussion. It frightened horses and drove men to drink. William Dobbin built another house at the corner of Elizabeth Street (now Hunter Street), and facing on the tail race, and thus the ground of Riverside Park became tenanted. The building of the Rapid Tool Co. covers the site of the house last mentioned.

Waded River.

For years the ground, now the ball field, lay open. Cattle frequented it as a pasture. Indeed in the very early days it was an attractive spot, and cows and stray horses would wade across the river and luxuriate in the rich and succulent grass. Adam Scott used to wade the stream, on stilts, and bring the cows home for a milking.

The islands in the river, covered with a growth of shrubs and adorned with a number of fine elms, came to a bad end at the hands of the railway folk when the spur line up the river was laid down. The surface was scooped off and placed in the road bed. In the bed of the river, just behind the extended grand stand of the ball ground, is a deep hole. That is where all the high-batted balls go. Once in that hole the most active and persistent boy cannot recover it. Occasionally cattle were drowned at this spot, for the current would take the animals off their feet, and, buffeted by the waves, be unable to reach shore.

Unquestionably the city should secure Riverside Park. It can be made the most attractive spot in the municipality. Fairly easy of access from both sides of the river. Civic pride will grow in East City once it has this park conferred on it. Of course it now has the beautiful Oval, but not the river flowing alongside. A perfect park needs water in the view. The healing effect of Time is seen if the citizen will stroll down to the C.P.R. footbridge and cross within fifty yards of the East City shore and take the view up the river. The upper part of the river and as much of the city as exposed appears entirely strange and different from that angle. Then fill in the prospect, in years to come with rejuvenated and revised Riverside Park and the city will have an asset to boast of and delight in that may not be duplicated in the province. The beautiful growth of tree and verdure along the east shore should never be desecrated by levelling and cutting. Just as Nature has adorned may it be continued. And let us hope that the March of Progress will never insist that the desecrating trail of the spur line of a railway shall stretch along the eastern shore to mar its beauty and disturb its agreeable appearing lines.

Shall He Have A College Course?

THE question is often debated: — Is it worth while for the young man to spend four years in college? Does the expense of a university training pay?

Statistics show that while only two per cent. of the people of America are educated at college, no less than seventy per cent. of the leaders of the nation in politics, commerce and the church come from that little two per cent. of the people—"the college-trained group".

We all know that a college education is necessary for the adequate training of engineers, chemists, clergymen, actuaries and astronomers, but the evidence is also overwhelming in proving that the college-trained man wins in every other line of business endeavor.

Shall your boy become one of the leaders?

The answer depends very largely on his education.

He cannot get that vital college training without your help and encouragement.

"Are you going to send me to College?"

To make sure that the boy will obtain a college education, take out a policy of insurance on father's life that will mature at the age when the son will be ready to enter college. It is not hard to save the money for the college course in installments spread over ten to fifteen years.

There are Ten Year and Fifteen Year Mutual Life Policies that are ideal for this purpose. Ask the Mutual Life Agent about them.

ALBERTA IS PROUD OF RURAL SCHOOLS.

Boasts One in Walking Distance of Every Farm.

CALGARY, Alta., Sept. 2. — A ruddy-cheeked youth in blue jeans and hickory shirt stepped out of a new four-room frame building one autumn morning, and vigorously swung a small copper bell. It signalized the opening of Calgary's first schoolhouse. Nine children hurried to the rough benches of pine.

That was in 1884. Just 37 years to the day from that minor historical event, Calgary recently laid the cornerstone of the new $1,000,000 Institute of Technology and Normal School. In 37 years the city's public schools have reached 64 in number, and since 1906 the number of schools in the province has increased to a total of 3,553, with the influx of new settlers. In 15 years attendance has increased from 24,245 to 121,567. Government grants to schools last year were $1,018,068.

Alberta now boasts that every farm is within walking distance of a schoolhouse. Influx of homeseekers has transformed the province from open range into a diversified farming country where thousands of small farmers have won prosperity. Continuous expansion of the educational system has been necessary. About 200 new schools are established yearly. When housing facilities for the 5,000 teachers became inadequate residences for teachers were constructed in rural districts, the cost being divided between the departmentof education and the local school district.

BOBBED HAIR RUINS POST CARD BUSINESS

Resort Dealers Hard Hit; Old-Time Souvenirs Not Sold.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2. — Short skirts and bobbed hair have worked a hardship on dealers in souvenir picture post cards—the variety that floods the mail at this time of the year from the summer resorts along the Atlantic Coast.

Previous to the advent of the afore-named styles, stocks of these cards showing beaches and cool walks were ordered in advance in lots numbering in tens of thousands. As the beaches did not change, and as a crowd was a crowd regardless of whether it was this year's crowd or last, the cards could be sold just the same.

Now, however, all is changed. A picture showing a beach or a board walk of a summer playground with women strolling about clad in dresses that brushed their shoetops can be put down at a glance as ancient stuff.

The tourist wants evidence to send home indicating that he or she is there now and that he or she is trailing an up-to-date crowd. Hence it is thumbs down for the picture post card of yesteryear, to the distress and financial loss of the dealer who laid in large stocks at pre-war prices.

Veteran of Civil War Still Hale and Hearty

GEORGE D. SHAW, Springfield, Mass.

"To say that I feel twenty-five years younger, twenty-five years healthier and twenty-five years stronger expresses what Tanlac has done for me better than any other way I can put it," said George D. Shaw, veteran of the Civil War, who now lives at 321 Walnut street, Springfield, Mass.

"I am now seventy-eight years old and I don't hesitate to say I have never known a medicine to equal Tanlac. For fifteen years I was subject to attacks of indigestion that were so bad at times I would have to lay up for a week or two. For a long time I lived on crackers and milk alone as nothing else agreed with me.

"When I started on Tanlac I weighed only one hundred and seventeen pounds and my days were thought to be numbered. I've been so wonderfully built up, I now weigh one hundred and forty-three pounds and my stomach is as sound as a dollar. In fact, I believe I could eat the old army rations again without it hurting me in the least.

"I never miss a chance of saying a good word for Tanlac and I would like to urge the boys of the "Sixties" who are not feeling right to give it a trial, for I am sure it would put them in line again just as it has me. For a man of my age to have no physcial ailment, to be well and strong and enjoy life as he did twenty-five years ago, is certainly something to be thankful for and there is nothing too good I can say for Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by the Warne Drug Co., Ltd., and all leading druggists.

MADE FORTUNE BY BEING POOR.

Ben Turpin, at $3 a Night, Couldn't Save Enough to Have His Eyes Fixed.

(By Al Weeks in the Detroit News.)

When he started in show business nearly 30 years ago, Ben Turpin worked hard and saved his money. He appeared in burlesque and in cheap vaudeville as an acrobat, a juggler and a tramp comedian. In his dressing room at the Adams Theatre yesterday he recalled playing in Chicago for $3 a night. He recalled coming from Chicago to Detroit on a freight because he couldn't afford railway fare.

He was saving his money for a purpose and the purpose was to have his eyes straightened.

Last week he appeared in Chicago 15 minutes each day and his salary, paid him by Aaron Jones, who once estimated his services as worth $3 a night, was $2,500 for the week. And Ben Turpin earned $2,500 principally because he never did accumulate enough money to have that operation on his eyes.

Those Late Hours.

"It's hard work in pictures, boy," said Mr. Turpin, "but this is hard work, too. I'm not used to being up so late. When I'm home in Los Angeles—I don't live in Hollywood with the rest of the movie people—I get up at 6 o'clock every morning and putter around in the garden. I'm at the studio at 8.30, home for dinner at 6 and in bed by 9.

"I like my home. Got the greatest wife in the world; been married 15 years; and we don't care much about going out."

Mrs. Turpin is a pleasant lady somewhere near Ben's age —he is well along in the fifties—who can hardly believe it's all true. There have been many lean years in the past and with the memory of them the more vivid by contrast with luxurious reality, the Turpins are both frankly thrifty.

"Pictures are dead on the coast," says Turpin, "and a lot of actors are hungry, but let me tell you, boy, I put something right in the bank every week."

Started in Burlesque.

Ben's father was a New Orelans Frenchman, and his mother was Irish. A young fellow, Bent went to Chicago and got a job in burlesque in an acrobatic act, for he was always agile and now he belies his gray hairs with flips and falls that a man half his years would be proud to duplicate. Early in the history of pictures, Turpin went to work in comedies where his droll grin and the random slants of his estranged eyes soon won him a place among the most popular comics. Now perhaps nobody but Chaplin is more popular.

"It wasn't easy," he tells you. "Anybody can play dramatic parts, but comedy is different. You've got to work mighty hard. More than once in the old days I've been hungry right in this town. I've slept in the park and I've washed dishes in restaurants for a meal, but I never asked anybody for a nickel."

"Gosh, how I hate hotels," he exclaimed. "Believe me, boy, I'll certainly be glad to get back home where I can go to bed at 9 o'clock." sideration.

INTERNATIONAL UNION CONDITIONS CAUSE OF ALARM TO LABOUR MEN

MONTREAL ORGANIZED LABOR SAID TO BE IN BAD WAY.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

MONTREAL, Sept. 2.—A note of alarm over the condition of the International Unions in Montreal was sounded last night at the meeting of the Trades and Labor Council. It was shown that the organization committee has been doing nothing.

Gustave Francq said that such comittees in the past had done nothing, and that it was high time that organized labour in Montreal took stock of the situation. The International Unions, menaced on one side by capitalistic forces, and on the other by the Catholic and National Unions, had better stop quarrelling on matters of only indirect interest to them, said he, and take heed to their affairs or the movement will fall to pieces.

He recalled that when he had met President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labour at a conference held here recently, he had told the Labor chieftain that the conditions of affairs here was serious. In times past there had been organizers in Montreal, but most of these were no longer to be seen. The business agents of the different unions did not attend union meetings as often as they should, nor report the conditions of their unions. What was needed was a true canvass of the situation. To that end Mr. Francq moved that the executive committee see that the organization committee reported to it, that the executive ascertain what organizers are still in Montreal and what they are doing and also make a review of the business agents' duty.

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 1.—Miss Anna Knoehr, Philadelphia, was bound and gagged in her suite at a beach front hotel Monday night and robbed of jewelry valued at $10,000, it became known last night. Answering a knock at the door, Miss Knoehr was confronted by two masked men, who stepped into the room, locked the door pointed a pistol at her, threw her on the bed and bound her ankles and wrists with strips torn from the bed sheets and gagged her with a shawl. Then they ransacked the room and disappeared. Miss Gertrude Whtman, Philadelphia, a friend, called a few minutes later and released her.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

KINGSTON, Sept. 2.—In police court this morning, John Gallagher, a well-known young man around town, was found guilty of having stolen a pair of binoculers from James McGuire, three years ago, and was sentenced by Magistrate Farrell to nine months in jail. The binoculers were stolen from Mr. McGuire's auto while it was on the street. The glasses were taken to a local shop to undergo repairs a few days ago, and the owner, who had some business in the store, spotted them and notified the police. The prisoner claimed he bought the glasses from a man who was sailing a boat.

AN INTERRUPTED VILLAGE IDYLL.

Runaway Boy and Girl Lovers Caught and Taken Home.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Happy Weybridge parents have welcomed home the boy and girl lovers who ran away together nearly a week ago.

For most of the time the lovers have been staying with the boy's uncle and aunt in a thatched cottage in the pretty little Wiltshire village of Slaughterford, a few miles from Chippenham.

There, yesterday afternoon, on returning with water from the village pump, the boy and girl found their fathers waiting for them.

It was on Tuesday afternoon of last week that Nora Kathleeteal, aged 14 years and 8 months, and Sydney Frank Tilbury, nearing 18, left Weybridge together. Tilbury, a young machinist, has been out of work for some time. He lived with his parents in Thames street.

With Uncle and Aunt.

Nora was an only child. She was attending St. James School, and lived in the same street as Tilbury. It was said that she tried twice on Monday night to leave home, but was ordered back to bed.

The two young lovers turned up on Wednesday morning at the Slaughterford cottage occupied by Tilbury's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Hand.

Sydney said they had come down for a short holiday. They appeared to enjoy their stay, and were often seen walking through the country lanes arm-in-arm.

Mrs. Hand, a homely-looking lady, suspected nothing amiss until she learnt from the boy that they had both run away from home. She at once wrote to her sister, Mrs. Tilbury, at Weybridge, and informed her that the young couple were staying with her, and at the same time advised them to return home.

On Friday Sydney and his sweetheart left the village, saying they would return to Weybridge. But they started to walk to Bristol, and spent the night in the open air.

All Night in the Rain.

To Mrs. Hand's great astonishment they reappeared at Slaughterford about 10 o'clock the following (Saturday) morning, their clothes soaking wet from the rain that fell during the night.

A reporter happened to arrive at the ivy-clad cottage yesterday just as the fathers of the runaways came in a taxi-cab from Chippenham.

Boy and girl were then away drawing water from the village pump. A few minutes later they walked up the cottage path carrying a bucket of water, unaware that their parents were awaiting them.

They looked the picture of health, both being very sunburnt, Sydney with his long dark hair blowing in the breeze, and Nora with her dark brown bobbed hair.

Father in Tears.

Mr. Tilbury, who is an ex-service man and has undergone several operations caused by hardships during the war, completely broke down on seeing his son, and it was some time before he could recover himself.

"Hello," was the solo greeting given by Nora to her father, and it was evident that she was too astonished to say more for the moment.

She afterwards told her father that she left home of her own free will.

Mr. Neal brought down a change of clothes with him for his runaway daughter, and she soon changed her mole-colored cotton jumped and brown skirt for a smart summer costume.

After tea the parents took the young adventurers back to Chippenham in a taxi-cab, and caught the train for Weybridge.

Sydney and Nora, who, it is evident, are very much attached to one another, sat "holding hands," and as the car left the village they waved "good-bye" to Mr. and Mrs. Hand.

FORGERS CLEAN UP $14,000 IN SING SING.

Warden Lawes's Name Signed to Checks Stolen From Controller's Branch Office.

OSSINING, Sept. 2.—Sing Sing attendants disclosed today that convicts imprisoned there have stolen blank prison bank checks, forged them and stolen several thousand dollars. Three convicts are held in solitary confinement pending an investigation.

Warden Lewis E. Lawes admitted he was investigating the bogus check transactions, but said he would say nothing for publication until his inquiry was completed. From other sources, however, it was learned that the State loses nothing, but that those who honored the forged checks will have to bear the loss. It is said the forgers collected more than $14,000 on the stolen checks.

This is the third time in four years that convicted forgers have plied their trade behind prison walls. In the other two instances, which occurred under Wardens W. H. Moyer and Edward V. Brophy, the State lost.

Agent Winterstein of State Controller Wendell's office detected the forgeries when examining the prison accounts. He notified Warden Lawes. An investigation was started and all canceled checks were closely examined. The New York City Police Department was called upon to cooperate as some of the checks were cashed in New York City. All the forgeries had been committed in the last eight weeks. It is said that seven or eight forged checks, paid and canceled, were found among those returned to the prison.

Convicts Have Access to Checks.

The blank checks are kept in the Controller's branch office at the prison. They are in charge of David Vail, official Controller's clerk. Convicts are employed there and have access to them. Inspection of the check book showed several blank checks were stolen from the back of it.

Ordinarily, when the State has bills to pay, the checks are prepared in the Controller's office, over which the prison officials have no control, and taken across the hall to Warden Lawes to sign.

The thief who took the blank checks had Warden Lawes' signature forged to them. The forgeries were later detected by Agent Winterstein, who noticed very minute discrepancies between the signature of Warden Lawes and the imitated signature on the checks. The forgery was remarkably well done.

Prison officials have not learned yet whether the prisoner who stole the checks passed them outside to a confederate to fill in or whether the forging was done in the prison.

Some of the "trusties" who have access to prison records aided in the swindle. The bogus checks were made payable to creditors of the prison whom the institution owed money.

One of these was J. H. Porter, who sells the State some material. The Warden's signature on the face was forged and then Porter's endorsement was forged.

ANGLERS OF WORLD ASKED TO SAVE WALTON HOME

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Here is a doleful business that should stir the sympathy of all good anglers. Izaak Walton's thatched cottage at Shallowford Staffs is in danger of tumbling down.

The thatch has gone so far that it needs complete replacement, and even the roof timbers are unsafe. These facts are gathered from an official statement made to the Staffordshire Education Authority, which has come into possession of the cottage as part of the foundation of the Stafford Grammar School.

"Thus," says a famous angler, "unless anglers come to the rescue, Izaak's cottage is likely to collapse. It is suggested that some angling body should take the matter up. We may be poor in these days, but we are not so poor that we can afford to let such a relic of one of our greatest fishermen—and therefore one of our greatest men—vanish.

"It is thought that an appeal by our leading anglers, made to every angling association in the country, would at once bring the money."

GIRL "RUNS AWAY" IN HER WHEEL CHAIR.

Longing To See New York, Sends Maid, 15, on Trip.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Edna Townsend, 15 years old, a cripple, who ran away in a wheel chair from her home in Baltimore to see New York, went back home Monday with her father, John Townsend, of the United States Coast Guard Service.

Tracks made by the wheel chair, which Edna propelled to the railroad station, put her father on the scent, and with the aid of Baltimore police, he arranged to have New York police on the lookout when Edna arrived.

Evelyn Elliott, 14 years old, who accompanied Edna on the trip, also accompanied her and her father back to Baltimore.

CHLORINE HURTS PETERBORO LAWNS

LOCAL FLORIST FINDS DIFFICULTY KEEPING CUT FLOWERS.

Does chlorine in the water injure the lawns and the house plants that are watered with it, and the cut flowers that are placed in it? There are quite a number of people in Peterborough who are perfectly sure that it does injure these things. Many more than other years have been the complaints received along this line. One man also blames the unfortunate compound for the condition of his lawns, for the green scum that looks like the sour earth encountered sometimes in greenhouses. A local florist, who finds difficulty in keeping his cut blooms for any length of time, is not sure, however, if some of the trouble may not be traced to this summer's excessive heat. The gladioli seems to be the flowers most affected with a desire to wilt and die before they should, and, in his opinion, this may be due to their inability to such up enough moisture during such a dry season, in their hard and fibrous stems. But lawns sprayed with the doctored water are not in the best of condition this year, and house plants which become yellow under its influence have revived with a treatment of clear well water. As Mr. Ross Dobbin, Waterworks engineer, remarked when interrogated as to the effect of the heavily chlorinated water, "Well, I don't suppose it does them much good, but I don't see how it can be helped." According to him, 12 lbs. per million gallons is the quantity being used just now, more than any previous year, and four or five times as much as will be used when filtered water is provided for the citizens. Even then, we will not have it "straight," it appears, for it will still need a slight modicum of the chlorine to make it healthy. In Toronto, where the quality of the water makes it impossible to use much chlorine, on account of the bad taste of the mixture, the filtered water has about 2 lbs. to every million gallons, but in Guelph, where still another type of water abounds, no more than 1 lb. may be safely and palatably used.

RECONSIDER CHARGING CHILDREN ON TROLLEY ACCORDING TO HEIGHT

MANY OBJECTIONS MADE TO TORONTO'S PLAN.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

TORONTO, Sept. 2. — The Toronto Transportation Commission will reconsider the matter of charging children on the railway according to their height. In the meantime P. W. Ellis, chairman, would not express any views on the subject following the complaints of parents who have children under ten years and yet over 51 inches, the maximum height for a child to be entitled on a child's ticket. The Commission based its ruling on statistics compiled after taking into consideration the height of 45 children and considers that it is more reliable than depending on the individual, which led to many disputes in the cars. That the new rule will also be provocative of debates and tend to congest the vestibules while points as to height are being settled is the counter-contention.

It may be that the Commission will modify its rule in cases where the youthful appearance of the children is such as to allow its relaxation, but the Commission, while it is ready to hear representations from the Board of Education, and others, has not yet changed its policy.

The low waistline of one frock is set off by Hindu rings of black through which a wide braid sash is drawn.

OULETTE, RESTED UP, TO TWIRL AGAINST PETES HERE TO-MORROW

GREYBIRDS HAVE HOPES OF FINISHING IN SECOND POSITION.

Lindsay's mid-week win over the Petes, revived the drooping spirits of the Greybirds, and they will be here tomorrow afternoon, with a big effort to win at Riverside Park Jack Oulette, having been giving a rest, will be sent against the Petes, with Chambers in reserve. Of Wednesday's game the Post says:

A flash of the old form, a bit of something to lighten the heavy-hearted, was exhibited by the Greybirds at the ball park yesterday when they stepped into the visitors, from Peterboro and trimmed them by the score of 8-4. It was clear and convincing evidence that the boys do not intend to be pushed into he cellar by any man's team much less Jake Solomon's aggregation.

For the first time this year, Jack Oulette viewed a part of the game from the bench. For the first innings he occupied the mound while Chambers was absent but at the first of the second he retired to the field on favor of the younger twirler and later on was relieved in the pasture by Ashton. A well earned rest is being enjoyed by the hard working chief of the Lindsay twirlers. But the team's reputation was upheld by the newcomer who threw an excellent game. He has a clear head, good baseball brains, lots of smoke and a choice assortment of twists.

The hits of the enemy were scattered. The Petes scored two runs in the first on a walk and two lusty blows to the left area. In the second Lornie Rose scored from second on his brother's single Four blank innings rolled by and then Jake Solomon went in to try start something. He whiffed but Rose following him doubled to centre and scored on Mickey Murray's hit.

A BIG LUNGE

Mr. Harry Donovan of Aylmer Street has just received from Mr. H. E. Elcome the head of an enormous lunge which Mr. Donovan caught some time ago and had mounted. I has most formidable and lifelike appearance.

AT THE THEATRES

"The Valley of Doubt," a Selznick picture directed by Burton George, now showing at the Grand Theatre, is a highly pleasing picture as regards both story and cast. The story is clear-cut, consistent and forceful; the cast exceptionally well chosen. The action takes place almost entirely out-of-doors, in the lumber camp district of Canada, and the scenes are very effective.

The plot development is dependent on the efforts of two men to win a girl. One is prevented by his manhood from stooping to underhand methods, but the other knows only the primitive laws of his instinct, and the strongest of these is the desire for possession of the woman. "The Valley of Doubt" is the story of a fight to the finish, with exciting incidents and rapid action.

Throughout the entire run of the story there has been injected many intense, interest compelling dramatic moments, notable among them being two of the most realistic fights ever staged before a camera.

In one of these two husky lumbermen, one a vigorous upright French-Canadian, meets in the open with only a big moon overhead and a carpet of beautiful snow beneath to witness the struggle. It is a battle to a finish in which the Canadian is victorious after having grappled fiercely for an hour.

In the other fight a magnificent collie dog, "Jean," gives battle to a villainous intruder who would have attacked pretty Marion Hilgrade, played by Arline Pretty.

Other prominent members of the cast are Thurston Hall, Anna Lehr, Jack Costello, Robert Agnew, John Adrizoni and T. M. Murphy.

The balance of the programme made up of a very interesting Government Scenic, Topic of the Day, a very amusing 2-reel comedy in which the famous Centuary Lions cause lots of excitement and fun. The Grand's new orchestra under the direction of Mr. Geo. Howarth, is rendering a very fine musical programme indeed, the opening selection "Poet and Peasant" was exceptionally well presented, and during the last reel of the feature picture, Mozart's overture, "Nozze di Figaro" is featured with splendid effect.

W. B. B.

AT THE CAPITOL.

Sessue Hayakawa needs no introduction to his admirers, and in "Black Roses," an unusual feature compounded of Oriental mystery, artistic acting and a sweet and powerful love element, he has one of the best vehicles of his career. The audience at the Capitol last night was intensely appreciative, and the subtle skill of this fine Japanese actor and his dainty little wife, Tsuru Aoki, who enacts the part of "Blossom." Hayakawa takes the role of Yoda, the Japanese gardener, in the first part of this interesting picture, and of Prince Chiba in the latter part. There are beautiful Californian backgrounds, a murder gang, an escape from prison, and the skill and cunning of Oriental vengeance in long-drawn out moments of tense interest, with the beautiful black roses playing their part in the final triumph of right in a fascinating presentation of dramatic skill. The Capitol orchestra added greatly to the interest of the piece by their playing of suitable music.

The Pathe Review, the Paramount Magazine, a thrilling episode in "The Purple Riders," and the kinks and twirls of a side-splitting Mack Sennett comedy of love-lorn swains, furnish the balance of an excellent programme for to-night and to-morrow.

Perhaps you would not get satisfaction, but the Powerful Katrinka shows a very effective way of at least getting your money back in "The Skipper's Treasure Garden," the third in the Toonerville Trolley series, which will be the attraction at the Allen Theatre today.

FINE HUMOUR IN STAGE-SCREEN FARCE

Clean, wholesome humour, situation upon situation which in the trend of unfolding causes rollicking, mirth provoking, hilarious laughter, is in store for motion picture patrons witnessing "The Girl in the Taxi" featuring Mr. and Mrs. Carter De-Haven at the Allen Theatre today. The picture is an adaption of the muscal comedy stage success of the same name by Stanislaus Strange, and directed by Lloyd Ingraham.

It is indeed a pleasure to witness the delectable because of its sudden spontaneity of humour which in turn brings one round of chuckle. That scene where the policeman quite unexpectedly catches his wife mingling with a group of gay rounders was worth its weight in gold. To our mind no finer example of farce as it should be on the screen has ever come to the atention of the wrier. The situations are immense. The cast is excellent throughout. And the picturesque background with its lavish investiture is pleasing to the eye.

The DeHavens, whose careers as farceurs on both stage and screen has earned for them an enviable reputation, are seen respectively in the roles of Bertie Stewart and Mignon Smith. Bertie called a mollycoddle by his stern parent, steals his father's clothes, pawns them, hides in a taxi, is whisked off with a charming young creature, muddles a gay party and aside from giving a policeman the run of his life and performing an unusual number of ludicrous-antics all very natural and not too far-fetched—caps the climatic incident by giving his father's watch to the policeman in order to extricate said parent from an embarrassing situation.

The excellence of the cast is worthy of special mention. King Baggot does creditable work as Major Frederick Smith, Grace Cunard renders an effective characterization as Mariette the policeman's wife, and the other members equally prominent in their respective parts are Otis Harlan, Tom McGuire, Margaret Campbell, Lincoln Plumer, Freya Sterling and John Gough. The production is released by Associated First National Pictures, Inc.

A HINT FOR GARDENERS.

One of the most helpful hints ever given an amateur gardener has been incorporated into a motion picture.

It shows how to get the garden plot spaded and turned to an unbelievable depth.

It is the invention of that master of diplomacy and strategy, the Skipper of the Toonerville Trolley, and is fully explained in "The Skipper's Treasure Garden," the third in the Toonerville Trolley series, which will be the attraction at the Allen Theatre to-day and Saturday.

TORONTO THINKS ELECTION WILL BE HELD ABOUT MIDDLE OF DECEMBER

MEIGHEN'S STATEMENT ABOUT CRERAR'S OPPOSITION SIGNIFICANT IN VIEW OF POSSIBLE AMALGAMATION WITH NEW LABOR PARTY

TORONTO, Sept. 2.—(Canadian Press.)—Premier Meighen's London statement last night that the real opposition lies in the National Progressives or Agricultural forces, under Crerar's leadership, acquires further significance in view of the probable amalgamation between this body and the newly organized Canadian Labor Party, is the opinion expressed in many circles to-day. "The interests of the two parties are so similar in many respects that they may be regarded as identical," said a member of the Labor party this morning.

If the Meighen government is returned to power it is pledged to take action which will enable the inclusion of women in the Senate of Canada. This promise was made to the ladies of London yesterday by Hon. Arthur Meighen before his departure from the city. The announcement was greeted with cheers by a large assemblage of ladies whom the Prime Minister was addressing. He stated that it would be necessary to secure an amendment to the British North America Act to allow the appointment of women Senators, but that if his government was re-elected one of its first actions would be to seek the passage of the necessary amendments.

While the date of the general election for the Federal House will not be announced until after Premier Meighen has had ample opportunity to consult other members of the Cabinet, the general opinion here is that it will be about the middle of December.

FREIGHT RATES HANGING FIRE

CARVELL STANDS FOR 10 TO 15 PER CENT. REDUCTION—RAILWAYS OBJECT.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

OTTAWA, Sept. 2.—Hon. F. B. Carvell, chairman of the Railway Commission, will leave to-day to hold sittings of the Board in the Maritime Provinces. In the meantime no decision has been reached in the matter of a reduction in freight rates, regarding which the Board and railway officials have been conferring during the week.

Chairman Carvell, it is said, stands for a general reduction of from 10 to 15 per cent. To this proposal the railways are offering strenuous resistance, urging as their grounds the contention that the recent reduction of 12 per cent. in wages is a tentative one, depending upon further conferences with the international unions.

They further contend that with the exception of copper, there has been little reduction in materials.

Chairman Carvell contends that wage reductions must be permanent, and little attention has been given to the contention of the railways that a strike may result.

VENDORS ANGRY AT CONTROLLER

HE SAYS THEY CAN'T DRIVE HIM OFF CENTRAL MARKET.

HAMILTON, Sept. 2.—In launching a cut-price campaign on the Central Market yesterday, Controller O'Heir, who with ex-Mayor Booker last year broke the potato combine, has been visited with the wrath of hucksters and producers hereabouts. About 200 of them waited on the Property and License Committee and demanded to know if the city was going to countenance a vendor selling produce at cut-throat prices and thus prevent them from making a livelihood.

Says Not City's Action.

Ald. Birrell, chairman, informed them that the city had nothing to do with the stand in question on the market. Controller O'Heir, in his zeal to see that consumers were freed of extortionate prices, had negotiated with a well - known huckster and had arranged to carry on.

"Why, then," chorused about three score vendors, "do you allow the sign 'City Produce' to be flaunted to the public? Housewives think the city is behind the thing."

"The city is not behind it. We will insist on the sign being changed," replied Ald. Birrell.

Ridicule Won't Drive Them Off.

Controller O'Heir, who said he was willing to put up any sign that would be approved of, said to the hucksters and producers: "You are all sore because Solomon Wright has cut prices. You hate to admit that it hurts, but it does hurt. Any one of you can have the same opportunity that he has if you will cut prices to the same extent that he has done. You men think you shall drive us off the market by ridiculing our efforts, but let me tell every one of you that we are on the market to stay."

Proof of Success of Effort.

Proof that the Controller's efforts have been attended with success was found in the fact that several hundred baskets of potatoes were sold for 60 cents a basket, as against 75 and 90 cents per basket on Tuesday.

Considerable propaganda work depreciating Controller O'Heir's efforts was noticeable yesterday from interested quarters. Even the local agent of the Niagara Peninsula Growers took a fling at him, but he is determined to "stick," and, judging by the support accorded him by consumers, the project will succeed.

Opera Stars and Vendors Join in Mass for Caruso

'BUT HE IS NOT DEAD—HE LIVES," DECLARES FRIEND OF DEAD TENOR.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2. — Opera stars, shopkeepers, church men and fruit vendors jammed the little Italian Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel here to-day to offer their tears and their prayers for the soul of Enrico Caruso.

"But he is not dead—he lives," Rev. Francesco Maglinocco, personal friends of the tenor and a noted operatic composer, declared in his eulogy. "He will live forever as the greatest artist of all time.

"His golden voice is clotted with dust—but it lives. 'My art is but a gift of God,' he told me as he left for Italy to die, and some time the Maker will change it back to the dust it came from, but his spirit lives."

Famous stars of the Metropolitan stage who sang with Caruso in life, sobbed through the solemn hymns of the mass.

Many of the large hats shown for next season feature the front of the brim folded back on itself, giving the uneven line so popular, and also tending to soften or modify the severity that would otherwise exist.

CNNTROL BELT GONE, THRESHING MACHINE WHIRLED TO PIECES

UNUSUAL ACCIDENT ON OTONABEE FARM—WORKERS SHOWERED WITH FRAGMENTS HURLED ABOUT THE BARN.

A peculiar accident that might have had serious consequences, happened at a threshing on Michael Ross's farm on the 8th line of Otonabee on Thursday afternoon. Mr. Ross, assisted by some of his neighbors, was threshing his crops. The usual arrangement of the threshing outfit had been made, with the separator inside the barn driven by the engine outside. In some way the governor belt regulating the speed of the separator, flew off its wheels leaving the main belt driving the machine. With all control suddenly removed, the separator quickly broke into a furious speed, and in a remarkably short time it was literally torn to piece, the fragments being hurled in all directions, endangering the lives of the men who were working near it in the barn. Mr. Ross and his son, and James Casey, fortunately escaped the shower of broken boards and pieces of iron that flew all about them in the mow. The threshing machine was almost totally wrecked, but luckily none of the men attending it were hurt.

NURSE SHOOTS BRIDE; JEALOUSY IS BLAMED.

Young Matron Believed To Be Dying in Wyoming.

LARAMIE, Wyo., Sept. 1.—Jealousy is believed by the police to have been the cause of the shooting of Mrs. Thelma Wolf, three-weeks' bride of V. M. Wolf, chairman of the Albany County Commissioners, by Miss Alice King, 30, a nurse.

Mrs. Wolf was shot while she was preparing a meal in her home.

Miss King had been a nurse for Wolf and for several years had taken care of the Wolf children, whose mother is dead. She appeared suddenly at the rear door of the Wolf home and, trapping Mrs. Wolf in a pantry, fired two bullets from a revolver, one of which penetrated the left lung of the bride. Miss King is being held. Physicians declare Mrs. Wolf can not live.

ENTRY LIST OPEN UNTIL TUES. FOR WOOLENS EVENTS

Entries for the Canadian Woolens Athletic Association's field day of sports to be held at Exhibiton Park on Saturday September 10th are coming so freely that the success of the event is virtually assured now. The C.G.E. atheletes are showing a keen interest in the competition and have arranged for one of their own men to receive entries from their shops. The Y.M.C.A. will also be well represented and the physical director Mr. Douglas Looms is reported to have a likely string of sandidates for the open events. There is also some enquiries from the district. In view of the fact that Monday is a holiday the committee has decided to leave the entry list open until the morning mail of Tuesday September, 6th. Applications should be sent to Mr. A. Brooks, 833 Water Street. Just as a reminder to prospectives contestants the open event are as follows: 100 yards, 220 yards, 440 yards, half mile, one mile, two mile, high and long jjumps, pole vaults, kicking football, throwing at wicket, throwing basball, dribbling football 100 yards, throwing quoits, shooting football at goal, putting stot.

There are also the 60 yards for married women, 50 yards for boys, under 10 years, 75 yards boys under 15, 75 yards for thre-legged race boys under 15, 50 yards girls under 10, 75 yards girls under 15, 60 yards sack race boys under 15.

Fans fashioned of black lace and finished with dripping streamers are smart.

POLICEMAN'S COLLEGE IS LATEST IN THE EAST

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 31.—(United Press).—Establishment of a "Policeman's College," in the near future, is seen by Police Commissioner Philo C. Calhoun, founder of Bridgeport's training school for coppers.

The school at present is a round-table discussion of questions which come up during a policeman's ordinary day on his beat. Calhoun, a young attorney and ex-service man, explained. The discussion lasts three-quarters of an hour.

This school means first that it will promote closer relations between members of the Police Board and members of the force. Just now I talk to the men Wednesday nights before they go on duty. Each week the platoons shift.

"There is nothing stiff and formal about these meetings. All of us pull off our coats and lounge comfortably about while the discussion goes on, and it gets pretty warm sometimes, too. The patrolman of today should hold every conceivable interest in the department, because they realize they are the logical successors to their present superiors.

"These talks are also being directed toward the relations between the policeman and the community in general."

FRENCH COMMERCE FAST RETURNING TO NORMAL

PARIS, Aug. 31.—(United Press)—Steadily, France's production, as revealed in her exports, is climbing back to the pre-war level.

Customs figures for the first six months of 1921 show a total exports of 7,325,952 tons, as compared with 10,050,486 during the same period in 1913 and 5,523,481 during the first half of last year.

Imports decreased by 6,073,334 during the last twelve months, dropping below the figure for 1913.

In the industrial regions the return to pre-war production is being rushed. New factories are being built upon the ruins of the old, and new machinery installed in the buildings left standing at the Armistice. In Lille, for instance, nearly all the factories have now resumed operations.

Gradually smokestacks and new red brick building forms are becoming more and more numerous up and down the old battle line.

"HELL'S KITCHEN" HELPING POLICE

Search for Murderer of a Respected Patrolman.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—"Hell's Kitchen" was put today to find the murderer of Dan Neville, policeman.

For once, the denizens of New York's underworld, were lined up with their traditional enemy, the police, in a widespread search for William Hoey, a watchman, who fled after Neville was shot down in cold blood Saturday night. Hoey was out on $5,000 bail in connection with another killing.

Dan Neville was a "cop" respected by the thieves and gangsters of "Hell's Kitchen," among whom he worked. "He was square, we are going to get Hoey," said a notorious gunman today, who directed his gang to help the police in what might otherwise be a hopeless search among the dives of the "Kitchen."

Neville was on the trail of "Dope" peddlers when he met his death.

"MONDAY MORNING LOOK" IS DISTINCT EXPRESSION

LONDON, Sept. 1.—That Monday morning look is engaging the attention of people whose attention is engaged by such things.

An observer whose hat saved his head from being a mere ornament found 100 representative people walking along the Strand Monday morning and reported that:

Seventy-two were frowning slightly;

Twenty-three were concealing with expressionless faces an apparent absence of thought;

Four were chatting brightly, and One was smiling to herself.

A photographer explained the frowns.

"Frowns are the feature of the Monday morning look of Londoners," he said. "Country people are different, but in London there is a complete reversal in expressions between Monday and Saturday, when every one is hurrying and every one—almost—is looking forward to a well-planned week-end."

THEIR MISTAKE.

"When are they going to be married?"

"They won't be able to afford it for some time; he let her choose the engagement ring." — London Opinion.

DRESSING TABLE BOX.

A very pretty little box to use on the dressing table may be made by covering a box of face powder with a piece of cretonne or silk. A delicate pink and green pattern or a blue design on a white ground are both good. If you wish to make it fancy use a piece of brocade. The material that you use should be stretched over the lid and the box as well, so that there will be very little fullness. Any extra goods may be disposed of by fastening it in tiny plaits. The raw edges are then pasted to the edge of the box, where the fastening is covered with a narrow gold braid, or any gimp which would look well with the material. Needless to say, the pasting must be carefully done, as the beauty of the little box will depend upon the neat way in which it is done and the material and colours used.

IN MEMORIAM.
GOODWIN—In loving memory of Tom, the dearly loved and only son of H. and A. Goodwin, 159 Hart Avenue. Killed at the Battle of Arras, September 2, 1918. Daily remembered by Father and Mother, and all the loved ones in the HOME CIRCLE.

CONSOLATION.
Not dead—oh, no! but borne beyond the shadows
Into the full, clear light;
For ever done with mist and cloud and tempest,
Where all is calm and bright.

Not even sleeping — called to glad awakening
In Heaven's endless day;
Not still and moveless—stepped from earth's rough places
To walk the King's highway.

Not silent—just passed out of earthly hearing
To sing Heaven's sweet, new song,
Not lonely—dearly loved and dearly loving
Amid the white-robed throng.

Be not forgetful—keeping fond remembrance
Of dear ones left awhile;
And looking gladly to the bright reunion
With hand clasp and with smile.

Oh, not ,not dead! but past all fear of dying,
And with all suffering o'er;
Say not that I am dead when Jesus calls me
To live for evermore.

IN MEMORIAM.
FOWLER. — In sad but loving memory of our dear brother, Pte. Percy Fowler, killed in action on 2nd September, 1918.
An unseen string of memory's harp
Is softly touched to-day,
And thoughts of you come crowding fast,
And tears we cannot stay.
He sleeps beside his comrades
In a soldier's grave unknown;
But his name is written in signs of love
On the hearts he left at home.
—Mrs. H. E. Tillcock, 581 Chamberlain Street.
